CITY COLLEGE

Uruguay . . .

Foreign minister Alejandro Zorillo de San Martin of Uruguay, will visit the college today as the guest of the College's Center for American Studies. Dr. Enrique Rodriguez-Fabregat, visiting professor here (Romance Languages), and former ambassador to the United Nations from Uruguay, will be discussing the foreign minister's grandfather, a noted Uruguayan writer. The talks will be given at 11 AM in Room 301 Cohen Library.

Katkin To Propose Fee Rise $2700 for OP and Campus

Proposal to increase the allocations of Observation Post and The Campus by $1350 each will be put before Student Council tonight.

Treasurer Danny Katkin will present the increase, which has become necessary, in part, by the withdrawal of American Tobacco advertising from all campus publications.

One-third of the allocation is slated to replace a cut made by Council at the end of last term which reduced each paper's fee money from $3,800, while reducing its circulation by four. The other $950 will replace lost advertising revenue.

Katkin hopes his proposal will be approved by the advertising run in each issue by thirty inches, thereby allowing more space for news coverage.

Observation Post ran $1,458 worth of the discontinued cigarette advertising, or nearly a third of its total advertising revenue, last term. Marlboro's Max Shulman column is the only cigarette advertisement which is still being run.

Also on the agenda for tonight's Council meeting is the submission of reports from the delegates who represented the College at this summer's National Student Association Congress.

Gallagher Calls Faculty Together To Discuss Over-Enrollment Crisis

The entire faculty of the College will meet tomorrow for only the second time during Pres. Gallagher's administration. Although few details have been officially disclosed, Pres. Gallagher is expected to deliver a major policy statement concerning the enrollment crisis when the faculty convenes in the Great Hall at 3 PM.

Pres. Buel G. Gallagher
To Address Faculty

Students have been invited to observe the meeting from the Great Hall balconies.

The only other time Dr. Gallagher addressed the full faculty was December 20, 1960, when he discussed the forthcoming creation of the City University.

According to the mimeographed invitations distributed to the faculty, the President will present "matters of common concern and considerable urgency."

The basis for concern about over-enrollment is a recent report prepared by Board of Higher Education, Dean of Studies, Harold Levy. His report predicted a 14.5% increase of high school graduates in 1964, and a further increase of 7.7% in the following year. Although a large-scale building program is proposed for the near future, not enough space will be available within the next two years to absorb the influx.

The problem has been further aggravated by an increase of transfers from out-of-town colleges, a lowering of the drop-out rate, and a rise in the number of entering graduates from the city's Community Colleges.

Dean Levy has advised that either the Colleges raise their entrance requirements to 90%, or institute a number of emergency measures geared to absorb the increase while maintaining the present number of teachers and facilities. These measures include the use of large lecture sections, closed circuit television hook-up, and also the continuation of classes into the evening. He also called for Saturday morning classes and the utilization of the Summer Session as an integral part of the school year.

The teaching staffs of all schools and all sessions of the College, including educational administrators have been invited to the meeting, which is expected to adjourn by 4:15 PM.

Bowker in Office; Grads to Profit

The new Chancellor of the City University, Dr. Albert H. Bowker, took office yesterday.

The former Graduate Dean of Stanford University fills a sixteen-month vacancy. Dr. John Everett, the first CU Chancellor, resigned in May 1962.

Chancellor Bowker first became acquainted with the CU last year when he served as a special consultant on graduate studies.

Dr. Bowker has expressed a desire to strengthen the CU graduate programs by offering doctoral programs in additional fields.

The 43-year-old educator would also like to see the two new community colleges, which were approved last month, established as quickly as possible.

AN OP ANALYSIS

Bloom's First Performance Bodes Expanded Role For Student Gov't

By RICHARD COE

Greater student participation in campus affairs, coupled with a more mature student government to handle this increased responsibility, is the goal of this term's SG President. Those closest to SG President Ira Bloom are convinced that he can make this program a reality.

Bloom's performance at the first Council meeting a week ago was the first indication of his ability. The chairman was in control at all times. In marked contrast to the chaotic Council of last term, this meeting was orderly and there was no struggle for leadership.

Bloom emanates an aura of executive efficiency as he goes about his job. He carries with him on a pocket-sized yellow pad a list of the things he wants to see SG do this term. And somehow, he makes the student feel he's going to get it done.

