Commencement Week.

Monday, January 29th. The Seniors will entertain the Faculty with refreshments and speeches.

Tuesday, January 30th. The Senior Hop will take place at 8 P. M., in the gymnasium.

Wednesday, January 31st. At 2 P. M. "Campus Day" exercises will be held.

Thursday, February 1st. The class play will be offered in the auditorium of Townsend Harris Hall at 7.45. The play will be preceded by the class Prophecy which will be presented in the form of a scene and not a monologue as heretofore.

Friday, February 2nd. Phreno and Clio will meet in their semi-annual debate in T. H. H.

Saturday, February 3rd. Rennsalaer's scalp will be added to the collection of the Basketball game.

Sunday, February 4th. The Baccalaureate address will be delivered in the Great Hall at 4 P. M. A special organ recital program has been arranged by Prof. Baldwin.

Monday, February 5th. College night will be celebrated. All the classes will take part in the exercises. The Freshmen will sing a milk bottle song, the Sophomores will perform a pipe dance, the Juniors will offer a "Live Mike," the lower Seniors will perform some atrocity and the graduates will build bonfires into which text books will be thrown as burnt offerings.

Tuesday, February 6th. Commencement exercises will be held in the Great Hall at 8 P. M.

Wednesday, February 7th. The Seniors will dine heartily at the Café des Beaux Arts. "There's a reason."

Another Social Success.

Close upon the heels of the successful Senior Dance came the Junior Prom on December 30th in the gymnasium and still another social success has been added to the long list which has significantly marked this term. A grand March led by Mr. H. Roth, and a Nantucket conducted by Selig Hecht, in which everybody took part, were the features of the evening. Dainty mirror holders for the ladies and handsome bill folds for the gentlemen were distributed.

Good Fellowship.

For the first time in the history of the College the Senior class "received" the Freshman class and the splendid success which crowned the undertaking assures the continuation, each year, of this function which has so deep a significance in the social welfare of the College. Not a single thing marred the pleasures of the evening. Before the start of the basketball game between the teams of the two classes, Freshmen and Seniors stood in small groups chatting informally and with perfect unrestraint. A relay race, a wrestling exhibition and some boxing bouts gave each class an opportunity to cheer and sing and then in unison the College songs and cheers were given. The Seniors acting as hosts waited upon the Freshmen with lemonade, ice cream and cake. Entertainment was furnished by members of both classes who volunteered to sing or to relate anecdotes. Of the two hundred and fifty students who were present on that evening there was not one who did not feel at the close of the affair that he was a more integral factor in the life of the College. Each student felt that he was more than a mere machine destined to grind out a monotonous existence for four years. The social possibilities of the College which at present are in a potential state were forcibly brought to light. From now on efforts must be made to materialize these possibilities by arranging more social functions of interest to the entire student body and to the instructors.

Six Hundred to One.

Dr. Joseph D. Bryant delivered a lecture on "Medicine as a Profession," on December 20th, under the auspices of the Student Council. He stated that each physician would have six hundred "souls" in his care if the population of the United States were equally proportioned according to the number of practising medical men. In the southern states, however, it is not unusual to find a doctor's clientele consisting of fifteen hundred people. The medical profession does not afford its "readers" much more than a livelihood and it is a doctor's solemn duty to do all possible for the alleviation of human suffering. Professor Baskerville presided.

H. Schwatzer, of Cass Building fame is completing his education with the "College Girls," a merry musical melange. which played at a local theatre last week.

Miscarried Plans.

The Freshman Class held its banquet on December 27th at Lowy's in the Bronx. The members of the Class had been promised a double feast: one of good eatables and the other of three Sophomores. However, the latter feast was spoiled before it was begun by a band of loyal Sophomores, who had learned of the intentions of the "Freshies," by spiriting away their captured classmates from the scene of the dining carnival. The first part of the program was carried out smoothly. Henry Goodman occupied the toastmaster's chair and the Presidents of both classes spoke. Israel Weinstein, '13 was the guest of the Freshmen.

