CITY COLLEGE

Wilson . . .

"Opportunities in College Teaching" will be the topic of a talk by Dr. Hans Rosenhaupt of the Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation in Room 200 Shepard on April 23, from 12-2 PM.

Evening Session Will Be Expanded To 5 Night Week

Dean Bernard Levy of the College's uptown School of General Studies announced this week that evening classes will be held five nights per week — Monday through Friday — beginning in the fall term of 1964. At present, there are no evening classes on Friday.

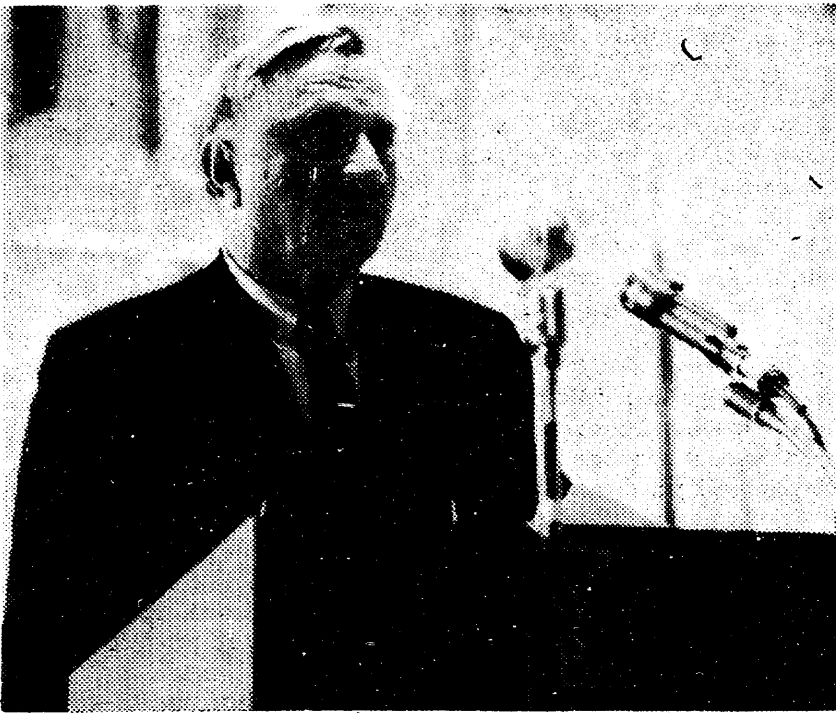

In making the announcement Dean Levy cited the increased enrollment expected at the College this Fall as the main reason for the change. At present, the School of General Studies conducts classes in the afternoon as well as evening. Under the new plan, however, about 80% of the afternoon classes will be switched to Friday evenings. This would provide additional facilities for day school students.

In order to accommodate evening session students, most of the courses with classes on Friday would also have alternate sections scheduled for other days of the week. Thus, any evening student who wishes to, could still have a Monday through Thursday schedule.

Noting that "we have already expanded all classes to their maximum," Dean Levy said the new plan would "adapt to the students' needs."

Douglas Attacks Conformity In Society Before Overflow Audience In Ballroom

By STEVE ABEL

Justice William O. Douglas inaugurated House Plan's Morris Raphael Cohen lecture series yesterday by attacking conformity in the U. S.

Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas attacked the growing conformity of American society in a speech at the College yesterday. His talk before a full house in the Grand Ballroom inaugurated the Morris Raphael Cohen Lecture Series.

The series is sponsored by House Plan Association in honor of Professor Cohen, who taught philosophy here for 34 years.

Justice Douglas said that the American people tend to fear the off-beat, and that the status quo will try to make people "goose step" together. "We have gone further down the line of conformity than many people believe," he added.

"The disease is spreading," he continued. "Witnesses are called just to see how many times they'll invoke the Fifth Amendment. No views are considered better than non-conformist views."

"This has robbed America of her diversity," the Justice declared.

Science is even more subtle in making people conform, he stated. "But science can't give us a clue to the social future." Advances in science have brought about the machine age, he said, "but boredom is brought by machines. Man needs burdens. That is why the American example is not revered by leaders in foreign countries. Maybe they don't want Detroit, Michigan."

"Science can't explain nature," he declared. "One doctor I know worked on the ear for many years," he related. One day, said the Justice, he was beginning to believe in God, and he asked him why. 'God is the only possible explanation for ear-wax,' he replied.

"But those who challenge the status quo face a formidable task." Our energies, the Justice declared, must be redirected from trying to build chair-lifts on every mountain.

