CITY COLLEGE

Two More Depts. Back Longer Day

Two language departments have declared themselves in agreement with President Gallagher's proposal to expand the College's day and week to help meet the enrollment crisis.

While the Romance Languages Department opposes the proposal for increasing the number of students in any of its classes, the Classical Languages and Hebrew Department will accept the enlargement of a few.

Chairman Gaston Gille (Rom. Lang.) said his department is "willing to go along [with the the President's proposals] to a certain extent."

His department, he said, thinks "along the lines of the English Department" in their assertion that larger classes would be extremely detrimental to the well-functioning of their classes, and would narrow benefits available to students. "Of course, in languages there is the [same] problem," he declared.

Meanwhile the Classical Language and Hebrew Department, in a report to be submitted to Dean Morton Gottschall (Liberal Arts), offered more flexibility in regard to class size.

Chairman Israel Drabkin said that if necessary the number of students per class could be increased in a few cases. The department did accept a lengthened work day and week. These changes, Prof. Drabkin emphasized, are contingent on maintenance of academic standards.

While his department has not yet completed discussion on Pres. Gallagher's plan, one other chairman presented a personal view.

"Basically I would prefer a plan that would get more of the minority groups in," Chairman Ludwig Kahn (German and Slavic Languages) asserted. "I think we should go out and recruit among the Negroes and Puerto Ricans that are not in the College."

Greek Week At Peak

Miss ROTC
A Two Timer?

Pretty girls in chariots will speed around the campus today, as the Greek Festival, sponsored by the Inter-Fraternity Council gets under way.

The girls are contestants in the "Miss Greek" contest, one of the events in a program which will include an olympic contest in Lewishohn Stadium.

The olympic games will include a chariot race and a football game. In the absence of horses, fraternity brothers will pull the chariots.

The festival will climax with the choosing of finalists in the "Miss Greek" contest.

The IFC fraternities will hold open house in the week's following the Festival, as is normal practice during the rush season.

Four 'Main Events' Candidates Assume Top Editorial Positions

A major upheaval in the structure of the Evening Session newspaper, Main Events, brought about the election of four first-term members of the paper to its editorial board Monday night.

The vacancies were created in part by the scholastic ineligibility of Main Events' Acting Editor Steve Sommerstein; and the discovery that three staff members were Day Session students.

Since no editor-in-chief has elected at yet, the post will rotate weekly among the members of the board, with an "associate editor" assuming the duties left open by the week's editor-in-chief.

Following the suspension of the paper's constitution by Dr. Martha Farmer (Student Life), a vote was taken among the members to appoint six of their number to an editorial board. Bubbles Chwat, formerly business manager, and John Yavroyan, formerly theatre critic, and four first-term candidates were elected.

Under the old constitution no student could become an editor until he had served one term as "candidate," and a second as staff member.

A proposal by Dr. Farmer to completely revoke the constitution and appoint a committee to draft a new one, was voted down. The constitution will be held in abeyance and any decision to alter or revise it be made at a later time.

The Main Events meeting was restricted to those who had been on the paper when the meeting was announced.

Student Council Okays Letters For Americus

A letter-writing campaign to the students imprisoned in Americus, Georgia, was initiated unanimously by Student Government last night.

The motion, which was presented by Civil Liberties Committee chairman John Zippert, states that "one of the purposes for which the Student Government of City College was established was 'to foster a recognition of the rights and responsibilities of students to the College and to the community.'"

The bill also noted that SC should "engender in the student body a response that is coincident with the democratic ideals of our society."

Earlier in the evening, Council passed another motion which provided that copies of a National Student Association resolution, calling for free public higher education be sent to all twenty eight New York Congressional candidates.

In another action, Council approved a $500 increase in allocations for the two regular day session newspapers, Campus and Observation Post.

Class of '65 representative Howie Simon announced that thirty students from Angola and Mozambique on a State Department tour had requested that ten or fifteen students from the College join them in a demonstration at the United Nations.

Simon said that the African students, whose demonstration on November 1, would correspond to the opening of UN debate on Portuguese colonialism, had requested

"a symbolic complement" to their action from American students.

OPost Notes...

• South Africa's apartheid policy will be the topic of a lecture by Mr. M. Bierman, press attaché of the South African Consulate. Mr. Bierman will defend his country's racial policy before the Young Conservatives Club in Room 440 Finley at 12:30 PM today.

• Rabbi Andre Ungar, recently expelled from the Union of South Africa for his anti-apartheid stand, will speak at Hillel House (475 W. 140th Street), at 12:15 PM today. His topic will be the "Jewish Responsibility in the Integration Crisis."

• The World University Service Council will hold a planning meeting at 12:30 PM today in Room 305 Finley. All organizations are requested to send a delegate to the meeting.

