CHAMPS TO END SEASON

League Meets Scheduled with Yale, Penn, Princeton, Navy,
Columbia and Dartmouth

Seven swimming meets including the Intercollegiate Championships will be held this winter in the College pool, according to the schedule of the swimming and water polo teams, which has just been announced by Professor Williamson, Faculty Athletic Manager. Five teams will be encountered away from home by the natators. The water polo team will only engage in seven intercollegiate games throughout the entire season. Four of these games will be played in strange tanks, leaving only three contests to be played in the Lavender tank.

Fordham First Opponent

Fordham University will be the first opponent of the varsity natators in the College pool on December 10. Last year the Lavender downed the Maroon by a close score. The Ram has quite a strong team this season. The first league meet of the season will be held on December 17 in the tank of the University of Pennsylvania at Philadelphia. Two meets were held with the U. of P. last year, which our swimmers lost both. The poloists, however, averged the defeat of the natators by defeating the Philadelphia aggregation in two games.

Yale Meets College

Yale University will meet the College at home on January 7, both in swimming and water polo. Yale usually puts out a very strong swimming and polo team and this year is no exception to the rule. On January 14 the teams will travel out to Princeton and engage the Tiger. Strong swimming teams are also the rule at Princeton and this season the College will find a tough opponent against them. The first meet with one of the new members of the Eastern Intercollegiate Swimming League will be held with the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis on January 22. Navy is an unknown quantity as the College has never met the middies. However, Uncle Sam's middies are a husky bunch and the natators will find it rough going at Annapolis.

College to Oppose Columbia Feb. 11

Columbia will be faced on February 11 in the College pool. The Morningside Heights institution does not put out very good swimming and water polo teams and the Lavender does not anticipate much difficulty in defeating the Blue and White water polo team. The swimming meet will be very close as both teams are of about equal strength. A new opponent will be met in Swathmore on February 18 in the home pool. Swathmore is a dark horse on the schedule as it has never appeared on the Lavender schedule before.

On February 26 the swimmers will travel to Providence to meet Brown University. Brown's strength is also unknown. New York University will oppose the tankmen in the home pool on March 4. Last year the Lavender defeated the Violet by

CHEM SOC TO HEAR PROF. R. STEVENSON

Professor to Speak on Results of Recent Investigations on Gasoline Vapor

Professor Reston Stevenson of the department of Chemistry will address the Baskerville Chemical Society, tomorrow, on "Gaseous Gasoline". The address will be a summary of the research work on gasoline completed, recently, in the physical chemistry laboratory of the college.

Stevenson an Authority on Gasoline

Professor Stevenson was engaged by the Deppé Motors Corporation, to do research work in connection with the equilibrium vaporization of gasoline. Associated with him were Mr. Herbert J. Stark, a former student at the College, and later, Dr. J. A. Babor of the Chemistry faculty. The results of the research were submitted by the Deppé Motors Co., in their successful suit against the General Motors Co., to the lower Court. The litigation involved a motor using the second method of vaporizing gasoline.

Spoke in France this Summer

The results of the investigations, together with the procedure and description of the apparatus, were published in the Industrial and Engineering Chemistry magazine. Dr. Stevenson was then invited to talk before the Division of Petroleum Chemistry of the American Chemical Society at its meeting in Baltimore. This was followed, last summer, by an address before the French Society of Industrial Chemistry, in Lyons. Dr. Stevenson also addressed scientists from the Bureau of Standards, to whom the apparatus used in the investigations, will be sent shortly.

During the investigations, it was necessary to devise new methods of procedure, as well as new apparatus. In his talk before the Baskerville Chemical Society, Professor Stevenson will speak of these, as well as summarize the results of his investigations. The talk is of particular interest to engineering and physical chemistry students. The society meets every Thursday at 1 p. m. in room 204 of the chemistry building.

