College's Five

The powerful Lafayette nine invaded the Lewisohn Stadium last Saturday and carried off a hard earned victory at the expense of the Lavender baseball team, by a 6-4 count. The home team put up a valiant defense, but the heavy-slugging Pennsylvanians made the most of their hits, and gave their pitching ace capital support in the field.

Halsey Josephson, who was spared performing in the Rutgers, was awarded the twirling position as expected, and turned in a performance that might have had a different termination were it not for the telling errors of his teammates.

Halsey opened the contest by fanning the first two men who faced him, and the third was retired on an infield fly to Rossi. The Lavender batters were destined to experience no better fate. Packer flied to the shortstop, and Ephron's infield smack was ably handled by the same member of the visiting aggregation. Hodesblatt was hit by a pitched ball and scurried down to first base. In an attempted steal of second, however, the bullet-like wing of the catcher headed him off by several feet.

Visitors Score First
Both teams opened up their fireworks in the second frame, but it seemed that the visitors brought along a larger supply. Fortune, however, favored the Convent Avenue club when the visitors came to bat, for although they knocked out three safeties and the home team made two errors, the timely trapping of two runners between the bases held the Easton bunch down to but two tallies.

Captain Raskin started things humming in the College's chance at bat by socking out a single. Dono coaxed a free pass from the Lafayette pitcher, advancing Tubby to second. On Josephson's infield bingle, the visitors attempted to retire Raskin at third, but a wild throw not only let him make it, but helped him to an extra base. Dono, who was following Raskin closely, tried to make home also but was cut down at the plate.

The third round was a duplication of the first, but in the fourth the visitors again scored. Kirkleski opened with a double to left field. Salembier was retired on strikes. McGarvey's hit to Rossi was badly manipulated and Kirkleski was permitted to score. O'Reilly whiffed and Parry went out, Josephson to Raskin; leaving McGarvey stranded at the hot corner.

Ephron Triples
In the sixth, the Easton lads, tallied again. A pair of singles, and a sacrifice hit were accountable for this run. The Lavender stickmen staged a comeback immediately after. Packer waited Parry out and was awarded a free pass. Ephron followed with a triple that brought Packer in. Hodesblatt knocked out a single on which Ephron scored, but Raskin then hit into a double play, and

BANQUET TENDERED TO HAKOAH TEAM

Athletes from City College and Columbia Are Among the Guests

A welcome on behalf of the students and youth of the country was extended to the visiting Hakoah Football Club of Vienna at a reception and banquet tendered to its members in America by the Governing Board of the Jewish student body at Columbia University last Thursday at the Students' House at 523 West 113th Street. Representatives from some of the leading Jewish organizations and representative Jewish athletes from the College and Columbia were present. The presidents of the Menorah societies of City College, N. Y. U., and Columbia were also present.

Seven students of the College attended. These were Joseph Scheinberg, '27, president of the Menorah; Tubby Raskin '27, three letter man and two sport captain; Max Hodesblatt '26, captain of the 1925-26 basketball team and catcher on the nine; Pinkie Sober '26, captain of the track team; Ike Miller '27, and George Tepper '27, co-organizers of the Lavender Soccer Club which engaged the Hakoah eleven in a practice game last Wednesday; and Lou Rochmes '27, sports editor of The Campus.

Dr. Koener, founder of the Hakoah, which has grown to a tremendous size since its inception, and Mr. Neuser, captain of the eleven, delivered addresses in German, the players' native tongue. Dr. Koener emphasized the motto of the organization as "mens sana in corpore sano" the truth of which is borne out by the large proportion of university men in the ranks of the visiting eleven.

Greetings to the team were extended by Dr. Herman Abramowitz, of Montreal, president of the United Synagogue of America; Dr. G. Randolph Manning, president of the Southern New York Football Association, which is composed of a number of teams of heterogeneous races; and Dr. Jacob Kohn, of the Temple Anshe Hessed. Mr. Morris L. Jacobs, a C. C. N. Y. alumnus, president of the Binai B'rith Lodge, was toastmaster. Mr. Joseph Steinberg '27 greeted the team in the name of the Students of City College.