• Professor Samuel Hendel (Political Science), will speak on "The Situation of Soviet Jewry" today. Professor Hendel, who has made several trips to the Soviet Union and has studied many aspects of Soviet society, will discuss the accusations made against Russian Jews of "economic crimes," and the suppression of Jewish cultural activities. His talk, sponsored by the Yiddish Club, will be given in Room 225 Wagner at 12:15 PM.

• A plaque containing the College's traditional Ephebic Oath will be unveiled tomorrow at 4 PM in the entrance vestibule of Shepard Hall on St. Nicholas Terrace, between 138th and 140th Streets. The plaque is a gift of Dr. Moses Leo Gitelson of the Class of 1916.

Administrative, Clerical Staff Select Union As Their Agent

The College's administrative staff elected Local 384 of the American Federation of County, State and Municipal Employees Union (AFCSME) as their bargaining agent Tuesday.

The election, conducted by the American Arbitration Association, selected the union as a representative for the clerical and administrative staffs in the entire City University. The action was requested by Local 384.

The Legislative Conference of the BHE will continue to represent the faculty of the CU's colleges. The Conference had previously hoped to extend its jurisdiction to the administrative staff.

Dorothy Greenman, President of Local 384, said that the local has a fourteen point program, which includes the following: better salaries and working conditions, promotion improvements, workmen's compensation for BHE employees, higher overtime rates, and a more liberal policy on personal leaves.

She added that Local 384 would ask for legislative action where it was necessary to implement this program.

Raymond, (BMOC) Returns to College

That well-known man about town and bon vivant, Raymond the Bagelman, is back at his town headquarters (Convent Avenue and 135th Street) after completing his annual leave of absence.

Raymond spent his vacation in Greenwich Village "playing with the schicksas." A distinguished gourmet, Raymond will offer his pretzels to the culinary adventurers of the College with or without appointment.

Known affectionately as BMOC (bagel man on campus), Raymond is a vociferous supporter of College athletics. He has on occasion, urged the basketball team on to victory with such "viga," that the referees had to ask him to leave.

Winter Sojourn

This spring's prom-goers may get a financial boost from winter sports enthusiasts who participate in the annual Senior Class Wintersession weekend.

Concord Hotel-bound students will pay $37 instead of the usual $36 this year, and profits will be used to underwrite Senior Prom costs.

The winter weekend which is open to all matriculated students at the College will feature a Sunday night hootenanny, swimming, ice skating, skiing, and a cocktail party, in addition to lots of fresh air and a possible snow flurry.

Reservations are being taken for three weeks only in the Senior Office, Room 206 Finley.

The Tale of the Club Note, Or, The Horrors of Horace

By DON WEINGARTEN

"The Trigonometrics Society," said the OP club note, "will hear Mr. Mortimer Mort talk on identity semigroups.

Horace Foley could not resist club notes. It had always been a fatal flaw in his character, and he had spent many a night in sleepless anguish, trying to fit the maximum number of meetings into his scant two-hour break.

"I will spend twenty-nine minutes at the Trigonometrics Society," he declared. "That will leave me time for the Gamma Gamma Gamma meeting and the Medical Society lecture on ruptured spleens." He set off happily for Room 217 Finley, arrived, and was seated.

Mr. Mortimer Mort was carefully engaged in laboriously copying down his bibliography on the blackboard. The first title read Hyperdeterminant Functions of Converse Variables in a Semiquadratic Matrix Field. Mercifully, the other titles were in Russian.

"First of all," Mr. Mort said, "I should like to point out an error in the club note. The lecture is not to be on identity semigroups at all, but on inverse semigroups." Horace carefully noted this down.

"An inverse semigroup," Mr. Mort said, to clarify matters, "is any semigroup in which each element possesses a unique inverse."

"That sounds logical," said Horace, and was met with several piercing stares. He hurriedly began taking copious notes.

"A semigroup," said Mr. Mort to further clarify matters, "is a group of elements of a set upon which an operation is performed, and bearing the properties of closure and commutativity."

"That sounds reasonable," said

Plaudits for the Professors

Ever since President Gallagher's infamous enrollment address, the College atmosphere has been rife with faculty commentary. It is heartening to view the vigor with which the instructional staff has responded to his proposals. Even more encouraging is the fact that the positions taken have frequently been opposed to those offered by the President.

The consensus of the humanities departments, especially English, History, Sociology and Anthropology, and Philosophy is that the introduction of the lecture section in these subjects, even when supplemented by small discussion groups, would be detrimental to the students' education.

We coincide whole-heartedly with this view. Extending the Day Session until 8 PM and further utilization of Saturday classes are much more preferable methods of increasing enrollment.

Even Dr. Matrix

The last few weeks have proven to be dark days indeed for the newspapers of our city. First we had the loss of the late, lamented New York Mirror, and now our own Main Events finds its strength waning.

In the case of the latter, however, the loss will be a real one. Although the news writing in Main Events has not been of the best quality, its special features, literary sections, and even Dr. Matrix made a definite contribution to the College scene.