PLANS UNDER WAY FOR '27 PROMENADE

Affair, on Dec. 18, Will Be a Brilliant Climax to Social Season

As a fitting climax to a spirited social season at the College, the Senior Promenade will take place Saturday, December 18 in the Grand Ballroom of the Claridge Hotel. The prom committee, of which Herman Kirshbaum and Edward R. Richter are co-chairmen, has announced that no expense will be spared in making the affair a brilliant climax to the four years of activities of the '27 class.

Juvenile artists have been engaged to furnish the professional entertainment. These artists, whose names are being withheld, will dance the latest twists and bring the latest numbers. The Grand Ballroom will be lavishly decorated with beautiful banners and favors in a manner befitting the occasion.

Special lighting effects, installed by the management of the hotel for the affair will throw various colors on the dancers and will present a scene of mystic beauty. Refreshments will be served, of course, and a lounge room with plenty of soft seats will be provided for the guests. Expensive favors, the nature of which will not be divulged, will be distributed to the guests.

The dance committee will have many functions to perform namely to construct posters, sell tickets, obtain publicity and manage the entertainment.

Inasmuch as this is the last social event to be given by the '27 class as an undergraduate body every effort will be put forth to make it a long remembered event and no expense will be spared in an endeavor to do so.

MR. RODY WANTS TO MEET ALL LACROSSE MEN THURS.

Mr. Rody, coach of the lacrosse team desires that all candidates for the team whose names were taken by Professors Panaroni, or Holton come to see him in Jasper Oval Thursday afternoon at 4:30.

Bids for Library Being Received; Ground to Be Broken in February

Advertisement of the contracts for the construction of the first wing of the new library will begin today and will continue for twenty days thereafter in the City Record, it was announced yesterday by the curator.

All bids received before the twenty-first of December will be opened on that date and the contract will be awarded to the lowest bidder immediately thereafter, provided that the amount of the bid does not exceed the appropriation granted recently, by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment.

Work on the building, which will consist of two wings and a tower adjoining the main building, on the east side of Convent Avenue, between 140th and 141st Sts. will probably not begin until February, 1927. The library wing and the tower, which will contain the book-stacks, will be built at that time. Construction of the north wing, student's house, will not begin until a later date.

Annual Meeting of N. Y. Newman Clubs Will Open With a Dance, Jan. 14.

The Newman Clubs of the New York Province of the country-wide confederation of college catholic societies will hold their annual convention during the weekend of January 14 to 16. Among the schools that will be represented at the convention are City College, Hunter, Columbia, Barnard, N.Y.U., Adelphi, Savage, Rutgers and Vassar. All the members of the College branch expect to attend.

The convention will open with a formal dance at the Hotel Plaza Friday evening, November 14. Morgan J. Callohan, of the College branch is chairman of the dance. A business meeting will be held Saturday afternoon, January 15 at Earl Hall, Columbia University. This meeting will be followed by a tea dance.

The following morning, Sunday, January 16, a corporate communion breakfast will take place at Hotel Commodore. A mass at St. Patrick's Cathedral will precede the communion breakfast. Many prominent speakers, including Sir. E. Howard, United States ambassador to Great Britain will address the members at their breakfast.

The closing exercises of the convention will take place at St. Paul's Cathedral Sunday evening.

A mass in memory of Professor Coleman will be held by the members at an early date next month. Dances with Teachers' College have been conducted. Dances with Hunter, Barnard, and Savage have also been arranged for.

DR. BRADISH WILL DELIVER LECTURE TO GERMAN CLUB

Dr. Bradisch of the German faculty will deliver a stereopticon lecture on the "Beauties of Austria" this Thursday at 12:15 p. m. in room 306. Dr. Wunsch, formerly Professor of Oratory at the University of Vienna has been invited by the Council as the guest of honor for the occasion.

LAVENDER TROUNCES ST. FRANCIS IN SEASON OPENER BY 27-13 SCORE

Frosh and Soph Debaters To Hold Meeting Today

A final tryout for candidates for the Soph Debating team will be held tomorrow at 12 in room 222. At the same time, there will be a meeting of the Frosh debaters. No '29 men appeared for the tryout which was called two weeks ago. If enough men do not appear tomorrow, the Sophs will forfeit, Irving Lubroth '28, frosh debate manager announces.