Following cheers from the Columbia and Lavender representations, the Hakoah team, led by their captain, sang a German sports song relating to their organization. The Columbia group responded by chorusing together in "Roar, Lion, Roar", and this was followed by "Lavender" from the City College men. The N. Y. U. representation which consisted of two students could not render any songs.

Delegates from Twenty-Seven
Frats Attend; Dean
Brownson Present

The Inter Fraternity Council held its first formal banquet Wednesday evening at 7:30 p. m. at the City College Club, 46 East 50th Street. Delegates of twenty-seven fraternities were present who discussed, at the instigation of several faculty members, many problems of vital importance to the council. Professor Guthrie was the toastmaster of the evening.

The faculty members who addressed the delegates were Dean Brownson, Dean Robinson, Dr. Morton B. Gottschall, Recorder, and Professor Williamson. President Mezes and Professor Otis were unable to attend.

The banquet was held for the purpose of obtaining faculty recognition of fraternities in order that the Inter-Fraternity Council "may adopt in time, the duties of a legislative body, and become more than a mere social organization with the power to suggest and advise."

The first speaker of the evening was J. Bailey Harvey, former president of the Inter-Fraternity Council. Harvey spoke of the history of the inception of Council, and the problems it had to face at the time.

A. C. Crownfield jr., president of the I. F. C. at the present time pointed out the current aims of the Council and the means they were taking to accomplish them. "The Council aims," he said, "to co-operate with all extra-curricular activities of the College; to promote scholarship and athletics; and to help all incoming freshman classes to settle down and pursue extra-curricular activities."

The president of the I. F. C. finally suggested that in carrying out these aims the co-operation of the faculty ought to be secured in the way of recognition of fraternities.

The next speaker of the evening was Dr. Morton Gottschall, Recorder, who expressed himself as thoroughly sympathetic with the I. F. C. aims. He further suggested that the Fraternities continue their policy of compiling scholarship records.

Dean Brownson, as the last faculty speaker of the evening stressed that "the good will of the students is instrumental for the welfare of the I. F. C." He also suggested that the Council should be independent of the faculty.

At the regular meeting of the I. F. C. held on Thursday at noon, three amendments were suggested.

1. No freshman may be pledged unless he has passed one term of College work.

2. Officers shall be elected semi-annually at the end of each term.

3. Delegates should be elected to I. F. C. for three years instead of one.

MENORAH TO HEAR EASTMAN

Wesley Eastman, the secretary of the College Young Men's Christian Association will address the Menorah Society today in the Menorah alcove on the topic of "A College Need and Our Contribution."

Joe Scheinberg '27 president of the Menorah has especially invited all societies and fraternities, as Mr. Eastman will have a message of special interest to them. This is not the first time that Mr. Eastman has spoken to the Menorah. He addressed the Society last year on "Anti-Semitism and its Causes".

STOREY CALLS A.A. MEETING TUESDAY

Campus Editorial Leads F.A.C.
Head to Take Action on Constitutional Issue

At the request of several Campus representatives who followed up the action begun by a Campus editorial, Dr. Thomas A. Storey, chairman of the Faculty Athletic Committee, called a joint meeting of the F. A. C., the Athletic Association Board, the president of the Student Council, and the editor-in-chief and news editor of the Campus. The meeting will take place in Dr. Storey's office on Tuesday, April 27 at 3.30 p. m.

In connection with this new attempt to give the A. A. Board a constitution, Dr. Storey issued the following statement:

"The College of the City of New York regards wholesome, sportsmanlike, interesting athletics as one of our most important, if not our most important, extra-curricular factors in the educational experience of the student. For that reason the College, through the Department of Hygiene, has spent over a quarter of a million dollars on athletic instruction and athletic management during the last twenty years and the Trustees have enacted a series of regulations establishing the Faculty Athletic Committee and specifying its responsibilities and obligations in relation to inter-collegiate athletics.