But alas—the days of Stan Whitehead are over and the Main Events staff had dwindled this term to an acting editor, a business manager, a theatre critic, three Day Session students and twenty-seven candidates.

The present situation is even bleaker. The acting editor, and his C- average, have been removed from action along with the three Day Session staff members.

Now the theatre critic, business manager, and four elected first-termers are expected to run the paper. We wish them luck. They'll need it!

And Not A Drop To Drink

Water fountains may seem like a trivial thing to write an editorial about, but if one multiplies the number of broken water coolers by the number of students inconvenienced, the matter assumes reasonably large proportions. It is beginning to look as if each time a fountain breaks an "out of order" sign is written and the whole incident forgotten. The only water cooler in Wagner has been awaiting repair since the beginning of the term. In Harris it appears that one has been completely discarded. The Finley Student Center, however, is the most neglected building of them all. Not only are there water coolers which have been broken since last year, but even the water in the toilets is turned off between 11 AM and 3 PM above the first floor. We realize there was a drought this summer and the reservoirs are still a little low, but may we please have a sip of water between classes?

Horace, and was met with a stony silence.

"A commutative semigroup in which each element is idempotent is a semilattice, and vice-versa," Mr. Mort seemed transported with glee, and completely in his element.

"An idempotent element is its own inverse."

"A commutative semigroup in which each element is idempotent is a semilattice..."

"You said that before," said Horace weakly. He went completely unnoticed...

Pardon me if I sound as if the executive position I've landed deals with the whole future of the world.

It does.

Certainly, there's no organization today conducting more vital business than the business of the United States Air Force. And very few organizations that give a college graduate greater opportunities for responsibility and growth.

As an Air Force officer, you'll be a leader on the Aerospace Team—with good pay, a 30-day paid vacation each year, educational opportunities.

How can you get started? For many, the best way is through Air Force ROTC. But if you missed out on AFROTC, or if there's no unit on your campus, you can still apply for Air Force Officer Training School. This three-month course leads to a commission as a second lieutenant in the United States Air Force.

Booters Invade Bridgeport Today; Injuries Riddle Lavender Lineup

The College's Soccer team will do more brooding about its victory over Brooklyn than its defeat to Adelphi today as they travel up to play the Purple Knights.

As it appears now, the win over the Kingsmen was more costly than last Saturday's loss to Adelphi. It was in that game that star center half, Neville Parker, suffered a leg injury that kept him out of the Adelphi game, and will probably sideline him for Bridgeport.

The Couret twins, Emilio and Marcel, also incurred leg injuries against Brooklyn, and although they did play against Adelphi, Beaver coach Harry Karlin indicated that he would not want to risk further injury in the non-league game against Bridgeport.

This year the Purple Knights have been victorious in five tries. In these five games, the Bridgeporters have scored 24 goals while allowing their opponents to tally only twice. Four of the five victories have been shutouts.

Bridgeport coach, John McKeon, has guided soccer teams for eleven seasons and has 81 wins to his credit. This year he wants to make the National Collegiate Athletic Association Championships, and his five straight wins have been a strong step in the right direction. Coach McKeon has been greatly aided by fifteen returning lettermen.

Bridgeport has always had a fine team. In 1961 they went to the NCAA championships. Last year only a loss to Westchester thwarted their hopes to reach the championships.

Number one man on the Bridgeport squad is their outside right, Sam Slagle, who was voted All-American last season, and has scored ten goals so far this season. Another standout has been co-captain goalie, Roger Curyleo. Curyleo's fine play has been the main factor in the four Bridgeport whitewashings.

Bridgeport has blanked Trenton State and Rider by scores of 3-0 in each. The University of Connecticut fell 4-0 while Boston University took a 6-0 drubbing at the hands of Bridgeport. The only team to mar the scoreless string was Albany. However, this game was by no means close. The final score of this contest showed Bridgeport on top by an 8-2 margin.

The Beavers on the other hand have a 2-1 record so far this year. They won their first two games, beating CW Post and Brooklyn, before losing last week to Adelphi.

With Parker out for the second straight game, the pressure again will be on standout sophomore goaltender, Walter Kopezuk. "Klutch" has been amazing in the Beaver nets this year and has been improving with each game. He'll have to be in top form if the Beavers are to come back from Bridgeport with a win.

Player Breaks Leg In Intramural Game

An unusual accident resulted in a broken leg for a student at the College last Thursday. Costas Terzis was playing in an intramural soccer game during the 12-2 break at Lewisohn Stadium when the incident occurred.

"I was all set to kick," explained Terzis, when one of the fellows on the other team put his leg in front of mine." Making an expressive karate-chop gesture with his arm, he added, "Something had to give."

What gave was Terzis' right leg. He was taken by ambulance to Knickerbocker Hospital, and admitted at 2 PM.

"I don't know when I'll get out of here, but I'd like to thank the guys in my Architecture class. They spent all yesterday afternoon with me."