COLLEGE WRESTLERS LOSE TO ELIZABETH

Levin Stars for Varsity Scoring
All the Lavender Points

The Lavender matmen were downed by the Elizabeth Y.M.C.A. team to the tune of 18-8 last Friday night at Elizabeth, N. J. The star of the Lavender team was captain Irv Levin who scored all eight of the urbanite points, although Wollinsky almost took a share of the honors, and lost his match to a heavier and older opponent only after an extra six minute bout. Heller also deserves commendation for his desperate struggle against discouragingly overwhelming odds.

Levin Wins in 115 Lb. Class
In the 115 lb. class, Captain Levin, representing the College, easily took the bout from his opponent, Gallagher, with an advantage of 6:15. The men sparred for a hold for about two minutes. Finally Levin downed his man and held the advantage during practically the entire bout.

The second bout of the evening was that between Wollinsky, representing the College in the 135 lb. class, and Larkin of the Elizabeth Y. M. C. A. During the second regular bout of nine minutes duration, Wollinsky, laboring under the disadvantage of insufficient training, held a seven second advantage over his older and more experienced opponent by sheer strength, the time advantage score being 205-198 seconds.

Heller Loses to Spidel by Fall

The other College representative in the 135 lb. class was Heller who was matched against Spidel of Elizabeth. Spidel is one of the best wrestlers in the country. He is the New Jersey State champion. A few years ago he received an offer to coach the wrestling team of Penn State University, which, with the Navy, is considered the best team in the country. In spite of Spidel's prowess and reputation Heller held out against him for 7:25 before Spidel won on a fall. In winning his bout Spidel made very effective use of the grape vine and double arm

Also Star—St. Francis
Plays Hard

Displaying a flashy and aggressive offense and an almost impregnable defense the College basketball team impressively opened their season by decisively trouncing the St. Francis quintet by a 27-13 tally, last Saturday night. This is the fifth time in as many years that the Saints have been the Lavender's initial opponents. The St. Francis quintet were hopelessly outclassed from the very beginning and never threatened to bid for victory. Coach Holman, after a considerable lead had been attained, tried out various combinations shifting his men in different positions, and used most of his reserves.

Passing and Floorwork Excellent

The passing of the College was really a feature of the encounter as was the general floorwork. On several occasions, however, the leather was not passed accurately when sure goals would result. The team worked very well as an organization, displaying mid-season form as far as team-work is concerned. One glaring sign of the early season was the poor shooting of both teams even after the ball was worked down in the near vicinity of the basket.

Meisel and Rubinstein First Scorers
Teddy Meisel, erstwhile employee of the B. M. T., was by far the star of the game. Meisel was high scorer having a total of twelve points, making five field goals and two fouls. Hick Rubinstein, was next in order with two field goals and three foul goals to his credit. To Meisel must also go the honor of tallying the first point of the current season.

Captain Tubby Raskin and Jack Goldberg although with but two weeks of practice measured up to the standard of the rest of the team. Both men together with Meisel who seemed to be the chief offender, showed the results of football training by falling on a loose ball, in prescribed gridiron fashion, instead of picking the ball up and passing it.

Lavender Defense Hard to Pierce
Resplendent with their new uniforms, of lavender trunks, gray shoes and blue shirts the College quintet started the game with vim. From the very beginning the Saints could not follow the ball. Meisel broke the ice with a foul goal soon, and subsequent scrimmages found the Lavender defense not to be pierced.

Harrison, shooting from the center of the court, made the first goal for his side but Meisel soon put the Lavender in the lead with a field goal from which they were not again replaced. Raskin had two free tries but missed both. After some furious floorwork Meisel again shooting from mid-field tallied and was soon followed by Rubinstein. The College using the five men defense precluded all possibility of a St. Francis goal. Dugan, finally made the Saints total three with a successful free try, but Hick soon made up for it with another two pointer.

Shooting from mid-field, prevented

PROFESSORS AND YARD STICKS

An attempt by several students to rate the City College Professor last term was greeted with malicious enjoyment by the student body and with amusement and consternation by the professors themselves. A more authoritative proposal has now been advanced.

