Anti-War Group To Hold Meeting At 23 St. Center

Arrangements Committee Forced to Call Second Meeting

MORE REPS NEEDED

Insufficient Representatives Re- sult in Postponement Until Tonight

Insufficient representation from the six sessions of the College forced the Arrangements Committee of the Anti-War Convention to call another meeting for this evening at 9:30 in room 305 of the 23rd street center. All sessions were asked to send delegates from their clubs and other organizations and to form sub-arrangements committees in order to obtain a true representation from the entire student body.

The election of an executive committee, which is composed of one member from each center and a treasurer for the entire college, and reading of a tentative call, which is to be issued next week, was the business of the second meeting of the term held last Tuesday evening in the Main Building.

Committee Has Met Twice

The Arrangements Committee for the Uptown Day Session has met twice, last Tuesday evening and yesterday afternoon. With the object of gaining publicity to the convention and raising funds for the printing of circulars and other matter, three committees were appointed and a chairman and secretary were elected. Meyer Goodwin '34, was chosen as chairman, and Gilbert G. Cutler '36 was made secretary. The three committees are the publicity committee, the finance committee, and the contacts committee.

Petitions Open Forum

Realizing the difficulty of running an Anti-War Convention without the aid of the Open Forum, the Arrangements Committee voted unanimously to petition the Open Forum to sponsor the Convention. This motion was amended, however, because of a disagreement in administrative policy between Meyer Goodwin, the chairman and Albert Kaplan '35, co-chairman of the Open Forum. The amendment read that the motion would be effective only if the results of a conference with Dean Gottschall, made it necessary. This action followed a long discussion between the Committee and Open Forum as to the desirability of having Forum sponsorship of the Convention which was believed to be the desire of the faculty.

N. Mavriks to Address Astronomy Society Meeting

Nicholas Mavriks '34 will address the Astronomy Society on "The Mathematical Computation of Occultations", at its next meeting, Thursday, Dec. 21. Daniel J. Brams, president, announces that the club will hold an observatory meeting sometime next week, probably on Wednesday evening.

Clonionian to Make First Appearance Early Next Week

Clonionian, a newly-revived college-wide publication, is expected to make its initial appearance next Tuesday or Wednesday, Milton Sandberg '34 and Joseph Askenas '34, co-editors, announced. The magazine is a publication of the Clonion society.

The material of the magazine will consist mainly of articles of social and philosophical import, although purely literary selections will not be excluded entirely, the editors declared. Editorials on matters of interest to the student will be presented.

Clonionian will sell at five cents per issue, and will be published monthly according to present plans. A progressive attitude on all questions pertaining to student welfare will be maintained, the editors asserted.

Sixteen Students Seek S.C. Offices

Five Candidates Run for Presi- dency—Seven Contestants For Secretaryship

Sixteen students will run for the presidency, vice-presidency, and secretaryship of the Student Council in the elections next Wednesday. There are five candidates for the office of president, four contestants for vice-presidency, and seven students have entered the race for the secretaryship.

The unofficial list of candidates is as follows: for president, Jack Blume '34, Emil Birnbaum '34, Jack A. Epstein '34, Joseph H. Teperman '34, and David Weiz '34; for vice-president, Henry Greenblatt '35, Irving Novick '35, Nat Sauberman '35, and Irving Weber '35; and for secretary, Al Aronowitz '35, Henry Ellison '36, Reuben E. Gross '35, Sid Horowitz '35, Arthur Neumark '34, Monty Ullman '35, and Leon Zitzer '35.

Besides the matter of elections, the students will be asked to vote on the compulsory union referendum. Dean Morton Gottschall gave his permission to include this on the ballot yesterday. All that is necessary to make the action complete is the approval of the Student Council. That the (Continued on Page 4)

Officers Club to Hold Formal Dance At Hotel Edison; Celebrities Expected

The Officer's club Formal brings to a peak a social season replete with well-planned dances and proms. The affair will be held at the Hotel Edison on Forty-seventh Street on Saturday Evening, December 16. The dance is scheduled to begin at nine o'clock.

According to Al Yuro, chairman of the Officer's club, attendance at the Ball will reach well over one thousand. Over five hundred invitations have been sent out to prominent persons.

The practically ceremonial Grand March with its Saber Arch will again be a feature of this year's dance. According to Captain Kotzebue the ballroom of the Hotel Edison will have no special decorations as is general

Nicholas Vasilieff Interprets Russian Folk Songs For Students

MR. HOPKINS SPEAKS

Producer Expects The Theatre To Become Government Owned

Arthur Hopkins, prominent in the theatrical field, and Nicholas Vasilieff, radio and operatic tenor, were guest artists at the semi-annual concert of the College Military Band, held yesterday at 12:15 p. m. in the Great Hall.

