Student Council to Decide Halprin's Eligibility As Head; No Re-election to Be Held

Kadane Will Take Chair as Halprin Is Deposed—Vote to Follow

STAROBIN TRIES TO RE-WOKE DEAN'S DICTUM

Schrank Says Re-election Must Be Held as Soon as Possible

There will be no re-election to fill the vacant presidency of the Student Council, left by the ineligibility of Edward Halprin '33, who was elected to that office in May, it was decided by Dean Redmond last week. At a stormy unofficial session of the Council called by Vice-President Kadane '33, Professor Babor, who presided, declared that the Council will technically decide on Halprin's eligibility. "After the complete Council has been elected," Professor Babor announced, "Mr. Halprin will call the meeting to order. His eligibility will then be questioned and Mr. Kadane will take the chair. The Council will then decide whether or not Mr. Halprin is to serve as president. Should the decision be negative Mr. Kadane will serve as acting president for the term. In no case will a re-election be held. This will not prevent Mr. Kadane from running for president next term."

Halprin, in agreement with Professor Babor's statement declared, "Article 9 of the Student Council by-laws states, 'the Student Council shall be the sole judge of its own eligibility.' Upon the basis of that by-law I officially continue in the presidency until the new Student Council decides otherwise."

Kadane Non-committal

Joseph Starobin '34, secretary, attempted to have Dean Redmond's order barring a new election revoked but met with the stormy opposition of Professor Babor and all members present who favored the eligibility of Halprin. David Kadane '33, on being informed of his new position as acting president stated, "Nothing I can say can possibly throw any light on the legality of the case."

Norman Schrank '33, runner-up for the presidency in last semester's election and leader of the faction favoring a re-election, made a declaration as follows:

"It seems to me that there is no basis in the Student Council constitution or by-laws for the denial of a re-election of Student Council President. Such a re-election will not be burdensome since the names of the contestants

CADET CLUB TO MEET REGULARLY IN ARMORY

Old members of the Cadet Club are required to attend a meeting of that organization according to an announcement by President James Marlin '35. He invited new members to attend also.

The club will meet in the R. O. T. C. armory regularly on Thursdays at 12:30.

Class Office Nominations To Close Wednesday

Nominations for all class officers will close Wednesday at 2:00 p.m. instead of Thursday, as previously announced. All names together with Student Council card and twenty-five cents election fee will be received in the '34 Alcove by Jerome Machlin '34.

SPINDELL TO COACH J. V. BASKETBALL

Hodesblatt Resigns Because of Outside Duties—New Coach Takes Charge

Lou Spindell, one of the greatest basketball stars that the College has ever turned out, will replace Mac Hodesblatt as coach of the College Junior Varsity quintet for the coming season. Hodesblatt was forced to give up his position as Nat Holman's first assistant because of the pressure of his duties as physical training instructor at Thomas Jefferson High School.

Developed Brilliant Teams

During the four years that he was in charge of the Jayvee quintet, Hodesblatt turned out many fine teams and developed practically all of the men who have starred on the Varsity for the last few years. Hodesblatt's best teams probably were the 1930 and 1931 combinations, both of which went through their seasons undefeated, up to the final game, only to lose to the New York University freshmen.

Spindell starred on the 1927 and 1928 quintets and was elected to lead the 1929 team. The latter five won ten straight games but lost to St. John's in the eleventh. Later on in the season, Spindell's team avenged its defeat by trimming Providence easily, although the Friars had previously handed St. John's its lone trouncing of the season.

After he graduated from College, Spindell drifted into professional basketball through an odd coincidence.

NIMRODS GIRD LOINS FOR HECTIC SEASON

The Rifle Team has announced its schedule for the forthcoming semester, and it is interesting to note that it is going to shoot the co-ed teams of Oklahoma U. and Purdue U. Verily, 'tis a matter for conjecture. Who would have the heart to shoot these innocent, defenseless young girls?

The rest of the schedule has no love interest—merely crude, cold competition. N. Y. U. and Cornell, who rate in the Eastern Championship scrap, Pittsburgh, Florida, and M. I. T. will also be met.