Professor Moss of George Washington University recently suggested that pedantic efficiency be gauged by the progress of the pupils. According to his plan, the instructor is not to be judged by his own learning but by the scholarly acquirements of those he is orientating.

That a means of measuring a professor's efficiency is desirable cannot be questioned. But that Professor Moss' plan is the desirable or feasible method for attaining this goal is to be doubted. In the first place, how is the progress of the student to be judged? What is to be chosen as the criterion for this improvement? To measure advancement you must have standardized tests. Standardized tests call for standardized learning. This in turn results in a factory for education.

Even admitting that the learning gauge has been discovered, who is to apply it? Since it is his gain in knowledge that is being probed, the student may not be the judge. Shall then the professor be permitted to do the measuring? But he too is being examined, and so, is in no position to rate the results. Leaving the examination to a committee would be a violation of sound educational principles. For it has been shown that there may be as great a variation as fifty per cent when a rating on the same piece of work is given by several individuals.

When criterions of progress and suitable judges have been found, the task is only two-thirds completed. If the judgments have not been reliable, an unfair stigma may be placed upon the instructor with a low rating, and undeserved acclaim accorded the man whose attainments have not called for so high a mark. Since no dependable rating system has yet been devised we can never be certain of reliability. A plan to test a teacher's ability which is not feasible, which has so many faults, and which has not even the saving graced of desirability cannot be much of a plan.

FURTHER HECTIC LINES OF A PASSIONATE LOVER (a sequel)

You folks have read my poem called Five Long Years, In which I raved of bitter we and pain, Of clouds besmirched with inkwell blackened tears, Not to mention hails and blasting rain.

I freed my heart, I opened wide its cage, And fired its walled-in suffocating cell, Then told of how my fiery love had raged, While sentenced to its dreary prisoned Hell.

I then forsook the dismal side of life, Said five long years the sun would cause to shine; It would, I vowed, help terminate my strife, And then prepared, I swore, I'd make you mine.

But now I pray six years had raced their course; Why have I added one year to my plea?— Alarm yourself not, it is just because, F. P. A. would then have naught on me!

What A Line

Gee, how we hate innocent, S. Y. T's.—they ruin our evening.

We met a sweet, young thing at the Junior Prom—you know the kind, chic, slender and elusive, pleasant personality and pretty! Sweet Daddy!—Shakespeare couldn't describe our thoughts. And while we were dancing, she looked up at us with those deep, blue, innocent eyes, and we seemed to drift along in the ethereal atmosphere of celestial bliss.

She gazed at us bewitchingly and inquired with delightful naivety:

"Did you ever study psychology?" so innocently, like a dear child asking its parents about God and babies.

With a sophisticated air of infinite superiority we answered in the affirmative, thinking she would be duly impressed with our erudition.

"Do you believe in dual personalities?" she queried, rather disconcerting us with her persistence, as we sincerely feel that girls should be interesting, but never too intellectual. However, we magnanimously forgave her. One must forgive the tantrums of the fair, so we answered:

"Yes."

"You know," she said, her eyes shining rather queerly, "I have a dual personality." Somehow we didn't like the conversation at all, and yet she looked so angelic and divine, we smiled and answered:

"Really?"

"Yes," she continued, "sometimes I am Dr. Jekyll and sometimes I am Mr. Hyde."

We gazed at her intently for a moment, and then eagerly asked:

"What are you tonight?"

"Tonight," she answered sweetly, "I am Dr. Jekyll."

She ruined our evening.

Gee, how we hate innocent, sweet, young things!

Irving's Irish Ellen

The blessed event has come off. It's a girl over at the Berlins. And that's that.

We grasp this rather late opportunity to congratulate the famous song writer and his society bride. Fate seems to have spared them the ordeal of publicity deciding the faith the child is to pursue. Some light has, however, been shed on the subject. This faint ray is the result of the child's having been christened after her mother, Mary Ellen Berlin.

It behooves us to wonder whether, had it been a boy, the child would have been captioned, Irving Berlin, Jr.

