GRAND BALLROOM, April 13—Hundreds of students and members of the faculty began an all night teach-in to discuss the issues and new points on the War in Vietnam at 10 PM in the Grand Ballroom. Mr. Natov, who has taught at the College for five years, said that he feels the evening started by pointing out that "this is a classroom, not a museum, and education is a service to oneself to Wagner or Watt." He welcomed the opportunity being given to "questions and formulations of opinions."

President Gallagher then talked about his trip to the Far East in 1956, where he found Vietnam to be "the most underdeveloped of the countries we are aware of." He gave the example of a very interesting thing that he learned from the above. He claimed that he has moved to a point of view in public, and "they don't know in the countries we oppose in Vietnam." The Viet Cong would not permit tonight's meeting, he asserted. "Our only hope is that we should have an exchange of opinion from Mr. Kieran O'Doherty, a conservative, to the Marxist scholar Dr. Herbert Apthecher. Additional faculty participation from the College include Professors Maurice Cohen (Philosophy) and Conrad Schirokauer (History). Pete Seeger was also expected to appear. The teach-in is being sponsored by Young Democrats and the W.E.B. DuBois Club.

The purpose of the meeting, according to Matty Berlinerbach, a member of the DuBois Club, is to demonstrate to students at the College about the war in Vietnam. The teach-in is being held through the night to avoid interfering with day or evening classes.

The First of Two Parts
Camuses all over the country have felt the impact of events at Berkeley this spring. With an eye toward their colleagues on the West Coast, students, faculty, and administrators have undertaken a wide range of protest actions in times of success, sometimes without—perhaps with no hope of overturning, soothing, or re-evaluating relations and policies on their campuses.

Recent student protests at Yale, St. John's, Brooklyn, and Kansas, coinciding with the submission and withdrawal of resignation of the University of California's President Clark Kerr and Berkeley's Chancellor Martin Meyerson, are but the better known, more publicized examples of the campus reaction to Berkeley.

There have also been student protests at New Mexico State, University of Florida, State University, Wake Forest College, Trinity College and several Oregon campuses. New Mexico State's student protest came about a month ago, was directed against some dormitory regulations, and stemmed largely from a misunderstanding between administration and students. Florida State's protest came during student demonstrations at Berkeley and was aimed at alumni action against participants in a "vulgar" homecoming review. In Oregon, the issue was modern poetry. At Wake Forest it was a question of allowing non-Baptists on the Board of Trustees; and at Trinity, alcohol regulations sparked the students.

In addition, student groups have been formed recently at the Universities of Illinois and Michigan State University, Florida State University, Wake Forest College, Trinity College and several Oregon campuses. The Chancellor at Riverside has appointed a Student Committee on Undergraduate Education to recommend ways in which undergraduate programs may be enriched. He has also established a weekly office hour when any student may come to talk to him without an appointment and has written ten weekly columns for the student newspaper, The Highlander.

The statement declared that the SFM Steering Committee is working hard to build a broader support of the movement and changes that Dr. Gideonse undertakes the intelligence of the movement by referring to them as "innocents" who are unaware of the "Communist transmission belt" and them.

The SFM maintains that this is not an "outside attack" as Gideonse referred to it, but an "inside revolt" against oppressive administrative policies.

Last week, this college's Student Government endorsed its support of the movement for academic and political freedom at Brooklyn College. The resolution passed also asked President Gideonse to either substantiate or retract his charges that recent student demonstrations are Communist inspired.

Correction . . .
April 8th's issue of Observation Post incorrectly stated that Professor Dante A. Puzzo (History) and Abraham Edel (Philosophy) would speak at this morning's teach-in. Observation Post regrets the error.
Truth Or Consequences

Two weeks ago this day, Harry Gideonse, President of Brooklyn College, charged that the leadership of a student group on his campus was Communist, or under Communist influence. From that day he was pressed for proof, he was implored to provide evidence of this cancer in his student body. He finally set last Friday as the day the documentation would be presented.

After smearing the leadership of the Student Protest Movement as Communist, after admitting he had not the slightest idea of who the leadership was, after Brooklyn's body. He finally set last Friday as the day the documentation would be presented.

We are sorry that limitations of space do not allow us to publish the entire statement, because the contempt President Gideonse has for his students’ maturity and intelligence shames like a bright light through his murky logic and foggy arguments.