LEHRMAN DISCOVERS NEW ACID IN STARCH; WINS RECOGNITION

Began Series of Experiments Last February at College

FIND MAY OPEN NEW FIELD IN CHEMISTRY

Made Investigations with Cereals and Fatty Acids

Dr. Leo Lehrman, '19, Associate Professor of Chemistry at the College, revolutionized the chemical industry by discovering the presence of linolenic acid in starch derived from the cassava plant, as explained in a recent bulletin issued by the author.

This discovery is the result of a series of experiments begun by Dr. Lehrman last February, in the research laboratories of the College.

Dr. Lehrman's work is particularly interesting since, in his experiment, he employed the method of bromination, a far more delicate and more exact method than oxidation, the system generally used in similar work.

Important for Tapioca

His find disclosed the fact that the fatty acids liberated by the hydrolysis of cassava starch free from fatty materials are palmitic, oleic, linoleic and linolenic. These acids are of great importance in the tapioca industry.

Dr. Lehrman has been associated with the College as an instructor since his graduation, and received his doctorate from Columbia in 1925.

An article on the fatty acids associated with cassava starch, in which Dr. Lehrman's discovery was outlined, appeared in the last issue of the Journal of the American Chemical Society, where it received wide scientific recognition.

Fighting Eleven Bows, 47-0, To Fine Catholic U. Squad; Loss of Men Hits Team

Saturday Football Sidelights As Seen By "Campus" Reporter

Both elevens were sartorially perfect at the beginning of the game with Catholic University looking extremely natty in their red jerseys and red striped trousers. The College players also looked very neat in their white, lavender-striped jerseys at the whistle, but before the game had progressed very far, Mike Kupperberg looked as if he was wearing one of last year's black shirts, with his jersey, formerly white, covered with layers of the sod which many a gridiron warrior trod.

For once, the band was not present at the game and we heard many curious queries about it. However, the general consensus of opinion was that the Jewish holiday also took its toll among Captain Hopf's charges.

When Tommy Whelan was announced as a starting player for Catholic University, the Stadium resounded with cheers. No, there were no traitors present, but Whelan grew up right on Convent Avenue and had a great many friends and relatives in the grand stand.

When Rosenthal was announced as a line substitute for Catholic University, a great many people thought that the announcer had made a mistake, either in the name or the team. But it proved to be true. Yes, a Rosenthal played for Catholic University on Rosh Hashonah!

JAYVEES WORK HARD FOR OPENING GAME

Dubinsky Drives Charges in Preparation for Game Saturday

Hard at work in preparation for the opening game of the season, the tilt with the Brooklyn College Junior Varsity eleven next Saturday at the Lewisohn Stadium, the College Jayvee football team is going through its paces daily under the direction of Coach Dubinsky. The team scrimmaged three times against the Varsity last week and will probably go on the offensive against the first squad again, using the Lowell Textile plays, on Tuesday and Wednesday.

Great Turnout

The team had an unusually large turnout this season and so Coach Dubinsky has been enabled to work his charges hard without the bugaboo of injuries to hamper him for fear of impairing his man-power. Therefore Dubinsky already has a good line on his charges and he thinks that this year's eleven will probably outdo the splendid record attained by last year's squad.

The Jayvee backfield suffered the loss of services, last week, of Al Weiss and Morty Proccacino who were elevated to the Varsity squad because of the scarcity of backs on the first team. However, with the Catholic University game and the emergency past, it is likely that both will return to the second team today, and they should prove of value in Saturday's battle.

STALHELM FEST FOR HINDENBURG'S BIRTH

The Stahlhelm Society sponsored a celebration of the 85th birthday of President Von Hindenburg in the Lewisohn Stadium on Sunday, Oct. 2, at 7:30 P.M.

A short address was delivered by Senator Barbour of New Jersey. Delegations from the American Legion, the V. F. W., the Nat. Guard, and the R. O. T. C. were there.

The committee consisted of Count Von Luckner, Capt. Lauterbach-Enden, Major Von Stuelpnagel and Paul Bant.

