SG Moves To Establish Substitute For Science Sequence Requirement

A resolution authorizing the method of a non-credit bearing "seminar" in the "Philosophy and Methodology of Science," was passed last night by Council in its last meeting of the Fall term.

The resolution, which is effective until 1965, provides for a joint session of Student Council Executive Committee to act as "it deems necessary" on the establishment of a non-credit bearing "seminar" in the "Philosophy and Methodology of Science," was passed last night by Council in its last meeting of the Fall term. The resolution, which is effective until 1965, allows the joint session to request lower-class Liberal Arts students not to register for science sequence courses for the next semester. If the seminar is established, efforts are authorized to have it accredited, with the credit applicable to Liberal Arts students' science requirement.

The move is the result of an SG resolution in December asking the Faculty Committee on Curriculum and Teaching to re-establish the Liberal Arts science requirement with such a course. The probability of implementation hinges on further meetings of the Faculty Committee. Four student members were elected to the Student-Faculty Committee on the School of Liberal Arts and Business. The elected members are President John Zipper, Council Chairman of the Committee with faculty representatives.

Bruce Fried
Argued Against Appropriations

For an SG boat ride and one SG dance were passed. Fried's speech, which also included arguments for the SG Social Functions Agency, declared that the evening was being pushed by Associate Director of the Finley Center Jerrold Hirsch and said that "he wouldn't lift a finger for him."

Following four hours of debate amid torturous parliamentary maneuvers, the Campus was allowed to remain at City Wide Newspapers.

Jokes, Want Ads

Aid Kids' Reading

By NANCY FIELDS

Joe: Why did the old man throw the clock out the window?

John: I don't know. Why?

Joe: He wanted to see time fly.

As corny as this joke may sound, it is among the reading material that will be used by a group of students from the College who are taking part in Student Government's Tutorial Program for elementary and junior high schools.

Professor Florence Roswell (Education), in addressing a small school assembly, mentioned that the reading material which interests the pupil most is material which interests the pupil most. She said that the pupils were being chosen by a group of volunteers from the College who were working with the pupils from the primary and junior high schools.

Berkeley FSM Demonstration

Administration Shakeup

But as a result of Saturday's meeting of the Senate and the FSM steering committee, some university administrative leaders were preparing for what they expected might be a "massive violation of new rules" to be instated on campus.

Student spokesmen at a rally on Sunday told about 3,000 listeners that they awaited a firm statement of rules on political activity before making a decision on further demonstrations.

Nine Clubs To Explain Beliefs

In Political Forum Here Today

By FRED ARIAS

Nine of the College's politically active groups will explain their beliefs in a Student Political Forum here today. The President of the Young Democrats Club, Alan Pomerantz, said that his club was sponsoring the forum to enable all groups with political affiliations to express their views to the students.

Pomerantz said that each of the clubs will have one representative in the forum. The nine speakers will form a panel and each will have five minutes for an explanation. Each speaker will question each other. The audience will ask questions also.

Pomerantz said that any conclusions drawn from the discussion would be made by each individual. The Young Democrats would not get any special privileges for sponsoring the forum.

Pomerantz said that if the forum was successful the Young Democrats would sponsor a similar forum next term.

OP Candidates... Uniform Regulations For Clubs

Requested In CUNY Resolution

By GREGG OWEN

A resolution containing provisions that would prevent interference by City University officials in student speakers and programs will be considered by the Executive Committee of Student Government of the City University of New York (CUNY) at its next meeting.

The resolution, which includes sections on attorney approval, the "role of the faculty adviser," publicity, speakers and programs, and records, proposes a uniform code for the regulation of clubs.

The "role of the faculty adviser" section recommends that each organization have an advisor, and making provision for him in the constitution, along with provision for the term of office, the election, and the responsibilities of the advisor.

The section also stipulates that if "a group finds it difficult..." to secure an advisor, it may function without one.

The speakers and programs section specifies that the college's right to "restrict the choice of speaker or the content of his speech" remain intact, as does the constitution, "as to the legibility of the speaker and the content of his speech with the Courts." It would also allow organizations to engage in activity subject only to "the By-Laws of the Board of Higher Education..." and the laws of the state and federal governments.

The "records" section would require an organization to submit the names of its officers to the college, and would have the college release those names to non-college persons only after consulting the students involved.

The resolution, if passed by the Executive Committee, would be sent to the student member governing board of the college, and would have the college release those names to non-college persons only after consulting the students involved.

Waldman’s IFC

By VIVIAN BROWN

"'Frail' is a childish expression that we don’t like," Jack Waldman, the newly elected Inter-fraternity Council (IFC) President patiently explained.

"The word ‘fraternity’ means more. 'Fraternity' means a lot, particularly to this senior majoring in political science, a member of Tau Kappa Epsilon (TKE), which is also served as IFC Vice President, Athletic Committee Chairman, and member of the Film Society, Films, and Special Affairs Committee. "Because this is a large school," he noted, "people band together so they don’t get lost. They consider their fraternity precious because of what they put into it and what they get out of it."

IFC, which is composed of elected representatives of each of the College’s thirty-one fraternities and sororities (1 out of every 7 students at the College belongs to a fraternity or sorority), noted Waldman is, according to the new President, "just like any particular fraternity — its purpose is to make friends."

Waldman first started working with the body, Waldman recalls, "I found people with different interests in my major. At the time, the Interfraternity Council was up and running, and I was asked to make friends."

In an attempt to alleviate this situation he desires to establish the body, he noted Waldman. "The better communication is always needed between IFC, the Department of Student Life, and the Academic Advising, noted Waldman."

"As you can see, this is the purpose of what they put into it and what they get out of it," Waldman remarked.

The Beavers put on quite a performance last night as the College's basketball team beat the Kingsmen 59-58.

After the final buzzer the crowd was under the wrong impression that the Kingsmen had won it 58-59. Only when the scorekeeper realized that he made a gross error in failing to credit Beaver Mike Pearl with a jump shot with literally no time left to play, did the truth come out — and Happy New Year — the Lavender came from fourteen points behind with 3:35 left to play.

The second half started briskly for Kingsmen who put the Lavender down by eight points with 10:56 left to go in the game. At 5:43:18; the Kingsmen led 60-43. The game continued with the Brooklynites holding their lead until there were about six minutes left to play.

With 3:37 left to play, Ray Coon hit a jump shot bringing the score 54-42. Now the Lavender was down twelve big points. Then Kingsman Barry Simms followed the shot and converted both his shots up to 28-27 with Brooklyn holding the edge.

The third quarter saw the score staying level and down to 56-59. Then the Beavers swung into action. Kenny Trelz sunk a jump shot with 2:00 left to make the score 56-44. A few seconds later Ray Camisa followed suit to bring the score to 56-46. Then, with 1:32 left, Kingsman Nick Bocchisankna fouled. He converted one shot to make the score 57-54.

Alan Zelkerman Scored 17 Points

With 31 seconds to play, Mike Pearl put a jump shot through the hoop to make the score 59-57. The Kingsmen gained another point on a foul shot at the 20 second mark. Then, with only 9.5 seconds left, Barry Eisenman sank a field goal to put the tally at 59-57 in favor of the Brooklynites. In the last scramble, Kenny Trelz stole the ball and passed it to Mike Pearl, who turned and shot at the basket. The ball rolled around the hoop as the buzzed sounded and then dropped through for the two points that won it for the Lavender.