Songs, Jokes and Recitations.

While the Freshmen were having their troubles dining in the wilds of the Bronx, the June 1912 class smoked pipes of peace in the lunch room of the College on the evening of December 27th of the old year. Old class songs were sung, old jokes were given a thin polish of veneer, and old friendships were renewed under the invigorating influence of lemonade and sandwiches. A trio chosen at random attempted some new songs and the avalanche of pennies showered upon them bore testimony to the pleasure they were creating. The president of the class insisted that the social spirit was all that could be desired and Shientag thought he saw room for improvement. Out of a haze of blue smoke came Friedman, and thinking the atmosphere was becoming too serious he tried to change matters by telling a "light" joke. Then Samuel Levy sprang on the table and rendered two splendid dialect recitations. The ice-cream and cake supply becoming exhausted and the hour growing late, all went home happy and contented.

The night after the Seniors evacuated the lunch room, the Menorah Society took possession of it and held a "symposium of song, smoke, and sociability" with a little seriousness interspersed. The speakers of the evening were Berkson, '12, M. Cohen, '14, and Professor Friedlander. Refreshments and cigarettes were freely distributed and entertainment was furnished by members of the society.

Professor Mott spoke on "Disrespect for Language" at the meeting of the Modern Language Association held at Chicago during the week beginning December 25th. Professor Grandgent of Harvard University was elected to succeed Prof. Mott as President of the Association

Numeral Light Exercises.

To-night, at 8 p.m. in the Great Hall the class of February 1912 will hold its Numeral Light Exercises in conjunction with a concert given by the College Orchestra under the direction of Professor Baldwin.

The program will consist of several organ selections by Professor Baldwin, songs by the Choral Society, selections by the orchestra, a cornet solo by Albert Becker and the lighting of the class numerals. Julius Drachler will address his classmates, President Finley will address the graduates and Robert Whitford will read the class poem. All are invited; no tickets are required.

THE CAMPUS takes this opportunity to express on behalf of the entire student body and the instructing staff its good wishes to the graduates. We trust that the course in "Life" which you are now about to pursue will be as successful as that which you have just terminated here. The best wishes of all follow you.

Restored to His Position.

The hero is the best student in the College. A secretaryship in the mayor's office is the reward to the one who receives the highest work in a philosophy examination. At this examination the hero draws from his pocket a paper which aids him in securing the highest mark. His action has been entirely unconscionable and he does not realize that he has used unfair means until he overhears a conversation between two students who witnessed his action in the examination room. For the first time it dawns upon him that he has committed a crime. Of course, he cannot accept the position in the mayor's office and he tells his classmates about the incident. Knowing his character, and his ability they will not believe his story. All their incredulity is of no avail and the mayor is notified of the circumstances connected with the examination.

And here the class play committee of February, '12, stopped and could not be prevailed upon to divulge the denouement. Our sympathies, however, are all with the hero and when the play is performed in the auditorium of Townsend Harris Hall, we hope to be able to say with William, "All's Well that Ends Well." Tickets are now on sale in the Senior alcove.

Dr. J. S. Schapiro of the Department of History will deliver a course of eight lectures on "The French Revolution and the Advance of Democracy in Europe" at P. S. 42, Brooklyn, on Thursdays beginning January 11.

Columbia Squelched.

A most eventful Friday evening! We had to win. This was the unanimous verdict of our coaches, the managers, the swimming team and the audience. Never had so large a body packed our beautiful pool. It was really a gala night. And all were satisfied. That is, all except the losing team. A mere eight points gave us the victory—oh, a trifle, we should say!

An 800 ft. relay race came first on the program and Columbia promptly came in first in 2 min. 45 sec. A bad start for us. Many a smiling face began to lose its smile, for we lagged already 8 points behind. But the fancy dive cheered us up again. Berman carried off the honors easily. Fielding came in a close second. Rogow of Columbia completed the "three graces." A dead heat between the first and second and between the third and fourth men was the result of the 50 yd. swim. The points for event were divided.