Lavender Team Plays Good Football in First Half of the Game

UNTRIED SOPHOMORES PROVE EXPECTATIONS

"Mush" Weiner and Mondschein Stars of College Eleven

Lack of reserve strength cost the College Varsity football team a 47-0 defeat at the hands of the Catholic University eleven, last Saturday afternoon at the Lewisohn Stadium. The Lavender eleven played sparkling football throughout the first half and it was only the breaks of the game that gave its red-jerseyed rivals a 13-0 lead at half-time. However, these earlier efforts took its toll and with their strength sapped and no capable substitutes to replace them, the Nick stalwarts were easy victims for the Southerners when the shadows creeping over the Lewisohn Stadium announced the closing minutes of the battle.

However, the game brought promise of better things to come in the future. The untried sophomores, of whom Dr. Parker had expected so much, came through their test of fire with flying colors. Jose Gonzales played all through the game and was always a tower of strength for the Lavender on the defense while his blocking on the offense was sensational. Mike Ashman also fulfilled all that had been expected of him, while Gene Berkowitz, Ed Juliber and Irv Weber also won praise for their courageous playing.

Nine Man Line Used

In fact, the whole team, all of the eighteen men who reported ready for action, played good football, even in that grueling second half when Catholic University, constantly hurrying fresh, eager substitutes into the battle, pushed its way down the field with monotonous regularity. It was magnificent to watch the tired Lavender gridmen always charging, always trying, although some of them were ready to drop from weariness.

All of the wearers of the Lavender, last Saturday, deserve credit but the bright particular stars of the game from the College point of view were Captain "Mush" Weiner and Irv Mondschein. Mondschein, playing on the line of scrimmage due to the nine man line that Dr. Parker was using, stopped

HOW ABOUT A RE-ELECTION?

THE student body has the right to choose its own Student Council president. Their choice for this office was Edward J. Halprin, declared ineligible by Professor Baber, faculty advisor to the council, for failure to meet the constitutional requirement that the president be an upper senior at the time of his taking office.

Dean Redmond's action in forbidding a re-election will result in the succession, to the council presidency, of a man never elected to that office, and ineligible to hold it, being, like Halprin, a lower senior.

Clearly, the only course the council can take when it meets Friday and officially declares Halprin ineligible, is to provide for a re-election and to induce Dean Redmond to recognize that his prohibition will violate the dictates of the constitution and those of common sense.

COLLEGE AND POLITICS

IN his speech to the entering freshmen last Thursday, President Robinson said "College is not a rostrum for the announcement of political theories but rather an institution for the development of the mind to the extent of being able to reach its own conclusions."

We, however, believe that if the student mind is to be developed to such a point where it is able to formulate its own opinions, it is necessary that it gain at least an introduction to the practicalities of life. Political activities govern our existence to such an extent that everyone of its several ramifications must be seriously taken into consideration.

If the student does not have the opportunity to intelligently discuss, in College, political theories, he will be greatly handicapped as to how to evaluate the various governmental and social beliefs, which will later, of a certainty, confront him.

In order to vote intelligently it is necessary to have more than a vague knowledge of the fundamental processes of government. This information should be presented from widely divergent views, and yet as non-partisanly as possible. What better place to assimilate this necessary knowledge than college?

It must be said I have not found
Much sense in Crane or Ezra Pound.

ON A SEPTEMBER MORN

We've corrected any false impression about our demise, partial or total, but we just have to snicker at the student council's predicament.

At the recent "Student" mass meeting all the orators, from Hyman to Friedman, accused the council or its constitution of being or having their or its powers castrated.

Triumphantly, we say, "Just let those modest youths try to answer that one."

"One of the greatest pitchers I ever saw," exclaimed Grimm about Vernon Gomez.

"But the Cubs made nine hits," objected a member of Grimm's audience. "You had two yourself."

"I just happened to be swinging where the ball was," grinned Grimm.

"Vernon Gomez admitted that he was 'mighty nervous' when he first stepped on the rubber.

"But it didn't last long. Seemed like the further I went the better I got."

"Guess I was lucky. They weren't swinging where I was pitching."

The Alcove

Haste thee!