The Committee is interested in the meeting that has been called for next Tuesday because that meeting brings an opportunity to discuss plans that may lead to an increase in student interest and participation in the athletic program of the College and help the College to a more successful influence on student athletics.

During the last twenty years student athletic officials have from time to time offered suggestions for the betterment of our student athletic organization. The chief of these suggestions that may be considered at the meeting next Tuesday as I remember them are:—

(1) That the Executive Board be reorganized with a managerial constituency.

(2) That the Board be reorganized so that officials of the Board will be elected—President, Vice-President, Secretary, Treasurer, etc.—while the remainder of the Board would be composed ex officio of managers of Varsity Teams.

(3) That the Board organize and administer a program for the training of student managers so that any interested student will have an opportunity to secure experience as a Junior Assistant and show his qualifications for managerial responsibilities.

(4) That the Board take charge of intramural athletics and build up a

This Wednesday is the last day set by the committee for receiving the marks of last term. Those fraternities that have not complied with this request will be named in The Campus as having such low averages as have no wish to be printed.

RESOLUTION UNSATISFIED

Campus Association's Reply
Considered Unsatisfactory
By Council

VOTE WAS TEN TO TWO

Ineligibility of Campus to Receive Funds
Automatic

At the meeting of the Student Council held last Friday, The Campus was declared ineligible to receive its Union allotment by a ten to two vote of the members of the Council. This action was based on the letter which the Council received from the Campus Association in answer to the resolution which it sent to the body. The motion which took the U allotment away from The Campus reads as follows:

"That the Campus Association communication of April 16 be considered as not satisfying the Student Council resolution of April 9, 1926."

This automatically withdrew the allotment which The Campus was supposed to receive since the resolution (which was sent to the Association) stated that The Campus would be considered ineligible to receive its allotment unless the Campus Association assured the Council that it would not interfere in editorial conduct of The Campus and that they would allow the undergraduate staff an equal voice in the election and removal of the editor.

The resolutions which the Student Council sent to the Association are as follows:

Whereas: It is of the utmost importance that the College maintain a free journal of student opinion, editorially responsible to no authority outside the College, and,

Whereas: In the judgement of the student Council, the undergraduate body of The Campus should have an equal voice in the election or deposition of an editor.

Therefore, Be it Resolved That unless, on or before April 20, 1926, the Student Council shall have been assured by the Campus Association that the latter body will not interfere in the editorial conduct of The Campus and will allow the undergraduate staff an equal voice in the election and removal of the editor, The Campus shall be considered ineligible to receive, as a student paper, any portion of the funds of the Student Union not already contracted, and

Be It Further Resolved That a copy of this Resolution be sent to the Campus Association, the Office of the President of the College, and the undergraduate press.

The Campus Association replied on April 16, 1926,

The Student Council of
The College of the City of New York.

Gentlemen:
Your communication of March 30th and April 9th were considered at a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Campus Association held on April 15th.

It has been customary since the organization of the Student Council for it to receive the notification of the election of editors of The Campus from the columns of that paper. For

CUB NINE DEFEATS ERASMUS HALL, 6-1

Captain Musicant Strikes Out
14 Men — Allows
Two Hits

Displaying an excellent brand of baseball the Lavender freshmen chalked up its fourth victory of the season by defeating the Erasmus Hall, 6 to 1, in a seven inning game, at the Stadium, Saturday morning. The cubs outthit the high school lads, five to two, and stole bases almost at will, Kantor stealing as many as four bases during the contest.

Captain Frank Musicant, cub southpaw, gave a fine performance on the mound, allowing but two scattered hits, and retired fourteen men via the strikeout route.