We can just about picture the ditty concocter pacing the halls at night with his screaming infant in his manly arms. It will probably prove fascinating for the first few weeks, but as soon as the novelty wears off and a few carpet tacks seek recluse in Mr. Berlin's nimble feet, the public may anticipate a new tune entitled, "He killed the baby, for crying out loud!"

The Magic of the Golden Age.

THE CHARWOMAN'S SHADOW —by Lord Dunsany. New York: G. P. Putnam's Sons. $2.

I am grievously disappointed in Lord Dunsany. After reading a good number of his plays and a few of his stories, I had the right to expect much of the latest opus, The Charwoman's Shadow. But interesting tale though it is, it is not nearly so fascinating as some of his volumes of plays, The King of Efland's Daughter and Plays of Far and Near, among others.

This is a fantastic tale of the Golden Age of Spain, when knight-hood was in flower and fair maids were virgins and all that. It is the tale of Ramon Alonzo Mathew — Mark — Luke — John of the Tower of the Rocky Forest, who to gain a dowry for his marriageable sister, is sent off by his father to a magician to learn how to make gold through the medium of the philosopher's stone. In return for this knowledge, the magician exacts the fee of obtaining the shadow of the young man. At the magic house of the great prestidigitator, Ramon Alonzo, beside becoming aware of the abracadabras of the Master, meets the charwoman, who in return for her immortality, is also shadowless. Suffice to say, without going through all the adventures of the young man, that the shadow of Ramon is regained, as is that of the charwoman, who turns out to be a beautiful young woman.

The book is undoubtedly interesting and yet in many spots it languishes especially toward the end. The story might be greatly improved by snorting it, but perhaps then we would have had to miss some of Dunsany's exceptionally fine pieces of writing.

The thought occurs to me that perhaps, in the figure of the magician, Dunsany presents an allegory. The Master may be thought, refreshed every generation by the elixir vitae, the reviewer of life, youth, in search of the eternal quest, truth. Farther than this, however, I cannot go.

The Charwoman's Shadow, will there is no doubt, go well among certain groups of the literate, but as an expression of popular favor, it will not go far.

PAST PERFORMANCES

William Hodge

THE JUDGE'S HUSBAND, a comedy in three acts by William Hodge. Presented by Lee Shubert at the 49th Street.

Tucked away in a little theatre on 49th Street, west of Broadway, the "best wisecracking comedy in town" (according to its press-agent) is presented nightly, unassumingly, unostentatiously and unsung. Yet even though its star-director-playwright, William Hodge owes me a buck, I go on record as stating that this is "the best wisecracking comedy"—not, in town, but among those that this reviewer has seen this season.

William Hodge, appearing in the stellar role, provides most of the wisecracks, and some of 'em are pretty wise, believe me. He keeps his audience laughing continually, which is no mean accomplishment in these skeptical days of boy-scouts.

Gladys Hanson, playing Mrs. Judge Kirby, is excellently cast. She has a commanding appearance, personality and looks. Ruth Lyons, however, as the daughter of the house, Alice, is not so hot, either in her acting or in her appeal.

Yet The Judge's Husband is well worth the expenditure of one to two bucks. It's the best way I know of cheering up gloom.

In This Age of Machines

ONCE AGAIN Nat Holman has turned out not a team of stars, but a star team. The five worked with precision and accuracy last Saturday night that recalled the team of two years ago, when Pinkie Match's quintet flashed a defensive which some of the strongest combinations on the intercollegiate court failed to pierce. And one of the outstanding attractions of the game was the manner in which Teddy Meisel, heretofore unsuspected of histrionic leanings, would talk his opponent out of the possession of the ball and now and then cage a beautiful looping shot from mid-court.

Love's Labor Lost

THE ANNOUNCEMENT of the letter awards to the football team is being held up while the A. A. board investigates the standing in the community maintained by the players, said standing being determined by the possession of a "U" ticket. To all outward appearances, this action, by which non-"U" members will forfeit the right to receive insignia for their services on the gridiron, seems perfectly proper—but let us look at the matter a little more closely.