THIS is an alcove which is being written on the spur of the moment. We need copy, and so—a dash of inspiration, some fine homebrew, and lots of pizza, have all conspired to put one over on the editor.

Have you ever eaten pizza? It can be secured in many, many Italian restaurants. It's fascinating to watch it being made. The cook takes a mass of dough, and pounds, pounds, pounds. . . . He utilizes his own sense of savage rhythm. I imagined myself back in the stone ages. . . . bearded men dancing around a blazing bonfire. . . . the beat of the tom-tom impressed itself on my plastic mind. . . . I was ready to drink the blood of the sacrificial calf. . . . I was dragged back to reality by the astonishing activities of the cook. Taking the large circular mass of dough on the point of his little finger, he made it perform astonishing convolutions in the air, and then slapped it down on the board.

The Pizza Comes

The pungent odor of Parmesan cheese came to my nostrils. That and tomatoes. . . . Albert started talking of a drunken spree. It occurred to me that I was the subject of his conversation. . . . Lying in the middle of Broadway? Me? Yes. . . . The pizza came out of the oven.

The edges of the damned thing were turned up. The melted cheese sizzled within its confines. . . . the brick red tomatoes (probably canned) assaulted the eye. . . .

It Becomes Amusing

Albert was still talking about that spree—oh, well, say drunk, then—something about proposing marriage to every woman I met. But that was all right. Harold had done the same thing. Arthur sat back and laughed.

The homebrew helped me to live thru the agony of the recital. It developed that I had gotten sick on Riverside Drive. . . . I went up and ordered another pizza.

Whew! What's this? Good old printer. "Don't get excited." . . . good advice—shouted at the top of his voice. I guess he's pretty serious about it.

The issue's going out! Hurry up there. Come on, will you?

No. There's still that pizza to consider. The second one. I landed in my stomach like a lump of lead. Just a lot of healthy food. It's either that or the homebrew that's making me write stuff like this.

What's your guess? Yours? Let's go around the college and find out. We'll take the opinion of the majority. At any rate, we'll consider it. I, personally, believe we can blame the gin and kimmel and brandy which made me marriage-conscious so many months ago. It's funny what talking can do. . . .

Literary Desirability

I feel something like a thief who comes in the night. Alcove has heretofore never used words of less than six syllables, and here I am, writing semi-intelligibly, and deriding all tradition! Shades of the American Revolution! But I just can't use big words! They hurt my jaw. . . .

A question arises? . . . am I doing a monologue interieure, or don't I resemble James Joyce at all? I hope it's not a stream of consciousness. That system leads to slatternly writing. Oh, well, I'm thru. . . . hoping for the best. . . .

Screen Straps

THE PHANTOM PRESIDENT — at the Paramount Theatre, with George M. Cohen, Jimmy Durante, and Claudette Colbert.

This picture, as one discerns from the title, "The Phantom President," is a satire on politics, but not as the same one may suspect, a copy or parody of "Of Thee I Sing." Its situations and humor are of an entirely different and original source.

George M. Cohen plays with great charm, naturalness, and ability the dual role of the dull, respectable, presidential candidate and the dashing medicine show man who is hired to appear for his bewildered double in the combative contacts of the campaign. For sheer hilarity, however, it is Jimmy Durante who emerges triumphant from the farcical maneuvers of the film.

Miss Colbert, never looking more handsome or acting so vivaciously before, has a minor role as the sweetheart of the twin Presidential candidates. As for the film itself it is sometimes brilliant, occasionally weak, but it is so admirably acted that it remains a superior picture at all times.

SKETCH CLUB TO MEET FOR REORGANIZATION

Because of the success and popularity of the Croquis Sketch Class last year it has been decided that the organization continue to function this year on the same basis. The group was organized in Oct. 1931, continued through the entire school year and with the advent of summer vacation was continued in the home of one of its members.

The purpose of the class is to give students of the college interested in drawing, a chance to draw from life. A sincere interest in drawing is the only requirement for admission. The work is left entirely to the members and there is no instruction offered. The class is particularly interested in students with an inclination for drawing who have not as yet been able to take the Art Courses offered by the College.

