COLLEGE CHANGES ENTRANCE REQUIREMENTS

Advanced Botany to Count One Unit of Credit---Zoology, One---Shop Work, One-half or One.

The board of trustees of the College, at their meeting Tuesday, approved a recommendation of the faculty increasing the range of election in the list of subjects which may be offered for admission to the College.

For candidates who come not from Townsend Harris Hall, but from other schools, intermediate algebra becomes, instead of a required subject, an elective subject, with one-half unit of extra credit, and to the list of elective subjects which may be offered are added advanced botany, with one unit of credit, advanced zoology with one unit, and shop work with one-half or one unit.

The purpose of these additions is to articulate further the work of the College with that of the city high schools.

CONFERENCE BY EUGENE BRIEUX AT RITZ-CARLTON

Frederic R. Coudert Arranging for Benefit for French Aid

Frederic R. Coudert is arranging for a conference to be given by Eugene Brieux, the playwright, at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel, on March 1, at four o'clock, on "The France of To-Day." The proceeds of this conference are to be divided equally between the fund being collected by Mrs. Whitney Warren for the Secours National and the fund being collected by Mr. Coudert for the war orphans.

Tickets can be had from Prof. Delamarre, and are $3 each.

NEW EDITION OF PROF. JOHNSTON'S "NATHAN HALE"

Uses Documents Discovered in British Museum---Sketch Locates Scene of Hale's Execution---Prof. Johnston to Address New York State Historical Association.

A new edition of Prof. Henry Phelps Johnston's "Nathan Hale, 1776," revised and enlarged, was recently published by Yale University Press.

Professor Johnston's biography of Hale was first published in 1901. Since that time he has discovered valuable documents which add important evidence relating to the subject, among others, a sketch in the British Museum which locates with considerable probability the scene of Hale's execution.

Professor Johnston has been invited to deliver the address before the New York State Historical Association at its next annual meeting to be held at West Point.

The occasion is expected to be unusually interesting, as this is the first time the United States Military Academy has consented to open its doors to a civic body.

Besides the members of the Association and the invited guests, the entire Cadet Corps will be present. The date of the meeting has not yet been announced.

PRESIDENT MEZES SPEAKS AT Y. M. C. A. RECEPTION TO FRESHMEN

Everett Hood Announces Another Minstrel Show---Excursion in May

The Y. M. C. A. Reception and Smoker to the Freshman Class was held last Thursday evening in the Tower Rooms. President Mezes spoke to the Freshmen on "The Choice of a Vocation."

Ex-President Hood presided, and with that style of oratory that "makes men yearn for the good old days" inspired his listeners to greater efforts in Association activities. A brief outline of plans were announced: the Hartford Convention, March 19th to 21st; another Minstrel Show on April 5th; the annual excursion up the Hudson about May 15th; and the Northfield Conference in June and July.

The speakers for the committees were Petersen, Delegation, Austin, Industrial, and Malmberg, Bible Study. A glowing tribute was paid Mr. Bartlett for his industry and constructive endeavors during his five years here.

Professors Horne, Earle Palmer, and Whitford represented the instructing staff at the Smoker. Piano, refreshments and "smokes" were all worked overtime by the barbarous and uncultured Freshies.

Brother of French Instructor Is Killed In Battle

Mr. R. G. Damen of the French Department has received news of the death of his brother, Austin Damen, on the battlefield. The official report merely states, "Killed in action in Flanders, January 10, 1915." It is believed that he was killed in the battle of La Basse.

At the outbreak of hostilities, Austin Damen was in Bulawayo, Africa, where he was interested in a gold mine. He immediately took ship for England and enlisted as a volunteer in the King's Royal Rifles. He was a useful man to his regiment as he spoke English, French, German and Dutch fluently. He was a crack shot, and an excellent horseman and athlete.

Austin Damen was born in Dorchester, England. He was 42 years of age.

Mr. R. G. Damen has relatives in Belgium with whom he has been unable to communicate. The penalty that the Germans have set for carrying mail across the frontier is fifteen years in prison.

C. C. N. Y. DEFEATS DELAWARE

Varsity Leads All the Way and Plays Fine Basketball—Final Count 33 to 18

Rising from its slump of the past few weeks, the basketball team of the College defeated the Delaware College five, 33 to 18, Saturday evening. There was never any question as to the outcome.

The locals outplayed the Delaware men in every department and at every stage of the contest. They also excelled the visitors in every position, and it was only the foul shooting of Wells that gave Delaware a presentable score, for it gathered only five baskets from scrimmage—three by Horsey and one each by Weimer and Wells.

