PARKERMEN DEFEAT BROOKLYN COLLEGE BY SCORE OF 8 TO 7

Ninth Inning Rally Enables
Baseball Team to Overcome
Two Inning Lead

GOLDMAN LEADS MATES IN THRILLING COMEBACK

Visitors Show Unexpected Power to Hold Home Nine
For Eight Innings

A two run rally in the ninth inning enabled the College baseball team to overcome the Brooklyn College 7-6 lead and win the game 8-7, at the Lewisohn Stadium yesterday afternoon.

With one out Captain Morty Goldman bunted and was safe on the pitcher's wild throw to first. Mel Levy singled sharply to center field scoring Goldman. On the throw home Levy went to second. A wild pitch sent Garner, who ran for Levy, to third. Another wild pitch brought in the winning run.

Lavender Trails Until Sixth
The Lavender was forced to wage an uphill battle against the unexpected Brooklyn opposition. Trailing 7-2 at the beginning of the sixth frame, the Parkermen chalked up four runs in their half of the inning to bring the total within one point of the Brooklynites.

In scoring the initial win of the season the St. Nick batsmen scored one run in the second and third innings, four in the sixth and two in the ninth. Consecutive singles by Katzelnick, Solomon, and Rauschkolb accounted for the first College tally, while a base on balls issued to Gladstone and a stolen base, a walk by Maloney, a single by Goldman, and a wild throw, brought another run to the Convent avenue nine in the lower half of the third.

From the third to the sixth the College went scoreless only to break out with four runs in the sixth. "Lefty" Friedman, first man up, singled, Sid Katzelnick got his second single of the day. The sacks were loaded when the visiting third baseman mishandled Solomon's grounder. Another error, by the shortstop, permitted Friedman to score. Two consecutive passed balls and an error increased the Lavender total by three more.

Three Pitchers Used
Doc Parker utilized three pitchers against the Brooklyn nine. "Lefty" Cohen was nicked for two hits, and Jerry Rauschkolb likewise permitted two safeties. Irv Spanier, the College ace, permitted only one scratch hit in his four innings on the mound.

The visitors scored four runs in a hectic second inning in which three Lavender errors coupled with two passed balls, a pair of walks and one hit enabled the Brooklynites to jump into an early lead.

The Lavender's opponents increased their lead in the fifth, when a walk, two men hit by pitched balls, a field-

Eisher Announces Committee Members Who Are to Control College's Affairs

Mark Eisher, chairman of the Board of Higher Education, announced Wednesday that the administrative committee for the College would consist of Charles H. Tuttle, Albert Weiss, Charles J. McDermott, William P. Larkin, Maurice Deiches, James W. Hyde, and himself.

The committee, authorized by a set of by-laws adopted in January, was established in order to enable members of the board to become familiar with the needs and affairs of the three institutions under its immediate control: the College, Hunter College and Brooklyn College. Each of these institutions will handle the respective administrative detail and take much of the work from the shoulders of the Higher Education board. The latter, however, will be the final authority in all matters of policy and will veto or modify any findings, recommendation or actions of the administrative committees as it sees fit.

To Select Chairman
Mr. Eisher further declared that

LAVENDER TWELVE WILL FACE HOPKINS

Lacrosse Team Holds High Hopes for Victory Against Powerful Aggregation

With high hopes for victory, the College Varsity lacrosse team will meet its acid test, tomorrow afternoon, when it faces the powerful Johns Hopkins twelve, at the latter's field in Baltimore, Md. A win over the Southern team will definitely put Coach Miller's charges, already highly regarded as a result of their sparkling 4-1 victory over the Western Maryland combination last Saturday, in the front line of the contenders for the coveted places in the Olympic play-offs.

Rosenthal New Star
Meanwhile, a new star has risen on the Lavender lacrosse horizon in the person of Willie Rosenthal, whose three goals represented the margin of victory over the Western Maryland team. In the practice sessions, which the team had held before the game, Rosenthal had usually been the leading scorer and he bore out this promise in last Saturday's battle. It will probably be on Rosenthal again, that the Lavender will have to rely for the majority of the goals it hopes to make in Baltimore, to-morrow.

