CITY COLLEGE

Anti-Barry Rally Scheduled in City

A mass city-wide youth rally around the theme "To Defeat Goldwater, Vote Johnson" has been called by fifteen youth organizations throughout the city for October 25th.

The plans for the rally came out of a meeting of these organizations at District 65 last Saturday which was announced at the college's Committee for Coordinated Action (CCA) meeting last Thursday. The Committee is composed of CORE, NAACP, Students for a Democratic Society, the Student Peace Union, and the W. E. B. DuBois Club.

"Very few of us have any question about what a Goldwater victory would mean to the country," Charles Peshkin, Chairman of the DuBois Club, told the CCA Thursday meeting. He declared that labor, churches, schools and civic organizations must give Johnson their critical support to insure "not only beating Goldwater, but doing so by as large a landslide as can be managed."

Brockport & Buffalo Students To Wage Free Tuition Fight

Leaders of two State University Student Governments have endorsed plans for district level campaigns by their schools in support of free public higher education.

Student Government Executive Vice President Joel Cooper, who contacted student government presidents at Brockport State Teachers' College and the University of Buffalo during the weekend, said yesterday that the President of the Brockport Student-Faculty Association had said that he would try to get the Association to organize the campaign. If that was impossible because of faculty opposition, he would direct action through the college's Young Democratic Club, of which he is also president.

Bob Finkelberg, President of the student government at the University of Buffalo, also promised a strong free-tuition effort, despite the fact that tuition at the University went from $700 to $200 when it was absorbed by the State University system.

Publicity expenses for both schools' campaigns will be paid for by the College's SG. In addition,

Board Denies Right of College To Occupy Music and Art HS

Officials of the Board of Education have denied knowledge of an "understanding" which would turn the building presently occupied by the High School of Music and Art over to the College in 1968.

An official of the Board's Department of High School Planning and Research said yesterday that present plans called for use of the building to handle the overflow from other Manhattan high schools. He added that he had no knowledge of any plan to turn it over to the College.

A public relations official of the Board also said he had not heard of the possibility of any transfer of the building.

President Gallagher was reported last week by The Campus as saying that the building would definitely be transferred to the College when it was vacated.

Dr. Gallagher at that time refused to disclose with which officials of the Board of Education he had the "understanding." He reiterated that refusal yesterday.

Music and Art will vacate its present building when it moves to a new structure near Lincoln Center, which it will occupy with the High School of Performing Arts. The two schools are already linked administratively.

Police Arrest Students During Traffic Protest

By MARK BRODY

Three students from the College were taken into custody and issued summonses Friday morning for blocking Amsterdam Avenue while participating in a demonstration for the placement of two school crossing guards around P.S. 161 (133rd Street and Amsterdam Avenue).

The demonstration was supported by Harlem parents and the College's Committee for Coordinated Action.

About seventy College students had joined with 100 parents to block off Amsterdam Ave. for more than thirty minutes the previous afternoon. There were no arrests at that time.

On Friday morning, however, almost immediately after forty-five students and seventeen parents again attempted to block off the street, the arrests occurred. The students, Steve Brown, Ellen Zuckenman and Joe Popper, contended that they were arrested before they had time to move when ordered to do so by the police.

They were charged yesterday in Criminal Court with obstruction of vehicular traffic, obstruction of pedestrian traffic and refusing to obey an officer. The charges carry a maximum penalty of six months in jail and/or $500 fine for each offense, according to an informed source. The trial date was set for November 13th.

One parent, Mrs. Paula Herz, whose six-year-old son Richard attends P.S. 161, was taken with her youngest child in a stroller to a patrol car after being asked to move out of the street five or six times and refusing. She was subsequently released.

Defense Education Act Passed; Expands Student Aid Program

WASHINGTON (CPS) Oct. 2 — A three-year extension and expansion of the National Defense Education Act (NDEA), which was approved by a House-Senate Conference recently, was approved by the Senate today.