In describing his program, which has priority to things affecting students on this campus most directly, Bloom lists the following items:

The exact duties of the proposed Student Court should be defined before December to make possible a referendum in this term's elections. The student court may be realized by next Fall.

A study is planned to discover the College's students consider the qualities of an effective instructor. This would be the first in a Course and Teacher Evaluation Study.

SG Pres. Ira Bloom
In Control

● An attempt will be made to work with the Administration and students to revitalize existing student-faculty committees. Bloom would also like to see students on some committees which do not now have student representation.

● The Freshman Orientation Program, which Bloom has long considered of great importance, is already functioning. And, according to Bloom, Arty Porwick is running it quite successfully.

● SG will continue to run social functions as usual. One new element, though, will be Saturday night dances. Another projected first is a Student-Faculty Buffet Dinner Dance. SG may also run square dances.

● Although this is an off-term for the state legislature, Bloom intends to invite the law-makers to the College. Here he would show them how the College runs and convince them that it should remain tuition-free.

As a presidential candidate last term, Bloom espoused a narrow interpretation of the role of student government with regard to off-campus events. Now he tries to think of the question in terms of priorities.

"I hope the problem can be minimized by channeling energy to other programs," he said. He favors getting students to think about issues through a speaker program rather than having Council pass resolutions.

The most likely outlook for the term is probably the one offered by a Council representative yesterday: "Ira is going to get a hell of a lot more done with a lot less commotion."

OPlayboy

Observation Post is changing its format too. In a desperate attempt to brighten our pages, the editors of OP have decided to revamp everything—OP will become OPlayboy. Isn't this wonderful? Doesn't OPlayboy sound like the type of college newspaper you'd like to join? This month's OPlaymate is entertaining candidates in Room 301 Downer, tomorrow at 12:15 PM. (If you're really in a hurry to meet the new OP, the door to Room 336 Finley is always open.)

WE SHALL NOT FORGET

When the Shepard Hall bells toll tomorrow in memory of the four Negro children murdered in Alabama, it should serve as more than a reminder of the tragedy or a prod to the conscience.

Silent vigils, memorials, regrets are fine. But they will not help the dead and they will not help the living.

When the bells stop ringing and the speeches are over, the situation in Birmingham will remain the same.

It is up to President Kennedy to supply protection for those whom the bomb missed. It is up to all of us to demand that protection.

When the bells stop ringing we must all take action in the realization that it indeed tolls for us.

Expansion vs. Exclusion

The concept of free higher education for all who are mentally capable of college study, regardless of economic ability, has caused more problems than that one which resulted from the political vagaries of the Rockefeller administration. Fulfilling the precept of the Free Academy has resulted in a virtual storming of the City University's gates — with prospects of an ever increasing seige each September.

When news of the baby boom onslaught reached the halls of the Board of Higher Education, the problem was laid on the desk of Harold Levy, Dean of Studies. His conclusions and proposals were collected in a paper which promises to be the focus of interest at President Gallagher's mass faculty meeting tomorrow.

Of the six suggestions which have been offered to ease the City University's growing pains, Observation Post hopes the BHE will discard, and the College's faculty will indicate their disapproval of, at least two. These are the proposals that the student-teacher ratio in large lectures be increased, and a closed circuit television hookup be employed linking a large block of recitation classrooms. Needless to say, the present lecture classes in the sciences are filled at least to capacity. Enlarging these might be impossible in the framework of room space presently available. The idea of conducting humanities courses in larger classes or via television is completely unacceptable. While teacher-student contact is necessary in science lectures, it is the virtual life blood of the English, philosophy, or sociology class where the flow of ideas between mentor and pupil literally "makes the class."

For the present time, expansion should be conducted only so far as to admit the 9000 students next September who would qualify at the present admissions standard of approximately 87%. This should be possible if the plans to eliminate the division between day and evening session, to utilize all of Friday afternoon and evening and Saturday, to integrate the eight week summer session into the regular college program, and to make Hunter College at Park Avenue coeducational, are accepted.

Dean Levy's hope to eventually lower the "average grade for admission, down to what it was a decade ago, to some 82 or 83 per cent," should be accomplished only after new City University facilities are provided.

