Officials Deny Planning Dog Patrols; Paper Blasts ‘Rhodesia Of Harlem’

By RONA SCHWAB

"Is City College Going to Use Dogs Against Harlemites?" was the banner headline yesterday's "Amsterdam News." The story, in reaction to recent articles in the "New York Times" and "The Campus" reported that the College was considering using trained police patrol dogs or hiring trucks to transport students to and from the subways because of a reported increase in the neighborhood crime rate.

A student was robbed of her purse at 4:45 PM but night at 130th St. and Convent Ave. The girl, who asked not to be identified, reported that three teenagers approached her, grabbed her pocketbook containing $10, a watch, and all her notes for a term paper, and ran into an alley. A motorist patrolling from the 30th Precinct called by the College to report the robbery, blamed the Amsterdam News article for arousing the trouble.

"We don't want Carl in the room helping us count," said Marsha Simon, secretary of the Election Agency. She said that Weitzman was head of Campus First party and added "We feel that there are leaks and we can't control them. Therefore, it would be detrimental to our election in this city election, but they may be in the spring election and then we will pull out," said Miss Simon that she hoped SG would pass a by-law which would allow only "unbiased" executives to participate. She promised that Gamma Sigma Sigma would not participate.

Thomas: War In Vietnam Immoral

By P. WARFIELD

Norman Thomas, six-time presidential candidate of the Socialist Party, denounced the war in Vietnam as "morally wrong" and "politically stupid," yesterday and said that the future of the younger generation lies in the reasonable end of the war.

Speaking before an audience of 250 in the Grand Ballroom, Thomas said that some of the very people who condemned the American people for their silence under Hitler now want "quiet American-dissent." It is not only a right, but a duty to speak out, he added.

Contain Communism

Talking on "A Foreign Policy for Peace," Thomas asserted that American foreign policy should seek to contain communism, but this is subordinate to keeping the peace. This could not be done unless "you meet the revolution of rising expectations," he said. "You cannot contain communism for very long simply by violence.

Thomas emphasized what he believed to be the futility of violence. The U.S. is fighting a "very cruel war," he said, whose real object is to prevent by the number of dead. I am sick of waking up in the morning and hearing (usually figured) on the radio as if I was listening to a basketball score," he said.

China Discussed

Even if the U.S. did win, he said, "will China stay out forever?" He asserted that the war is arousing the hatred of China for a long time to come, and is without support in the rest of the world.

President Johnson's appeals for "unconditional negotiations," Thomas considered insincere. "The bombing, bombing, bombing," of North Vietnam and the installation of supposedly permanent weapons, as examples, said Thomas, that the United States is not sincere. It is "terrible nonsense," to say we're doing all we can, he added.

To Further World Peace

Thomas called for disarmament under international control, a supplemented United Nations to resolve world problems by law, not war — a cooperative attack on world poverty including programs of birth control, trade, development, and an end to the "nonse" of military aid.

As long as the Vietnam war continues, the president cannot prevent a tragic or impossible to achieve these "requisites" for peace.

Thomas called for a cease fire, an end to bombings, and an agreement leading to the ultimate withdrawal of American troops. This would give the world new confidence in us, he said.

Rights Fund Collection to Start

A civil rights campaign is currently being waged on Three Fronts here at the College.

The Student Council on Human Rights will sponsor the National Student Association's (NSA) annual Fast for Freedom today, between 11 AM and 2 PM. A booth will be set up outside the Finley Snack Bar to collect money students would ordinarily spend on lunch.

Last year over 50,000 NSA member schools participated in the program, raising $38,000. The contributions are used for buying food for the Washington, Sunflower, and Bolivar counties of Mississippi. The fund also helps provide for self-sufficient co-operatives organized by Negroes who refuse to conform to segregationist laws, and also met 56 agricultural workers in Shaw, Mississippi, who have been on strike for nearly a year. The workers belong to the Mississippi Freedom Labor Union, an affiliate of the Students for a Democratic Society.

Candidates' test will be given at 6 PM on Tuesday, December 21. Style books are available in the OP office.
For A New Beginning

The events of the last week can either constitute a black page in the College's history of relations with the Harlem community, or they can serve as an impetus for a giant step forward.

While it is undeniable that there are incidents of crime of which students from the College are victims (a situation which exists in virtually all areas of the city after dark), the attitude taken toward these conditions by many members of the College community has been deplorable and unfortunate. Rather than discuss this problem with leaders of the neighborhood, an approach which might lead to an equitable and acceptable solution, the College, and especially the Campus Affairs Vice President of Student Government, have recently looked to methods which would be little and affront those people whose help we must seek if we are ever to resolve the problem.