Mr. Hopkins, speaking on "The Theatre," claimed that "the death of the commercial theatre is definitely coming and it will eventually be subsidized by the government." "In the last twenty-three years," he pointed out, "the theatre has rapidly and alarmingly come to the point where there are only two or three centres in the country, namely New York, Philadelphia and Chicago." "The mechanical impositions" that had brought the theatre to such a state were the auto, cinema and, most of all, the radio, which keeps the people at home. Mr. Hopkins finished by expressing the belief that the theatre "must cease to be commercial and become a service."

Mr. Vasilieff entertained the students with the "Serenade" from Matinara by Leoncavallo, and several folk songs; the first of which was "Volga Boatmen", which was sung in Russian, his voice, giving full expression to the drama and pathos of the melody. held the audience spellbound. After his second folk song Mr. Vasilieff was recalled and had to give an encore. This was "Troika" wherein Mr. Vasilieff sang of a joyous peasant driving to see his sweetheart in weather "forty degrees below zero, who, however, was kept warm by the expectation of seeing her."

Mr. Heifitz, who was accompanist to the Russian tenor, played the finale, a composition which he himself had written.

Student Body to Vote December 20 On Proposal for Compulsory Union

The student body will be given an opportunity to express its opinion of the proposed compulsory union on December 20, at the regular Student Council election.

Dean Gottschall has agreed to allow a referendum to appear on the same ballot with the candidates for Student Council office. The question "Do you favor a minimum compulsory fee to embrace all undergraduate extra-curricular activities as proposed by Lock and Key, such a fee to be about one dollar," will be put before the student body.

All indications point to an enthusiastic reception of the proposal. Already the Varsity Club, Cadet Club, Open Forum Committee, American Society of Civil Engineers, American Society of Mechanical Engineers, Camera Club, and '37 Spectator have signified their approval. In addition the Inter-Fraternity Council and the Spanish Club indicated that they will support the compulsory union although the matter was not taken up at their meetings held yesterday.

The compulsory union long a bone of contention at the College was first advanced this term by The Campus in an editorial on November 17 and was revived by Lock and Key.

The scheme calls for a compulsory fee of about one dollar in return for which the student would receive such (Continued on Page 3)

Natators to Open Against Fordham

Match to be Preceded by Water Polo Game With Central "Y"

A highly inexperienced College varsity swimming team will inaugurate its season in the College pool tonight when it plays host to the Fordham University natators. The night's activities, which will be augmented by a water polo match between the Lavender six and the Central Queens Y. M. C. A. aggregations, will start promptly at 8:15 p.m.

Despite the fact that with the exception of the five veterans remaining from last year's squad, the men who will see service tonight have had little or no previous College swimming experience, Coach McCormick holds high hopes for a victory.

Fordham an Unknown Quantity

The Fordham mermen are an unknown quantity since the colleges follow a non-scouting pact and the Lavender Coach has no inkling as to the calibre of the opposition. What little is known of the Ram swimmers is extremely disheartening. Two great performers, Will Giesen, the former Evander star and present city backstroke champion and Jay Cashman, an exceptionally speedy sprint man, will no doubt grace the Maroon starting lineup. Giesen, in addition to his adeptness as a backstroker, is an unusually versatile performer and swims the free style sprint events in fast time.

Y.M.C.A. Five Beats Menorah For Second Win of Season

In its second consecutive victory of the term, the Y. M. C. A. basketball team defeated the Menorah Society five 28-14, Thursday afternoon, in the Main Gym.

A dance will be held by the Y. M. C. A., Friday evening, Dec. 22, at the West Side "Y", 5 West 63rd Street.

Dr. Schick Speaks To Biology Society

Discoverer of Schick Test Urges Concentration and Honesty In Scientific Research

Dr. Bela Schick, chief pediatrician of the Mount Sinai Hospital and internationally famous as the discoverer of the Schick Test for determining susceptibility to diphtheria delivered a lecture on "The Applications of Science to Medicine", at a meeting of the Biology Society yesterday in room 315, to a group of some 300 students. Dr. Schick appeared at the invitation of Dr. Goldfarb, of the Biology department, faculty adviser of the club.