He castigated those who ruin nature by overlogging forests, polluting rivers, and destroying farm land by strip-mining. "Why does beauty have to feed hot furnaces?"

The lecture was attended by the daughter of Professor Cohen, Mrs. Leonora Cohen Rosenfield, who now teaches at the University of Maryland.

She described her father as a true individualist and non-conformist. Justice Felix Frankfurter is reputed to have said that he envied the students who sat at his feet, she said. "It is obvious, one of his students quipped," she said, "that he never sat there."

Budget Gives Additional Funds For Larger Freshman Class

The Board of Higher Education will get an increase of $8,672,628 for the senior colleges over last year's allocation, according to the proposed City budget released Tuesday.

Of this increase, $1 million will provide for the admission of more freshmen to the senior and junior colleges. The BHE had asked for $2 million last January in anticipation of the enlarged enrollment.

As a result of the lowered admission requirements and the budget increase, an additional 1700 freshmen will be able to enter the four-year colleges next fall.

Included in the budget is Mayor Wagner's request for $2,400,000 for

No Honors Overcrowding: One Professor Per Student

By CAROL HERRNSTADT

This is the first part in a series dealing with the Honors Program and its students.

Despite cries of overcrowded classes, a one-to-one teacher to pupil ratio does exist at the College: every student in the Honors Program has his mentor. "The Honors Program's special advantage is individual attention for students who really have something on the

GOP Free Tuition Proponent Accuses Carlino of Retaliation

Assemblyman Alfred Lerner's legislative assistant and secretary have been discharged by Speaker of the Assembly Joseph Carlino. Mr. Lerner, the only Republican who voted in favor of the motion to discharge the free tuition mandate from committee, charged Tuesday the action was taken in retaliation for the way he voted.

Assemblyman Lerner

Speaker Carlino has the sole power of hiring and firing according to Mr. Lerner. Lerner said that if he were to hire a secretary he would have to pay for it himself rather than receiving the allocation from the State for secretaries hired by Mr. Carlino.

The usual practice is that Assemblymen are provided secretaries while the Legislature is in session and are allowed to retain ball," Professor Robert I. Wolff (Chmn., Physics) said. As an originator of the program in 1931, Prof. Wolff explained that "the College has always been overcrowded" and that the Honors Program was established in part to give students special attention that large classes do not permit.

In addition to receiving individual guidance, Honors students may take up to six credits in their program each term without going to class. There are no finals in Honors except in Social Science. The program often entails the writing of a junior Master's Essay. The requirements vary in different fields of study.

Although one student has done

Prof. Morton N. Cohen Heads English Honors

Honors in Yiddish and Physics, the general tendency is to work within one of the Program's three divisions: Arts, Social Science, and Science.

"Historically, the tendency has been toward excessive departmentalization in the social sciences," Professor Frank Howton (Sociology and Anthropology), director of that division declared. The result has been "departmentalization of knowledge." To reunify that knowledge, the Social Science division developed a central core of study in seminar form for first term Honors.

Honors II and III are devoted to the research and writing of a fifty-page paper under the guidance of a mentor. The divisional committee judges the Honors paper and allocates a "certain number of credits at a certain grade level," Dr. Howton said. If the student's paper is accepted, he graduates with Honors.

Wagner vs. Rocky

Mayor Wagner's new City budget includes a Board of Higher Education increase of more than $8 million over last year's allocation. One million dollars of the money will be used to increase the size of the freshman classes at the nine colleges and another two million dollars will finance free-tuition at all the community colleges.

In providing for free tuition at the community colleges, Mayor Wagner has taken an important step in picking up where the State left off. More important, by putting his belief in free higher education into practice the Mayor has demonstrated the importance of maintaining a vital tradition.

The one million dollars for freshmen is only half of the BHE's original request and it is indeed unfortunate that the State could not provide this money. Albany, however, has not completely neglected the lowly scholar. If Governor Rockefeller has his way, those who miss out on a college education will be able to drown their troubles in cheap liquor.

In Memoriam

Plans were recently disclosed to raise funds at the College for the John F. Kennedy Memorial Library at Harvard University. Stan Lowenthal, the drive's foremost proponent sees revenues of $1000 to $1500 possibly collected here during a one week period. It should be patently obvious to Mr. Lowenthal and his associates that their efforts are misdirected.

It is not our intent to belittle the Kennedy Memorial effort, nor to derogate the late President's merits as deserving of such a memorial, but merely to call the sponsors' attention to the relative importance of their actions in relation to the institution at Harvard, and a far more impoverished institution within our own gates.

