NUMBERED among the College Alumni are jurists, educators, doctors, politicians—even a poet or two—but the Alumni can boast of but one well-known exponent of histrionic art—James K. Hackett—and judging from last Friday night's performance, when the class of 1910 graduates, he will still be our sole representative in the land of "make-believe." And yet, in spite of the selection of such an antiquated English farce as "The Barrister," the Soph show was a success.

We went to the Lyceum not to be critical, but to laugh, and laugh we did. Sometimes we even howled, but that was because of the feminine attire on masculine forms rather than because of witty lines or situations. So whatever fault you have with the performance—blame it on the play.

NUMBERED among the College Alumni are jurists, educators, doctors, politicians—even a poet or two—but the Alumni can boast of but one well-known exponent of histrionic art—James K. Hackett—and judging from last Friday night's performance, when the class of 1910 graduates, he will still be our sole representative in the land of "make-believe." And yet, in spite of the selection of such an antiquated English farce as "The Barrister," the Soph show was a success.

We went to the Lyceum not to be critical, but to laugh, and laugh we did. Sometimes we even howled, but that was because of the feminine attire on masculine forms rather than because of witty lines or situations. So whatever fault you have with the performance—blame it on the play.

The title part was entrusted to Simons, and he played fairly well. The part of Arthur Maxwell is a purely straight part and Simons' self-possession carried him through the play very creditably. Hollander, as Tom Price, the bungling servant, was excellent, especially in handling his near Cockney accent. Weisbord, as Major Drayton, was very acceptable, and some of his mannerisms evoked hearty laughter. Brisk, as Captain Walker, had the best "make-up" in the cast, and with the dash and fire he showed his role was satisfactorily filled. Bloom, in the small part of a confidential clerk, gave perhaps the best performance of the evening. As Crisp of Scotland Yard, Schlesinger looked like Sherlock Holmes, and as a coughing waiter Leff was fair.

Rosenson was the Barrister's wife, and we laughed at him, because he looked so ridiculously funny—otherwise we should have cried. Thomson and Ferichs, as two young girls, played as well as might have been expected, as did Hoffmann and Miller. Whatever faults their acting had—and their number was legion—the make-up hid them.

The production showed careful coaching, and it may be too careful. The one fault with the majority of the cast was that they worked like mechanical arrangements and each gesture or action seemed to reflect a similar gesture or action of Mr. Sanger. Mr. Sanger, by the way, showed poor judgment in permitting a corset to show proofs of Maxwell's supposed perfidy. A powder-puff would have served the same purpose, and the suggestiveness would have been eliminated. In several other instances, including the selection of a play, Mr. Sanger could have shown much better taste.

The orchestra entertained throughout the evening, and under Prof. Baldwin's direction they played splendidly. One of the professor's own compositions was played and generally admired.

Too much praise cannot be given to the members of the cast and to the arrangement committee for the work they have done, and if for no other reason than that they deserve success, let's be glad that the Soph. Show of 1908 was a success—and that it's over.

Student Council Meeting.

A meeting of the Student Council was held a few days before the Fall vacation. Despite the fact that so few meetings are held and that the membership is so large—fifty-six members to be exact—only a little over half the Council men were present. However, in spite of this drawback, some important business was transacted. A motion was passed requesting the Executive Council to permit students to enter the Main Building by the upper or lower entrances, as they wished. The old question of the Council's constitution which has hung fire since the opening of this term, was discussed and an entirely new committee was appointed to draw up a new constitution. A committee was appointed to receive suggestions for a new 'varsity yell. Important action was also taken regarding the matter of a cheer leader of the College. The Council is to elect a cheer leader for all collegiate functions. Temporary marshalls were elected, R. Thompson, '09, and L. Corts, '08, assistant. A motion was passed that a committee be appointed to ask the Executive Council to amend its rule concerning lateness, so that a student late should be counted absent but not excluded from the room. A motion was also passed that a permanent committee be appointed to attend to all communications with the Faculty, the Executive Council, etc. This committee consists of Hartman, '08, and Shaeffer, '08.

