

LAVENDER QUINTET EASTERN CHAMPIONS

Victorious St. Johns Encounter Acclaimed as Highlight of Season

VANQUISHED ALL RIVALS IN METROPOLITAN AREA

Davidoff Only Regular Who Is Not to Return Next Year

(Continued from Page 1) Dartmouth met its first defeat when the Lavender displayed some excellent basketball to win 37-18. Geneva College was the first team to register 20 points against the Lavender, but this was not enough, the College scoring 41. A crowd of 14,000 saw the St. Nick forces completely outclass Fordham 23-11 in the first game of the charity tournament at Madison Square Garden on New Year's eve. Niagara, two days later, proved easy, 32-27.

Defeated Only by Temple U. In its first game away from home the Lavender ran into unexpected opposition from Temple University. In a game played on a dance floor so slippery that the fast-travelling St. Nick team was handicapped, the Owls won, 33-29. St. John's and Manhattan, old rivals, were trounced on consecutive Saturdays by 28-18 and 31-20 scores respectively. Duquesne was beaten, 24-18, and Fordham was trounced for the second time, 37-13. The team travelled up to Providence where it overcame the formidable Friars, 37 to 20. Showing its greatest offensive strength, the high-gear College five ran up 50 points to Lehigh's 29. Rutgers was the third team to be defeated within a week when Holman's charges vanquished the Maroon by a 27-18 score.

In the traditional battle with N. Y. U. the Lavender, in spite of the illness of many of its players, hopelessly outclassed the Violets and, regardless of the rough tactics displayed by the Bronxites, won by a decisive 33-21 count before a crowd of 5,000. In the final game, a post-season charity tilt with the Howard team of Washington, the College flashed some of the best basketball seen on any court at any time to defeat the colored quintet, 43-26.

Team Proves Well Balanced Nat Holman's first string combination was as well balanced a group as could be desired. Joe Davidoff, playing his second year of varsity ball, was the high scorer of the squad, accounting for no fewer than 133 points. His cool head, his remarkable dribbling ability, and his general defensive work all qualified him for the title of honorary captain, which was voted him after the N. Y. U. game. Davidoff will be the only regular who will not be back next year.

Captain-elect Moe Spahn seems, to many, to be the best college player in the game. Coach Holman expressed the opinion that Spahn was the best man on the pivot play in college basketball and Spahn more than demonstrated this, time and again.

Lou Wisniewitz, diminutive forward, whose speed proved to be a valuable asset, Johnny White, sharp cutting forward, and Moe Goldman, six-foot-three center, rounded out the first quintet.

The second team of Danny and Julie Trupin, "Barry" Berenson, Artie Solomon, and Robbie Siegel exhibited speed rarely equalled by any college contingent. Their ability to freeze the ball was a great aid to Holman all through the season. Other subs who completed the squad were Artie Kaufman, Sid Carus, Hy Kranowitz, Harry Gitlitz, and Dave Halperin.

Engineers to Hear Address

E. A. Prentis, chief engineer of Spencer, White, and Prentis will address the American Society of Civil Engineers on "Foundations," Thursday at 12:30 p. m. in room 6.

Radicals Convene at "Rebels' Revel"

"Rebels' Revel," a dance and entertainment sponsored by the Social Problems Club will be held next Friday evening in the Grand Hall of the Irving Plaza. The entertainment, which will partake of the "radical" nature of the affair, will consist of aesthetic interpretations of revolutionary dances, a workers' chorus, a noted violinist and a string trio. Admission has been set at fifty cents—sixty-five cents at the door. Tickets can be secured from any club member.

"Frontiers," the official publication of the Social Problems Club, will make its first appearance of the term shortly after the Easter holiday. The publication will feature the murder of Harry Sims in Kentucky and that of Joe York in the recent riot at the Ford works, and the relation of these murders to worker's unemployment agitation. There will also be articles on Manchuria, the Sino-Japanese question, Military Science and the unemployment of Tech students in the United States compared with the situation in Soviet Russia. Scott Nearing, author of the recent book, "War," and former professor of the University of Pennsylvania, has contributed an article on "The Crisis and the Student." "Experiences of a Student in Mill Sci" and a review of the recent Soviet cinema, the "Road to Life," are other prominent features.

COLLEGE DEBATERS MEET FLORIDA TEAM

(Continued from Page 1) executive or advisory and who would have them. The debaters from Florida conceded that the questions were perfectly logical and "in order" but they said that there were too many of them so they could not be answered.