To the best of our knowledge, there are about four men who will not be awarded letters because of the above provision. These men have satisfied all other requirements. They have earned positions on the varsity eleven and have helped gain for it its excellent record. Now they are refused their reward. Why? Because only "U" members are permitted to engage in extra-curricula activities. The wearing of a College monogram is participation in an extra-curricula activity. Playing on the College football team is not, evidently, for we failed to hear that non-"U" members were barred from any contest. Of course not. It was much better for the Lavender if the services of all men available were made use of. Non-members would be attended to later.

And there's the rub. If any disbarment proceedings were to take place, the time to act was at the beginning of the season, previous to the opening game. If non-"U" members are to be banned from extra-curricula activities, the time to ban them is while those activities are under way, and not when the rewards for their pursuit are being distributed. The trouble lies in the fact that the "U" chairman does not enforce his rulings until the close of the campaign, and the A. A. Board is merely concerned with the awards. But it seems to us that on some occasion in the past athletes have been required to present "U" tickets in order to receive their eligibility cards, and in this instance it seems that all parties concerned have dodged the responsibility.

Meanwhile all men who have satisfied the athletic requirements as laid down in the A. A. constitution are deserving of letters and should receive them. The varsity monogram is a reward—and not purchasable.

One Solution

WHEN circumstances like this arise, it is evident that the entire system is rotten whereby students, some of whom have to earn for themselves whatever they desire to spend on anything but the necessities of life, and who by devotion to one activity or another give up the time during which they might be earning money enough for "U" tickets and other incidentals, are forced to pay for the right to continue in that activity. Of course the only real solution, not only to this problem but also to that of supplying the A. A. with a greater working capital, that of furnishing a publication like "Lavender" with an opportunity of expanding into something worthwhile, and others of a similar nature, is a compulsory "U", one which might be able to furnish a year's membership for the dues now collected for the fall term.

Speaking of starving football players, we learn that such animals will be wiped off the face of the earth on Dec. 16, when the City College Club will dine Doc Parker and his huskies. Sir Arthur Taft, the man behind the ladle, has not yet issued an invitation to Sport Sparks, by the way.

What looks like one of the best sporting exhibitions that has ever been presented in the gym will be run off tomorrow by the Boxing Club. These Luther Burbanks of the cauliflower industry, who have raised a crop of unsuspected talent, have accomplished a good deal in a short time. Next to football, boxing gives us the greatest thrill in sport, and we hope tomorrow's exhibit will be the initiation of an active interest in the fisticuff game.

LAVENDER QUINTET EASILY OUTPLAYS ST. FRANCIS FIVE

the St. Francis cagemen from scoring while the College quintet after working the sphere under the basket lost the ball continually because of miserable and inaccurate shooting. Goldberg receiving a fast one from Raskin tossed the ball thru the hoops on a dead run. Just before the half ended, Garvey, on two free tries, was successful in one.

The second half was a repetition of the first. The Lavender passed well but lost out when it came to shooting. Hirsch, who played a steady, consistent game throughout, scored on a pretty play and was soon followed by the old reliable Rubinstein. Meisel, tallied one on a foul before Garvey added two points by a spectacular fling. Substitutes were pouring in for the College and no goals were made. The foul shooting of both teams was very poor, misses being continually made on the free tries.

Garvey made another point by a foul and the Lavender first team re-entered the fray. Meisel, tossed the ball thru the hoop for another two points and then Kelly tallied on a beautiful shot made from a big angle. The ball changed hands several times before Rubinstein again made a field goal, followed by Tubridy's goal and Rubinstein was then forced to leave because of personal fouls as did Goldberg several minutes before. Just before the final whistle blew Garvey made his team's total thirteen by a foul goal.

The summaries:
C.C.N.Y. (27) St. Francis (13)

COLLEGE MATMEN LOSE HARDFOUGHT GAME

Blumenfeld, the Lavender 145 lb. man, forced his bout to an extra three minutes, since, in the first nine minutes, his opponent, Forester, who made excellent use of the headlock was able to garner only a 47 second advantage, the time advantage score being 118 to 155 seconds. In the first half of the second bout, however, Forester won over his exhausted opponent, on a fall in 1:10.