The only true solution to the over-enrollment problem seems to lie in long range programs. These fall into two areas: a building plan, and a general review of admissions procedures. The former is self-explanatory and oft repeated. The second, which has not been explored, might provide new answers to some old questions. Evidently, the level of instruction in New York City's numerous high schools varies greatly from one building to another. There is an apparent need for a scale which would standardize the secondary school performances of City University applicants. In this manner, one would be assured that the level of instruction in the colleges themselves would not have to be lowered to make up for deficiencies in high school preparation which are not readily noticeable upon scanning an admissions application.

O Photos

Some people say the College is a subway school buried in Harlem, a place to attend classes.

Perhaps they are right.

Some people say that the College is a campus; a place to indulge in the contemplation of all the knowledge of the world.

Perhaps they are right.

Some people say that the College is a factory; a place where people are merely processed with the impersonal regularity of a machine.

Perhaps they are right.

I say that the College is the students.

Perhaps they are right.

LETTERS

JUST FOR THE RECORD

Dear Editor,
As Business Manager of Main Events, I wish to clear up the gross injustice and misquotation on the part of your rival The Campus. I am referring to the lead article they ran which concerned "Main Events to Decrease Issue Output."
In the first place, Main Events has no intention of decreasing the issues this term or any other. We are definitely going to run the full number scheduled for us, just as Campus is going to do—but we will not misquote for "sensationalism."
Secondly, Main Events does not owe the Fee Committee $1,400 which I was supposed to have said. Steve Somerstein gave a figure, so could anyone else on the Main Events staff. It is my calculations, and only mine, which the "committee," or in this case, Dean Peace, considers, and which, incidentally, I did not stress to the incompetent reporter who took down the information . . . all wrong as usual. The loan was not granted from Fee Committee, but rather from Dean Peace's Special Fund.

Another point, one which was stressed at least ten times to the "interviewer" was that no mismanagement of funds was substantiated, no emergency fee allocation given in the middle of the term. All these points were completely reversed to the point of idiocy. Dr. Farney never blamed Stan Whitehead for "putting out more issues than allotted."
Furthermore, as part of Main Events staff and Business Manager as well, I am definitely not spearheading any drive to secure advertising for Main Events. The advertising service which we deal with has more than adequately taken care of us.
The "so-called $1,400 loan" was given us just until we collected revenue due to us, most of which, may I add, is being collected, and processed by the bursar.
I am writing this letter not only to reveal the quality of the stories which Campus is turning out, but to clear the air and make known the true facts to all the students, both day and night.
This issue was, by no means, a deep dark secret. I impressed upon Campus that statements would be given if, and only if, they were properly quoted. This fear on my part, was justified by recalling past blunders on their part, (which includes mismanagement of funds), and now have become a reality.

IFC To Conduct Greek Week Here

Zeus will be about the only Greek not present at the College when the Inter-Fraternity Council holds its annual Greek Week from October 21-25.

Chariot races, a parade, and a "Miss Greek" beauty contest are among the scheduled events which will be conducted throughout the campus.

"The 'classical' climax will be 'Saturnalia,' a dinner-dance at the Monaco Surf Club on November 23. Tickets are $12 a couple for the event which will be highlighted by the crowning of IFC's Athena.

Mickey Gross and Shelley Sieger are co-chairmen of the event which is a yearly IFC occurrence on many campuses.

Tutoring . . .

Free Tutoring is being offered by Tau Beta Pi and Eta Kappa Nu in the following subjects: Math 7, 8, 1, 2, 3, 91, 92; Physics: 7, 8, 111, 112; E.E. 104, 105, 106, 131, 133, 151, 163, 135. Applications can be obtained in Dean White's office, Room 205 Admn.

Male Opinions Varied On Shifts And Shorts

By CAROL HERRNSTADT

"Clothes act as a great enticer — it's what you can't see that's exciting," commented a boy who thought shifts were "rather interesting."

He was one of the students questioned in an informal OPoll on their views of clothing worn at the College.

Disagreeing with him was a boy who commented, "I can't understand girls who wear shifts, but then I like to look in cellophane windows on boxes." He added that if his girlfriend wore a muu-muu, "I'd fall through the floor."

Male and female opinion was divided on whether or not girls should wear slacks to school. One boy laughed, "if a girl has a shape to wear slacks, there's no reason why she shouldn't."

