

Anti-Tuition Forces To Invade S. I. Ferry

Both Terminals To Be Canvassed In Last Campaign

The College's free-tuition fighters will take to the water this afternoon in their last action before the State assembly votes on discharge of the free tuition mandate.

In an effort to put pressure on assemblyman Edward Amman and state Senator John Marchi, both Republicans from Staten Island, students will distribute leaflets and persuasive arguments to home-bound commuters on the Staten Island ferries. Since Senator Marchi's district covers all of the island, and Mr. Amman's covers half of it, the passengers reached by this naval strategy will be constituents of one or both of the legislators.

Plans call for participating students to assemble at 3 P.M. in room 212 Finley. The 100 or so volunteers SG leaders hope will show up will than proceed by subway to South Ferry, where a rear guard will be left to distribute information in the terminal. The main body will board ferries.

On the Staten Island side, some students will disembark to canvass at terminal. Cars will take others three miles to a busy shopping center. Those remaining on the ferries will ride back and forth distributing literature. The pro-assemblyman Amann said yesterday that he was "not concerned at the least" with the anti-tuition campaign.

He declared that the College's

State Trying To 'Soak Poor' Charges Beame About Tuition

City Comptroller Abraham D. Beame accused the State Wednesday night of trying to "soak the poor" by exerting pressure on New York City to end its 117 year-old tradition of free tuition.

Comptroller Abraham Beame

The Comptroller presented the keynote address prior to a panel discussion sponsored by the Queens Valley Property Owner's Association at Town Hall.

A spokesman for the College's Alumni Association, Mr. I. E. Levine, who is a member of the Association, declared that Republican legislators are extremely worried by student canvassing and some are considering changing their votes. This might allow the free-tuition mandate to reach the floor of the Assembly.

Mr. Levine also asserted that if the student campaign spread upstate, "free-tuition would be in the bag."

Wagner Main Speaker At Upstate Convention

Mayor Robert F. Wagner will be the featured speaker Monday at an Albany convention of City and State University student leaders. The convention is an eleventh hour effort to gain Republican support for the discharge of the free-tuition mandate from committee.

Other speakers will include Representatives of State Comptroller Arthur Levitt and John Hayes Whitney, publisher of the New York Herald-Tribune, and a spokesman from the New York Journal-American. Both the Tribune and the Journal-American have an editorial commitment to free tuition at the City University.

The City University Executive Council (CUNY), made up of representatives of the CU's student governments, decided last Friday to hold the convention. A week prior to that meeting it had decided to stage a mass student rally in Albany, similar to the one held last year. This rally plan was opposed by the College's Student Government. At last Friday's meeting a convention of campus leaders was agreed upon as a compromise measure.

SG leaders here, who have been leading the CU's free tuition fight, felt that any mass rally in Albany, no matter how well attended by students from the City, would be a failure without upstate support. SG Vice-President Danny Katkin had been in contact with State University students, and was told that there would be little or no support from them for a rally.

The upstate student leaders told him also, however, that they would be willing to participate in a convention. When this was revealed at last Friday's CUNY meeting, the convention plan was quickly voted in.

Telegrams from Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare Anthony Celebrezze and Congressman John Lindsey (Rep., Man.) supporting free tuition will be read to the student leaders.

The City University will be sending representatives of almost all its student governments, including two

Dr. Clark Integration Advisor In Public School Controversy

Professor Kenneth B. Clark (Psychology) has been asked by New York State Commissioner of Education James E. Allen to help solve the controversial problem of racial imbalance in the City's public schools.

Dr. Clark is on the Commissioner's three member special advisory committee on integration. The committee has been asked to submit report on the integration question to Dr. Allen early in May.

The two other members of the committee are John H. Fisher,

Dr. Allen had been asked to intervene in the City's integration dispute by local education authorities after the February 3 boycott protesting segregation in public schools.

Civil rights leaders were disappointed that the Commissioner had no concrete proposals to offer. Milton A. Galamison, chairman of the Citywide Committee for Integrated Schools, declared that the time had passed for the appointment of committees and proposals for new studies.