Riemer sprang a surprise on us. He started off in the 220 yd. swim and reached the finish first, even ahead of Rogers. Campbell of Columbia finished third. The plunge netted us some more points. On his third plunge, "Petit" Schneider floated along for 55 ft. He beat Cohen of Columbia by almost his length by two and one-half feet. Kautsky could not float any further than within half a foot of Cohen and was credited with 1 point. The last event, the 100 yd. swim was a battle royal between McGrath and Cullman. The endurance and skill of the veteran Cullman however won out over the in-experience of McGrath and the latter only ended second.

Not to be outdone by our swimming team, the water polo aggregation put up one of the pluckiest exhibitions ever seen and struck a second harpoon into Columbia. Captain Levinson was an iron<sup>2</sup> defense for his goal and Steigman on the defensive did some splendid work. In the first half our boys scored a goal and kept their opponents from touching our goal. The second half witnessed some fast play. Columbia made a field goal.

That was all. We scored twice in the second half, but the judges counted neither goal. Final score 5—2.

Summary:—

800 ft. Relay.—Won by Columbia (Dinkelspiel, Pulleyn, Osgood, Culman) second C.C.N.Y. (Rogers, Nussbaum, Coughlin, McGrath). Time 2:45.

Fancy Dive.—Won by Berman; Fielding second; Rogow third.

50 Yd. Swim—Dead heat for first, Couhill and Dinkelspiel, dead heat for second place, Coughlin and Osgood.

220 yd. Swim—Won by Riemer; Rogers, second; Campbell, third. Time 2:57 $\frac{2}{8}$ .

Plunge—Won by Schneider, 55 ft.; Cohen second, 52 $\frac{1}{2}$  feet; Kautsky third, 52 feet.

100 yd. Swim—Won by Culman; McGrath second; Rogers, third. Time 1:06 $\frac{2}{8}$ .

Final Score: Columbia 22 $\frac{1}{2}$  points, C.C.N.Y. 30 $\frac{1}{2}$  points.

Rochester, That's All.

Flushed with victory over Oswego the Basketball team with its coach and manager left Saturday morning for Rochester. Last year Rochester came to us to be beaten. This year we returned the compliment. Yes, the first bitter pill of the season had to be swallowed. Rochester beat us by a score of 25—10. All our men played stellar games, but the wonderful speed and science of the up-state boys completely dazzled our team and when the last whistle blew terminating the game, the first defeat of the year was chalked against us.

The Weekly Relays.

On Friday, December 22 of last year, 1914 won the second of the Interclass Relays. The Juniors came in second and the Freshmen trailed. Last Friday a two mile relay was the attraction. The Juniors won; 1914 was second and the Freshmen came in third again.

Boston Repulsed.

They were big and they fell hard. We were un-hospitable and beat them. Not that we have any hard feelings against M.I.T. but it is in our nature to send away teams with Mr. DeFeat tucked away in their valises. And the Boston boys were as meek as spring lambs. They permitted us to run in our entire second string without a murmur.

Mowry of the Tech School starred or rather played the best for his team. One of his shots from the side was a corker and raised the house to cheers. Then apathy again. Rouge did some good work for the team which he captains. Kaplan played his regular steady game, and more than once illustrated the "follow-up" game by caging the ball. It is interesting to note that in three games, Kaplan has not been scored upon as yet. Keep it up, Dave. The Christmas carol ended to the tune of 28-9. Of course, 28 for us!

Stuyvesant played twelve games and won each one. Stuyvesant played 1915 and lost. It was rough and tumble, fast in certain parts, slow in others. But we won. Goldstein, the fast forward, played a fine game, scoring two long-distance goals. "Doc" as usual held his man, held the ball, and also raised 15's score by his foul shooting. The records show: Stuyvesant-9; 1915-12.