McGill starred for C. C. N. Y., with six field goals. He also led in the passing and made the assists for at least four other baskets. Captain Drake also put up a rattling fast game, and Bronstein played his best this season. The C. C. N. Y. substitutes did almost as well as the regulars.

In a preliminary game the C. C. N. Y. freshmen received their third beating this season by Boys' High School of Brooklyn. The Brooklyn lads held the upper hand all the way, and won by 33 to 16. The line-up and summary of the big game follow:

C. C. N. Y. (33). Delaware (18).
 McGill.....L. F..... Weimer
 Bronstein.....R. F..... Horsey
 Drake, Jaffe.....Cen..... Wells
 Weinfeld, Tanz....L. G..... Dougherty
 Lefkowitz.....R. G..... Cann

Score at half—16 to 6. Goals from field—McGill 6, Bronstein 4, Drake 3, Lefkowitz 2, Tanz 1, Horsey 3, Wells 1, Weimer 1. Goals from fouls—Lefkowitz 1, Wells 8, Referee—Mr. Quirk, Y. M. C. A. Time of halves—20 minutes.

He discussed the relation of public health to the water supply, describing and tracing the history of water supply systems up to the present day.

MORTIMER COHEN CHOSEN FOR STATE PEACE ORATION CONTEST

"The Higher Nationalism" Subject of Oration—Winner Receives Prize
of $25

Public speaking trials to determine the representative of the College in the New York State Peace Oration Contest, were held last Thursday.

After a short introductory speech by Professor Palmer, the heavy cannonading began—despite the professed sentiments of the speakers against war. When the smoke of the battle cleared away the judges announced Mortimer Cohen as the officially chosen representative of C. C. N. Y.

In his three and a half years in the college he has been identified with many activities in the branch of public speaking; notably when he made a place in the competition for the Roemer prize. The subject he has chosen, "The Higher Nationalism" is capable—as he well showed—of the finest development and the chances of the College in the state contest look very bright.

Hardly inferior to Mortimer Cohen were his five fellow contestants. James Gould made an impressive oration on the "Passing of War." Samuel Friedman shattered in vigorous style the illusion that armaments make for peace in his, "In Time of Peace." J. Linzheimer spoke on "War and Nature's Law." M. Wilchins and Martin D. S. Peterson sounded the religious note in the speeches on "The Eleventh Commandment" and the "Spiritual Deficit," respectively.

ATHLETICS

Well, our boys did the trick last Saturday night, didn't they? What! You didn't see the game? Well, that's your look-out. We predicted it just one week ago to-day and you should have taken heed. To get down to brass tacks, our boys came back. They sent Delaware back across the icy river to the tune of 33-18. The boys from "down South" started off with a rush, but their fiery spirit was somewhat curbed when our boys found themselves after a few minutes of play. McGill played his usual, good game and was held accountable for six goals from field while Bronstein repeated his last showing with five. Twelve of Delaware's eighteen points were made by Wells with goals from foul.

Near the end of the game, Coach Palmer put in an entire substitute team with the exception of McGill, but Jaffe was the only one who had time to drop in a goal.

The game was a highly interesting one from our point of view. C. C. N. Y. led all the way with a comfortable margin,—just enough to keep the game from getting too interesting.

We hereby promise the repetition of the aforesaid performance this Saturday night, February 27th, when Allegheny comes to town. Don't miss it. We have a rep for good predictions.

Line-up and summary on the front page with all the "big" stories.

Wants Membership of C. C. N. Y. in Middle States I. C. A. A.

In order that the team of the College and of N. Y. U. can compete in the annual championships at Haverford College on May 17th, Coach Bruce of the Lafayette College athletic squad is working hard among the members of the Middle States Intercollegiate Athletic Association in the effort to have the limitation rule changed.

The rule at present bars colleges with a membership of over 1,000. C. C. N. Y. has over 1,500 and the N. Y. U. registration is also above the limit.

The college athletic team this year has been greatly strengthened by additions of high school athletes and Coach Mackenzie expects the college to score many points at the big college meet in Madison Square Garden on March 6th.

SWIMMING LEAGUE

"JILTS" AMHERST

New England College Refused Admission After Being Encouraged—C. C. N. Y. Said to be Ready to Quit Old Association

AMHERST, Mass., Feb. 20.—The fact that Amherst has been refused admission to the Intercollegiate Swimming Association has caused considerable comment among those who have been watching her successful swimming team this year, and also severe criticism of the way in which the intercollegiate association is run. The association is composed of Yale, Princeton, Columbia, Pennsylvania and the College of the City of New York.

