

Regents To Push Reforms Despite BHE Protests

The Board of Regents will press for legislation implementing its plan to reorganize the City University administration regardless of Board of Higher Education protests, according to State Education Commissioner James Allen, Jr.

The Regents are more interested in the students than the BHE or the CU Chancellor, Walter King, Special Assistant to Allen, said yesterday.

The Regents had proposed Sunday to strengthen the power of the Chancellor, Albert H. Bowker, over that of the BHE. The BHE rejected all but the most minor proposals Monday night.

"The Regents," Allen said, "feel strongly that the program outlined in their statement is essential to the well-being of the University, and they will press vigorously for its approval by the legislature."

The five-point Regents proposal is not negotiable, Allen said.

The BHE had sought to compromise with the Regents in rejecting some points, and accepting others.

King claimed that the Regents had no intention, in making the proposals, of forcing the University to charge tuition.

BHE Chairman Gustave G. Rosenberg defended the Board's Monday night action. "The Board's action speaks for itself," he said.

The BHE called such legislation "unwarranted and unwise" and urged its reconsideration.

Chancellor Bowker has threatened to resign again unless he is given greater authority.

After a six-and-a-half hour meeting Monday night, the Board adopted a resolution opposing the granting of greater power to Chancellor Bowker by legislative fiat. If any changes were to be made, the Board said that it — and not the state — should make them.

The Regents proposed giving greater power to Chancellor Bowker by changing the BHE to the Board of Trustees. They also proposed an end to appointments to the BHE on a borough basis.

A recommendation was also made by the Regents to make a mandatory retirement age of 70 for all BHE members. There are six members on the Board over that age who would be dismissed if the legislation is passed on July 1.

Tuition March Scheduled For 22nd; Politicos To Join Lobbying Effort

Mobilization for the March 22 March on Albany for free higher education moved into high gear last night following a City University-wide meeting of student representatives.

The March, originally scheduled for the 16th, was moved up to the 22nd as it was felt that the later date would afford greater opportunities for the demonstrators to directly confront the legislators.

No Exams Scheduled

President Buell G. Gallagher has asked that instructors not schedule examinations for the 22nd, although he has not asked them to excuse class absences.

"Stop Starving the City University" is the March's slogan, according to SG President Carl Weitzman. "This is the most critical year in the history of the City University," he said. The legislature must be pressured into granting sufficient operating expenses if the CU is to maintain its autonomy and free tuition policy, he added.

Buses will leave the colleges at 9 AM and are expected to arrive in the capital at 1 PM. The students will lobby with individual legislators until 4 PM, at which time a mass rally is expected to be held. The buses are to return at 9 PM.

A fund is to be created for those students who cannot afford the $3 bus ticket.

Costello To March

Deputy Mayor Timothy Costello and gubernatorial candidate Eugene V. Nickerson have agreed to join the March, and Senators Jacob Javits and Robert Kennedy have been invited. Representative Theodore Kupferman (Rep., Man.) is expected to attend as is City Council President Frank O'Connor.

Paul Greenberg, state chairman of the Liberal Party has promised to secure labor union

Revitalized Professors' Group Aims To Arouse Controversy

The Universities' Committee on the Problems of War and Peace, a nationwide organization of professors, will hold its first seminar in three years on Monday. The Committee is being revitalized at the College by Professors Arthur Bierman (Physics) and Leonard Kriegel (English).

The Committee, which had been very active on campus, ran a series of seminars attended by both students and faculty, according to Professor Bierman. The seminars will now be reinstated approximately once every three weeks, beginning March 7.

The purpose of the organization is "to air and discuss public social issues, to arouse controversy, and to get people thinking," Professor Bierman stated. "We don't have a party line which we want to impose on campus."

The first seminar, to be given in Room 217 Finley at 3 PM, will deal with the "Role of the University in Modern Society." The topic will be discussed by Dean Leo Hamalian (English), Professor Brayton Polka (History), and Professor Bierman. The forum was deliberately arranged so as to include a representative from the humanities, the social sciences and the physical sciences. There will be an emphasis on questions from the floor.

The second seminar is scheduled for March 25. Professors Abraham Edel (Philosophy) and Samuel Hendel (Political Science) will speak on the "Moral Aspects of the Vietnamese War and World Politics Today."

SG President Carl Weitzman "Stop Starving CU"

support. The state Young Democrats have also pledged to aid the March.

New Political Party To Offer Plans For University Reform

A new campus-wide political party which hopes to offer a permanent base for university reform will meet today to formulate its platform, select candidates for the March by-elections and choose a name.

The party would fill a vacuum left by the Common Sense Party, which is "dead," according to its former head, Paul Biderman.

The party's organizers — Lynda Lubar, Michael Markowitz and Barry Shrago — hope to capture the interest of apathetic students. Its members will be concerned with establishing:

- an effective Student Government
- a student-faculty voice in decision-making at the College.
- a meaningful community involvement, with students seeking advice on how to help from Harlem's leaders.
- an opposition to the draft because of its disruption of the educational process.
- a work-study program for engineering students.
- free tuition for architecture students.

The meeting will be held in Room 304 Finley at 4 PM.

Candidates . . .

Observation Post will hold a candidates' class today in Room 336 Finley at 12:30 PM. All candidates and interested students are urged to attend.

Garretson Counters Charges

By STU GREEN

Ronald Garretson, manager of the College Bookstore, defended the store's practices last night before a quorum-less Student Council. Charges had been leveled at it in an Observation Post editorial last month, and an investigation has been started.

Garretson denied that the Bookstore is involved in the dispute over advertisements which appear in every purple College notebook. The advertising is the result of a private arrangement existing between the Time-Life Corp. and the notebook manufacturers, he maintained.