After Kantor was walked, Hand was put out at first. Kantor in the meanwhile stole second. Musicant, the next man up, clouted the ball for a two-bagger, sending Kantor home. Futterman then singled, while Musicant took third. McMahon sacrificing, scored Musicant and advanced Futterman, who later took third on an error. Rosner, allowed Futterman to score when he sacrificed. The next two men fanned retiring the side.

In the third inning the Lavender again scored. Kantor came home after stealing second and third and Futterman getting his second hit went home on Rosner's single. Hand concluded the scoring for the game when he tallied in the fourth.

THE NEW AESOP By Arthur Guiterman, '91

This delightful statement of Mr. Guiterman's enjoyment of the life of nature which is reprinted from the Saturday Evening Post of March 27th, 1926 was originally read at the official Phi Beta Kappa poem at a meeting of the Triennial Convention of the Fraternity held in New York last September.

Prologue

THAT son of David, Solomon the king,
Skilled in the tongues of river, rock and tree,
Of beast and bird, had speech with everything
That moves upon the earth or swims the sea.
Some part in what that monarch knew descends
To me, who am of David's blood as well;
The birds, the beasts, the hills are all my friends;
They speak to me, and what they say, I tell.

Fable I—The Hickory Tree

CHIPMUNK resides in the bowlder-stone wall,
A wise and a prosperous Chipmunk is he,
Admired by most and respected by all
Including the Rabbit, the Woodchuck and me.

Said I as he sat on a rock with his wife
Observing the play of their little ones three,
"Come, tell me your highest ambition in life."
—For Chipmunks are quite as ambitious as we.

Regretfully, soulfully wistfully fond,
He chirped as he pensively perched on my knee,
"Five pastures away and three mountains beyond
There burgeons a wonderful Hickory Tree.

"For months and for seasons with sorrowful sighs
I've languished that nut-bearing marvel to see;
Alas, but its glories are not for these eyes!
That clearly is Fate's adamant decree."

"But Chipmunk," said I, "you are brave, you are strong.
Why don't you skip merrily over the sea?
The road may be rough, but the summer is long.
What's kept you so long from your Hickory Tree?"

The Chipmunk replied, "In my juvenile prime
And venturesome youth, I was poor as could be;
I had to be gathering nuts all the time.
How could I set out for the Hickory Tree?"

"As older I grew and my harvest was stored,
The Jay and the Squirrel—the Red Chickaree,
Came spying and prying to plunder my hoard;
They kept me from seeking my Hickory Tree.

"Now, here is my bride, who believes in me so,
My little ones, too, with their innocent plea;
Since children are Pledges to Fortune, you know,
How dare I depart for my Hickory Tree?"

"But Chipmunk," I cried, "when your children are grown—
Your bride's in the nest—who so watchful as she!
The world and its wonder may still be your own;
You then may discover your Hickory Tree."

"It would not comport with my weight in affairs,
My eminence, dignity, rank and degree,"
The Chipmunk rejoined, "to relinquish my cares
To wander in quest of a Hickory Tree!"

There's always an aisle, but we haven't the chart;
There's always a door, but we haven't the key;
There's always a goal, but we haven't the heart;
There's always a far-away Hickory Tree.

Then are you too poor? Or are you too rich?
Or how are you bound? And why not be free?
Come out of your rut, come out of your ditch;
Be off to your wonderful Hickory Tree!

Envoy

In diverse faiths we worship, you and I,
The Ear of One Alone receives the prayer;
Each turns his face in longing toward the sky
To see his inmost soul reflected there.

In vain the heathen bid us bow before
Grim idols shaped to justify their greeds;
Shall we who seek Eternal Truth adore
False godlings chained to earth by earth-made creeds?

God is not summed in any printed page,
Man is not bound by any old belief,
Truth's a slow harvest, not a heritage—
The seed, the blade, the full ear, then the sheaf.

And though the road to Him be all uphill,
And though from that steep road our footsteps err,
Still, still our course is heavenward, and still
The sons grow wiser than the fathers were.