The Gym Sociable.

The audience was select, i.e. only Seniors and Freshman were permitted to attend. So the athletic events were won either by the Freshmen or the Seniors. And what a variety of events! First there was a basketball game between 1912 and 1915. The lower class was the victor—oh, never mind the score! Then came a lemonade drinking contest. The most that anybody could drink was five glasses (because there was no more). "Gym" Spiegler and Kraft, the "Terrible Jap," then grappled on the mat and off, until the latter had his shoulders pinned. The next event was the best—ice cream, that's all! With a victor's lust, Spiegler came back for more (in the boxing line) and Mr. Levy, Senior, accomodated him and gave him more. A few good (?) singers raised their voices on high in merry song, and fell flat. The last event of the evening was a medley relay race and was captured by the Seniors. Then good-night! Mr. Gerber, '12 is to be complimented for his active part in directing the arrangements of the mats for the boxing and wrestling contests.

The New Spirit.

WITH THE ringing out of the old year and the ringing in of the new, the old spirit of the College made its departure and the new spirit of whose shadow we have been dimly aware during the past year made its debut in sharp outline.

Never since the establishment of the College has the social and athletic spirit appeared more promising; never has the relation between student and student, between student and instructor been more harmonious. The old, restrained attitude which formerly characterized such relations has passed away. The Student Council has attained heights of respect and power which make it now a powerful student organ.

A glance at the news items in this issue of THE CAMPUS is sufficient proof of the new social spirit which is pervading the College and playing so prominent a part in the students' life. Students know each other better; circles of friendship are becoming larger.

The athletic prospects are excellent. The basketball team is maintaining the supremacy of the College in this field of endeavor and the swimming team this year is the finest the College has ever had. Clean and fair sport is the only kind the teams know. The attitude of the spectators has changed. Hissing is unknown on our court. Applause for good playing on either side is the rule.

The Student Council has helped materially in the development of the new spirit. It has reached the ear of the Faculty and its suggestions are considered. New undertakings to promote the social welfare of the student characterize its work this term. It has control now of practically all matters of student discipline. Instructors no longer need perform the double function of governing and teaching. The students have proved themselves well able to regulate and control all matters pertaining to themselves. For advice and counsel they apply to the instructors. This new social and athletic spirit, this new student activity, which has so strongly manifested itself this term must inevitably be continued next term. Graduation takes from the College several men who have led the movement for increased extra-curricular activities and decreased curriculum demands. Behind them however remains the spirit in which they worked. It must take hold of other men.

It is and It is Not.

Professor Palmer has arranged to have the College Debating Team meet that of Johns Hopkins University in the latter part of March. A unique agreement has been effected. Each College will have two teams and two debates will take place on the same night, at the same hour, one at New York, and the other at Baltimore. While one of the College teams is presenting the negative side of a still undecided question, perhaps at New York, the other team will travel to Baltimore to present the affirmative side of the question. In other words, we shall try to prove at the same time in different places that something is and is not and we hope to do it very successfully.

Alumni Dinner.

The annual dinner of the Alumni of the College will be held on Saturday, January 27th, at the Hotel Savoy. There will be a long and varied programme. The City College Alumni Glee Club will sing and Messrs. Kammerer and Geogan will deliver monologues. The speakers will be Supreme Court Judge Dowling, Professor Hanus of Harvard, Rev. Dr. Peters, Rector of St. Michaels Episcopal Church, Mr. Winslow '87, District Attorney of Westchester County, Dr. Leipziger, President of the Alumni Association and President Finley.

Students obliged to change elective cards because some electives which they have chosen will not be given or because of conflict in hours between subjects, are requested to report to the Dean's office as soon as possible.

Three Dinners.

Ardins', last Wednesday night, was the scene of an informal dinner tendered to Dr. Taaffe by the cast of "The Shoemaker's Holiday," and the English Department Committee, in recognition of his work as coach to the men who comprised the cast. John Kear, '13 acted as toastmaster, and a most pleasant evening was spent.