A mild-mannered man with a moderate voice, thickened by a noticeable accent, Dr. Schick urged concentration, honesty and devotion to scientific research as the method to sane, lasting scientific discovery. In his own words, "not only concentration, but absolute honesty of devotion to your cause without looking for money reward, you will be happy, just as I am happy. It is much more important that what you have published (Continued on Page 4)

Frosh Swimmers End Poor Season

The freshman swimming team closed a disappointing season Wednesday by dropping a closely contested meet to the Clinton High School natators by a 31-40 score. The Lavender yearlings managed to come out victorious in only one of their five encounters.

Outstanding in their last showings as freshmen were Bernard Rosenblatt, Milford Dawson and Walter Kasper. In the opening event, Rosenblatt swam the 50 yard free-style in the good time of 26 seconds to beat our Zinkand of Clinton. Dawson turned in a fine performance when he finished ahead of the field in the 100 yard breast stroke event. The race was won in the fast time of 1:15 minutes.

Hard Struggle Foreseen After Bruising Battle With St. Thomas

WINOGRAD STARS

Lavender Forward Plays Sensa- tionally Against Tomcats, Tallying 15 Points

Narrowly avoiding being upset in a hectic struggle with St. Thomas last Wednesday night at Scranton, the fast-traveling Lavender basketball team turns its attentions to what promises to be one of the season's hardest games, the Westminster tilt tomorrow evening in the home gym.

Compiling a record of 99 victories and 20 defeats in the past seven years, including victories over St. John's and Duquesne, last season, the little Pennsylvania college boasts of one of the strongest quintets east of the Alleghenies. The 25-15 trouncing given to St. John's on the latter's home court thoroughly convinced metropolitan cage followers that the Titans belong among the top-notchers.

St. Thomas First Threat

In staving off a late St. Thomas rally and winning out by the score of 40-35, the College five successfully hurled back the first serious threat to its crown this year. Once again Nat Holman's charges played a fast first half and were out in front by a 26-14 margin at the close of the period. Easing up in the final session thus allowed the home team to draw up to 36-35 before two baskets by Dan Trupin and "Mike" Pincus sewed up the game two minutes before the end.

It was a bruising battle throughout, eighteen fouls being called on the Lavender and ten on the Tomcats, with frequent flare-ups between members of both fives. At one time, only the efforts of both coaches prevented the teams from becoming embroiled in a general brawl. Artie Kaufman, veteran guard, suffered a deep cut over his eye necessitating three stitches and had to be removed from the contest in the closing minutes. He is expected, however, to be ready for duty tomorrow night.

Winograd Scores 15 Points

Sam Winograd dazzled the large partisan throng with sensational cuts for the basket and had his best scoring night in a College uniform since he ran wild as a Jayvee man two years ago. The husky forward was high scorer for the game, caging six baskets and three fouls for a total of fifteen points. He was followed by Captain Moe Goldman with nine (Continued on Page 3) points. Abe Weisbrodt proved his mettle under fire, performing capably on the floor and tallying seven points on the offense.

The clash with Westminster will afford the home fans their first opportunity of seeing the St. Nick quintet buck up against the zone defense. The visitors held St. John's powerless by their adept use of this style last season. The outcome of the contest will depend greatly on how the Holman coached five penetrates this puzzling defense.

Face a Zone Defense

The shrewd Lavender mentor uses a spectacular method of breaking up the zone system, usually by having two or sometimes three men stationed in one area attempting to confuse their opponents with a rapid shifting of the ball from one player to another.

An unusual advantage to the Lavender will be its height. Captain Moe Goldman will have a two or three inch margin over the Titan center enabling him to get the tap, and the chances are the College will try to secure a quick lead then draw out the defense by a back court game.

Capable Reserves on Hand

Goldman, at center, Winograd and Weisbrodt, forwards, and Berenson with Kaufman at the guard posts, is the starting line-up for the game. In case Kaufman's eye injury forces him off the floor, Coach Holman has Danny Trupin, George Goldsmith or Meyer Pincus ready to fill the gap.

The second team, composed of Goldsmith, Trupin, Pincus, Jeff Levine, and Schiffer, is a smooth combination which may be called in tomorrow, to relieve the varsity, tired from its bruising struggle two days before.

The squad of ten men who made the trip to Scranton left New York Wednesday morning, slept overnight at a local hotel, and returned yesterday afternoon. Coach Holman ran the team through a light workout late in the day to sharpen up shooting eyes for the impending game. Out of ten free throws from the foul line, the team sank eight against the Tommies, an indication that the marksmanship is approaching mid-season form.

expected to see action tonight. His return has bolstered the Lavender team considerably as Sheinberg performs equally well in the 220 and 440 yard dashes and in the relay. He and the four other veterans Capt. Lester Kaplan, Eli Kristol, Julius Meltzer and Morris Gomberg are counted upon to contribute more than their usual quota of the Lavender points. Kaplan, who with Hal Kramer, represented the College at the Jewish Olympics, is perhaps the outstanding star of the team and will probably capture the breast stroke event for the Lavender. Kristol will represent the College in the back stroke and Gomberg and Meltzer, a converted backstroke, will probably be the Lavender entrees in the dive.

