LAVENDER TEAM GETS EVEN VOTE IN PITT DEBATE

Kaplan, Messitte and Platt Speak for Abolition of Jury System

PROF. MOSHER CHAIRMAN

Magistrate N. J. Marsh and H. Dawey Spencer Divide Votes on Victor

Clashing with one of the most powerful forensic squads in the East the Lavender debating team fought its way to a draw with the University of Pittsburgh team, Friday evening in the Great Hall, discussing the topic: "Resolved: That the Jury System in America Should Be Abolished." One hundred fifty people, a large part of them students of the evening session, were in attendance. Prof. Joseph A. Mosher was chairman for the evening.

The decision was rendered by ex-Magistrate Norman J. Marsh and H. Blanks are issued daily at the Mike Dawey Spencer, who divided their votes between the two teams. Pitt upheld the affirmative, and the College the negative.

Negative Offers Remedy

The affirmative argument hinged on the question whether or not the present jury system, including everything that is juridical, was obsolete or obsolescent. The negative maintained that, while judicial proceedure, today is not without its faults, it may be effectively remedied without scrapping the entire structure.

Outstanding among the speeches of the debate, was that made by Benjamin Kaplan, captain of the College squad. In a fiery and vigorous manner, he uprooted the question, and presented it to the audience along with several guiding principles, valuable to the understanding of the subject.

Pitt Stresses Jury Faults

The opening speech for the affirmative, by Roger S. Hamilton stressed the faults of the present system.

In addition, under the present system, the time elapsing from time of crime until the time of conviction is much longer than necessary. Last year, he asserted, there were one hundred fifty thousand legal controversies untried iv Federal courts throughout the United LAVENDER FENCING TEAM States, all of which had to be carer to next year.

Establishes Unofficial College Record in 440 Yard Swim

The Lavender under dog bared its fangs and snarled in the Pool Friday evening, striking terror to the hearts of six 'Yale bulldogs, who according to precedent should have ripped into their opponents with the same fury and display of power that has brought them to the top of the present League race. Yet the six towering huskies held back awed.

Boasting a stronger team than its last year's championship one, Yale downed the College sextet 47-24 in a sixteen minute battle, fiercely contested all the way through, at the conclusion of which the sons of old Eli knew and bore sufficient marks to substantiate that they had been in one whale of a battle.

COLLEGE TO FILL OFFICES WEDNESDAY

All Students to Vote During the Ten O'clock Hour

Universal elections will not be discontinued this term. The decision to limit the franchise to holders of Student. Council tickets, announced in The Campus last Friday, will not be put into effect, according to an announcement made by Hal Cammer 29, president of the Council.

Student elections will be held this Wednesday, February 21, in classes during the ten o'clock hour. At the beginning of the second period, members of the elections committee will visit all the class and lecture rooms and ballots will be distributed to all students. Upon these the voters will indicate their choice according to their respective classes. Students not baving a ten o'clock hour will be allowed to cast their votes between 10:00 and 10:15 A. Huge Crowd Sees College Go Down Before Brilliant

MAROON'S SIXTEENTH WIN

Undefeated Fordham Team Easily Outplays Lavender for Crushing Triumph

A series of rapier-like thrusts, brilliant in their rapidity and accuracy, gave a splendid Fordham University basketball quintet an overwhelming 50-19 victory over the College in the annual battle between these two metropolitan arch rivals. An overflow crowd estimated at 6500 saw the Lavender receive the most crushing defeat ever suffered on the court as the Ram added its sixteenth consecutive victory of the year in convincing style and the twenty-second straight win since last defeated by the College in 1928.

College Far Below Standard

There was little doubt regarding the superiority of the winning five as the Maroon courtmen rolled up the points in impressive fashion to make the contest a runaway affair. Save for a few brief moments early in the game, Fordham always enjoyed a substantial lead and continued to add to their advantage before a densely packed mob ithat came to see a close game, but was destined to see perhaps the strongest team in the East shoot and pass its way to a decisive triumph.

While the undefeated Fordham team was playing its best game of the following Thursday, during Chated last Saturday night to play a brand of ball far below their usual standard. Perhaps they had to give away too great an advantage in weight, height, and experience, or maybe it was just too much Fordham, but the St. Nick men never could get started and slumped badly as the game progressed into the latter stages with the Ram on the long end of an unsurmountable lead that hovered, and finally went over, the thirty-point mark.

Game Hard Fought

Determined to avenge last year's heart-breaking 26-25 defeat, Dougherty, Landers, Adams, Sweetman and Reardon opened up their bag of tricks and passed, shot and manouvered their way to their most satisfying win of the the season. If we had to write a book on Collegiate Education (which, solicited or unsolicited we mean to de), along about the fourth chapter we should have something to say about the unfailing optimism of college students. Now there is no objection to optimism so long as it remains in a blissful state of inarticulation and inactivity; but spoken optimism is intolerable, and optimism in ac tion is disastrous. If we were to make this fresh start willingly, sincerely, and determinedly, is it not possible that a successemerge? Certainly we could do no worse than to attempt to set up in the spirit and method of the Little Theatre.

