Intersession Trips Scheduled; Will Compete For Participants

Long delayed plans for the traditional Senior Class Intersession trip were announced by Senior Class President Isabel Cooper Monday. The Administration approved three weeks ago the February 2 to 4 trip after the Senior Class agreed to "certain educational features, purely optional, of course" according to Miss Cooper. The trip will be called the Winter Holiday and will be held at Kutsher's Country Club.

For the past two years the Senior Class has held a Wintersession at the Concord Hotel but permission for this College sponsored trip was withdrawn early this semester by a committee consisting of Dean of Students Willard Blaesser, Associate Dean of Students James Peace, and David Newton, Dean of Students at Baruch; Ken Schlesinger, President of the Senior Class in 1963, then announced that he would organize and direct a trip to the Concord and he registered the name Wintersession as a service mark.

Although Schlesinger's trip has been advertised in the College's newspapers since the beginning of the term, Miss Cooper said she does not expect it to detract from the Winter Holiday.

Both the Wintersession and the Winter Holiday will be held over the same weekend.

According to Miss Cooper, Kutsher's was chosen because it had the best facilities and they are "brand new." These facilities include a ski slope, a heated indoor swimming pool, a skating rink. In addition, a cocktail party that will last until the "wee hours of the morning," will be held.

Schlesinger said Monday that the Concord trip offered everything that the Senior Class trip offered. He noted that Kutsher's was going to be open during the winter months for the first time this year. He said that Concord had four or five ski slopes which had been open for ten years, it has the largest outdoor skating rink in the

Council To Weigh Discrimination Bill

By GREGOR OWEN

A letter urging the "active recruitment of more students from minority groups" by College organizations will be considered at tonight's Student Council meeting.

The letter, addressed to "Club and Organization Presidents" and signed by SG President John Zipert, would "indict" the Presidents "for a false tolerance based upon indifference," and charges that the presidents "have been practicing a sort of 'subtle segregation.'"

It was inspired, as its first two paragraphs indicate, by the expulsion from House Plan Association last week of a Freshman House that voted to deny membership to

One Year Later

"The Kennedy Legacy One Year Later" will be discussed by Dr. Gallagher and Professor Stanley Feingold (Pol. Sci.) on Thursday, November 19th, 1964, at 12:30 PM in Steinman Hall Auditorium. This memorial program for the late president is sponsored by the B'nai B'rith Hillel Foundation.

Open Meetings Of BHE Called For At Hearing

A request that meetings of the Board of Higher Education be opened to the general public was considered at a public hearing of that body on Monday.

The issue was raised by the Catholic Teachers' Association of Brooklyn, which protested that the public had a right to be present and to know how members vote on issues before them. Under current Board policy, only certain matters are discussed publicly, and these at public hearings, not regular meetings.

Dr. Gustave G. Rosenberg, Chairman of the BHE, reiterated the present conditions in his address to the convocation:

"It has been the policy of this Board since 1941 to make public the agenda of regular meetings of the Board prior to the Board meetings. It has also been the Board's policy to grant public hearings on such items on the agenda as are the subject of a request for public hearings.

"The Board also holds hearings when requested on matters on the agenda of the Board, on its budget requests, its draft of a Master Plan, and on other important matters of policy."

The Catholic Teachers' Association's request was for all meetings to be public. Shortly following the issuance of the plea, the

Approval Given Brooklyn SG To Work For Free Education

Brooklyn College's student government, after prolonged skirmishing with an administration-dominated Student-Faculty Committee on Student Activities, was finally allowed to conduct a free-tuition campaign. Permission was given on October 28, less than a week before election day.

The eleventh hour campaign consisted of mailing approximately one thousand postcards to residents of Bay Ridge, Brooklyn, urging them to vote against legislators who had refused to support restoration of the free-tuition mandate to state law.

The last minute change of heart by faculty members of the committee came after a poll conducted by Brooklyn's student government Executive Council showed that 95% of the 3,500 students polled wanted free-tuition and approved of the Council's plan of direct political action to ensure its maintenance. The college has an enrollment of approximately 10,000.