Strong Opposition Expected
There is no doubt, also, that Ralph Singer and his mates will need plenty of goals to beat the Baltimore aggregation. Johns Hopkins, located in

Merc to Award Tickets in New Prize Competition

A second award of two tickets to any show in the city will be added to Mercury's five dollar prize contest for the best article, cartoon, poem, or joke, Harris B. Steinberg '32, editor-in-chief, announced yesterday.

The feature of the forthcoming Faculty number is a new motion picture section by Mortimer Lerner '35, which Steinberg describes as an "astounding original way of judging the movies." The issue will also contain a brand new biology joke.

YALE AND LAFAYETTE REPRESENTED IN PROTEST

Petition Was Started by M. S.
Liben '32, Editor of The Campus

Nine more college and university editors responded yesterday to The Campus's protest petition against the expulsion from Columbia University of Reed Harris, Spectator editor. This brings the total of undergraduate editors who have requested "a thorough investigation of the facts" of the case to seventeen.

List of Signers
The nine new replies came from different sections of the country and were in some cases accompanied by statements. Replies were received from:

Columbia Students Strike As Eggs Smear Alma Mater And Campus Battles Rage

Father of Reed Harris College
Alumnus—In Sinclair's Class

The father of Reed Harris is one of the College alumni who is involved in the Harris suspension at Columbia. Mr. Tudor R. Harris '37, is a writer by profession and recently stated that, in view of events, he would consider it a "stigma" if his son were to receive a degree from Columbia.

Two College alumni yesterday signed the Morningside faculty protest petition which decried "violation of academic freedom." The two were Lewis Mumford '18, who teaches sociology, and Ernest Nagel '23, philosophy instructor. David Sinclair, physics instructor and son of Upton Sinclair '97, was another signer.

COLLEGE DEBATERS MEET TENNESSEE

Split Team System Used by Lavender Team for First Time

Speaking under the split team system, the College debating team met the Tennessee forensic squad yesterday noon on the subject: Resolved, That Congress enact legislation for the centralization of industry. The debate, the best attended one of the season, was heard by a crowd of about 200 students.

In the new scheme of debating, instead of having the respective sides made up of men from the same college, there is one man from each college on each side. E. I. Caraway of Tennessee and Harry Gershenson '33 of City College, presented the affirmative while Landron Bolling, Tennessee, and Harry Rothstein '32, City College, presented the negative.

Affirmative Criticizes System
The affirmative claimed that the existing system was one of "prosperity, panic, and recovery" working for the benefit of the capitalist. They claimed that the existing conditions were due to the unequal distribution of wealth, waste of natural resources, over-production, and lack of scientific co-ordination between production and consumption.

The plan of action as presented by the affirmative called for the creation of a board of executive control which would act and be chosen as the existing Supreme Court. This board would integrate the extra-key industries and even-

Seniors Home Addresses Sought by Alumni Office

The address of Alexander Breinan, Samuel Freundel, Ralph R. Glickman, and Henry Rosenberg, all of the class of February '32, are needed by the Alumni office.

Students knowing any of the addresses are requested by Donald A. Roberts to leave them at the office in the basement of the Library building, or at the College post-office addressed to the Associate Alumni.

Authorities Deny Walkout—Say Students Cut Because of Toothaches

STATEMENT AFFIRMING HARRIS'S CHARGES READ

Instances Cited of Worms and Lice Being Found in Food

Alma Mater sat as usual on her throne before the Columbia University library, Wednesday, but in her lap she held a sign:—"On Strike!" And while professors lectured to empty halls, thousands of students of both the college and the professional schools wandered about the campus, flowed through the corridors, and gathered around Alma Mater in protest against the expulsion of Reed Harris. Another strike may be held today.

Altogether, approximately 85 per cent of the undergraduates participated in the walkout.

Strike Successful

The strike was successful to an even greater extent than had been hoped by the leaders. Five, six students attended lectures which regularly draw fifty. Instructors called off classes and went for a walk. What class room discussion was held centered about the civil war over Harris's dismissal. For the struggle, as was admitted by a speaker at the mass meeting held at noon, has become a civil war. On one side are the strikers—a huge, poorly organized group; on the other, the administration's defenders—a small vociferous clique composed chiefly of athletes.