An article in the Sunday New York Times states that $5 million has already been collected for the Kennedy library with another $5 million in sight as a goal. This fund amounts approximately to at least $5 for every book now at the College's library, for a library (Harvard's that is) already rated one of the country's largest. It provides an outlet for tax deductible and publicity-wise contributions from all the nation's largest business organizations who have evidently well availed themselves of the opportunity to have their names inscribed on plaques and medallions in the new library, and our efforts in this regard will be miniscule at best. Why not collect this fund for a Kennedy collection at our own Morris Raphael Cohen Library providing the same tribute to the memory of the late President and making a few new books available to students at the City University.

Monuments, albeit fitting and deserved, might well be left to those able to construct them, and otherwise unwilling to further the cause of higher education. Let us place our labors in the service of a cause which will find them significant, and which will also provide benefits to be reaped by those who cannot afford the expense of attending Harvard University, or of purchasing library privileges there. A few bookplates in a few hundred books purchased here might do far more to keep the Kennedy memory alive for the thousands who will use them than the thousands of volumes to be placed in one more endowed building on the banks of the Charles River.

Engineering Day To Be Held Sat.

A day long exposition in Steinman Hall will mark "Engineer's and Architect Day" at the College this Saturday.

Student conducted tours of Steinman Hall will include the chemical, civil, electrical, and mechanical engineering laboratories, as well as a recently opened computer center, sub-critical nuclear reactor and atomic irradiator.

Projects built by students and faculty members will also be exhibited. These will include super-sonic turbines, an "electronic roulette," nuclear reactor operations, computer intelligence and closed circuit television.

Highlights of the tour will be such displays as: "Man on the Moon," a depiction of the hostile lunar environment and ways of overcoming it; a demonstration of the methods of measuring the speed of light; and an analysis of human speech and hearing using tape recorders, oscilloscopes and computers.

More than 2,000 people are expected to visit the free exposition, which is being sponsored by Tech Council, and will be open from 10 AM to 4 PM.

the secretaries for thirty days after adjournment in order to finish pending business.

The Legislature adjourned March 27 and according to this tradition Mr. Lerner should have had the services of a secretary until April 26.

Mr. Lerner said that this is the first time in his memory that secretaries were discharged by Speaker Carlino before the thirty day period.

New Research Office To Study College's Goals And Functions

President Gallagher has established an Office of Institutional Research, the purpose of which will be to coordinate and stimulate "research and study having to do with questions believed to be important by persons at the College."

He also announced the appointment of an Advisory Committee composed of faculty, alumni and students to seek a Director and advise the Office. Dr. Gallagher hopes to appoint the Director by September, 1964, from a panel chosen by the committee. The chairman of the committee will be Prof. Bernard Bellush (History), who headed the original committee on institutional research.

His committee recommended the creation of an Office of Institutional research in its final report to the President in January, 1964. The committee also assigned priorities to certain questions which it felt should receive immediate attention by the Research office.

The highest priority was given to the category "What are the goals and functions of the College" and second highest studies of "The City College Student," and "The faculty, what are its needs."

Professor Bellush's committee further recommended that the Office be of modest size initially, and directly responsible to the President.

The Chairman of the Advisory Committee on Institutional Research, Professor Bellush called the newly formed Office "unique" because of President Gallagher's "recognition of the role that the faculty can play in policy making on the campus."

Citing the success of the existing services at Minnesota, Michigan and Wayne Universities which he visited for one week, Professor Bellush felt that the College's Office of Institutional Research Services would make a "tremendous contribution" toward intelligent planning for the future in all aspects of the College.

Honors...

A massive paper is also required in the Science Division, but here the similarity ends. The nature of scientific study, specialization, encourages differences.

"It is impossible in science for the student to spread himself too thin," Prof. Wolff declared. Therefore, he explained, there is no common core as in the social science division. In fact, there are only occasional seminars in science Honors.

"It is up to the student to say what he will do," Dr. Wolff said. If his mentor is affiliated with outside institutions, a student may do his work off campus. He may also sit in on any class at the College which relates to his project.

The Honors work is either of an experimental or theoretical nature. Mathematical subjects, for example, are always theoretical discussions, while biological studies may be experimental work. The number of terms and the amount of credit allotted to a project depends on the problem to be explored. Six is the maximum number of credits per term.