In the 150 lb. class Schwalbenest of the College lost to Vollman, an experienced man with a remarkably strong pair of legs. Schwalbenest's defeat was largely due to the demoralizing effect of his inability to free himself of his opponent who, with the aid of his powerful legs and an arm and headlock, rode Schwalbenest like a veritable old man of the sea, and won on a fall in 6:56.

Irv Levin doubled for the College and won his 125 lb. bout against Hilquist of Elizabeth on a fall in 3:45. Although Levin was far outweighed, with the help of his ability to figure out his opponent's ideas, and his clever use of the crotch hold and double arm lock he won on a fall with exceptional ease.

The judges were Mr. Black of the Elizabeth Boys' Club and Mr. Cann, coach of the U. S. Olympic team for 1924. The timekeepers were Messrs. Portnoy and Sacks of the College.

The team meets Temple University next Friday night in the City College gym.

FROSH BASKETEERS TROUNCE SOPHS, 18-6

Hold Opponents Scoreless in First Half of Season's Opener

The yearling basketball team opened its season auspiciously by trouncing the sophomores, 18-6, in a game played as the preliminary to the varsity contest last Saturday evening. The second-year men never had a chance against the better-trained freshmen and were held scoreless until the last few minutes of play.

The cub team showed great possibilities and proved to be a smooth-working machine. The initial contest was no test at all for the 1930 team for the sophs were very much in need of practice. The frosh attack might have been improved by better shooting and passing, but their defense was wellnigh impregnable.

The cubs started things off with a bang when Hockman caged a neat goal from the floor. Gindell followed suit with a field goal. It was apparent even at this early stage that the 1929 men were outclassed. Their passing was mediocre and all their long shots for the basket were unsuccessful.

The game was slowed up at this point by the poor foul-shooting by both sides. The frosh made two ties out of four but the sophs missed three chances. In their anxiety to score, the upperclassmen resorted to long shots, but they were futile. Trupin added a field goal to the frosh total, and Filleppa made a foul, Dennenholtz made a pretty goal near the end of the half. The sophomores were unable to penetrate the stubborn defense the yearlings put up and never got started.

The second half opened with some inaccurate shooting, but Grindell and Filleppa contributed the prettiest play of the game. Gindell, a former star at Clinton, passed to Filleppa running at full speed, who counted with a very neat backhand shot. Leschner dropped a goal and immediately countered with another one. Frulicker scored the soph initial tally with a foul. The score seemed to bring the 1929 men out of their lethargy and Muscant and Frulicker tallied with field goals. Frulicker ended the scoring for both sides with a foul.

Spindell and Filleppa played good game for their team, while Hockman, Trupin, Leschner, and Dennenholtz put up a good exhibition. Frulicker and Muscant did best for the sophs.

The line-up:
FROSH (18) SOPHS (6)
Filleppa L.F. Gerstenblat
Hockman R.F. Frulicker
Spindell C. Muscant
Trupin R.G. Wershauer

Substitutions: Frosh—Dennenholtz for Leschner, Davidson for Filleppa. Soph—D. Cohen for Relkin, Plotz for Wershauer.

Field Goals: Leschner 2, Filleppa 1, Hochman 1, Spindell 1, Trupin 1, Dennenholtz 1, Frulicker 1, Muscant 1.

Fouls: Trupin 2, Filleppa 1, Spindell 1, Frulicker 2, Muscant 1.

Forty Present at Semi-Annual Reunion and Smoker of Club

A talk on "The Physiology of Passion" by Sid Licht '27, featured the program at the semi-annual Bio Club Smoker and Reunion held last Wednesday evening in Room 319.

David Levowitz '27, president of the club, opened the discussion of this question with a presentation of the invertebrate phase of the problem. He considered the psychology of passion from the protozoa through the most advanced hemichords. Sid Licht, after supplementing Levowitz's remarks on the invertebrates, started off with the passion of "Amphioxus" and concluded with that of man. Licht then derived for the club's benefit, his formula of "The Passion Coefficient of the Average Woman". Harry M. Schorr '28, treasurer of the club, discussed some of his research work in this field.