Civil War Breaks Out

At a meeting Monday morning, this civil war, which until then had been merely a battle of words, broke out into actual fighting. William Love, striker, and Jerome Kerrigan took a few swings at each other but with no definite results apparent. Firecrackers and tear gas bombs were thrown. Harold Westwood, one of the leaders, had his jacket ripped by Shelley Wood. Despite reports in the metropolitan press to the contrary, however, an investigation by The Campus proved that there were no casualties.

Employee Supports Read

Although Dean Herbert E. Hawkes has denied that Reed Harris is able to prove his charges—charges for which he was expelled—that John Jay Dining Hall is being run for profit and that poor, filthy food is served there, an affidavit by a worker in the restaurant was read substantiating the claims. The affidavit cites instances of lice-nests being found in rolls, of dead worms being scraped from foods, of rats living in the cabinets, and of corn grit being used in hamburger

DECLAIMING TRIALS TO BE HELD AGAIN

Competition for George Augustus Sandham Award in Extemporaneous Speaking

This afternoon at 3 p. m., in room 222, students will discuss "International Peace" in the extemporaneous speech contest for the George Augustus Sandham award. The specific phase of the topic to be discussed will be posted on the Public Speaking department bulletin board at 1.

Mrs. George Augustus Sandham established this prize in 1922. It consists of the income from $2500. Students who are now taking Public Speaking 5-6, or who have already passed that course, are eligible to compete.

In the finals, which will be held in the Great Hall, during the first week of May, a new topic for the speeches will be used.

Finals in May

Owing to the small number of competitors trying for the Roemer prize in poetry declamation, further eliminations will be held in that contest, in the near future. Students who passed Public Speaking 3-4, in the Fall or Summer Sessions of 1931, or who are now taking the course may try out.

Ingram Bander '33, David Kadane '33, Leonard Silverman '33, and Moe Rifkin '34, were the only students to compete. Messrs. Meyer, Mammen, Ryan, and Marshall of the Public Speaking department acted as judges.

The Roemer Prize was founded in 1898, in memory of Professor Roemer, head of the Public Speaking department at the time of his death. It consists of a prize fund of $300.

Bureau Announces Summer Social Job

A position for an active social director in a summer camp is being held open by the College Employment bureau, it was announced yesterday, by A. L. Rose, manager.

The work will require the planning of a social program for presentation during the summer season. Applicants will be required to present prepared skits and entertainment features in script form for approval by the hotel manager. Men with previous experience as promoters of social activities in camps and institutions will necessarily be given preference. The scripts to be offered by applicants must be sufficient to cover a period of three weeks, to be repeated two or three times during the remainder of the summer.

If Manager Rose succeeds in placing a man for this position, a number of others for staff assistants in the same hotel, will be open for students of the college.

Prof. H. Overstreet Presides At Forum on "Readjustments"

Professor Harry A. Overstreet, head of the Philosophy department, presided last night at a forum held in the auditorium of the A.W.A. clubhouse, 353 West 57th St. The subject of discussion was the necessity of readjustments to produce a society in which individuals, living together, may make their fullest contribution towards a better social and economic order.

Alumnus Appointed Reviewer On Yale Law Journal Staff

Herman C. Biegel, an alumnus of the College, was elected to the staff of the Yale Law Journal last Wednesday. Biegel will assume the capacity of book review editor and will formally be installed at the annual dinner of the staff on April 23.

Half-Semester Subscriptions To Campus Will Expire Today

With this issue of The Campus the 50 cent subscription tickets, purchased at the beginning of the term, become void.

Students desirous of continuing their subscriptions must buy the cards for the second half of the semester.

Technology News Supervises Wrestling Matches Thursday

Wrestling bouts under the supervision of the Tech News will take place next Thursday at 5 p. m. in the Tech gym. The matches are: Harry Pittel '32 vs. Max Pinsker '33; Judah Finkelstein '32 vs. Bernard Perlmutter '33; George Rolfe '33 vs. Philip Goldsmith '32.