Harry Gershenson '33 Best Speaker Harry Gershenson '33, who was acclaimed the best speaker of the evening, and Harry Rothstein '32, both seasoned veterans from last year, put their points over for the College with much emphasis and ability.

Willard Ayres and Harold Wahl, the Florida debaters, made a very good showing in presenting the affirmative. However they fell flat in not being able to present a consistent, worked-out plan.

In a statement to a Campus reporter Dr. Lester Thonssen, coach of debating and chairman at the debate, said, "I believe that if we had had fully qualified judges at this debate, they would most certainly have given our men the decision."

Club Mass Meeting To Discuss Miners

According to present plans the delegation will leave the city Wednesday, March 23, at noon and arrive in Knoxville, Tennessee on Friday morning at seven o'clock. It will then proceed to Pineville, Kentucky, where it will witness the trial of twelve indicted writers and union organizers. On Friday and Saturday it will tour the surrounding mining camps distributing relief and attending a meeting of the strikers. Those members of the delegation who are pressed for time will then entrain for home, while another group will remain in Kentucky and a third will leave for Detroit to investigate the condition of the worker in the automobile industry.

The cost of the trip will be approximately ten dollars per person; the rest of the expenses being defrayed by contributions from the national organizations sponsoring the delegation and by a collection to be taken at the meeting Thursday.

College Enrollment Increases by 3,000

Business may be bad at other institutions and their enrollments may be considerably less than in former years, but, depression or no, the College is continuing to grow in size, according to figures released yesterday by Dr. Morton Gottschall, Registrar.

Not including those in the School of Technology, the College now contains 26,270 students, an increase over last year of approximately 3,000. Of these, 8,739 are studying in the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, 1,364 in the School of Business, 14,196 in the Evening session and 3,471 in the School of Education.

Last year, there were 5,203 students in the Liberal Arts College and 1,199 in the Commerce center. Entering freshmen in the College this term numbered 821.

HEINROTH CRITICIZES STUDENT LETHARGY

Avoids Difficult Selections The former Director of Music at the Carnegie Institute declared that, in the current series of recitals, he had, as far as possible, avoided selections which are difficult to grasp, confining himself to those pieces which are comparatively popular, yet are written by the very finest composers. Commenting further Professor Heinroth said:

"I have arranged most of my recitals for this series in such a way that, instead of being devoted to the works of individual composers or to several random ones, each one of them includes the work of musicians of a single national group. This Wednesday, for instance, I will devote my recital to pieces from Belgian composers. Other performances I have given over to illustrate the development of some particular form of composition, such as the chorale or the fugue. In each concert I progress from comparatively simple themes to more difficult ones.

"Closer to the Heart" "In short, you see that I am trying hard to bring music closer to the heart of the student body. I do not know why, thus far, after my tenth recital at the College, so small a number of students have responded.

"I am at odds to say whether the blame lies in the fact that I do not make my recitals interesting enough, or that there really is a lack of musical evaluation and appreciation in the under-graduates. I would heartily welcome suggestion or criticism from anybody interested."

Professor Heinroth may be reached by communication through the Faculty Mail room, or letters may be delivered to him personally when he is rehearsing on the organ in the Great Hall.

Robinson to Speak At Goethe Program

President Frederick B. Robinson will be the principal speaker at the Goethe centennial celebration, to be held in Carnegie Hall, March 19, under the auspices of the New York Goethe Society.

Other speakers will be Professor John A. Walz of Harvard University, Dr. Eugen Kuehnemann of the University of Bresden, and Dr. Emanuel de Marney Baruch, president of the Goethe Society.

There will also be a musical program made up of the masterpieces of German composers and rendered by outstanding German musicians.

Some of the artists to take part in the recital will be Mme. Ernestine Schumann-Heink, the noted contralto; Elizabeth Rethberg, prima donna of the Metropolitan Opera Company; Walter Kirchoff, tenor; and Max Menter, recitor.

Tickets may be obtained from Dr. Otto P. Peterson, recording secretary of the society, in room 305-A or at the Carnegie Hall box-office.

SOPH COUNCIL MEETING TO INDICATE SELECTIONS

Sophomore committee appointments will be announced this Thursday at the class council meeting and plans for the semester's social functions will be discussed, it was announced yesterday by Albert Aronowitz, president of the '35 class. Members of the class are urged to attend these meetings and voice their sentiments on class problems, he said. The council meets every Thursday at 12 noon in room 110.