The Commissioner's move was announced in letters to local school officials and to Mayor Robert F. Wagner. In the letters he noted that two years ago he had established his advisory committee on human relations and community tensions affecting education.

"I am asking my committee," Dr. Allen wrote, "not only to consider the practical aspects of the Board of Education's integration plan but to consider also how the plan might fit into a comprehensive program for the improvement of education for all young people in all sections of the city."

Hungary Is Basically Unsound Says General of 1956 Revolt

Hungarian Major General Bela K. Kiraly declared yesterday that the trend toward liberalism in Hungary today does not have a sound base because "there is no freedom if there is no private ownership, and the Communists maintain absolute state ownership." In his speech to the Young Conservative Club on the Hungarian Revolution, General Kiraly reviewed the basic ideas underlying the revolt, and the history of events leading up to it.

The General maintained that the foundation for the Hungarian uprising was laid in the Moscow power struggle which followed the death of Stalin. During this struggle "a fermentation took place in Hungary which contained the seeds of freedom," he asserted.

While Khrushchev was eliminating his political rivals, Mr. Kiraly continued, the young people of Hungary took more and more intellectual freedom for themselves. The uprising, which started as an evolution of liberalism rather than a revolution, reached a violent stage when the Communists refused to relinquish their military control of Hungary, he said.

Major General Kiraly served as commander-in-chief of the Hungarian underground during the revolution, and as co-chairman of the National Defense Committee of the Revolution.

Domber Resigns As SAB Chmn.

Barry Domber announced his resignation as chairman of the Student Activities Board yesterday.

Domber cited "personal reasons" as the cause of his resignation. He pointed out that he has a heavy work load this term, since his classes are "all engineering." "I will continue to work with the SAB in an unofficial capacity" he added.

Peter Scola will serve as acting chairman in Domber's place.

Don't Miss The Boat

If every New York City Republican Assemblyman can be pressured into voting for discharge of the free tuition mandate this Tuesday, only one additional upstate Republican vote will be needed for victory. We can be certain, however, that they will not vote for discharge out of the goodness of their hearts alone. Our continued pressure on these Assemblymen is the only way we can be assured of victory.

This afternoon's canvassing on Staten Island for free tuition is the last opportunity we will have to show these men that we mean business. The prospect of losing votes in their districts can get them to add their votes to the free tuition forces. Without your support, this campaign cannot succeed. If you don't help give out leaflets and postcards this afternoon, you may be giving out a lot more than the seventeen dollar general fee come September registration.

Assemblyman Amann said that we would be doing him an "absolute favor" by canvassing his district. Let's be as benevolent as we can. All students interested in "helping" him (and themselves) should be in front of Room 212 Finley at 3 PM this afternoon.

Take a ride on the Staten Island Ferry today. It only costs a nickel and may save you two hundred dollars in September.

Finally

Now is the time. Finals are approximately three months away, and now is the time to do something about them. Of course it would be ideal to study all the way down the line as most professors consistently urge, but with term papers, required suggested readings and the like, this is often impossible. Even if we were able to do this, a review is necessary.

Every term when finals are about a week off, students begin to murmur furtively: "We want a study period between the end of classes and the beginning of final exams." "We want a study..."

We do want a study period; what's more, we should have one.

Overnight, or even over the preceeding weekend is not enough time to properly review a full term's work. But neither is overnight or over the preceeding weekend time enough to campaign for this reading period.

If we are to get a few days before finals, we must begin to work for them now (when we aren't busy doing all of that studying for finals).

This is a call to action. The time is now.

LIU Winter Blast Has Icy Aftermath

The financial management of the Long Island University (LIU) Wintersession trip is being investigated by LIU's administration.

The chairman of the organizing committee, the Senior Class Vice-President, and the Junior Class Treasurer were those immediately involved with the investigation by Student Affairs Director Constance Bacile.

Charges being investigated include selling programs which the Concord requested be given out free, selling meal tickets to unregistered guests, arranging for 95 people to ride the buses without paying the bus company, and falsifying signatures to provide tickets for friends and to sell privately.

Approximately forty people who have been billed by the Concord at the University, never paid for the trip at all, according to the LIU student council source, and that would mean a $1,200 discrepancy.