The Executive Council, which consists of representatives from various campus organizations, had been accused by faculty members of not being representative of the student body as a whole. The poll, according to Mark Ginsburg, chairman of Brooklyn's Free-Tuition Committee, showed that at least on this issue, Council was representing the will of the students.

The Student-Faculty Committee, which has four faculty members,

'Campus' Receives More SG Money

The Campus newspaper is expected to receive a special $500 allocation and an $800 advance on next term's allocation from Student Government tonight.

The money will be granted to the paper, which as of last week was $700 in the red for the term, to keep it out of further debt.

The present debt is the effect of last term's $3,300 debt. This term's budget of $5,200 was used to pay off the old debt, leaving Campus only $1,900 for 19 issues. Advertising revenue has been insufficient to offset the lowered available funds.

With the additional funds, Campus, undergraduate newspaper of the College since 1907, will have $75 more per issue, after paying off its present debt.

Campus Editor-in-Chief, Joe Berger, has also assumed personal liability for all production costs in excess of $525 for the paper's sixth eight-page issue. Normally Campus is allowed five eight page issues, but Berger has promised to deliver $475 in ads and to pay the additional costs himself.

Observation Post started the term with a debt of approximately $1,200 and has paid off all but $150. An additional allocation of $500 has been turned down by Observation Post.

Coed New Rapist Of The Lock

By HY MARIOMPOLSKI

Gail Lishner had always been humble. She had been content to remain a simple student at the College, never aspired to fame, and never dreamed of princes and potentates. A plain, simple wholesome girl was Gail. And, then, without warning, she found herself launched on the road to glory with a Beatle by the mane—the proud possessor of a precious lock of Ringo Starr's mop.

The sudden blessing from Liverpool came as the result of winning a contest sponsored by WINS radio disk-jockey Murray ("The K") Kauffman.

"It all started as a joke," said Gail, referring to the circumstances surrounding her entering the contest. It seems that her younger sister, an eighth-grader at Hunter College High School and a rabid Beatle fan, entered the contest and stuffed the ballot box with as many postcards as she could. Gail jokingly asked to have her name put on one of them. Her sister obeyed.

Ecstatic Beatlemaniac Clutches Tuft of Ringo's Mop

Gail, a sophomore planning to major in History or Political Science, still has not gotten over her initial shock. "I still can't believe it. I didn't think I had a chance. I thought it was just another one of those ridiculous contests that nobody wins," the coed quipped wittingly.

Gail's sister has not yet forgiven her for snatching the prize, but is happy enough that the treasure will remain within the family. Her parents' reactions were mixed. Her father thought that the whole affair was "stupid and childish" while her mother thought it was quite funny.

The girls in Sis Spencer '67, Gail's house plan, are anxiously awaiting the arrival of the prize, as are all of her friends.

When asked what she will do with it, Gail replied, "I guess I'll take it and hide it away in my drawer. Or maybe I'll put it on exhibition and charge admission to see it."

Urgent...

Observation Post is suffering from a critical staff shortage. All students who are interested in any phase of journalism are urged to come to Room 336 Finley tomorrow at 12 Noon.

There are openings for news, features, and sports writers, and places to be filled on the business, art and photography staffs. Editors will be on hand to answer questions and your presence will obligate you in no way.

THANKS

To the Editor:

The first phase of the free tuition campaign has ended with the election of a Democratically controlled legislature. While our direct effort in specific assembly districts was not as successful as we had hoped, our campaign did make free tuition an election issue as well as a high priority item for early passage in the next session of the legislature. Today we are significantly closer to our goal of restoring mandated free tuition in New York State than before the election.

Before considering future plans, I feel that a great many students at the College deserve special thanks for their participation in the past campaign. Those students—who stood in the constant drizzle surrounding Stuyvesant Town or froze their hands at the Staten Island Ferry slip or slipped hundreds of leaflets under Bay Ridge doorsteps—deserve the most recognition for without their dedication there would have been no free tuition campaign.