Mr. Gideonse has shown utter irresponsibility in his desparate campaign against the students of Brooklyn College. Whenever and wherever he speaks, a black, oily smoke of smears and innuendo settles on his enemies. We think that it is past time that he presented some evidence, some real evidence, of Communist involvement. His only documentation so far consists of quoting the Journal American and the NYPD's tactics as being manipulated by outside Communists, being manipulated by outside Communists.

There are two reasonable conclusions that can be drawn:

1) President Gideonse, on the word of off-campus sources or some passing angel, has been convinced that Communists are threatening his thirty year dictatorship over Brooklyn College.

2) President Gideonse knows that Communists are not involved, but is deliberately trying to smear the Student Protest Movement to maintain his thirty year dictatorship over Brooklyn College.

If the first conclusion is the correct one, President Gideonse should be told that his word is worth nothing, and repeatedly, by students, faculty and administrators of the City University, that the time for an end to paternalistic repression at Brooklyn College has come and that his charges are unwarranted and should be retracted and apologized for immediately.

If the second conclusion is the correct one, then the Board of Higher Education should ask for Mr. Gideonse's immediate resignation.

A note to Student Government: Last week you approved a resolution which asked President Gideonse to either substantiate his charges, or retract them. He has done neither.

The time for some sort of positive action has come. As a start, we would suggest some financial support for the SFA, or Brooklyn's Executive Council; an Academic Freedom rally at this College, in support of Brooklyn's students; or perhaps even the organization of a City University rally at or near Brooklyn College.

In Vietnam today we face the grave possibility of a major war. This could be the result of our present pursuance of a basically unsound policy.

"Perhaps a new start can be made from an untried base — that Americans, Vietnamese, Chinese and Russians are all sensible human beings who are responsible people on both sides of the Asian continent. We would like to consider it."

"There may still be a choice: talk or fight. If everybody waits too long, the chance to talk will be gone."

We believe that a peaceful settlement in Southeast Asia is possible.

Baseballers To Play NYU Today; Beavers Look For Third Straight

By KEN GELLER

This afternoon when the College's baseball team meets NYU at the Violet's Ohio Field at three o'clock, the Beavers will be looking for their third straight win. Roland Meyreles has been picked by Coach Sol Mishkin to pitch today. In Meyreles' last outing, he pitched the ninth inning in the 7-6 Beaver victory over the Finley Center courts, having beaten Manhattan.

A great source of happiness for Mishkin has been the steady performance of Beaver shortstop Barry Mandel. Mandel, only a sophomore, has exhibited all of the finest fielding seen in the Met Conference in recent years, and has many observers believing he is the finest fielder in the league. In addition to making spectacular fielding plays, he has been involved in many key double plays which have taken Beaver pitchers out of many ticklish situations.

Last year, the Beavers split a doubleheader with NYU, bowing 5-2 after winning 13-2. A win over the Violets is essential if the Diamondmen are to keep their hopes of a Met Championship alive.

LACROSSE

This afternoon the College's Lacrosse team will travel up to West Point to face the Army 'T' team. Game time is four o'clock.

The Beavers will be looking for their first win of the season. Their record is now 0-2-1.

This afternoon, when the College's track team meets Adelphi in Lewisohn Stadium at three o'clock, the Beavers will be looking for their first victory of the season. The Lavender lost their first two meets of the season to Montclair and Fairleigh Dickinson.

WE BELIEVE...

In Vietnam today we face the grave possibility of a major war. This could be the result of our present pursuance of a basically unsound policy.

"Perhaps a new start can be made from an untried base - that Americans, Vietnamese, Chinese and Russians are all sensible human beings who are ready for peace in Southeast Asia, or at least willing to consider it."

(New York Times, Editorial, Feb. 9, 1965)

"There may still be a choice: talk or fight. If everybody waits too long, the chance will be gone."

We believe that a peaceful settlement in Southeast Asia is possible. What is urgently necessary now is the cessation of the present escalation of the war, and a re-evaluation of the situation.

We strongly urge that negotiations be sought sincerely and entered into immediately.

WE THEREFORE SUPPORT THE MARCH ON WASHINGTON TO END THE WAR IN VIETNAM