The compromise NDEA bill, which includes an extension of the impacted areas public school aid program, is closer to the broader Senate bill than to the House bill.

House Republicans, objecting to the enlarged scope of the NDEA, have indicated that they will try to defeat the bill on the floor. Nonetheless, the popularity of the impacted area program, which pours federal funds into over 4,000 school districts which have large numbers of federal employees, is expected to pull the NDEA measure through with it.

The committee resolved differences in the length of the extension, the amounts authorized for student loans, increases in the number of graduate fellowships, and the expansion of categories eligible for teacher institutes and for the acquisition of equipment.

The conference committee's bill increases the yearly limit on loans to graduate and professional students from $1,000 to $2,500. It doubles the total a student may borrow in his undergraduate and graduate years from $5,000 to $10,000.

Public Meetings Urged For BHE

A demand that Board of Higher Education (BHE) meetings be opened to the public was made last week by City Council Minority Leader Angelo J. Arculeo (Rep., Bklyn.).

Mr. Arculeo denounced past secrecy of the BHE's hearings, which he said was contrary to the public interest and had led to substantial public criticism.

The minority leader will introduce a resolution at the next regular meeting of the City Council asking that BHE meetings be held in public.

Dr. Gustave Rosenberg, the Chairman of the BHE, could not be reached for comment.

"May I respectfully urge that the Board of Higher Education hold open meetings beginning with the meeting scheduled for tomorrow, Sept. 30. There has been increasing criticism about the secrecy which attends the sessions of the board. In keeping with the public's right to know, I feel it would serve the public interest as well as that of the Board for it to conduct future hearings to which the public press will have free access as to attendance and information."

The board's Sept. 30 meeting, was closed to the public, as usual.

Feingold Hits 'Dirty Campaign'; Takes No Comfort In The Polls

Speaking on the nature of the Goldwater candidacy, Professor Stanley Feingold said Thursday that this "will be, as it has been, one of the dirtiest campaigns in history."

Dr. Feingold declared that it is both valid and invaluable to examine presidential campaigns. First examining the candidates' tactics he noted that in most elections the incumbent usually incurs the wrath of the challenger. When public opinion polls are in favor of a candidate, he added, the candidate should mention the opposition as little as possible. Noting that this has not been the case this year, Feingold said that historical analysis of this election will revolve about Goldwater.

Prof. Feingold explained that both the major parties are cross-sectional and represent a broad spectrum of opinion. At the Democratic and Republican parties, he continued, have clusters of members holding views ranging from the far left to the right. The speaker noted, however, that many Americans who criticize the two party system because of the similarity of parties, would in this election, be satisfied by the clear choice presented by the major candidates.

Discussing Senator Goldwater and his candidacy, Prof. Feingold noted that racism and racial bigotry are issues that will raise support for Goldwater, although ten or twelve of his ancestors were members of a religious minority. He noted that in the question of crime in the streets, on which Goldwater has said he would act, there can be no possible relationship between the question and Federal power.

Prof. Feingold said that "A great many constitutional conservatives will vote for Johnson."

Goldwater . . .

Federal aid to education, Peshkin maintained that "we will all be paying tuition in the near future" if the Arizonan were elected President. Minorities certainly would "never see the inside of City College," he added.

Student Government President John Zippert vowed before the meeting to make the anti-tuition struggle not a "movement of the beatniks" from New York City, as Republican state representatives have branded it, but a "movement of the students and people of the state."

Free tuition was compared to motherhood by Zippert because

"hardly anyone opposes it." But the problem is that the politicians are "not voting with their conscience, but by word from above" on tuition, he said. We must convince people to "vote our way to the last lever," he concluded, by meeting and talking to them on weekdays as well as weekends.

Alliance for Victory

Last spring over 500 students marched into Harlem to aid a group of parents in their demand for a traffic light at a busy public school intersection. The people of the community together with the students were able to win this light.