The first meeting will be held Thurs. Oct. 6 at 12:00 in room 416 and each Thursday thereafter. The group has been given the support and sanction of President Robinson and Prof. Eggers.

ped at least three touchdowns by his deadly tackling, while Weiner held up the whole right side of the line and made it practically impassable for Catholic University by his sparkling play, up till the time when a shoulder injury, late in the last quarter, forced him to leave the game. Mike Kupperberg was another who was always in the thick of it for the St. Nick outfit, playing tackle on the defense and full-back on the offense.

Dr. Parker, intending to blanket the wide end runs and off-tackle sweeps of the Washington eleven, pulled a nine man line out of his bag of tricks, leaving only two wingbacks to protect the deep territory. This novel defense, a more daring departure from the orthodox than eight man line which the Lavender mentor used in the glorious 0-0 deadlock with Manhattan, last year, worked well enough when the New Yorkers were fresh but in the second half, the Southerners, throwing a wave of interference in front of the ball-carrier, ran almost at will around the tired Lavender flanks and through the middle of the St. Nick line.

Line Holds Stubbornly

With Cooper and Schneer out of the game through ineligibility, Dave Lazarus did the majority of the punting for the Lavender and it was mostly due to his excellent booting that the Southerners were kept away from the College goal line in the first quarter. Fleming kicked off to Mondschein to start the game and an exchange of punts gave the visitors the ball on their own 24 yard line. Then Tommy Whelan turned his own right end for twenty yards and Catholic University seemed to be on the way to a score but "Mush" Weiner definitely ended this threat by intercepting Whelan's pass on the next play. He was dropped in his tracks by one of the Southern team's ends. However, the College backs couldn't gain against the sturdy line and Lazarus was forced to punt once more. McVean, the Catholic University quarterback, finding his team unable to gain consistently through the Lavender nine man line, took to the air and Whelan tossed one to Sheary which was good for twenty yards. Whelan dropped back again, on the next play, and flung one to McVean which carried the Southerners to the College eighteen yard line but the gallant Lavender defense held once more and Weber intercepted Whelan's pass, running it back to the twenty-two yard line, just as the first quarter ended.

Cardinals Register on Pass

Lazarus kicked out to mid-field on first down and the Cardinals swung into action once more. Sheary picked up twelve yards on a thrust through tackle. Then Jim Geraghty dropped back and tossed a long pass to Bill Geraghty, his brother, who carried the ball to the St. Nick three yard stripe before he was downed. Here the College line made its most gallant stand of the game. Twice Sheary plunged straight into the middle of the line and twice, the St. Nick linesmen threw him back. On the third try, McVean fumbled and Juliber recovered for the Lavender. Lazarus punted out of danger.

An exchange of punts gave Catholic University the ball at mid-field but McVean was forced to kick. Lazarus fumbled the ball and Fraatz recovered for Catholic University. However, the College line held once more and the Lavender took the ball on downs on the fifteen yard line. Here Old Man Hard Luck rose up and kicked the College right in the face for Stafford broke through and blocked Lazarus' kick, recovering the ball on the three yard line. The Lavender stood fast again and threw the Southerners back seven yards in three plays but on fourth down, Whelan tossed a pass to Jankowski for the first score. Whelan added the extra point on a kick from placement.

Weinstein kicked off to Jankowski who was thrown by Gonzales on the out-of-towners' 35 yard line. On the very next play, Whelan took the ball and spun through right tackle, then reversing his field, the Cardinal advanced 65 yards for a touchdown behind perfect interference.

Council to Decide On Halprin Status

ants can be printed on the ballots of Wednesday's class election. I feel that the Student Council should have an opportunity to choose the man they consider fit for the Presidency of the Student Council. Recourse to the mechanical method of automatic succession is unnecessary in this situation. The students still have the opportunity to elect their president, their preferences ought not to be ignored."

Following this momentary settlement of the controversial presidency question, a fiery argument ensued between Halprin and Starobin, each leading opposing groups of a divided Council on the choice of two members to fill the vacancies on the Class Elections Committee left by the dismissal from the College of Irving Adler '33 and Melvin Abrams '33. Starobin circulated a petition to force

They Satisfy ... all you could ask for!