So God may say, "Behold My youngest son
Who bravely clamber up the scarp of Time,
Half-knowing that, though battles lost and won,
He climbs to Me Who gave the will to climb."

HIGHER EDUCATION

Alumni who have read in the newspapers of the past two years the discussion of the extension of the College into the Borough of Brooklyn and the establishment there either of a branch of C.C.N.Y. or of a separate College will be gratified to learn that the Governor has signed the Nicoll-Hearn Bill creating a board of higher education which will have in its control all public education beyond the high school grade in the City of New York. The new board will be made up of the Trustees of City College, of Hunter, and of three new members from the Borough of Brooklyn to be appointed by Mayor Walker within thirty days after the signing of the bill. According to the stipulations of the act, the first business of this board is to make provision for collegiate education in the borough of the largest school population in any City in New York of a million or more population. Since this can only refer to the Borough of Brooklyn in the City of New York, the Board will concern itself during the spring months with preparations for the long awaited Brooklyn branch of the College of the City of New York. It is expected that this step will relieve the serious crowding of the main buildings which for several years has been a detriment both to the student body and to the instructing staff, in the efforts of both to create a proper college atmosphere. Much credit for the successful termination of this long and difficult negotiation belongs to Dean Frederick B. Robinson of the School of Business and Civic Administration, who is always alert to oppose measures detrimental to the well being of the College and of public higher education in New York, and eager to promote activities looking toward greater opportunities on the part of the College for public service.

PURELY PERSONAL

In spite of all of the bitterness which many Alumni who never could understand the profound significance of trigonometry or whose knowledge of chemistry never got beyond the ability to break test tubes and wash bottles or whose ability to chin themselves eight times never developed, in spite, we say of the vast number of graduates and former students who harbor these memories of their college days and who as a consequence feel little affection or enthusiasm for the perpetrators of these torments of Freshman and Sophomore, we hope that some do not extend their antipathy to all of the teaching staff. If such be the case, and some, who at Alma Mater sit at Mark Hopkins' End of the Log, are remembered by their former students with moderate affection, we hope that those Alumni who find the opportunity to do so will use their influence even though it be in no more impressive fashion than by writing a letter to a State Senator or to the Governor suggesting that the bill now before the State Legislature authorizing an increase in the compensation of the teaching staff of the City schools and the college be given favorable consideration.

THE PLAY

Information has undoubtedly already come to most of our readers to the effect that on April 30th the Varsity Dramatic Society will present at the Hotel Plaza two short plays, "The Man of Destiny" by George Bernard Shaw and "The Hero of Santa Maria" by Ben Hecht and Philip Goodman. The occasion promises to be a memorable and lively one, similar to the Varsity Show of three years ago, when the players first summed up enough courage to give their performance in the delightful surroundings of the Grand Ballroom of the Plaza. The plays are to well known to need either explanation or praise and the acting will of course be of the highest grade. An additional inducement is offered to those who do not take their theatre "straight" in the fact that from eleven to two there will be dancing to the strains of one of the well known jazz bands which are made up of students from the College. If you are a very recent Alumnus you will not need any further urging to induce you to attend this performance; if you have been out of College for several years, you will only need to be reminded that nothing is so helpful in reviving your memories of old times as an evening spent watching your younger comrades enjoy themselves. We almost forgot to mention that tickets for this occasion may be obtained by addressing the Business manager of the Dramatic Society at the College and that they cost two dollars a piece.