Honoring the vow which was made at that time to continue their support for the Harlem community, students returned Friday to support the parents of P.S. 161 in their fight for crossing guards to protect their children. Again a victory was achieved.

Many of these parents were in court yesterday to lend their support to the three students who were arrested when demonstrating along side of them.

This alliance has twice accomplished what neither group could do alone. A mutual respect and concern between the student and the community is also beginning to develop.

Any attempt to destroy this, including arrests, should be vigorously fought against. We trust that students will in the future respond in even greater numbers to the needs of the community they are a part of five days a week.

Evil Prince Strikes Museum

By STEVE ABEL

Once upon a time the College had a curator to care for the museum that is the inside of Shepard Hall. But one day an evil prince struck this salary line from the College's budget.

And so now, with occasional exception, any sort of art work is left to its own means.

The exception this year is the possibility of the professional restoration of the mural inside Room 115 Shepard. Behind the dust and around the cracks is a portrait of the original 23rd Street building in the 19th Century.

According to Prof. Albert D'Andrea (Chmn., Art) the problem is that no regular budget is allocated for the maintenance of art works. Without such an allocation each individual job must be approved at many sources.

The other exception this year is the painting of the Great Hall scheduled for February. This will also involve a general refinishing of the woodwork. Neither job has been done since 1946 according to Mr. Kenneth Fleming, the Superintendent of Building and Grounds.

These, however, are the exceptions.

The main corridor of Shepard Hall was intended to be the Hall of Patriots. It might instead be called the Hall of Unlabeled Status. And Dusty Statues. And Hidden Statues. And Scratched Statues.

It may also seem incongruous that a statue of George Washington dominates Lincoln Corridor. This is a result of moving the Borglum Lincoln outside when the Washington Statue was received from the Class of 1886.

Moving back to the murals of the museum-like Shepard of which there are three more to match the one which is getting cleaned.

The epic in Great Hall is in fairly decent condition except for the inscription which can't be read.

The mural over Room 100, formerly the President's office, is water-streaked, stained, and so heavily encrusted with dirt that portions are almost invisible.

In certain spots the mural over the main entrance to Shepard is also invisible. But here it is because paint has chipped off in certain spots, and is cracked in others.

There are other works inside Shepard such as the cherubs on the columns in Lincoln Corridor (Condition - good) and the Great Hall windows (three broken) but their health is little sturdier than the rest.

Ask SG Condemn Red Anti-Semitism

SG will be asked to condemn Soviet persecution of Jews at tomorrow's Council meeting. The motion, sponsored by Council member Rubin Margules, will also ask Council to co-sponsor with Hillel a meeting, scheduled for November 12, to hear a speaker on the subject.

Also coming out of the Community Affairs Committee will be a plan for the distribution of questionnaires in a residential area near the College slated for urban renewal. The residents in the area, between 131st Street and 133rd Street and Convent and Amsterdam Avenues, would be questioned on their attitudes toward the new housing and whether they would be qualified to live there.

The other item on SC's agenda, besides the Treasurer's report, will be reports on the National Student Association by the College's delegates there.

Booters Beat Brooklyn Kingsmen - Martino's Two Goals Pace Offense

By JERRY HOENIG

The cheer of Allagaroo was heard five times at Brooklyn College Saturday, once after each of the College's soccer team's goals, as the Beavers were handing the Kingsmen a 5-3 defeat in the season's opener. A small but boisterous band of Lavender rooters saw the Beavers completely outclass their Brooklyn rivals. The game was not even as close as the 5-3 score indicates. At least seventy-five per cent of the game was played in Brooklyn's defensive zone, and the Lavender had a 5-1 edge with less than three minutes to go in the game.

Coach Harry Karlin
Optimistic

The Beavers took the lead with less than 7 minutes to go in the first period when Jim Martino scored his first of two goals by slamming a line drive into the Brooklyn net. Although the goal was almost the same exact shot Martino made against the Kingsmen two years ago, there was one important difference. Two years ago the booters remained scoreless after his goal, but on Saturday his goal seemed to be the spark which ignited the Lavender.