The third semi-annual banquet of the Chemical Society took place in the Tower rooms on December 20, 1911, Lester Cohen, '12, gave a comical review of the courses given by the Chemistry Department and their values to the student. Professor Friedburg added to the jovial spirit of the evening by delivering an extremely humorous address on "Santa Claus and his Relation to the Progress of Chemistry."

The third semi-annual dinner of the Biological Society was held in the Faculty dining room last Thursday evening. The entire Natural History Department Staff was present. Professor Winslow made a special trip from Boston in order to be present. Professor Bristol of New York University and Professor Overstreet were the guests of honor. A zoology class conducted by Schlesinger, '12, presented papers on "Unnatural History Subjects," which kept the dinners convulsed with laughter. At the close of the dinner, the president of the Society, M. Cohen '12 presented the Natural History Department library with several of Haeckel's works.

Professor Overstreet.

The current number of the Psychological Bulletin contains a review by Professor Overstreet of all the literature published during the year on the problem of Mind and Body.

On Sunday, at 10 A. M., he will lecture on "The Modern Philosophic Conception of the "Universe at the Mt. Morris Baptist Church, 126th St., and Fifth Ave. and on the 22nd of January he will address the Presbyterian Ministers Association of New York on "Modern Tendencies of Philosophy."

Professor Overstreet and Dr. Cohen attended the meeting of the American Philosophical Association at Cambridge during the Christmas holidays, Dr. Cohen read a paper on "Mechanism and Causality".

N.Y.U. School Loses.

In a fast game, replete with lightning passes, the Freshman team earned a victory on a "foreign" court. They defeated the N.Y.U. School of Commerce at the gym on the University Heights by a score of 29-22. Frank Cohen played a good game at forward. He scored eight points. Sappoe, at guard, kept every opponent away from the goal. Katz, '10, was the star player for the N.Y.U. basketballers.

Next, Cornell!

Saturated with a solution of Co V (Columbia victory) our enthusiastic swimmers will try to send home the Cornellians a wiser but wetter set of watermen. Next Friday evening at 8.15 P.M. the drowning of the innocents will commence. An enjoyable evening is assured to all—it all depends as to what side you favor. Anyhow, don't forget!

January 13th.

Fordham, that all! We must dispute the city championship. If Columbia and N.Y.U. have no desire to be beaten, why then we'll fight it out with Fordham. A ripping game is expected. Still, we shudder when we look at the date at the top, uh! If you fail to come up, you will miss the last chance to see our "Smiling" Henry Propper and Mr. George Zinovoy in action.

Chess.

Vacation time was thinking time for the chessmen. Two matches were played. One was with Brown University and resulted in a win for us. Score  $2\frac{1}{2}-\frac{1}{2}$ . The other was with the University of Pennsylvania. This time the Quakers were at the long end of a  $2\frac{1}{2}$  to  $\frac{1}{2}$  score.

A Joint Meeting.

Last Monday night the Chemical and the Biological Societies held a joint meeting in the Doremus Lecture Theatre. M. Cohen, '12, read a paper on "Eugenics." A paper on "Rigor" prepared by William J. Crozier, '12, and Selig Hecht, '13, was presented. Pincus Rothberg, '12, and M. Feldstein, '12, of the Chemical Society presented papers on "Immunity," and "Perin's Experiments with Colloidal Solutions," respectively. A large number of the Faculty and friends of the students was present.

An assembly was held in the Great Hall on December 22nd in honor of Professor Compton who was retired at his own request last September. Virgil Bopp, '12, spoke for the student body, Professor Downer spoke for the Faculty, Henry E. Jenkins '75 and Lewis Sayre Burchard, '77 spoke for the Alumni. Mr. Burchard read a poem written on the day of Professor Compton's Jubilee in 1903.