Last year the association decided to permit other colleges to make individual entries in the intercollegiate championships, but did nothing toward sending out particulars about the conditions under which entries could be made. Early last fall Professor Nelligan of Amherst applied for the conditions under which entries could be made without joining the round robin, and in reply came the assurance of the president of the association that Amherst could enter without joining the round robin. This advice was taken as authoritative and Amherst adopted its schedule accordingly. Recent letters to the association failed to bring any response.

Recently statements appeared that Amherst and Union had been refused membership because they had no water polo teams. As Amherst did not want to lose its chance for joining the league, a water polo team was immediately formed. Now information comes that the association has rescinded its last year's ruling and has forbidden Amherst admission.

Amherst has sounded some of the members of the league and has learned that Columbia and the College of the City of New York are in favor of letting it in. Judging from the attitude of C. C. N. Y., it would be willing to quit the big league and form a new association. This body would be composed of Amherst, Union, C. C. N. Y., Rutgers, Swarthmore, Haverford and Wesleyan.

It is said that Yale led the opposition to Amherst and Union and would not permit the local college into the league on the score that the five members now in it are enough and that additions

"The accumulation of a fund from the profits . . . which fund shall be used to aid, foster, maintain, promote realize or encourage any aim which shall go towards the betterment of College and student activities . . . This corporation is not organized for profit."

—Article of Incorporation of The Campus Association.

The greatest enemy to progress in an educational institution like our own is that unconscious Tradition (and sometimes conscious) attitude of the authorities,—“What was good for me when I was a student is now good for them.” This idea concerning educational development is erroneous, and even those who entertain it will agree that it is unscientific. Times change and everything must change with the times.

We hardly find at the college that happy and free situation where people meet with the strongly united willingness to teach and to learn; instead, we find a condition wherein the exertion of power seems to play a role of greater importance than the actual learning and teaching. To illustrate, for any disciplinary reason a student may be debarred from recitation. We are at present not concerned with actual cases, but the fact remains that instead of helping a student out of the difficulty, he is thereby brought into another difficulty—that of losing instruction. The same holds true with respect to other rules of the Faculty. Let us consider Art. 4, Sec. 3, of the By-Laws: “A student coming late may be excluded from the room and marked absent.” Some instructors obey the rule. What is the result? There is more disturbance telling the student to stay out of the room than there is in his taking his seat; furthermore, instead of losing the first five minutes of the hour the student loses the whole hour.

It is not our purpose to quote these cases as specific evils of our educational system, but as types of conditions which by their very number invite serious consideration.

Because we have given ear to the case of a student who declares he was humiliated by being criticized in the presence of others for his need of a shave, and because we have doubted that two or three days' growth of the beard can be a source of disease, The Mercury flourishes its little pen at us and declares we are wicked and abandoned creatures possessing dark designs for the destruction of the Department of Hygiene and Physical Instruction.

The Mercury invents and imputes to us various mysterious motives. It then laboriously succeeds in disproving what it persuades itself we believe,—that the spreading of disease is a good thing all around.

Generally speaking, to build a platform for an opponent and then to smash it, is an amusing—and necessary game. It has often been played. As a point of purely historical interest, —Balaam, sitting in solemn consultation with his vis-a-vis, originated it.

A Sense of Humor

There are many ways of classifying people—there are those who like chocolate and those who don't—or those who prefer sleeping to eating—or those who would rather hear a clever sermon than a bad joke. We are all grateful to Gelett Burgess for his classification of our friends and enemies. But the division that appeals to us most is that of those who have a sense of humor and those who haven't.

There are many false ideas anent this elusive sixth sense. It is not a matter of being either amused or amusing, as many people seem to think. It is easy to laugh at those who do not agree with us. But it is difficult to laugh with them. And it is this which savors of a real sense of humor.

Let us listen to the buzzing of the bee in our bonnets and find a certain humor in the hum. It is the surest music wherewith to chase the little blue devils.

And what is it, you ask, this previous, elusive sense which psychology does not recognize and without which even this editorial cannot be appreciated? If you have it, you need not ask, and if you have it not—you see how hopeless it is!

Harvard's Worm Overeducated

The educated worm, pupil of Prof. R. M. Yerkes, of Harvard University, is dead. The poor thing probably learned to avoid the early bird, only to die from the effects of overstudy. Thus those physicians who advise against feeding the brain at the expense of the body are again vindicated.