Our New Trustee.

Mayor McClellan last week appointed Mr. Matthew Corbett trustee of the College to fill the vacancy left by the retirement of Mr. Joseph Mulqueen. Mr. Corbett completed his Junior year here, but left the College in 1894 and went to Yale, where he received his degree. He then studied law at Columbia, and after his admission to the bar practiced extensively in this city. Mr. Corbett is about thirty-four years old, and is the youngest trustee of the College. He is a member of the Bar Association and the University Club.

Faculty Notes.

Prof. Brownson and his assistant are busily engaged making preparations for the new system of promotion by credits which goes into effect next term. This will entail an enormous amount of work, as all the credits which every student has received since his entrance into the College will have to be recorded and added up.

Mr. Coleman, of the English Department, has been called from the city, and will probably remain away three weeks. Mr. Louis Friedland, fellow of the College, has taken Mr. Coleman's classes until he returns.

Dr. Taaffe, of the English Department, lectured recently at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel on "Oliver Goldsmith" for the benefit of the Visitation Monastery of Riverdale, N. Y.

Dr. Norris A. Brisco has been elected a fellow of the Royal English Historical Society. This was in recognition of the excellence of his thesis, "The Economic Policy of Robert Walpole."

Dr. Guthrie has received a request from an Italian publisher for permission to publish in Italian his book, "Socialism Before the French Revolution."

 Dinner to Judge Mulqueen.

Mr. Edward M. Shepard gave a dinner last Thursday night to ex-Trustee Mulqueen on the latter's retirement from the Board of Trustees and assumption to the judgeship in the Supreme Court. All the trustees and professors of the College were present, and the speeches of the evening were delivered by President Finley and Professors Diehman and Downer.

Shelves have been placed in the repository so that it now has a capacity of about 30,000 books, and there will be consequently plenty of room to accommodate the books returned by the students in February.

Basketball.

C. C. N. Y. 44: Teachers' Training School, 15

The 'Varsity five defeated the quintet of Teachers' Training School rather easily last Saturday night. There was absolutely nothing to the game but City College, for we started like a whirlwind and won, going just about as we pleased.

The game was devoid of any sensational playing, and the only enlivening thing of the evening was the appearance of President Finley, who reached the game during the second half.

Barbanell and Heskowitz did good work for C. C. N. Y., while Lieberman excelled for the visitors.

The line-up:

Teachers' Training—Weiss, l. f.; Lieberman, r. f.; Molloy, c.; Downey, l. g.; Worshing, r. g.

C. C. N. Y.—Spivak, Litwin, l. f.; Barbanell, r. f.; Goldman, Katz, c.; Heskowitz, Barron; l. g.; Perlman, Brand, r. g.

Goals from field—Barbanell (8), Goldman (4), Spivak (3), Katz (2), Heskowitz (2), Perlman (2), Barron, Molloy (2), Lieberman (3), Downey (2). Goal from foul—Molloy. Referee—Mr. J. Marx, P. S. A. L.

Where the rumor originated no one seems to know, but whatever the source, suffice it to say that the Sophomores got the idea into their craniums that 1911 was to have their banquet, and so they proceeded to capture President Henry of the Upper Freshies. That started the ball a-rolling, and the result was warfare all during the Christmas vacation.

We learn from various sources that next year's Soph show will not fail owing to the lack of any comedian, for we are told that Henry gave a very entertaining and side-splitting performances to a select circle of admirers. And, to those who saw the antics of Oppenheim ('01) New Year's Eve, we can say that the coach of "The Barrister" displayed poor judgment in not selecting him for the cast.

President Brisk, of Lower 1910, was "captured for revenge" or for some reason by the freshmen, and the only reason that he did not entertain was because his energy was needed for the show last Friday night. As we go to press, we hear that the Moguls of both classes are preparing for the final struggle, and we are requested by 1911 to state that they have not had their banquet as yet, and that when they do certain '10 men will know of it. We wonder how.

