PUSH BALL EVENT WON BY FRESHMEN IN HARD BATTLE

'24 Wins Slight Lead at Start
But Fails to Hold Advantage—Frosh Sweep Field
in Second Half

JASPER OVAL SCENE OF CLASS STRUGGLE

'25 Gains Lead in Fight for Banner
—Scrap After Contest

Employing to good advantage their superior numbers, the Freshmen gained first blood in their struggle with the Sophomores for term honors when, last Friday afternoon, they swept the Sophomores from their feet in the second half of the annual push ball contest, winning a decisive victory. During the first period neither side was able to gain any great advantage, though '24 had a slight lead. The superior knowledge of tactics displayed by the upper classmen was responsible for this gain; but during the closing minutes of the second period the '25 men instituted a drive which proved irresistible and swept the huge ball across the goal line, the frantic efforts on the part of the Sophs to halt the Frosh onrush notwithstanding.

When the whistle blew at 4 o'clock, a large crowd had gathered to watch the struggle. The two classes lined up on opposite sides of the ball, and, when the signal was given, they rushed towards the center of the field. '24 hit the ball first and pushed it into Frosh territory.

After this short gain, neither class made any progress and the ball was slowly rolled to the side until it was out of bounds. The close of the first period found the ball a few feet into the Frosh territory. With their throats full of dust, the combatants retired to their respective sides to await the second and final period.

The second period began with a short gain for '24, after which the ball was pushed out of bounds. The Freshmen then assumed a different formation. 100 men stationed themselves directly opposite the ball. The remaining 100 were divided into three groups; one at the right end of the field, a second at the left end, and the third directly behind the center group. After the main group hit the ball, the two side groups rushed at the Sophs and pushed them away from the ball. At the same time the last reserve group ran in and helped push the ball. The result was that the Freshmen swept the ball half way down the field before it was pushed out of bounds.

At the next attempt, the Sophs, bewildered by the new tactics, deserted the ball to fight with the side groups. This was a great blunder on the part of the Sophs, who were thereafter unable to keep the ball from crossing the goal line.

As soon as the contest was over the Freshmen rushed to one gate, while the Sophs took possession of the other gate. Finally the Freshmen ran to the Soph gate and tried to force their way out. Very shortly many of the fighters found that they had been relieved of their shirts and large portions of their trousers. After a few minutes of this both classes seemed to think that they were victorious, for each snake-danced back to the gym building, exhibiting the souvenirs which they got from the backs of their opponents.

FRESH-SOPH EVENTS

PILL TOSSERS BEGIN EARLY

Many Veterans Report for First Practice, Last Thursday—
Coach Holman Speaks to Men

FIFTY MEN RESPOND TO CALL FOR CANDIDATES

First Time in Years that Basketball Practice Begins So Early

Although the basketball season will not start until two months from now, candidates were requested to report on the gymnasium floor last Thursday at 1 P. M. About fifty men were present at this meeting. This is probably the largest number of candidates that have reported for the varsity quintet in years, and will furnish Coach Holman with a vast amount of material from which he can pick his final team. Among the squad were many veterans of last year's victorious team, including Captain Raskin, whose one hand twisters aided the Lavender quintet last year in piling up its scores; Anderson, lanky center, who first received an opportunity to show his prowess at the end of last year and who has kept himself in trim during the summer and is now ready to begin work with a great zeal; Hahn and Nadel, who have been under the tutelage of the varsity captain while at camp this summer; Rosonowitz and Fahrer, who gained their reputation on the Freshman team last term; Klauber, Sak, Edelstein, and Cohn, all of whom were educated in the Holman school last year. Besides this group of veterans, a large number of new candidates reported.

As an introduction, Coach Holman explained the dire necessity of the men to keep themselves physically fit. He advised them not to begin work too speedily, but to harden themselves gradually until they become accustomed to the hardships endured by a basketball player. After this little speech the candidates had a very short workout and then were instructed to report for practice regularly on Tuesday at 4 P. M., Wednesday at 5 P. M. and Thursday at 1 P. M.