Going strong—clicking with millions!

More and more men and women are coming around to Chesterfields. They're milder, for one thing. They're easy to like. And the tobaccos are blended and cross-blended. Chesterfields are as pure and good as Science can make them!

HARRIERS REPORT FOR FALL SEASON

Spurred on by the promise of new spikes and sweat suits, an enthusiastic group of twenty men answered Coach Lionel B. McKenzie's call for cross-country candidates and began immediate practice.

Cross-country is not a particularly popular sport at the College and generally fails to arouse much fervor on the part of the student body, but the size of this year's squad seems to indicate a turn for the better.

Among the hill-and-dalers are included many veterans of the past season. Captain Manny Reichman, Nat Volkell, Marty Silverman, Mike Garramone and Ike Sohn are the veterans. Milt "Spik" Speiser, the Metropolitan 800 Meter novice champion is a newcomer to the ranks of the cross-country men.

This year's schedule includes the teams met last year and promises

SWIMMING MATERIAL FAIR, SAYS COACH

Despite an exceptionally large turnout, the prospects of the Swimming Team can only be termed fair, declared Coach McCormick. The enthusiasm, he continued, is first rate, but the ability of the material is not up to standard.

With the first formal practice still three weeks off, there is, of course, time, for development. At present the hopes of the team are pinned on a few veterans and several candidates who show promise.

plenty of opposition to the Lavender harriers.

The schedule:
Oct. 15 R. P. I.—at Van Cortlandt Park.

Oct. 21 Fordham—at Van Cortlandt Park.

Nov. 5 Union—at Schenectady.

Nov. 8—Metropolitan Intercollegiate Championships—at Van Cortlandt Park.

Nov. 18 Intercollegiate Championships—at Van Cortlandt Park.

SPINDELL TO COACH J. V. BASKETBALL

dence. The professional leagues, that year, passed a rule that every team must have at least two first year men on the floor at all times during every league contest. During a scrimmage between his team and the College Varsity five in 1930, the manager of the New York Celtics bewailed the fact to Nat Holman, that he could find no suitable novice players.

Holman recommended Spindell and the ex-Lavender ace was signed by the Celtics at a reported salary of $100 per week. Spindell was a great success with the Celtics and played with them throughout the 1930 season.

However, professional basketball was not well received in New York and the holder of the Cleveland franchise purchased the Celtics in 1931. Spindell passed over to Cleveland with the other Celtics and starred consistently for them during the 1931 court season.

Deutscher Verein Adopts New Plan

The Deutscher Verein, which met for the first time last Thursday, inaugurated a new plan for the entertainment of its members. Each student is to choose an activity group in which are included music, news, literature, drama, or philology.

The old faculty advisor, Dr. Sumberg, has been replaced by Professor Waldman who has been transferred from the Downtown Center. Under his hand the society plans to hold its annual concert in November in the Great Hall.

The society's organ, the "Student-enchrift," will make its semi-annual appearance Dec. 1 under the editorship of Herbert Schuler '34, president of the society. Students desiring to become members of the society should secure application blanks from members of German Dept., or of officers of the Verein. The next meeting will be held in room 308 on Thursday at 12:30.

"Nature in the Raw is seldom MILD"

THE PILLAGE OF PARIS
"Nature in the Raw"—after the great French artist Luminais... inspired by the savage fierceness of untamed Norsemen in the ruthless capture of Paris—845 A. D.

—and raw tobaccos have no place in cigarettes

They are not present in Luckies... the mildest cigarette you ever smoked

WE buy the finest, the very finest tobaccos in all the world—but that does not explain why folks everywhere regard Lucky Strike as the mildest cigarette. The fact is, we never overlook the truth that "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—so these fine tobaccos, after proper aging and mellowing, are then given the benefit of that Lucky Strike purifying process, described by the words—"It's toasted". That's why folks in every city, town and hamlet say that Luckies are such mild cigarettes.

Does not this explain the world-wide acceptance and approval of Lucky Strike?