Stander, Schaeffer, Mullen, Larkin and Wisemann were awarded their letters for track work during 1907.

Baseball men are practicing daily in the gym, preparing for next season. The outlook for a successful season is extremely bright and Capt. Corts is very enthusiastic over the prospects of his nine.

1911 defeated Morris H. S. on the 28th by the score of 20-11. The feature of the game was the playing of Brill for the Freshmen and Lord for the High School lads.

The Freshmen also beat Mt. Vernon last Saturday, 26-23, the victory being due largely to the work of Sedransky and Brill.

Next Friday night the 'Varsity five lines up against Swarthmore, and as the game is to be played here, a big crowd is expected to turn out. If you remember, we were beaten by the Pennsy lads and the team is keyed up to avenge the defeat. Hurry and get your tickets, which are on sale at THE CAMPUS office, Room 412, Main Building.

Speaking of basketball, we may as well once more call attention to the lack of courtesy shown by some students to visiting teams. Don't hiss when the captain of our opponents protests a decision. The chances are that you don't know what the protest is about. Don't yell and hoot every time an opponent tries to shoot a foul; be manly and display some courtesy toward visitors, and try not to let the disgraceful scenes of the Columbia and Trinity games be repeated.

To-day, in the tank, will be held the finals of the swimming events, contested before the Christmas vacation.

As formerly announced, "Tad" Jones, the Yale quarterback and baseball captain, will be the chief guest and speaker at the informal "tea" to be given at C. C. N. Y. on Saturday afternoon, January 11, from 3 to 5 o'clock by the Y. M. C. A. The "tea" will be held in the instructors' grill room, on the fifth floor of the Main Building, providing the kitchen is, by that time, supplied with gas and water.

City College beat Trinity on December 20th by the score of 24-12, thereby partly avenging the football drubbing that the Hartford men handed C. C. N. Y. The result of the game was due largely to the fine shooting of Streusand.

In a preliminary game, marked by the shooting of but three baskets and marred by many fouls, 1911 defeated T. H. H., 13-10.

Second Assembly in the Great Hall.

As a means of marking the close of our College work for the year of 1907, President Finley held a meeting of the student-body on Friday, December 20, in the Great Hall. Prof. Werner's short but witty speech was followed by that of Hamilton W. Mabie, who is a distinguished journalist and editor of The Outlook. Mr. Mabie attempted to convey to us certain principles which we should always keep in mind regardless of the path of life which we may intend to follow. The exercises also marked the initial performance of the Choral Society and the first appearance of our orchestra under the leadership of Prof. Baldwin. While we do not profess to be musical critics, we can say, without any fear of being contradicted, that most of the members of the orchestra showed a tendency to play solos. As to the Choral Society, it did good work, but a little cross-country practice to increase the volume of its tone would do no harm.

The Soph. Show.

OME three months ago we raised our voice in unavailing protest against the time-honored system of having the Microcosm published by a single class. We pointed out that if the year-book, instead of being published by the Junior class, were entrusted to a body representative of the entire College (such as our erstwhile somnolent but now apparently awakened Student Council) not only would the book be more representative of the College as a whole, but it would be more efficiently edited and would receive far more support from the College in general.

A very similar line of thought is suggested by the show given by the Soph class last Friday night (of which an extended account is given on another page). On the whole, the show was undoubtedly a very creditable performance. The acting and management were highly commendable, and the general impression made was very pleasing. But, as with the Microcosm, so with the show. Not only in the acting, but in the general management it was not hard to detect flaws which were unmistakably due merely to inexperience. And the question suggests itself whether these defects could not be remedied and the performances in general made worthier by having the play conducted, not by a single class, but by a society representative of all the classes.