To be sure there are obstacles in the way of such a move, but I am of the opinion that these may be easily overcome with a minimum of ourselves and those who are surely willing to help us. For one, we already have the indispensable thing, the theatre; and literature is rich with suitable material for presentation. There remain only the consirerations of players, coaching, and the accessories to a regular performance such as lighting, props and whatever else is necessary, including incidental or even purposeful music. These problems, surprisingly enough, are not difficult of solution, as I shall

With the help of the departments of English and Public Speaking and perhaps experienced outsiders sufficiently interested, direction can be made easy. Actors surely can be recruited from among the student body; and since we have gone to the Evening Session for female characters suffered from a lack of them.)

So far as the accessories are concerned, the Library is rich in books on the subject-indeed on the entire subject of the Little Theatre. But if we were to approach the departments of Art, Physics, Technology, and Military Science in the right manner, material aid would no doubt be cheerfully oflered. And we must not forget the Alumni.

And although it seems like a case of too many cooks even before we nore that. The main thing is to make a start and have faith.

I imagine I've said enough, perhaps too much; the matter is now placed before anyone who chooses to be stirred either pro or con. The editors may raise a hue and cry if they care; any student who feels that he has something valuable to contribute has the freedom of this column; our newly acquired Director of Publicity may find in it a fine vehicle to carry his expression far afield; the Faculty and Alumni-at least they who read The Campus—may want to think about this; I hope someone does something about it.

Meanwhile those of us who have dramatic ambitions can at least sit back now in the hope that some day we shall have a chance to test ourselves-or realize from the beginning

EDITURIAL ON PETTING AROUSES TORONTO U.

Editor of Student Daily Fired and Staff Strikes in Support

TORONTO, Feb. 12 .- Student indignation at the University of Toronto reached such a peak here yesterday, following the dismissal of L. J. Ryan, editor of Varsity, the college newspaper, and the retirement of the entire staff in support of his policies, that all copies of a strike-breaking Varsity edited by again and the half ended with the R. H. C. Mitchell, B. A., were publicly burned by undergraduates on

> The removal of Ryan, a fourth year man at St. Michaels College, came as the result of a series of editorials on petting and the use of Adversity printed by the deposed daily's publication for twenty-four appears: hours was ordered by the Toronto student council composed of five facafter a joint executive session with the Board of Governors.

Several warnings had been issued by the council previous to its ultimatum a week ago. A temporary college press was effected when the Varsity from the University Press. After having assured himself of the unanimous accord of the staff with his views, Ryan again defied the committee's mandates by an editor-John Kelley, recently acquired ial of "exceeding frankness". Excerpts from the last editorial fol-

Student Council Disregarded

"The President of the executive explained the course of the recent dispute, and stated that it was his duty to the authorities and the students to see to it that no further cause for dispute would remain.

"The President did not explain why, if the matter was one for the Joint Executive to settle on behalf of the students, the same Joint Executive would have had nothing to do with the matter, if the plans of Mr. W. J. Dunlop had matured last Friday. He did not explain why a third party was sent by the latter to the editor asking him to resign, before the joint executive of the met to consider the message from the Governors. In other words, the thing was to be smoothed over before the student executives had even met. In other words, the body which claims to represent the students, and which is now up as the controller of the situation, was not considered of such high consequence by one of the faculty representatives who attempted to put the editor out of the way before the meeting of those who are supposed to supervise the tone of the paper on behalf of the students."

In protest against the action of the executive committee an Adversity under the supervision of the burning of Varsity by seizing all available editions of the Telegram and feeding them to the flames.

The attitude toward the Varsity Bulletin (issued by the S. C. as a measure of self-defense) is that it is simply an ineffectual gesture on the part of the joint executive."

Premier Ferguson in his capacity as Minister of Education in the province of Ontario advocated arbitration by the warring parties as the ideal method of coming to some amicable end of the situation.

Members of the ousted editorial board of Varsity at a meeting two

"Better jurors mean longer delays in selecting them-and delay is one of the evils of the jury system possible to get better juries than those we now have unless we spend still more time in the selection of them."

Buerger proposed that the task of deciding guilt or innocence be taken out of the hands of the talesman and given to men qualified to serve on juries by reason of their possessing a working knowledge of the law. He maintained that a certified jurist was likely to be more accurate in his verdicts than a plumber who might be called for jury duty. He outlined several questions that are sometimes presented to juries, and which, he claimed, required the knowledge of specialists to reach a proper decision. He also noted discrepancies between juries, and held that two juries, reaching opposite views on identical questions, were specific instances of the weakness of the jury

Jess Messitte refuted Buerger's contention with the declaration that even specialists are not unanimous in their opinions. Messittee explained that judges alone cannot decide cases, and that only a popular verdict of the citizens is both in keep- gel. ing with the tenets of our democracy and a sufficient justification for com- Rubin. mitting a man to prison.
