Two More Depts.
Back Longer Day

Two language departments have declared themselves in agreement with President Gallagher’s proposal to expand the College’s day and week to help meet the enrollment crisis.

The Romance Languages Department opposes the proposal for increasing the number of students in any of its classes, the Classical Languages and Hebrew Department will accept the enlargement of a few.

Chairman Gaston Gille (Rom. Lang.) said his department is “willing to go along with [the President’s proposal] to a certain extent.”

His department, he said, thinks “along the lines of the English Department” in their assertion that larger classes would be extremely detrimental to the well-being of some students. “That larger classes would be extremely detrimental to the well-being of some students,” he added, “is a matter of common knowledge among the members of the board, and an ‘associate editor’ assumed the duties left open by the week’s editor-in-chief. Following the suspension of the paper when the meeting was adjourned.

The vacatur were created in part by the achischmatic ineligibility of Main Events’ Action Editor Steven Somerstein; and the discovery that three staff members were Day Session students.

Since no editor-in-chief has been elected yet, the post will rotate weekly among the members of the board, with an ‘associate editor’ assuming the duties left open by the week’s editor-in-chief.

The Main Events meeting was restricted to those who had been on the paper when the meeting was announced.

Letters For Americas

A letter-writing campaign to the students imprisoned in America was initiated unanimously by Student Government last night.

The motion, which was presented by Civil Liberties Committee Chairman John Zippert, states that “one of the purposes for which the Student Government of City College was established was to foster a recognition of the rights and responsibilities of students to the college and to the community.”

The bill also noted that SC should “engender in the student body a response that is in keeping with the democratic ideals of our people.”

Earlier in the evening, Council passed another motion which provided that copies of a National Student Association resolution, calling for free public higher education, be sent to all twenty-eight New York Congressional candidates.

In another action, Council approved a $3000 increase in allocations for the two regular day session newspapers, Campus and Observation Post.

Class of ’66 representative Howie Simon announced that thirty students from the College join them in a demonstration at the United Nations.

Simon said that the African students, whose demonstration on November 14, would correspond to the opening of UN debate on Puerto Rican colonization, had requested a symbolic complement to their action from American students.

A proposal by Dr. Farmer to completely revoke the constitution and appoint a committee to draft a new one was voted down. The constitution will be held in abeyance until after the next meeting or revised as made at a later time.

Plaudits for the Professors

Ever since President Gallagher’s infamous enrolment ad- dress, the College atmosphere has been rife with faculty commentary. It is heartening to view the vigor with which the instructors has responded to his pre-emptive blow. Even more encouraging is the fact that the positions taken have frequently been opposed to those offered by the President.

The consensus of the humanities departments, especially English, History, Sociology and Anthropology, and Philoso-phy is that the introduction of the lecture section in these subjects, even when supplemented by small discussion groups, would be detrimental to the students’s education.

We coincide whole-heartedly with this view. Extending the Day Session until 8 PM and further utilization of Satur- day classes are much more preferable methods of increasing enrollment.

Even Dr. Matrix

The last few weeks have proven to be dark days indeed for the newspapers of our city. First we had the loss of the late, lamented New York Mirror, and now our own Main Events finds its strength waning.

In the case of the latter, however, the loss will be a real one. Although the news writing in Main Events has not been of the best quality, its special features, literary sections, and even Dr. Matrix made a definite contribution to the College scene.

But alas—the days of Stan Whitehead are over and the Main Events staff had dwindled this term to an acting editor, a business manager, a theatre critic, three Day Session stu- dents and twenty-seven candidates. The present situation is even bleaker. The acting editor, and his C. average, have been removed from action along with the three Day Session staff members.

Now the theatre critic, business manager, and four elected first-terms are expected to run the paper. We wish them luck. They’ll need it!

And Not A Drop To Drink

Water fountains may seem like a trivial thing to write an editorial about, but if one multiplies the number of broken water coolers by the number of students inconvenienced, the matter assumes reasonably large proportions. It is begin-ning to look as if every time a fountain breaks an “out of or-der” sign is written and the whole incident forgotten.

The only water cooler in Wagner has been awaiting repair since the beginning of the term. In Harris it appears that one has been completely discarded. The Finley Student Center, how-ever, is the most neglected building of them all. Not only are there water coolers which have been broken since last year, but often the water in the toilets is turned off between 11 AM and 3 PM above the first floor. We realize there was a drought this summer and the reservoirs are still a little low, but may we please have a sip of water between classes?
Horace...
Horace was back, and it was with a stormy silence.
"A commutative semigroup in which each element is idempotent is a semilattice, and vice-versa," Mr. Most seemed to be saying, and completely in his element.
"An idempotent element is its own inverse."
"A commutative semigroup in which each element is idempotent is a semilattice..."
"You said that before," said Horace weakly. He went completely unmoved...

Pardon me if I sound as if the executive position I've landed deals with the whole future of the world.

It does.
Certainly, there's no organization today conducting more vital business than the business of the United States Air Force. And very few organizations that give a college graduate greater opportunities for responsibility and growth.

As an Air Force officer, you'll be a leader on the Aerospace Team—with good pay, a 30-day paid vacation each year, educational opportunities. How can you get started? For many, the best way is through Air Force ROTC. But if you missed out on AFROTC, or if there's no unit on your campus, you can still apply for Air Force Officer Training School. This three-month course leads to a commission as a second lieutenant in the United States Air Force.

Booters Invade Bridgeport Today; Injuries Riddle Lavender Lineup

The College's Soccer team will do more brooding about its victory over Brooklyn than its defeat to Adelphi today as they travel up to play the Purple Knights.

As it appears now, the win over the Kingsmen was more costly than last Saturday's loss to Adelphi. It was in that game that star center half, Neville Parker, suffered a leg injury that kept him out of the Adelphi game, and will probably sideline him for Bridgeport.

The Captain twins, Emilillo and Marcel, also incurred leg injuries against Brooklyn, and although they did play against Adelphi, Beaver coach Harry Karlin indicated that he would not want to risk further injury in the non-league game against Bridgeport.

This year the Purple Knights have been victorious in five tries. In these five games, the Bridgeporters have scored 24 goals while allowing their opponents to tally only twice. Four of the five victories were shutouts.

Bridgeport coach, John McKeon, has guided soccer teams for eleven seasons and has 81 wins to his credit. This year he wants to make the National Collegiate Athletic Association championships. Last year only a loss to Westchester thwarted their hopes to reach the championship.

Number one man on the Bridgeport squad is their outside right, Sam Riglio, who was voted All-American last season, and has scored ten goals so far this season. Another standout has been co-captain goalie, Roger Curylen. Curylen's fine play has been the main factor in the four Bridgeport whitewashings.

Bridgeport has blanked Trenton State and Rider by scores of 3-0 each. The University of Connecticut fell 4-0 while Boston University took a 6-0 drubbing at the hands of Bridgeport. The only team to mar the scoreless string was Albany. However, this game was by no means close. The final score of this contest showed Bridgeport on top by an 8-2 margin.

The Beavers on the other hand have a 3-1 record so far this year. They won their first two games, bowing CW Post and Brooklyn, before losing last week to Adelphi.

With Parker out for the second straight game, the pressure again will be on standout sophomore goalkeeper, Walter Koperek. "Klutch" has been amazing in the Beaver nets this year and has been improving with each game.

Klutch has been amazing in the Beaver nets this year and has been improving with each game. He'll have to be in top form if the Beavers are to come back from Bridgeport with a win.