That the use of police dogs should even be mentioned in this discussion is nauseating. The reaction of the "Amsterdam News" when taken in this context is readily understandable. The logical outcome of such a negative attitude on the part of the College is not only the creation of a tremendous student fear of Harlem, but a widening of the gulf which now separates the College from its environment and fosters hostility of the community towards the College.

Observation Post hopes that the lines of communication which have been used in the past to solve mutual problems can be reopened to deal not only with those immediate problems which directly threaten the College, but to work towards an end to the inferior education, joblessness and poor housing which are at the root of them. It is only in this manner that a mutual friendship and respect can be built up between the College and the people in the community which surrounds it.

CONGRATULATIONS
To the Graduates:
On the occasion of the 1965 Commencement gala, Observation Post and the Campus Affairs Vice President of Student Government, have recently looked to methods which would be little and affront those people whose help we must seek if we are ever to resolve the problem.

Dr. Martha Farmer, Evening Session Dean of Students, reported that the possibility of hiring private buses had once been looked into, but it was found impossible to get the needed franchise from the city. A scheduled of buses running in the area was requested of the Transit Authority, but was never received.

dem Democratic Party.
They are asking for a raise from their previous wages of $2.50 or $3.00 per 10 hour day to $2.85 per hour. The strikers, aided by the landowners, have been living in tent cities, and sell leather goods to support themselves. They expect to gain more support if they are able to submit through the winter.

Their primary objective is to achieve economic independence, a prerequisite for any type of social action in the South today.

The Freedom Christmas program, a voter registration campaign also sponsored by NSA, will have its booth in the same place on December 21 and 22. Students are being asked to contribute $1 each to subsidize volunteers' bus fares. Costs may run anywhere from as high as $75 for a bus trip to Louisiana to as low as $20 for a ride to Virginia.

Mermen Set to Dunk Adelphi For Fourth Straight Triumph

By PAUL SMOLARCIK

If the Viet Cong think they have something going, they ought to see the New Wave currently being stirred up by the College's swimming team. The mermen, who have, due to greater potential, already snatched up more victories this year than all of last year, go for four in a row against Adelphi University at the Panthers' Garden City, L. I., pool.

The Beavers figure to repeat last year's 53-41 victory, so up their record for the season to 4-0, Columbia is high at Wingate pool, while pessimism reigns at Hofstra.

One of the major reasons for Beaver optimism is that the Lavender swimmers just can't stop breaking records. One of the chief exponents of the adage "records are made to be broken" is Junior Larry Levy, who has already broken college marks in the one and two hundred yard freestyle events.

Meanwhile, at Garden City, Panthers' swimmers are keeping up their winning pattern, completing a 2-1 mark. But according to John Loonan, Director of Athletic Publicity at Adelphi, Panther times have not kept pace with the Beaver marks.

Their one hundred yard freestyle mark, for example, is a full four seconds higher than the Beavers', and, according to Loonan, many of the other Panther times are "just not in the same league" as the Lavenders'.

However, Loonan expresses the philosophy that psychology is a big part of a swimming match. "It's a matter of competition," he opines. In other words, swimmers will be pushed to better marks by the toughness of the competition facing them. Cited was diver Dick Gay's sources, which shot all the way up to 81 from a low of 112 as the Panthers' competition grew tougher.

Summing up, Loonan expressed the opinion that Beaver will certainly give us quite a problem. If everything goes as it should, the Lavender certainly will give the Panthers more than just a problem: they'll leave them high and wet.

Fencers Hope To Cage Lions In Match Tonight At Columbia

By O. O. HERTZBERG

The College's fencing team faces its toughest match of the young season Friday night as the parries meet Columbia in the Lions' University Hall. The Lavender hopes to raise last season's key matches in the coming weeks are against N.Y.U., Princeton, and the Naval Academy.

The Beavers have enjoyed increased student support in their previous outings this season. The continued improvement of the student body has been termed "instrumental in the fulfillment of the team's obviously great potential."

Hopes are that, boosted by the growing interest in fencing at the College, the parries will go on to one of their finest campaign results in recent years.

Lagers To Battle Purple Knights: Pearl Sidelinced With Ankle Injury

By KEN GELLER

"The University of Bridgeport is one of the most important teams in the Tri-State League. Without Adelphi, the Bearers would be playing in the Ill-State League, and that's totally ridiculous,"—Annal.

The University of Bridgeport does have longer lines than usual these days. It normally provides the College's basketball team with a very satisfying contest. Mike has been unable to practice all week because of an ankle injury. Mike has been unable to