Starting Men Not Known

While Coach McCormick refuses to commit himself as to the men who will start, it is highly probable that the five veterans mentioned above will represent the Lavender in their respective events. At the present writing, Mr. McCormick has not yet decided upon what other Lavender swimmers will compete tonight. A guess, according to the way they shape up in practice, would include among the other Lavender entrants: Irving Metzger, Andy Lavender, Mack Herbst and Al Fredericks, all sprint men but any of whom may swim in the breast stroke or relay events, and Dan Driesen and Charels Machfield backstrokers.

'35 Class Requested to Indicate Choice for Prom Dance Music

Members of the '35 class are requested to communicate with Proccacino and Sid Druskin, co-chairmen of the Junior Prom, to indicate the music and seatings they prefer for the affair.

Billy Martin of the Bayshore Country Club and his orchestra will furnish the music for the Prom. Already forty tickets, at four dollars per couple, have been reserved for the affair, which will be held Friday evening, December 22, at the Villa Venice.

Yearlings to Meet Brooklyn Jayvees

The Lavender junior varsity will seek its third straight victory tomorrow night when it comes up against the Brooklyn College Jayvee in the preliminary game. This encounter will mark the first stiff opposition met by Coach Spindell's charges and will show their ability to stand up against a team of collegiate calibre.

The College cubs will have to exhibit some better coordination and accuracy than they did last week to come out on top. Coach Spindell is pleased with the way the yearlings handled the ball, but he still thinks there is room for improvement. Therefore, he is concentrating this week upon passing and shooting. Poor shooting in the tight spots, especially, almost cost the Jayvee the Yonkers game.

In the forward posts the College will have two fast players who are the high scorers of the team. Captain Harry Kovner, former All-Brooklyn guard, who has been converted into a forward by Coach Spindell, is one of the steadiest men on the squad. He showed his dependability last week by

Prof. McLaughlin Delivers Engineering Talk to Frosh

Speaking on the advisability of taking an engineering course, Professor McLaughlin of the department of Engineering outlined to the freshmen in chapel, last Tuesday, the types of engineering and the general requirements.

Professor McLaughlin summed up the uses of the mechanical, civil, electrical, and metallurgical engineers and advised the students on the necessary adaptations to such a course. He coming through in the pinches and running up a total of ten points for the Lavender score. Close behind him in scoring honors is his partner Ralph Dennis. Dennis, who came here from Philadelphia, is living up to pre-season predictions by his clever floor work and aggressive play.

Coach Spindell has two capable alternates for the pivot position in Al Demarest and Mel Stich, both of whom had former experience as center on the jayvee. By their fine jumping performances he has little to worry about concerning that post.

Janowsky Speaks At History Society

Explaining the opinion that Nazi Germany does not want peace and that her aims and ideals can only be realized by war, Doctor Oscar I. Janowsky, member of the History department and author of "Jews and Minority Rights" yesterday addressed the History Society in Room 126 upon "Foreign Effects of Hitlerism." "Militarism and nationalism are the core of new Germany" said Doctor Janowsky and then went on to show that the deception of the German people as to their economic condition has been accomplished by filling them with militarism and maintaining a vigorous foreign policy.

Ever since 1918, he continued, Germany has been endeavoring to break the provisions of the Treaty of Versailles. Until Hitler's assumption of office, she has maintained friendly and beneficial relations with foreign nations. Now, with the installation of the Nazis and her subsequent bolting from the League of Nations, the world stands united against any German attempt to rearm.

a date for the Convention, the Arrangements Committee voted to go on record in favor of a meeting over the week-end following the second week of next term. An earlier vote on the advisability of holding the convention over the week-end of January 5-6 was defeated. The delegates felt that this date would conflict with examinations and would not allow for sufficient time to interest the student body in the convention.

It is expected that a definite date for the convention would be decided upon tonight at the regular meeting of the College Arrangements Committee. With this point settled, plans could be adopted as to place and prominent speakers could be obtained. The call is also to be discussed and will, in all probability, be passed on tonight. With this end in view several calls have been written already, and will be presented to the Committee at tonight's meeting.