CORRESPONDENCE

It is not reasonable to suppose that all readers will agree with our editorial comments in their entirety. We would be pleased to receive letters on subjects discussed in our columns, and, in fact, on all collegiate matters of interest. Anonymous contributors will not obtain consideration, nor do the editors guarantee to publish all letters addressed to them. A most liberal policy, however, will be adopted, and readers having comments worthy of expression should take this opportunity to state their views.

The Campus does not necessarily support correspondents' views.

The Civic Club

To the Editor of THE CAMPUS:

Sir: May I speak to the students of the College through your journal?

You men, who are soon to have thrust upon your shoulders the responsibilities of citizenship; you men who are soon to demand the privileges of citizenship—are you ready to accept the responsibilities, and are you deserving of the privileges that come with your twenty-first birthday? If you are not, the Civic Club can be of real help to you. If you are, then start your career as a good citizen by disseminating your knowledge among others, at the Civic Club.

A live organization—studying the affairs of to-day and to-morrow, teaching its members "what's what" and "who's who" in the world of politics and economics—that is what the Civic Club is! If you are alive to the topics of the day if you feel that, as a college man, you ought to be acquainted with questions of current interest, if you would know how to discuss modern topics, (other than the weather) in an intelligent and interesting way, come to the meetings of the Civic Club, Thursdays at 12, Room 306.

C. C. N. Y., SWIMMERS BEATEN BY HARVARD

Competition Fast and Close and Requires Last Event to Decide Victor

The Harvard University swimming team defeated the College team in the local pool Monday night by the score of 32 to 21 points.

All the events were closely contested, and it was not until the final event, the relay race, that Harvard gained the victory. Seymour gained a yard on Kilpatrick, Jenney increased this lead to two yards, Bosworth, swimming for the home team, caught Wentworth, and Fulerton and Shauer started on even terms. The local man held Fulerton for fifty yards, but weakened at the finish and lost by two yards.

The best contest was the fifty-yard swim. All the men who started were close in the race all the way. The spectators were only sure of the result when the judges announced that Bosworth had won by inches.

The diving of O'Connell was excellent. His performance was one of the best seen this season, and his work was applauded by the spectators. The meet was the closing one of the year for the local team. The summary:

800-Foot Relay.—Won by Harvard, (J. Seymour, W. Jenney, H. Wentworth, B. Fulerman.) C. C. N. Y., second. Time—2:43. Won by 2 yards.

Fancy Dive.—Won by N. O'Connell, C. C. N. Y.: W. Monroe, Harvard, second; I. Klemes, C. C. N. Y., third.

50-Yard Swim.—Won by D. Bosworth, C. C. N. Y.: H. Wentworth, Harvard, second; J. Seymour, Harvard, third. Time—0:28 1-5. Won by inches.

220-Yard Swim.—Won by B. Fulerton, Harvard; M. Kilpatrick, C. C. N. Y., second; J. Howay, C. C. N. Y., third. Time—2:54. Won by 5 yards.

Plunge for Distance.—Won by W. Jones, C. C. N. Y., 63 feet; H. Dickson, Harvard, 61 feet, second; W. Monroe, Harvard, 50 feet, third.

100-Yard Swim.—Won by B. Fulerton, Harvard; H. Wentworth, Harvard, second; D. Bosworth, C. C. N. Y., third. Time—1:05 4-5. Won by a foot.

George Randolph Chester

Famous Author, says:

"Why shouldn't a man be willing to recommend a tobacco which gives as cool, sweet and satisfying a smoke as Tuxedo?"

For Mentally Alert Men—Tuxedo

George Randolph Chester's "Get-Rich-Quick Wallingford" stories have delighted thousands through the mental alertness, good humor and keen mind shown by the wily promoter.

When George Randolph Chester writes of things typically American he knows what he is talking about; and when he endorses Tuxedo—the typically American tobacco—his endorsement carries great weight with the keen-minded, alert and brainy smokers of this country.

Tuxedo

The Perfect Tobacco for Pipe and Cigarette

is made especially to maintain the American spirit of good humor. Its constant use benefits a man in mind and body, by keeping him happy and physically fit.

Tuxedo is the finest Kentucky Burley—the world's premier smoking-tobacco leaf—made absolutely non-biting by the original "Tuxedo Process" that has never been successfully imitated. Tuxedo is delightfully mild, fragrant, rich, and gives a cool and satisfying smoke. Tuxedo is in a class by itself.