For the benefit of the twelve hundred freshmen, it is well to know what the basketball team accomplished last year. The Lavender quintet won ten contests and lost five. The Alumni, Cathedral, Seton Hall, Toronto, Fordham, Amherst, Brown, Yale, Brooklyn Poly and Syracuse are the ten quintets that suffered defeat, while Columbia, West Point, N. Y. U. and Princeton (twice) managed to defeat the varsity by very close margins. In fact, the Blue and White quintet just nosed out City College by one point, while the Army and Princeton triumphed by the small margins of three and four points respectively. The worst beating of the year was handed in by N. Y. U., but this year the Lavender quintet is expected to avenge all those defeats.

PROF. COHEN TALKS TO PROBLEM CLUBS

Professor of Philosophy in First Lecture of Term Discusses Aspects of Social Psychology

SAYS SOCIAL STUDIES ARE NOT SCIENTIFIC

Chandler Owen, Negro Editor, to Address Club on October 21

The program of the Social Problem Club for the fall term was opened on Friday, October 7, by Professor Cohen of the Department of Philosophy with a lecture on the question, "Is There a Social Science." The professor attempted to demonstrate that the complex nature of the so-called social science precluded the possibility of their being sciences in the strictest sense of the word.

In his introduction, Professor Cohen explained that it appears rather paradoxical to question where there is a social science when most of his auditors were studying various subjects called by that name. However, he showed that such subjects as Economics, Social Psychology and Politics, though they are defined as sciences, do not meet the standards of real sciences.

A science, strictly speaking, denotes the idea of definite, positive knowledge of the kind that has no exceptions. By means of the formulations of science, humanity should be able to predict future happenings. However, social sciences fall down in these two points. "Can the social sciences have universal laws without exceptions or predict future phenomena to the same degree as physics or chemistry?" Professor Cohen inquired.

"Economics is the most developed of the social sciences. Yet the condition of the application of the law of supply and demand has never been realized. This law applies only in an absolutely free market. Such freedom has never been attained.

"A scientific law should have no exceptions. Nevertheless, we find that an economic law is not always applicable. If an exception to the law of gravitation were found, it would no longer be accepted as a scientific truth. In the field of social science, however, theoretical statements are accepted as truths even when they cannot stand the test of experimentation."

It is because of the fact that the laws of social science are not rigid and accurate that Professor Cohen objected to their being termed scientific laws. He took pains to show that he was not attempting to belittle the social sciences, realizing as he did their value, but merely to show that their failings precluded the possibility of their being termed sciences.

The reason for these failings was attributed to the nature of social sciences. While we may take an impartial attitude toward the laws of geometry and physics, "anyone who questions the validity of the principles of ethics is called a voluptuary; of economics, a Bolshevik." Because the social sciences deal with mankind, it is impossible for people to take an unbiased attitude toward them.

In order to further drive home his point, Professor Cohen showed that because social sciences deal with human life, we accept doctrines as truths when we have no evidence for them.

For example, the doctrine of social evolution—that all social institutions have evolved through certain steps—has been accepted without question. Yet the only evidence for the theory rests on data which scientists would say are insufficient.

CHAPEL MEETING

Dean Brownson announces that the first Chapel Meeting of the term will be held Tuesday, October 18, at 11 o'clock. Seat assignments will be posted in the alcoves.

Y. M. C. A. HOLDS FRESHMAN DINNER

"Pa" Burchard, Dean Brownson and Major Herrick Talk—Urge Extra Curricular Activities

WEST POINTER MAKES C.C.N.Y. HIS COLLEGE

Singing Led by Professor Baldwin—Student Officers Also Speak

The semi-annual freshman dinner of the College Y. M. C. A. which took place last Friday evening proved to be an outstanding success from the points of view of both attendance and enjoyment. There were approximately one hundred present, including the guests of honor.

As in previous years, "Pa" Burchard assumed the roll of toastmaster in the most masterful and entertaining manner. The guests of the evening were Dean Brownson, Professor Baldwin and Major Herrick of the Military Science Department.

After the "sumptuous banquet," prepared by Mr. Hammond, had disappeared, Professor Burchard arose and sang the first verse of "The Son of a Gambolier" which was greeted with enthusiasm by those present. Professor Burchard then exercised his prerogative as chairman to ask the Dean to sing the next verse. At this threatened attack on the majesty of the powers that be, the astonished freshmen almost fainted and were absolutely rendered senseless by seeing the Dean arise and respond to the invitation with evident pleasure. This solo was greeted with an outburst of applause.