Hawks Caged In Beaver Romp, 86-53

Hunter College seemed to think it was the Army-Navy football game last night, as they lost to the College's basketball team, 86-53. The Hunter Hawks came out wearing picket-types signs on their backs which said "Beat City."

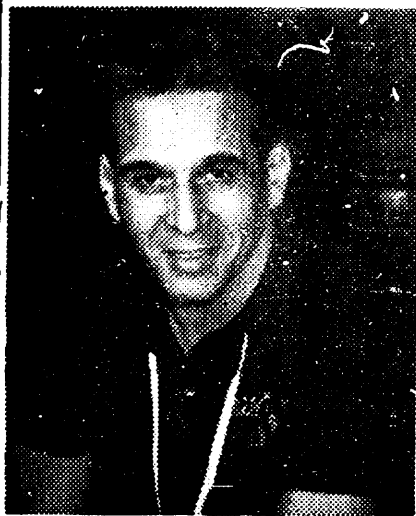

But if they were looking for a Cassius Clay like upset, they were totally denied. It looked like The Pretty One had all the upsets locked up for the week.

The Beavers did just about everything right. They hit from the floor, pulled rebounds, set up plays, and also got the whole bench in.

Hunter led 5-4 with five minutes gone in the first half. 6-3 Ira Smolev hit a corner shot at this point to give the Lavender a permanent lead. Smolev scored 6 out of the first 7 Lavender points and led the team with 20 points.

For the Hawks the only consolation was provided by the foul line where they hit 21 of 26 shots. Otherwise the Hawks really showed the loss, by graduation, of Howie Schwell, their high scorer in the first half of the season.

Hunter has yet to win in the Tri-State League while the Lavender squad is now 3-4 and 8-8 overall.

Lavender mentor Dave Polansky was able to throw the whole bench in with more than 3 minutes to go in the first stanza. In the second

Beavers Compete In Weekend Events

The Lavender colors will be spread far and wide over the weekend as the College's fencing, swimming, and rifle teams compete in an assortment of matches, which, if successful, could be a big boost to Beaver spirits.

The fencing team, under Coach Edward Lucia, will face MIT. So far this season they have beaten such fencing powers as Rutgers, Princeton, Harvard, and Yale. They would like to keep on winning.

The Lavender swimmers are competing in the Metropolitan Championship meet at the NYU pool. The team's season record, which stands at 1-7, will undoubtedly improve next season with the addition of very promising freshmen. Coach Jack Rider is hopefully looking forward to his fights at the Heights with an eye toward next year.

At home, Sergeant Perry Mendenhall, Beaver Rifle Coach, will guide his team through a triangular match with Brooklyn and Fordham.

half he started the regular team but was soon schuffling everyone in and out so fast one couldn't tell who was in the game. The Hunter Gym is so small that players on the sidelines were in danger of getting hit with a pass if they stood up at the wrong time.

The Baby Beavers also won, 63-61.

Cagers Play Adelphi Tom'w; Finish Season Home Monday

In the next three days, the College's basketball team will wrap up one of the longest seasons in its fifty-eight year old history. Tomorrow night at 8 PM, the Lavender hoopsters will journey to Garden City, Long Island to do battle with the Panthers of Adelphi. The Panthers have already stalked down at least a tie for the Tri-State League championship but still need a victory over the Beavers to clinch the crown.

Top point getter for the Long Islanders this season has been Howie Gulker. The six foot, five inch senior has been averaging over twenty points per game. Adelphi is 7-1 in Tri-State competition. Their only loss was to Long Island University in a locally televised match.

On Monday night, the Lavender will be home to rap up the season against Bridgeport University. Last year the Lavender topped the Purple Knights 71-60. This season the Bridgeport squad is 4-4 in Tri-State play.

On Monday night, the Beavers will also say so-long to three of their seniors as they play the last game of their college careers. Two Stevens, Sheer and Golden, will see their last action on the court in Wingate. But the big loss will be Alex Blatt. Alex has had a good year on the basketball court. His rebounding, scoring, and most of all, wonderful sense of humor will be sorely missed from next year's games.