Girls must check their purses before entering the store because, in the past, some of the purses were so big they warranted inspection by cashiers and disrupted the sales efficiency, he claimed.

Supplemental readings are occasionally missing from the store's shelves as some faculty members do not submit their lists

A Community Affair

Residents of the area around 145th Street have long been complaining of inadequate and inefficient protection. Although the police have increased their guard of stores on 145th Street, many people still complain of the rampant prostitution and numbers racket in the neighborhood.

It should be the concern of every student, and particularly of the administration of the College, to seek an end to crime in the neighborhood. The College, in view of its limited participation in community affairs, is fortunate that many residents still look to it for help.

We owe it to the people of this neighborhood to use the College's prestige to improve the area and make it safe for its residents and students. We urge President Gallagher to use his influence and intervene on behalf of the community.

Home Rule Now

The arrogant announcement by State Commissioner of Education James A. Allen, that the Board of Regents will seek to overrule the Board of Higher Education (BHE) in reforming the City University bodes evil for the CU's independence. The BHE, which is the policy-making unit of the CU, cannot be avoided simply because it disagrees with the Regents.

To seek legislation from the State Legislature invites several dangers:

- Albany has never been a trustworthy friend of the CU—the Legislature cannot be trusted to enact satisfactory reforms.

- Any reforms enacted by the state will only bring the CU closer to a merger with the State University — which means a tuition charge, the end of all national fraternal organizations at the College and tighter restrictions on free speech.

- The reforms the Regents have suggested will increase the alienation of students and faculty from the decision-making apparatus of the CU.

- To weaken the BHE will be to punish the bastion of Free Tuition—the BHE and its chairman, Gustave G. Rosenberg, have always fought against any tuition charge, including the "shadow tuition" proposed by Chancellor Albert H. Bowker.

- The Regents would sacrifice the right of the City University to govern itself and would disavow the principle of "home rule."

- To install Dr. Bowker as head of both the administrative and policy-making bodies of the CU would be to place absolute power in the hands of a less-than-whole-hearted defender of Free Tuition.

Better lines of communication and more clearly delegated responsibilities must be established between the Administrative Council and the BHE if the CU's reputation is to be maintained.

Thanks

Thanks to the hard work of the Finley Center Planning Board and Miss Kathleen Burke (Student Life), a very fine program of concerts, films and lectures has been arranged for this term. These various programs not only cover a wide range of genres, but also are scheduled so as to permit most students to attend at least one each week.

We think every student ought to be grateful for this fine example of work on behalf of the student body.

A Laboratory in the Lavatory
To House Costly Microscope

By ARTHUR VOLBERT
Girls wishing to use the College's new $20,000 electron microscope may have a problem. The only entrance to the laboratory, that will house it is through a men's room.

The laboratory, in the basement of Shepard Hall, is the only suitable room in which the microscope could be placed, according to Professor Martin Sacks (Biology). Space for research is extremely scarce. The College's Office of Planning and Design, which has been asked to change the method of access to the laboratory, is presently considering blasting a new door or erecting a partition to block the view.

The microscope will arrive about the first of April. At present there is only one woman student specializing in electron microscopy, although other women professors, graduate students and honors students will also need to use the machine.

The electron-microscope is a valuable and long over-due addition to the College's research facilities, Prof. Sacks asserted. In the past, researchers who required the use of such a microscope were forced to rent time in laboratories outside the College, he claimed.

The instrument was purchased used from another laboratory. A new machine of comparable quality would cost $40,000. "We're tickled silly to land this machine," Prof. Sacks added.

The room in Shepard meets all the conditions which are needed to house the microscope, according to Prof. Sacks. It has a concrete floor to support the weight of the machine, is air-conditioned and is free of vibrations, he noted. "But the fact that the entrance is through a men's room is not particularly delightful."

Parriers Strive To Sink Middies And Navigate To Winning Season

By TED TYBERG

The upcoming fencing match with the Midshipmen of Annapolis could easily turn out to be the most exciting of the season.

Both squads are "psyched up" for the meet, Navy because of last year's loss to the Beavers, and the parriers because a victory would mean a winning season. The 6-4 record would better the mark of last year's nationally ranked squad.

Both teams are ranked among the top ten in the nation and the final national ratings might be affected by the outcome of Saturday's match.

Last year's meet wasn't decided until the final bout. With the score tied at 13, Coach Lucia called on Steve Bernard to fence the last and deciding match. The bout went to 4-4, until Bernard won it for the Lavender.

The foils team has gained considerably from the past year's

Steve Bernard
Last Year's Hero

added experience and has performed with the most consistency on the squad. Captain George Wiener and Steve Bernard have won 24 of their last 27 bouts, with both scoring triple wins in three of their last four meets.

The epee team contains two of the Beavers top parriers in Bob Chernick and Al Darion. Ron Linton rounds out the epee squad which will be counted on to supply the lead in the meet as they have often provided in the past.

The sabre squad, generally the weakest of the parriers, has been hurt by injuries and ineligibility. They have come on strong, however, in the last few meets. The added confidence they have gained will be instrumental in their showing in the Navy clash.

Following the Navy match, which brings the dual-meet season to a close, the Beavers will enter first the Eastern and then the National Championships. Expecting a strong showing in these tournaments, the Lavender hopes for an improvement over last year's national ranking of ninth in the nation.

Nimrods...

The College's rifle team puts its 8-2 won-lost record on the line Saturday in a match with Columbia in the Lion's home range. The nimrods, who have a 7-0 record in league competition this season, downed the Lions by two points at home last season. The Beavers have lost to Army and Navy this season, and the Columbia match will be one of the toughest of the campaign.