THE 'VARSITY EXCURSION

With its usual consideration and thoughtfulness the College Y.M.C.A. has arranged to stage on May 22nd a thorough rehearsal for all those graduates and students of the College who intend early in July to embark on their annual pilgrimage to Europe. On good authority, we learn that no one should attempt to make an ocean voyage until he has had practice in sailing and seamanship such as the 'Varsity Excursion affords. It may be that after you have taken this Excursion and enjoyed the beauties of the American Rhineland, studied the chateaux and castles that lie along the Hudson, you will have no desire to view the ancient world, after two weeks spent in a student third class stateroom close to the propeller. Under any consideration you ought to try the Excursion as a means of becoming acclimated to sea air and to eating your meals on ship board. When you have completed the trip (which you will be able to make, if you go alone, for $1.25

FRENCH COLLEGES VISITED BY STUDENT

Milton Schilbach '27 Studies at the Sorbonne and U. of Grenoble

Milton Schilbach '27 who received a one thousand dollar scholarship award from the committee of Foreign Travel and Study, is now spending his junior year in France at the Sorbonne, studying under the auspices of the American Council on Education. He will return to the United States in September in time for the winter session.

Schilbach is under the oversight of Dr. Jaffe, a member of the faculty of C.C.N.Y. With the advice of Dr. Jaffe, Schilbach has been aided to select professors under whom he could work with satisfaction and to choose the exact courses he wanted. Schilbach has also received aid from the Rector of the University of Paris and the Dean of the Faculty of Law. Schilbach writes from Paris,

"I find myself well satisfied with my studies and with the progress which I am making. I am positive that from this year of undergraduate work in France necessarily self-independent, living under conditions entirely different from those I should have had at home, with new experiences and activities, I shall obtain much more than I should have obtained from a junior year spent in America."

Milton Schilbach spent the summer of 1925 at the University of Grenoble, giving all his time to the French language. At the end of the course he received a "certificate d'Etudes Francaises." He entered the Sorbonne without a bachelor's degree by the method of immatriculation, for which a record of previous work in other colleges is required. On December 1 of last year, after he had been attending lectures at the University of Paris for three weeks, he wrote that he had no trouble in understanding his professors. "The courses," he wrote, "were no harder than similar courses would be in English."

Are You Going Into the Bond Business?

There is a cycle of fashion not only for the hats college men wear but for the line of work into which they go.

But your job has to fit your head as well as your hat, for it has to fit your state of mind.

Like your hat also, your job needs to fit your purse.

Therefore, why not choose one that brings not only satisfaction in service but in financial return.

Selling life insurance is one of the few modern businesses that does just this.

It takes: Intelligence, Zest and Ability

It gives: Liberty of action, the philosophic satisfaction of selling future security and present serenity to living people, and a response, immediate and tangible, in monetary as well as mental reward.

program that will reach all the students in the College.

(5) That Alumni interest in athletics be safeguarded and conserved by establishing some form of advisory committee relationship with the official body of the Associated Alumni."

The Athletic Association Board has been functioning since the very early years of the College's existence but its constitution and powers were first made public on December 21, 1906 by an article in the "College Mercury". The powers of the board as defined in this constitution are:

(1) To "endorse all orders for Association goods and team supplies".

(2) To appoint managers and assistant managers and also to dismiss them if necessary. "Any manager may at any time be dismissed and a new manager chosen by the Executive Board."

(3) Finally the Association Board has the power to award varsity letters and other insignia to members of the Association who must qualify to receive this insignia according to certain provisions stated in the constitution.

The Campus editorial of Monday, April 19th pointed out that most of these powers were negligible and that "were the A. A. Board to be abolished, no great loss would be suffered."

Dr. Storey in his statement to the Campus suggested several plans which had been developed by students for the last twenty years in connection with endowing the Athletic Association with greater and broader powers. Dr. Storey stated that the reason why none of these plans materialized was that the students who formulated them were mostly in their senior year and graduated before the plans could assume any definite shape and before any official action could be taken by the authorities. Dr. Storey said that he hoped that the accomplishments of Tuesday's meeting would result in greater student participation and interest in athletics.

CLEANLINESS

IN a cooperative organization like ours, cleanliness is a matter for both management and patron.

A little thing like putting waste papers in the proper receptacles, for example, means a great deal. Thank you.
