Also material on the construction of Aaron Davis Hall, including a set of presentation drawings (blueprints), and a poster celebrating the inaugural season (1979-80), signed by the artist Romare Bearden. The files on, Paul Mann, Arthur Saxon and Herman Shumlin contain extended material on progress and problems of the Center in its early years.

Patrons may also wish to consult the Leonard Davis Center material in the Office of the President (Robert Eugene Marshak) Records and his Academic Renewal in the 1970’s
Historical Note:
The Leonard Davis Center for the Performing Arts was established in 1971 on the foundation of funds provided by Leonard Davis (Class of 1944 at the School of Business) and activities began in the spring 1972. Professor Arthur Waldhorn of the English Department was the first chair of the Planning Committee for the Center. The Leonard Davis Center offers professional training in Theater, Dance, Music and Film (through the Picker/Film/Video Institute), leading to the B.F.A. degree (although the B.A. degree was offered instead at the beginning). The Center developed some core courses of its own and offered others through the Departments of Music, Theater Arts and the Picker Film Institute. Aaron Davis Hall, with a 700 seat theater and two experimental theaters, open in the fall of 1979.

The records in this inventory were transferred from the Davis Center in 1985 soon after the Division of the Arts: The Leonard Davis Center was created effective with the fall 1984 semester. The Departments of Theater and Dance, Speech, Music, Communications, Film and Video and Art now report to this dean.