"Slacks are best," a girl advised, "for sliding on the six icy blocks from Wingate to south Campus."

While one boy objected to girls in slacks as "detracting from my idea of a girl," and another "despises" Bermuda shorts, everyone polled agreed with the fellow who declared "students who are supposed to be adults should be able to choose their own dress."

Most students placed more emphasis on neatness than on the type of clothes worn. A jacket-and-tie man noted that he didn't object to sandals, "as long as the feet are clean."

Another student commented that he doesn't "care to see a guy who obviously hasn't bathed in three or four weeks." In addition, he said, he doesn't "like to smell him."

Bleached blond teased hair was frowned upon by several students. One boy characterized girls with such hair as "sophomoric," adding that he was also against make-up "three inches thick."

This same student also stated that girls generally considered "beat" are "anti-social and try to appear unattractive in order to appear attractive to anti-social boys."

Lewisohn Lounge To Be Remodeled

Modern furniture, a new floorplan, wood paneling, and indirect lighting are to be features of a new Lewisohn Lounge. If all goes right the lounge will be in operation by the beginning of the Spring term.

The cost of the remodeling is estimated by Professor William Spinka (Art) at $4,000 for the furniture, and $7,000 for the construction work, which will be paid for by the City College Fund.

Professor Spinka said that he hoped the "new" lounge would generate pride in the students, rather than the "just try to abuse me and break me" attitude which the drab colors and "rugged" furniture of the old lounge had instilled in them.

Mr. Robert Graham, Assistant to the Director of Finley Center, said last week that the furniture had been ordered and that bids were being accepted for the remodeling work. He said that work should get underway in two or three months, and will take about two months to complete.

Meeting . . .

World University Service will hold an organizational and planning meeting tomorrow at 12:30 PM in Room 306 Finley Center. All clubs are requested to be represented at the meeting.

Beaver Booters Prep For Opener; Sophomores To Highlight Line-Up

By HARVEY WEINBERG

This Saturday the College's football team will begin its 1963 campaign. The Beavers don't play the "huddle" type football, they play what the Europeans call association football. We know it better as soccer.

Unfortunately, soccer does not have quite the man appeal that football has, but it is the closest the College will come to the "annual fall madness" that grips the nation.

The Lavender is looking forward

Coaches Karlin & Solney Watch Columbia Scrimmage

optimistically to the forthcoming season. Last year's team compiled the worst record of any team in the College's history. They won 2 while losing 6.

Coach Harry Karlin holds the optimistic view. On paper the team looks good. All he has to do is make it look good on the field.

The team is rich in lower class blood. Sophomore Walter Kopezuk has taken over the goal tending chores. The 5 foot 10 inch, 165 pounder has been very impressive during the practice sessions. He was outstanding in both the Alumni game and the scrimmage with Columbia.

The Beaver forward wall will give the opposition fits even if they don't score all season (which seems highly unlikely). Two members of the front five are Marcel and Emilio Couret. About the only difference between these two talented twins, are their first names. Both strong kicking forwards should be double trouble to all Lavender opposition.

Another sophomore on the team, Bob Molko, has gained a starting berth. The six foot, 160 pounder usually plays half-back but Coach Karlin has been experimenting with Molko as a forward.

An outstanding addition to the team is Cliff Soas. This sophomore, a native of Jamaica in the West Indies, has nailed down the center forward slot. He has been very impressive in pre-season activity, scoring twice in the scrimmage against Columbia.

To these fine sophomores, the Beavers add some outstanding veterans. Returning lettermen include center half-back Neville Parker, forward Mike Pesce, full-back Tom Sieberg, halfback Erwin Fox, forward Totny Negovetti, goalie Nick Patruno and fullback Seth Shelton.

Coach Karlin has said that the Beavers will be a scoring team this season. Commenting on the less than excellent play in the Columbia scrimmage, Professor Karlin diagnosed the illness as lack of team play. "They must learn to play as a unit," Karlin commented. The Coach has been impressed by the play of the team as individuals.

FEMALE FOILSMAN:

The Mark Of Prof. Lucia Or Bring Fencing To The Students

What would it be like to be the only female in an otherwise all male physical education class? Ruth Mayer can tell you.