Lest this suggestion should strike anyone as radical and unprecedented, we hasten to state that quite the reverse is true. At Columbia, Harvard, Yale, Cornell and Clinton High School (which has considerable prominence in the field of amateur dramatics)—in all these places the annual play is run, not by any single class, but by a permanent organization comprising men from all the classes. And it is worth while to consider whether we would not do well to follow their example.

That a permanent dramatic organization of the College would be able to present a far more creditable performance than that given by the Soph class alone is beyond question. No one will deny that at the colleges above mentioned, and even at Clinton High School, the standard of the performances is considerably higher than it is here. And this is only natural. It is inevitable that in four classes there should be more dramatic talent than in one. But this is not all. A man who started in his freshman year with a minor part might, by the time he reached the Senior year, be qualified to play an important part with ease and naturalness instead of being the coach-made product that nearly all the actors last Friday manifestly were.

In the business management of the show, too, the experience that would come with a permanent organization would save an immense amount of time, money, and energy that, under present conditions, when the management of the show is in hands necessarily inexperienced, are invariably expended.

The Soph show is in some respects one of the worthiest activities of the College. As such it deserves the support of the entire College. It is difficult, however, to see how it can get this to any appreciable extent when it is run exclusively by one class. In the hands of a permanent all-class organization it could undoubtedly become a far more representative and collegiate, to say nothing of a far worthier, function.

Following the suggestion made to it by Prof. Baskerville, the Board of Health announces that it will hereafter publish in its weekly reports on the water of the city not only the chemical analysis of the water, but also the bacteriological analysis.

In the first of the league games for the basketball title, T. H. H. easily defeated the quintet from Eastern District to the tune of 47-13. After the first few minutes of play, there was nothing to the game, and T. H. H. won as they pleased. Starting in with a rush, they bewildered the Brooklyn lads by their quickness, and the first half ended with the score 18-8.

The second half was even faster than the first, and while Eastern could score but five additional points, T. H. H. brought their total up to 47.

Mendelson, Levy and Pryible played well for T. H. H., while Finklestein played the best game for the Brooklyn boys.

The line-up:

T. H. H.—Ampolsky, Schiffman, l. f.; Spanier, Spector, r. f.; Mendelson, De Ora, c.; Pryible, l. g.; Levy, r. g.

All men who are interested and willing to practice should apply to Bishop.

Rippaport, erstwhile player on the T. H. H. football team and champion shot-putter of the P. S. A. L., has left T. H. H. and gone over to DeWitt Clinton.

The Upper A elections were held on Friday, December 20, in the Townsend Harris Assembly Hall. The results are as follows: B. Borookov, A5, president; Appelbaum, A8, vice-president; Mosesson, A10, secretary; Dublivy, A5, treasurer.

Out of 81 in Upper C, Arts I and II, 21 elected Greek and 60 French. Out of 121 in Arts III in the same class, 23 selected Spanish. In Upper B, Arts I, 7 out of a class of 22 selected German, the rest taking French.

To do this it is necessary to secure at least $50 worth of advertisements for the program, and to sell a large number of tickets. A commission of 20 per cent. will be allowed on ads. For the second time this season the T. H. H. basketball team went down to defeat in a game with Neptune High School at Asbury Park on December 28. The score was Neptune High, 40; T. H. H., 17. Just a bit of hard luck. Wait till the league games.

The ice-skating championships will be held at the St. Nicholas Rink in February. Candidates should report at the A. A. office. Opportunities for practice at the rink will be afforded during January and February.

H. Herman, inter-scholastic roller-skating champion while at T. H. H., is now at Clinton.

T. H. H. will probably attain second place in the inter-high school chess tournament. First place and, incidentally the chess league trophy were won by Curtis.

Boys' High, $2\frac{1}{2}$; T. H. H., $\frac{1}{2}$; and one game adjourned was the score of a chess match played on December 28. The result of the match with Curtis in December was: Curtis, $2\frac{1}{2}$; T. H. H., $\frac{1}{2}$.

E. Frankel received a silver medal and Schlesinger a bronze medal in the T. H. H. checker tournament.