JAYVEE NINE FACES EVANDER TOMORROW

Expects Strong Opposition From Bronx Team; Hurling Big Asses

The junior varsity baseball team will attempt to prove that last week's 3-0 victory over the strong Lincoln high school nine was no accident when it meets Evander Childs tomorrow morning in the Stadium.

The feature of last week's game was the excellent pitching of Murray Poss and Phil Davis. In five innings Poss did not yield a single hit while Davis allowed only one scratch single.

Evander Childs, however, will extend the Jayvees more than did the Lincoln nine. Invariably the Bronx school produces first rate teams and this year is no exception.

Many Veterans on Team

The Lavender nine this season is practically an all-veteran affair. Phil Zlatchin, catcher, Davis and Poss, pitchers, Gainen and Inslar, infielders, Davidson, and Kupperberg, outfielders, all have seen action as either Jayvee regulars or varsity reserves last year. The most promising newcomer seems to be Sid Glaubman, left-handed first baseman. Glaubman, Saturday, got two of the five Lavender hits and both were doubles over the fence.

"—and comment"

Those students who went down to investigate the Harlan County affair returned with a full stock of stories about Southern hospitality.

It seems the officials there think it means "to send to the hospital." They've been doing their best.

At any rate, they've revised our geographic notions. They've proven that to go South often means to go west.

When the students reached the border line they were asked, "Are you with us, or are you Communists?"

They were told they might enter and investigate provided they would post a thousand dollars each to guarantee they would, find only nice things.

It seems that that was the special student rate. The price for a Federal investigation would be about twenty electoral votes.

sandwiches. It states that when complaints from customers are reported by the waiters to the dietician she berates the waiters.

One instance cited tells of a waiter who brought to the dietician a plate of soup containing a fly. "The purchaser put that fly there himself," said the dietician.

"How do you know?" asked the waiter.

"Well—" replied the dietician. "The fly is alive and kicking..."

Athletic Group Active

Also alive and kicking was the "football clique." Its members stood about in groups, heckling, and throwing eggs. When George Leonard, for instance, stood up to speak three eggs were hurled at him. They missed by many yards and he shouted: "The fellows who threw those have minds as crooked as their aim."

The conscientious objectors—for that is what the "football clique" term themselves—may have missed Leonard, but in subsequent tries they did manage to smear the face of Alma Mater with rotten egg. The Rev. Dr. Elliott White, of the class of 1891, however, clambered up on the pedestal and with a clean white handkerchief carefully wiped away the stains.

Contemplate No Action

In the meantime, Associate Dean N. M. McKnight announced to the press that the authorities were contemplating no retaliatory action against the strikers—that in fact no strike existed. He declared: "Students cut classes because of toothaches and because they don't want to go. The students merely will be marked absent today."

While the authorities may have declared that a strike did not exist, instructors found that strangely enough, quite a few students had toothaches Wednesday. Professor J. B. Brebner announced to his class in British Constitutional History that he would give a quiz and sixty four students walked out. The six who remained were all athletes and one wit remarked: "One good thing about this strike is that a lot of these football men are going to class for the first time in their lives."

Lectures to Empty Class

In one case reporters found a professor lecturing to a completely empty room. "Oh that guy?" explained a student. "he hasn't missed a lecture in ten years and he's trying to maintain his record. It doesn't make any difference anyway because there are only two students in his class and, of course, one just sits in."

Battle in Avery Hall

While most of the day's action centered about the library, quite a battle occurred in Avery Hall when some architectural students hung out a banner reading "No Gagging—Free Speech." A group of football men crashed through the doors and scaled the walls as the crowd sang: "Shut the doors, they're coming through the windows. Shut the windows, they're coming through the doors." The sound of breaking chairs, tables, drafting boards and desks could be heard below. Hands reached out of the windows and the banner, torn to bits, floated down to the crowd.

As one of the victorious athletes rushed from the building, a reporter shouted, "Hey buddy! What's your name?"

"Wood," yelled back the athlete. "A good old American name..."

be brought under centralized governmental control.

Negative Fears Bureaucracy
The negative argued that centralized control would lead into one of the greatest bureaucracies the world would ever have seen. The leaders of this "control" would be the "political henchmen of the men who own the business world."