After the frivolities had ended, and with the singing of a few college songs, Professor Burchard made a most impressive address of welcome to the class of 1925. His many sallies of wit kept his audience rocking with laughter, but in the intervals between, he spoke of more serious things, comparing the C. C. N. Y.'s wonderful record in the past in scholarship, saying that "this college takes off its hat to no college in the country in discipline or intellectual achievements."

All the freshmen were asked to stand in order that it might be seen how many were present. The number arising gave a good indication of the popularity of the "Y" dinners. Professor Burchard made a few remarks on the importance of football and said that the Stuyvesant football team and our own Frosh team would be invited to "Y" dinner next Saturday after the game. He then introduced Dean Brownson and requested him to explain why he sang so well.

Professor Brownson expressed his great pleasure at welcoming the freshmen; he mentioned their unlimited future possibilities. He said that they would never prize anything so much as their membership in the class of 1925 and plead for the men to think of their college first and themselves last. He painted a vivid picture of his own early days at the Alma Mater and of the priceless class spirit that he had

Defeat Fordham Prep by a Score of 7 to 2

Lavender Yearlings Display Fine Team Work and Bring Home First Victory of the Season

Freshmen Line Holds Fordham in Check When Pigskin Is Near the Lavender Goal Line

On a soggy field and amidst a heavy downpour, the freshman football team battled Fordham Prep and triumphed over the Maroon eleven by the score of 7 to 2. The contest proved to be a very interesting one, as the pigskin was almost always in dangerous territory. However, the Lavender eleven outplayed their rivals at the crucial moments and very often received the ball because Fordham could not make a first down when in sight of City College's goal line.

MCCARTHY PRESIDENT OF JUNE '25 CLASS

Yannet Is Vice-President—First Meeting of Combined Class Councils Thursday

On the second ballot of the '25 elections held last Thursday, Herman McCarthy was elected president, and Herman Yannet vice-president, of the incoming June '25 class. The race for the presidency was very close, McCarthy defeating his opponent, Leonard Breslow, by only three votes. The totals were: 74 for McCarthy as against 71 for Breslow. Yannet defeated Hyman Lederfeld by a vote of 85 to 53.

The results of the balloting for the remaining offices were also close, in most cases. Charles Roth was elected secretary, defeating Abraham Brodsky by a vote of 73 to 66. For the treasurership, Philip Amant won over Francis Pagano by a tally of 87 to 51. The marshalship went to Morris Rothman, who defeated Saul Brodsky, 70 to 67. The final office, that of poet-historian, went to Louis Legalowitz, Seymour Copstein losing by a vote of 60 to 70.

The first meeting of the combined February and June '25 Council will be held this Thursday. Oshinsky, the February president, will preside. The matter of the Fresh-Soph tug of war will be taken up, among other things, with a view to insuring a repetition in the event of the Freshman success at push ball.

STUDENT COUNCILLORS ELECTED BY '22 CLASS

On the second ballot in the 1922 class the following were elected student councillors for June: Paul Fagin, Louis Zorn; for the February class: D. Gerber, S. Hartman and S. Oseas. A re-election was held on Friday to determine whether Gerber or Oseas should be ex-officio members on the February Students Council. The former was elected councillor and the latter is ex-officio member. The first council meeting will be held on Tuesday, October 11.

SOPH RE-ELECTIONS THURSDAY AT NOON

Re-elections for the vice-presidency of February, '24, will be held at noon Thursday in the Soph alcove. The office of president of the class of June, '24, will also be contested.

The class council has appointed Sam Stanger marshal of the February class to fill the vacancy caused by the leaving of "Mac" Woolf.

The Sophs are confiscating the hats of all Freshmen appearing on the campus with any headgear other than the regulation skull cap. Hats are redeemed in the '24 alcove at noon only upon the presentation of a Frosh cap bearing the owner's initials.

The game started at 2.30 P. M. sharp, despite the rain, and was witnessed by a small crowd of enthusiastic football fans. The spectators certainly were repayed for coming up during the rain. During the entire contest they were treated to moments of excitement and anxiety, besides witnessing an 80-yard run for a touchdown.