Brent Thurston-Rogers scored the second Beaver goal at 14:45 of the second quarter, and ten seconds later at 14:55 he passed to Joe Danek who knocked in the third Lavender goal.

Martino scored his second goal with 3:46 gone in the third period, after receiving a pass from Thurston-Rogers, to put the booters out in front 4-0.

The Kingsmen made the score 4-1 minutes later, when Alex Jombach booted a line drive over the leaping hands of the All-America Beaver goalie, Walter Kopczuk.

Demitrious Carmecolias scored the final Lavender goal, unassisted, at 18:07 of the fourth quarter.

Brooklyn then scored two quick goals to make the score 5-3. Kingsman Joel Vermes booted his goal over and out of the reach of Kopczuk at 19:26 of the final quarter.

Beaver coach Harry Karlin then replaced Kopczuk with Mike Hipsher to give him some experience while there was no real threat to the Lavender lead. Jombach then booted the ball by Hipsher at 19:50 for the final goal of the game.

Walter Kopczuk

Brooklyn did not lose because of bad playing on their behalf, but because of the excellent playing of the Beavers. The Kingsmen had scored shutout victories in their two pre-season games against Harpur and Albany State.

The Lavender played beautifully as a team. Their passing seemed to be almost flawless, and the way they maneuvered the ball around the Kingsmen the Beavers looked like the Harlem Globetrotters of soccer.

As for the defense, its effectiveness can be shown by the fact that the Kingsmen took only eighteen shots at the Lavender goal, while the Beavers made twenty-eight attempts at Brooklyn's net.

Kopczuk played his usual great game, making ten saves, tending the Beaver goal. However, most of the time he seemed lonely being the only one at his end of the field.

Harriers Top Adelphi 23-36; O'Connell Captures First Place

By KENNETH GELLER

Saturday was a perfect day for running — clear, crisp, and cool — and the College's cross-country team made the most of it by defeating Adelphi 23-36 on Van Cortlandt Park's five mile course.

Jim O'Connell, who won the annual 16½ mile AAU Milk Run in 1961 and 1963, took first. He was clocked in 27:46, only twenty-seven seconds off Mike Didyk's school record for the five mile run. Didyk, who was on hand along with Lenny Zane to observe the meet, said that he expected O'Connell to break his record once the cross-country season gets into full swing. O'Connell, who lead all the way, ran the first three miles in 16:36. Although Adelphi's Al Vandermaas captured second place in 28:29,

Although the College's Freshman cross country team lost to its Adelphi counterpart 26-31, Coach Francisco Castro was pleased with the fine showing of Al Hansen. Hansen ran the three mile course in 17:53. The College's record for freshmen is 17:11.

Beaver Twin-Bill Washed Out; Batmen Will Face St. John's

The Beaver diamondmen were to face the Iona nine on Saturday, but their shiny hopes were covered with mud when the doubleheader was scratched due to a wet playing field.

Disappointed at losing another opportunity for a win, Beaver Coach Sol Mishkin immediately turned his thoughts to next Saturday, when his squad might get a chance to practice its teamwork. This time the Lavender is scheduled to play the St. John's Redmen, long known for their baseball prowess. It was only last fall that the Redmen swiped a pair from the Beavers at their Jamaica field.

This year, however, the Redmen won't find the going nearly as easy. Most of the Lavender squad last fall was made up of non-regulars who did not play in the spring term. This year, the Beavers are all first stringers, and they'll be playing a better brand of baseball than they did last year.

Coach Francisco Castro
Pleased by Al Hansen

Lavender runners Abe Assa, a transfer student from Bronx Community, and Marcel Sierra won third and fourth places with times of 29:19 and 29:36, respectively. Sophomores Constantine Marinos and Peter Ziamba tied for seventh place with 31:43.

Coach Sol Mishkin

St. Johns is the Metropolitan Intercollegiate Baseball champions.