Sid Licht then passed around some photographs and charts which he used in his studies. Several photographs were then found to be missing.

Eddie Gail '27, chairman of the smoker committee then rendered several numbers. The one which met with most approval was "A Biological Interpretation of Jack Dalton."

After the refreshments were served, Bio Club songs were sung. The evening was concluded by "Lavender" which was sung by the whole group.

About forty people were present, of which four were guests, and five were alumni.

FROSH-SOPH DEBATING TEAMS TO MEET THURS.

Final tryouts for the Frosh-Soph debate will take place this Thursday at 12 noon in Room 222. Manager Irv Lubroth '28 emphatically states that this will be the last opportunity for '29 men to seek positions on the sophomore team. The debate which is taking place Dec. 9, will be forfeited to the '30 class if there is not sufficient support on the part of the sophomore class. The coming debate will count in the trophy series.

Sophomores are urged to meet at the scheduled time with a prepared speech on the subject: "Resolved that the Philippines be given their independence immediately."

The freshman debating team will hold their meeting simultaneously with that of the sophomores in room 222. Manager Irv Lubroth '28 proposes to make specific arrangements for the coming debates with the various schools.

BOXING TOURNAMENT ENTERS FINAL TILT

Classes in Quadrangle Tie for Team Honors — Medals to Winners

The boxing club reaches the peak of its activity for the semester tomorrow when the final bouts of the inter-class boxing tourney will be held. Much interest has been manifested by the student body, and a large crowd is expected to be on hand.

Peculiarly enough, the points between the classes are evenly divided at present. Each class has made twelve points, and as numerals are awarded to the winning team, a lively afternoon is sure to be enjoyed by the spectators.

Final bouts in eight weight divisions will be contested. Herman '29 meets Adolph '27 in the 112 lb. class, Mahler '30 and Schoen '27 oppose each other in the 118 lb. division. Doscher '29 and O'Connor '27 will swap blows in the 126 lb. class, Joltin '29 and Schlein '28 meet in the 135 lb. class; Hudes '30 and Alexander '28 fight in the 145 lb. division; Eisenberger '29 and Rosenberg '30 are in the 160 lb. bracket. Appelbaum '30 faces Elmer Lowe '28 the track captain in the 175 lb. class; and Johnny Elterich '28 of the football team meets his former captain, Tige Scidler '27 in the heavyweight division.

LAVENDER TRACK TEAM TO ENTER FIRST A. A. U. MEET

Veteran Mile Relay Team Is Primed for the Contest

With the close of the cross-country season the track team will swing into action December 12 in the first A.A.U. meet of the winter. Coach MacKenzie will enter a mile relay team composed almost entirely of the aggregation that last year made track history at the college. Captain Elmer Lowe, Johnny Levy, Freddy Kushnick and a fourth man, as yet unselected will represent the Lavender. Harry Lazarus who was slated to regain his berth on the relay team has been forced out because of high blood pressure.

Following this meet the varsity will rest until over the Christmas Holidays when they will begin an intensive season on the boards engaging in meets at least once every week.

A smoking pleasure that never fails

HERE is the outstanding fact of the entire cigarette industry: Camels never tire the taste, no matter how liberally you smoke them; never leave a cigarette after-taste.

Only the choicest tobaccos that nature produces, only the finest blending ever given a cigarette could produce a smoke that never fails to please, that always brings the utmost in smoking enjoyment. Regardless of how often you want the comfort of a smoke, of how steadily you light one after another, Camels will never fail you, never give you any but the finest thrill of smoking pleasure.

That is why Camel sales, by far the largest in the world, keep overwhelmingly in the lead. Increasing millions are discovering the incomparable Camel quality — smoothness and mellowness.

If you want the one and only cigarette that's good to live with strenuously from morn to midnight — the cigarette that never tires the taste — Have a Camel!