They asked how the affirmative would take care of the intricacies of industry, international complications, and the politician-led boards.

The difficulty in the split-side debate was explained by Gershenson, the star speaker, when he said "For two and a half years Harry Rothstein and I have agreed to the last iota but today he and I violently and vehemently disagree."

Affirmative Wins Advantage
In a statement to a Campus reporter Dr. Lester Thonnsen, coach of debating said that he believed the affirmative would have won if it had been a decision debate.

For the first time since last season, the Lavender squad will debate the unemployment insurance problem when it meets the Brooklyn team on station WEVD. The squad, consisting of Rothstein, Gershenson, and David Kadane '33, will take the negative of the subject.

Two Weeks' Limit for Return Of Last Semester Text Books

Students who have not yet returned their text books from last semester should straighten out their accounts with the book room within the next two weeks, Walter Roberts, supervisor of text books, announced yesterday.

Suspension from the College may be the penalty for failure to do so.

Frosh Cheerleading Squad To Meet Next Thursday

Candidates for the Freshman cheerleading squad are requested by Emanuel S. Warshauer '32, captain of the group, to meet in the Athletic Association room at 1:00 next Thursday.

Further tryouts for the frosh tennis team will be held Wednesday at 4:00 at the Hamilton Tennis courts, located at Dyckman street and Nagel avenue.

"Relativity" Explained Before Math-Physics Club Meeting

"The Theory of Relativity" was explained on a geometrical basis by Lazarus before the joint meeting of the Physics and Math clubs, yesterday.

Mr. Lazarus showed that the three dimensional frame work of reference is a formal, arbitrary creation serving as a convenient basis for geometrical and physical observations. "The Lorentz contraction in space-time," he said, "is analogous to ordinary foreshortening in three dimensional space."

Professor George W. Eggers, head of the Art department, was recently awarded the Logan Medal by the Art Institute of Chicago for a water-color painting he submitted to the International Water-Color Exhibition held in Chicago.

The award of the Logan Medal, which is the Institute's highest tribute to artistic skill and ability, was also made to Zorach, one of the leading artists in the field.

r's choice, and two singles, brought in three more runs.

In defeating Brooklyn College the St. Nick diamondmen showed a fairly good batting strength, out hitting the visitors by eight hits to five, but the fielding was far below the par set in the two Columbia games. Most of the Brooklyn runs were a result of miscues by the College players and do not detract from the ability of the Convent avenue pitchers.

Play Panzer Tomorrow

Tomorrow afternoon the College nine will strive for its second victory of the season, when it opposes the team of Panzer College of New Jersey, in the Lewisohn Stadium. Nothing is known of the opposition, but the game promises to be an interesting one since the College defeated the visitors, 7-3, last year.

The team which has been starting in the first three games will probably line up again tomorrow. Captain Goldman at first, Oglio at second, Kuzelnick at third, Levy at short, and Solomon behind the plate will constitute the infield, while Maloney, Friedman and Gladstone will again cover the outer territory.

It is unlikely that Miller will make any changes in the line-up which won its opening game so handily. Singer will be in the goal once more with Murray Maurer, Bob Vance and either Jack Jochnowitz or Dudley Fuller comprising the inner defense.

published for the express purpose of presenting student opinion and criticism, and practices such as this curb this freedom of expression and make them have little more value than censored expressions under the 'big stick.'

Chelimsky, editor of the Brooklyn College Pioneer, quoted: "Sic Semper Tyrannis!" (Thus, always to tyrants!)

B. H. Whitton, editor of the M. I. T. Tech, returned the protest unsigned because there were "facts which have not yet been made public." He stated, however, that he was in sympathy with a request for an "impartial investigation."

The Campus petition reads:

"We, the undersigned, protest against the expulsion from Columbia University of Reed Harris, editor-in-chief of The Spectator. We feel from the facts as they have been made public that this is an act of academic illiberality, and constitutes an unwarranted usurpation of freedom of expression. As college editors we feel that the right to free expression of beliefs, within the bounds of decency, is one not to be tampered with. We request that a thorough investigation of the facts be made."