Evening In Ouagadougou Is Theme Of Sat. Dance

Following the example of the United Nations, the flag of Upper Volta will fly beside the United States flag in peace and harmony this Saturday night. The occasion — a dance to be attended by the Ambassador of Upper Volta — will enable the many friends of Upper Volta to get together socially to raise funds for school, textbooks and the building of a hospital at Ou-gadougou, the capitol of the small African nation.

The title of the dance is "An Evening in Ouagadougou," for obvious reasons, and representatives from other chapters of the Friends of Upper Volta will attend from many Eastern Colleges.

According to Lewis Mandell, the founder and president of the Colleges' Upper Volta chapter, the entertainment will consist of a band of six, one of whom refused an engagement to play with Miriam Makeba at Lincoln Center to perform for the group. The dance will be held at Bittenweiser Lounge at 8:30 PM and admission is free. Men are requested to wear jackets and ties.

Curran, Alumnus To Debate Tuition

Republican State Assemblyman Paul J. Curran has accepted an invitation to debate on May 14th with Victor Axelrod, Chairman of the Speakers Committee of the College's Alumni Association, on the question of free tuition in the City and State Universities. Mr. Curran's election district was "invaded" by students from the City University on February 12th.

"Originally I had been invited merely to speak at the College," Mr. Curran said. "The idea of a debate developed subsequently."

"Mr. Axelrod and I have discussed the question of tuition many times," noted Mr. Curran. "I think this debate will give us an opportunity to air both sides of the question."

"Not many people," the Assemblyman declared, "understand my position on the matter."

Mr. Axelrod, Class of '37 and a former SG president, is a Phi Beta Kappa member.

The debate was arranged through the Alumni Association.

The BBC will broadcast an interview with Carolyn Hester into Bittenweiser Lounge next Monday at 1 PM.

Stickmen Smash Frenchies, 11-3

By HARVEY WEINBERG

The sky was dark and gloomy and it was raining like Burma during the monsoon season but everything was bright for the Lavender lacrosse team yesterday as the Beaver stickmen won their first game of the season over Lafayette College by a resounding 11-3 margin.

Hot men for the Lavender in the mud and rain were Emil Castro and Craig Hirsch. Emil scored three goals and added four assists to give him seven points for the muddy afternoon while Hirsch ripped home five goals.

Beaver Herbie Silkowitz opened the scoring at 2:49 of the opening period. The Beaver attackman scored unassisted on a beautiful play to put the Lavender on the top end of the score, a position which they never were to relinquish.

At 10:25, Castro got his first goal of the afternoon to put the Beavers two up on the Frenchies.

The final two tallies of the first stanza were scored by the combined efforts of Castro and Craig Hirsch. Both at 11:40 and 14:54, Hirsch was on the end of a Castro pass and was able to beat Lafayette goaltender Laird Klinger to score for the Lavender. At the end of the first frame, the Lavender enjoyed a 4-0 lead.

The Beaver stickmen continued their attack into the second period as the rains came. Castro sent home his second goal of the day after taking a neat pass from Jim McKeown at 2:12 and when Hirsch scored on a pass from Jim Gelman at 3:42, the Lavender went into the locker room leading 6-0.

Walt (Red) Brown (left), captain of the lacrosse team, scored his first goal of the season. Coach George Baron was elated over win.

Juvenon Tallies

The next two goals were notched by the Castro-Hirsch duo as both men finished out the third period scoring with unassisted goals.

In the fourth period both teams each scored two goals as Hirsch got his fifth marker and Ossie Juvenon also tallied to finish out the Lavender attack.

Mishkinmen To Host Queens At Macomb's Dam Park Today

The College's baseball team opens its home season today with a non-league contest against Queens College at Macomb's Dam Park. The game will start at 3 PM.

Macomb's Dam Park is located at 161st St. and Ruppert Place in the Bronx right across from Yankee Stadium. To get there from the College, take the 'D' train to 161st St. and River Avenue.

Slated to start for the Lavender will be Bill Lage. Lage pitched superbly against Wagner last Saturday and was the main reason for a Lavender victory in the nightcap of a double Beaver win.

Meet Hofstra Saturday

Saturday the Lavender will be home again for an important twin bill against Hofstra. The two games are both League contests and the Beavers will be ready with their two aces, Ron Muller and Howie Smith on the mound.

NEW YORK April 14 (OP)— It was announced late last night, that the annual OP-Campus—Student Government softball game has been postponed two weeks from its original date of April 17 to May 1.

The date was pushed up for several reasons. SG spokesman, Joel Cooper, said that "this Friday was impossible because Council has called an emergency meeting at 2:00 PM to study the enrollment crisis at Shea Stadium (at the same time the Mets are opening).