There are some individuals though, whose exceptional contributions to this campaign cannot go unnoticed: Mr. John Stark of the Alumni Association and Mr. I. E. Levine of the Public Relations office for providing advice and assistance on finances and publicity; Vivian Brown and Rebel Owen for putting out a special free tuition issue of Observation Post, Paul Rudder, Robin Levine, Jim Baltaxe and especially Shelly Saches of IFC; Alan Fleischman of HPA; Paula Goldblum of Hillel; and Joel Cooper, Joel Glassman and Larry Steinhauer of Student Government.

While the future is uncertain, it is clear that we must continue to exert public pressure to insure the passage and signing into law of the free tuition mandate. This task cannot be done by a few students, but it must be done by all of us.

Sincerely,
John Zippert
SG President

LIBRARY NOISE

To the Editor:

We have been students here for almost 4 years now, and have not yet been able to do any work in the Social Sciences room in the library. The noise is unbearable and the atmosphere is entirely un conducive to serious scholarship. Those who feel they must make noise while studying ought to switch to the Humanities Room.

Draft Motion

Student Council will consider tonight a motion which would create a committee to study the draft. We urge its passage, for the draft is a subject of great concern to every male student.

We would like Council to go further, and pass a motion urging the elimination of the draft. It is in all probability unnecessary from a military point of view, and it is unfair in that numerous groups are exempted from various reasons. In fact, far less than 50% of those who are on the list are ever drafted. It has an unsettling effect on men starting careers. It is an anachronism the abolishment of which is long overdue.

four student members, and a faculty chairman who holds a tie-breaking vote, did specify that Brooklyn's student government could not participate in the City University Executive Committee's (CUNY) free tuition drive. Brooklyn is not a member of CUNY.

Ginsburg indicated that in future free-tuition fights, Brooklyn, while not actually joining the CUNY program, will try to unofficially co-ordinate its activities with theirs. He declared that the poll had proven that the student body could be aroused to support its student government.

Owes SG For Buttons

In another free-tuition snafu at Brooklyn, the Free-Tuition Committee has found itself with a bill from this college's Student Government for $50 worth of free tuition buttons, a bill which it cannot pay. The college's Administration has taken the position that the buttons should have been purchased through normal procedures: that is, bids taken from three different suppliers, with the low one getting the order.

 Noting that he expected between 1,200 and 1,300 students to go to the Concord, Schlesinger said that the $37 he is charging for the trip does not include transportation. He observed that while running the Concord trip last year he became aware of the fact that many students did not want to go up by bus. He expects that half of the students going to the Concord will reach there by private transportation. Schlesinger is charging five dollars for a bus round trip while the school includes it and requires it on the Kutsher's trip.

 Speaking on the Senior Class' plan to include educational programs on its trip, Schlesinger declared that the "mere fact that 1,000 students get together has an educational effect on them," but noted that the trip "traditionally did not encompass education."

Fifty Minutes In An Elevator; Or, Son Of Goldfish Gulper

The sight of college students stuffing themselves into telephone booths was once a common sight on the American campus. The fad never caught on at the College, but a new fad, elevator stuffing, may be in the making.

The only drawback, as 13 students of Professor David Gaines' European History class found out, is that sometimes you can't get out again.

The students, and two unwitting bystanders, found themselves trapped for fifty minutes Monday afternoon when a safety device stalled the overloaded elevator between the second and third floors of Cohen Library.

Fear soon turned to humor, despite the thickening air, as Professor Marvin Siegelman (Education) attempted to start the elevator again and the soft, lecturing voice of Professor Gaines floated through the twin steel doors.

The students were finally rescued at 1:55 PM when a repairman gave them instructions for forcing the doors open. The elevator was back in operation by 3 PM.

The Beavers took the lead for keeps at 16:20 of the final period. The Lavender's George Lang boot-ed a corner kick into the hands of NYU's goalie, Bert Feurisch, but Soas gave Feurisch a body check and knocked the ball from his grasp. Nigro then slammed the loose ball into the Violet's net.

O'Connell Sets Marks In CTC's And IC4A's; Booters End Season With Triumph Over NYU

Beavers Place 2nd In CTC's

By MARK BENDER

Everyone knows that Beavers are good swimmers, but they are not phenomenally fast on their feet. Now we see the advent of a new kind of Beaver at the College. One who runs five miles over hill-and-dale in twenty-five minutes, twenty-one-and-one-tenth seconds.