Fordham Starts Well

Fordham received the ball on the kickoff and ran back several yards before being thrown on an end run. The visitors made their first down. At this point the Lavender team was unable to check the onslaught of its opponents and Fordham, on successive first downs, managed to get to C. C. N. Y.'s 15-yard line. Here they hit a stumbling block and were held on downs. The pigskin ball then passed up and down the field, but neither was able to score in the first quarter.

C. C. N. Y. Scores

The second period was an eventful one for the freshmen. They scored the only touchdown of the contest during this period. The visiting team was threatening to score and began to hit its rival's line very hard. On an attempted line plunge Fordham fumbled the ball and Brauer, City College left end, picked it up and ran eighty yards through a broken field for a touchdown. Brodsky then kicked the ball between the posts, making the score 7 to 0 in favor of his team. This spectacular run was the sensation of the game and later turned out to be of sufficient value to earn a Lavender victory. The remainder of the quarter was utilized for no further advantage by either team.

Fordham Scores a Safety

Both teams returned to the field after a fifteen-minute intermission. The Maroon eleven was anxious to even up matters, but the best they accomplished was to tally a safety. This occurred when the home team's center passed the wet pigskin badly and Oshinsky who later got the ball was thrown down in back of his own goal line, giving Fordham two points. The Bronxites' late tally furnished an incentive to the Freshmen to fight all the more vigorously to prevent further scoring and both teams struggled hard until the final whistle blew, using the aerial pass most of the time with no decided gain. The game ended with the ball on the fifty-yard line and the score still 7 to 2.

Brauer was the star of the game, and is recorded as the first freshman to score a touchdown. The honor of kicking the first goal from touchdown fell to Brodsky, while Oshinsky again played a fine game. After the game the husky freshman fullback was elected captain.

MENORAH HEARS TALK BY DR. JUDAH MAGNUS

The Topic is "The Jew and the Present World"—Wants Independence of Thought

Dr. Judah L. Magnus spoke on "The Jew and the Present World" to a large audience in Room 126 last Thursday at 1 o'clock. The meeting was held under the auspices of The Menorah Society.

Touching briefly on the problems of the day, Dr. Magnus outlined the conditions facing the world. He asserted that editors, statesmen, literary men, college professors, and others who mould public opinion have lost their power of independent thinking in the last few years.

The lecturer said that western civilization is doomed to destruction unless different peoples cease to be suspicious of one another, and unless the nations learn to understand each other. "Another war is near at hand," he exclaimed. Its cause was laid primarily to the lack of independence of mind which makes possible the hatred and malice that still fill the world.

Under such conditions, Dr. Magnus continued, it is beneficial that the Jews maintain their individuality. He raised the question whether the Jews should give up their religion, their philosophy, their ethics, and their ideals for a civilization that is leading the world into another war.

The task for the Jew, Dr. Magnus pointed out, is to apply his independence of mind, his ideals, and his ethics, in teaching the world to remedy its ills. The world has need of this service.

The talk was concluded with an appeal that the Jew be allowed to retain his spiritual identity and his distinctions, which have persisted through centuries.

INTERCOLLEGIATE NOTES

Fresh-Soph Activities in Other Institutions

CARNEGIE TECH

Once more the "burying of the hatchet" has ended the lazing period at the Carnegie Inst. of Technology. After winning the annual contests the Sophs decided that the plebes should not go unhazed. The result is described by the Tartan, the college publication.

"It was a strange sight which greeted the eyes on approaching the campus. On Woodlawn avenue many plebes were confessing their love for the fair co-eds. On the lawn some ingenious engineer had laid a track composed of freshmen. Over this express trains were running—each train consisting of a plebe walking on his hands, being pushed by the feet of a second plebe. The grand finale was reached at night when the sophs decided to have a midnight pajama parade. The plebes, clad in night shirts and colored pajamas, were roared out of their beds. After being made to serenade the various girls' dormitories they were marched to the swimming pool. The sophs didn't stop at this point, however, but marched the plebes through the icy cold pool."