Miss Mayer is a member of Physical Education 55, a new one credit elective course in fencing, open to students who have completed the regular four terms of physical education. The course is part of Professor Edward Lucia's program to "bring fencing to the College's undergraduates."

The prerequisite of the course is that the prospective student have a working knowledge of fencing. Miss Mayer enjoyed the elementary fencing course she took as part of her required physical education program, and decided she wanted to fence some more.

According to Professor Lucia, who coaches the fencing team, the course is designed to prepare students for national amateur competition through the Amateur Fencers League of America.

Professor Lucia said that many students who have fencing experience are unable to participate in varsity competition for one reason or another. This class opens the door for these students to further competition on a varsity level.

The Professor divides the course into four parts, the first of which is theory.

In the second part he gives individual instruction while the students pair off against each other.

A skull session, in which tactics and strategy are reviewed, comprises the third part.

The final part of the course, the students compete "electrically," using the electrical scoring apparatus which is used in varsity meets.

As part of the conditioning for the sport, Lucia has his students lift weights and use isometric exercise apparatus. Miss Mayer said she hadn't been asked to lift any weights, yet, but that she didn't

(By the Author of "Rally Round the Flag, Boys!" and "Barefoot Boy With Cheek.")

THE DEAN YOU SAVE MAY BE YOUR OWN

Colleges are complicated and bewildering places, filled with complicated and bewildering people. Today let us examine one of the most complicated and bewildering—yet fetching and lovable—of all campus figures. I refer, of course, to the dean of students.

Policeman and confessor, shepherd and seer, warden and oracle, proconsul and pal—the dean of students is all of these. How, then, can we understand him? Well sir, perhaps the best way is to take an average day in the life of an average dean. Here, for example, is what happened last Thursday to Dean Killjoy N. Dampier of the Duluth College of Belles Lettres and Pemmican.

At 6 a.m. he woke, dressed, lit a Marlboro, and went up on the roof of his house to remove the statue of the Founder which had been placed there during the night by high-spirited undergraduates.

Dean, Policeman, Confessor, Shepherd, Seer...etc.

At 7 a.m. he lit a Marlboro and walked briskly to the campus. (The Dean had not been driving his car since it had been placed on the roof of the girls dormitory by high-spirited undergraduates.)

At 7:45 a.m. he arrived on campus, lit a Marlboro and climbed the bell tower to remove his secretary who had been placed there during the night by high-spirited undergraduates.

At 8 a.m. he reached his office, lit a Marlboro, and met with E. Pluribus Ewbank, editor of the student newspaper. Young Ewbank had been writing a series of editorials urging the United States to annex Canada. When the editorials had evoked no response, he had taken matters into his own hands. Accompanied by his society editor and two proofreaders, he had gone over the border and conquered Manitoba. With great patience and several Marlboro Cigarettes, the Dean persuaded young Ewbank to give Manitoba back. Young Ewbank, however, insisted on keeping Winnipeg.

At 9 a.m. the Dean lit a Marlboro and met with Robert Penn Sigafoos, president of the local Sigma Chi chapter, who came to report that the Deke house had been put on top of the Sigma Chi house during the night by high-spirited undergraduates.

At 10 a.m. the Dean lit a Marlboro and went to umpire an intramural softball game on the roof of the law school where the campus baseball diamond had been placed during the night by high-spirited undergraduates.

At 12 noon the Dean had a luncheon meeting with the prexy, the bursar, and the registrar, at the bottom of the campus swimming pool where the faculty dining room had been placed during the night by high-spirited undergraduates. Marlbors were passed after luncheon, but not lighted, owing to dampness.

At 2 p.m., back in his office, the Dean lit a Marlboro and received the Canadian Minister of War who said unless young Ewbank gave back Winnipeg, the Canadian army would march against the U.S. immediately. Young Ewbank was summoned and agreed to give back Winnipeg if he could have Moose Jaw. The Canadian Minister of War at first refused, but finally consented after young Ewbank placed him on the roof of the metallurgy building.

At 3 p.m. the Dean lit a Marlboro and met with a delegation from the student council who came to present him with a set of matched luggage in honor of his fifty years' service as dean of students. The Dean promptly packed the luggage with all his clothing and fled to Utica, New York, where he is now in the aluminum siding game.