This amazing Beaver has two legs and is named Jim O'Connell, the College's new cross-country star.

Even more astounding than O'Connell's record breaking 25:21.1 for Van Cortlandt Park's Cemetery Hill course was the fact that he placed first in the Collegiate Track Conference Championships (CTC's) and the IC4A's, both of which were held over the weekend, with only one day to rest between them.

He was the first Lavender harrier since 1931 to win an IC4A gold medal.

The CTC's were held on Saturday, and the rest of the Beavers provided powerful support for O'Connell, pushing the Lavender all the way up to the second place slot for the entire competition. The only team to top the Beaver's 61 points was Central Connecticut with 46.

Lavender Shades Violet, 4-3

By JERRY HOENIG
Defeating NYU 4-3 last Saturday, the College's soccer team wound up its season undefeated in Metropolitan Intercollegiate Conference play. However, the Beavers had to settle for second place behind LIU in the Met Conference standings.

Center Forward Jim Martino put the Beavers in the scoring column at 5:32 of the first period, when he converted a pass from Inside Left, Joe Danek.

NYU tied the score at :42 of the second period as the result of an accident. The Lavender's Tony Negovetti was trying to clear the ball from the area of the Beaver's goal, but the ball bounced off the body of the Violet's Danny Sailer into the Beaver goal.

At 2:32 of the second quarter, NYU's Roberto Larrea, who had just received a pass from Joe Kozlavrowski, booted the ball solidly on the ground toward the Beaver's net. Lavender netminder Walter Kopczuk dove on top of the ball, and it seemed as if he stopped it. However, the ball had too much momentum, and it squirmed from beneath Kopczuk's body into the lefthand corner of the Beavers goal, giving the Violets a 2-1 lead.

The Beavers tied the game at 19:33 of the second quarter, and they made up for NYU's accidental goal. Danek booted the ball toward the Violet's goal. NYU's Eric Cameron tried to block the shot, but he knocked the ball into his own goal instead.

NYU took the lead again at 3:27 of the third quarter, when Damos Triatafallo successfully converted a pass from Larrea.

The fourth quarter saw the Lavender offense come alive with a great show of team work. At 4:11 of the fourth quarter, Martino passed to Mike Nigro. Nigro then passed to Cliff Soas who was in

Nimrods Set Back NCE & USMMA

Last Friday night, the College's rifle team won its seventy-ninth straight home match when they defeated both Newark College of Engineering and Kings Point in a triangular meet.

The scores were 1412 for the Beavers, 1397 for Kings Point and 1323 for NCE.

The high scorer in the meet was Phil Simon of Kings Point with a score of 285. One point behind, in second place, was Jerry Uretzky, the Lavender's captain.

The success of the Beavers was due to the fact that their team does not have to rely on any one player. There were nine Beavers competing, and there was only an eight point spread between their highest and lowest scores.

Although nine nimrods were competing for the Beavers, only the top five scores are counted in the team's total score. Rounding out the Lavender's top five were Jim Volinsky with 283, Fred Bondzei with 282, Matt Cordillo.

Bob Didner, Matt Horween, Bruce Gitlin and Stan Fogel, each scored 280 for the Beaver's.

Awards . . .

The Varsity Club will meet tomorrow at 12:30 PM in Room 115 Harris, to select the College's Athlete of the Month.

Met Title Is Won By LIU's Booters

The regular soccer season is over, league championships have been determined, and post-season tournament bids have been made.

Long Island University has captured first place in the Metropolitan Intercollegiate Soccer Conference. The Blackbird's clinched the top spot when Queens forfeited to them last Saturday. The game was played, and LIU won 9-1. However, Queens used two ineligible players, and the game went into the record books as a forfeit.

Although both the College's and LIU's soccer teams were undefeated in Met Conference play, the Blackbirds acquired more points than the Beavers. A team gets two points for a win and one point for a tie. LIU has a record of 6-0-1, while the Lavender has one of 5-0-2.