MUHLENBERG

The freshmen at Muhlenberg College came out victorious in the annual tug of war with the sophs. Although the frosh were at a disadvantage from the start because a soph captured one of their ropes it was not long before they had pulled the sophs past the goal line.

CEDAR CREST

The freshmen rules drawn up by the sophomore class of Cedar Crest College are interesting because of their ultra-originality. Here they are in part:

1. Large napkins must be worn around the neck for breakfast with a string of twelve safety pins each two inches long on the outside.
2. An umbrella must be carried while on the campus and raised when a sophomore passes.
3. No rouge, powder, or jewelry, except watches, are to be worn.
4. Hair must be worn with a puff over the left ear and drawn back tightly on the right side with the ear visible.
5. Oxforfs must be worn with green laces.
6. Froshmen are warned to avoid the campus.

MENORAH ADDS NEW BOOKS TO LIBRARY

Expect Large Circulation—Library Includes Books, Pamphlets and Newspapers

The Menorah Librarian reported that the student body last term availed itself of the Menorah Library more than on any preceding term. The demand was so great that new books were added during the term, and, in addition, a considerable sum of money has just been appropriated for more new books. The library now contains more than two hundred volumes, including the Jewish Encyclopedia, and one hundred pamphlets, on every Jewish and closely allied subject. There are, in addition, more than a score of newspapers and periodicals, from every section of the country, representing every shade of opinion on the current problems of Jewish importance.

The Menorah Library is becoming a college institution. It is useful not only in more fully acquainting students with Jewish culture and ideals, but also in giving students help in connection with the regular college work in the departments of philosophy, history, public speaking, and others. The library also possesses a number of bibliographies on many subjects, and these may be obtained upon request. They will be very useful to those who partake in the Menorah and Zionist prize essay contests. An efficient staff of librarians is ever present and anxious to advise and assist the students in every way possible.

The Library is open to all faculty members and students, but non-Menorah members must pay a deposit before taking books out for the term.

SWIMMING TEAM STARTS PRACTICE

The City College swimming team has started practice already and is preparing for a difficult season. A large number of candidates have answered the call for practice, including all of last year's squad except Captain Lehrman, while in water polo C. C. N. Y. will have the same team as last year. MacTague will captain the natators and Menkes, last year's all-collegiate forward, the water poloists.

The Lavender schedule includes a number of the strongest colleges in the country. The season will open up with a meet against Penn and wind up with a contest against C. C. N. Y.'s old time rivals, Columbia.

The schedule is as follows: December 2, U. of P.; December 9, Columbia; December 16, Yale; December 23, Princeton; February 10, U. of P.; February 11, Navy; February 17, Yale; February 24, Princeton; March 10, Columbia. The first four contests will be held in the C. C. N. Y. pool, while the remaining meets will be held away from home.

MENORAH FORUM PLANS INTERESTING LECTURES

The Menorah Forum again promises to be one of the most popular features of student activities. Such men and women as Dr. Magnus, Fannie Hurst, Louis Marshall, Rose Pastor Stokes, Rev. Percy W. Grant, Rabbi Stephen S. Wise will surely have a message that can, with profit, be listened to by the entire student body.

The Hebrew Forum also is expected to attract every Hebrew in the College. Dr. Turov, Prof. Kaplan, Mr. Scharstein, Mr. Brainin are some of the well-known men who will address the Hebrew Forum.

MENORAH PLANS LAID FOR SOCIAL SEASON

A dance that shall live up to the best tradition of the College, will be given in the near future by Menorah. Those who remember the dances last year, in the Webb Room will look forward to the announcement of the date of this dance with pleasure.

A novel feature is being planned for this season, in the form of an inter-Menorah dance, to be held jointly by the Hunter and City College Societies.

The Intervarsity Menorah is also planning an unusually attractive set of social events, at which City College is expected to be well represented.

"Y" GIVES DINNER

learned to love. The Dean said "The whole college is deeply interested in freshmen, and full of kindly intentions and hearty good will from the college men themselves and the faculty, all the way up to the president of the college. Don't ever hesitate to come to the faculty for help and advice." Professor Brownson closed by wishing 25 a long life in the college, but at the roar of applause that greeted this unconscious statement, he hastened to amend it by adding "not too long."

Professor Burchard then arose and expressed the pleasure of the "Y" in having a World War veteran to address it, introducing Major Herrick. Major Herrick mentioned his own Alma Mater and told of his troubles in passing West Point examinations. Major Herrick selected City College from a list of fourteen others, including his own University of Illinois.

He urged that students take a more lively interest in the extracurricular activities of the College, athletics in particular. In this connection he laid a special emphasis upon football, exhorting every one to give staunch support to the Freshman eleven, maintaining that the institution of this sport at C. C. N. Y. was one of the greatest benefits it could possibly acquire. Citing his own particular case as an example he admitted that he would greatly desire to witness some of the important gridiron contests at West Point during the ensuing season, but that he intended to forego this desire in order to attend a Freshman game because he felt that C. C. N. Y. was now his college and deserving of his undivided support. As a conclusion to an address which was both interesting and helpful and which was appreciated as such by all present, the major told several anecdotes of life at the United States Military Academy.

Among the other speakers of the evening were Flynn, president of the Newman Club; Donald Roberts, the "Y" secretary, and Hoeflinger, president of the "Y".

The dinner came to a close with a session of enthusiastic cheering and spirited singing, led by Professor Baldwin.

Some of the most noted American chemists have been invited to speak. Dr. Edgar Smith, president of the American Chemical Society, has already accepted and the other lecturers will be announced later.

As usual, the lectures will be held on a different day each week so that every student of chemistry will have the opportunity of attending at least one of these talks.

DR. BASKERVILLE WILL ADDRESS CHEM SOCIETY

To Repeat Lecture on "Chemistry and Civilization"—Plan to Invite Prominent Men

The Department of Chemistry is at present arranging its schedule of lectures for this term. Dr. Baskerville will initiate this series of talks with an address on "Chemistry and Civilization." Dr. Baskerville recently addressed the members of the American Chemical Society on this topic. Inasmuch as Prof. Baskerville's address was much heralded by American chemists, the professor has consented to repeat the major part of the lecture for the benefit of the college men.

It is customary for the Department of Chemistry to conduct a series of lectures by prominent chemists each term. In this way students of chemistry are enabled to view those aspects of the science not touched in the classroom or lecture hall.

Some of the most noted American chemists have been invited to speak. Dr. Edgar Smith, president of the American Chemical Society, has already accepted and the other lecturers will be announced later.

As usual, the lectures will be held on a different day each week so that every student of chemistry will have the opportunity of attending at least one of these talks.

PROF. COHEN LECTURES

It is this tendency of social sciences to accept mere resemblances while chemists, not satisfied with similarity in appearance of various materials, analyzes and experiments that forces us to conclude that Economics, Politics and Social Psychology cannot be placed in the category of sciences.

The final difficulty, the professor stated, was the complexity of the subject. Physics and Chemistry deal with inanimate objects and hence are comparatively simple. Such subjects tend to accuracy and precision. However, society cannot be as readily analyzed as atoms and molecules.

Professor Cohen concluded with the statement that in his estimation, physical sciences will always be more advanced than social sciences.

On October 21, at 1 p. m., in Room 126, Chandler Owen, editor of The Messenger, a negro magazine, will address the Social Problems Club on "The Ku Klux Klan".

About forty candidates reported for practice at the first meeting of the wrestling squad. Captain Silver, Balostosky, Glasgold, Wolff, Gade and Spitz, all veterans, were among the men at the initial meeting. Two former wrestlers also returned to the squad. They are Olsen and Greenberg.

Freshmen and Sophomores may prepare for the coming cane sprees by practicing regularly with the wrestling team on Tuesday, Thursday and Friday at 1 P. M. Coach Cantor is volunteering his services for those who are either interested in wrestling or in the cane sprees. The wrestling team, from a first glimpse, is well supported in every class except the 175 lb. class. Men who like the sport, irrespective of previous experience, are requested to report to Manager Chabon, '22, at any time.

NEWMAN CLUB PLANS DANCE ON HALLOWE'EEN

The Newman Club is planning to hold a Halloween dance in the College gym on Friday evening, Oct. 25. Frank Jones, chairman of the committee in charge, promises that the affair will be the best of the season. Beside many other attractive features, there will be novel decorations and anti-Volstead punch.