Another meeting of the Day Sessions Arrangement Committee, to which all clubs and organizations are asked to send representatives, has been called for next Tuesday at 4 p.m. in room 11.

IT TAKES HEALTHY NERVES FOR JAFFEE TO BE THE WORLD'S CHAMPION SKATER

IRVING JAFFEE

(At Right)—Again Jaffee makes a thrilling finish as he speeds to victory! Winner of 1,000 medals and trophies, including three Olympic Skating Championships, Jaffee has brought the highest skating honors to the U.S.A. Asked recently if he was a steady smoker, Jaffee said, "Yes—but that goes for Camels only. I have to keep my wind, you know, and healthy nerves."

A MATCHLESS BLEND

IT IS MORE FUN TO KNOW
Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand.

Steady Smokers turn to Camels

You've often seen his name and picture in the papers—Jaffee, the city-bred boy from the U. S. A. who beat the best that Europe had to offer, and became the skating champion of the world! Speaking of speed skating and cigarettes, Jaffee says: "It takes healthy nerves and plenty of wind to be an Olympic skating champion. I find that Camels, because of their costlier tobaccos, are mild and likable in taste. And, what is even more important to a champion athlete, they never upset the nerves."

Change to Camels and note the difference in your nerves... in the pleasure you get from smoking! Camels are milder... have a better taste. They never upset your nerves. Begin today!

"Lavender" Debut Set for January

"Lavender", the official literary organ of the College is due to appear the second week in January according to a statement made by Benjamin P. Schwartz '34, editor of the magazine.

The staff is well stocked with manuscripts, short stories, poetry, and essays many of which are of particular interest to the student body. According to the editor the contributions are of a distinctly high literary value, and he declared that this term's issue will be the best yet produced. Though there is no shortage of material, manuscripts may still be contributed, in the Faculty Mail Room in the Hall of Patriots, the dead-line being set for Monday, December 18.

be a permanent publication. So you see, therefore, theories you may have that conflict with established facts must be thrown away in scientific research. I have to fight against my tendency to ignore facts which are in disagreement with my theories. We have to be ready always to drop our theories. My advice to you is: Be prepared to give up theories which you have made. Concentrate and use independence of life in research. Then, only then will scientific research apply truly to practical medicine."

Dr. Schick drew a parallel from the life of Dr. Alfred Hess, who, like all good scientists, the speaker continued, knew the value of concentration on particulars. Specification in a definite field, since the room for work is so great, brings more permanent and beneficial results.

Brodsky and Triggs, Radio Piano Duo, Artists for Final Student Aid Concert

Vera Brodsky and Harold Triggs, internationally distinguished concert artists, will give a recital of music for two pianos next Saturday night in the Great Hall, as the fifth in a series of six recitals, sponsored by President Robinson for the Student Aid Fund, and under the direction of Julian Morton Moses, head of the Concert Bureau.

Miss Brodsky, a former member of the Roth Quartet, met Mr. Triggs in Salzburg some summers ago, where both were studying under Josef Lhevinne, the eminent pianist who gave a concert at the College some weeks ago. There the idea first came to them of joining their forces to give two piano concerts, then somewhat of a novelty.

Their concert next Saturday night will feature several first performances of music for two pianos. Among them will be two choral preludes of Brahms also an arrangement of his titanicly overwhelming "Variations on a theme of Paganini," in its original form for piano solo.

Two other premieres of great interest for those interested in modern music are "The Dance of the Adolescents" by Aaron Copeland, one of the leaders of the Modern School of American composers, and a new work by Dana Suesse, whose works have been featured by Paul Whiteman in his Carnegie Hall concerts. Tickets for Saturday night's recital have been reduced considerably and will be sold at the remarkably low price of twenty-five cents. They are on sale at the Co-op and the Concert Bureau and may also be obtained at the door on the night of the concert.

Yearling Debaters to Face Erasmus High School Team

The freshmen debating team will meet the Erasmus Hall debaters this evening at the latter's auditorium, Church and Flatbush Avenues, Brooklyn, at 8:15, in its first debate of the year.

The freshmen team, composed of Samuel Dooshen, Ben Papelsky, Joel Goldstein, Victor Axelroad and Bernard Gold, will uphold the negative on the topic "Resolved: That governmental guarantee of bank deposits is fundamentally sound."

Italian Club to Hold Dance In Casa Italiana Saturday

Circolo Dante Alighieri, the College's Italian social club, will hold an informal dance in the Casa Italiana, 117 Street and Amsterdam Ave., on Saturday, December 16. Tickets will be fifty and seventy-five cents per couple.

Council will concur seems quite certain.

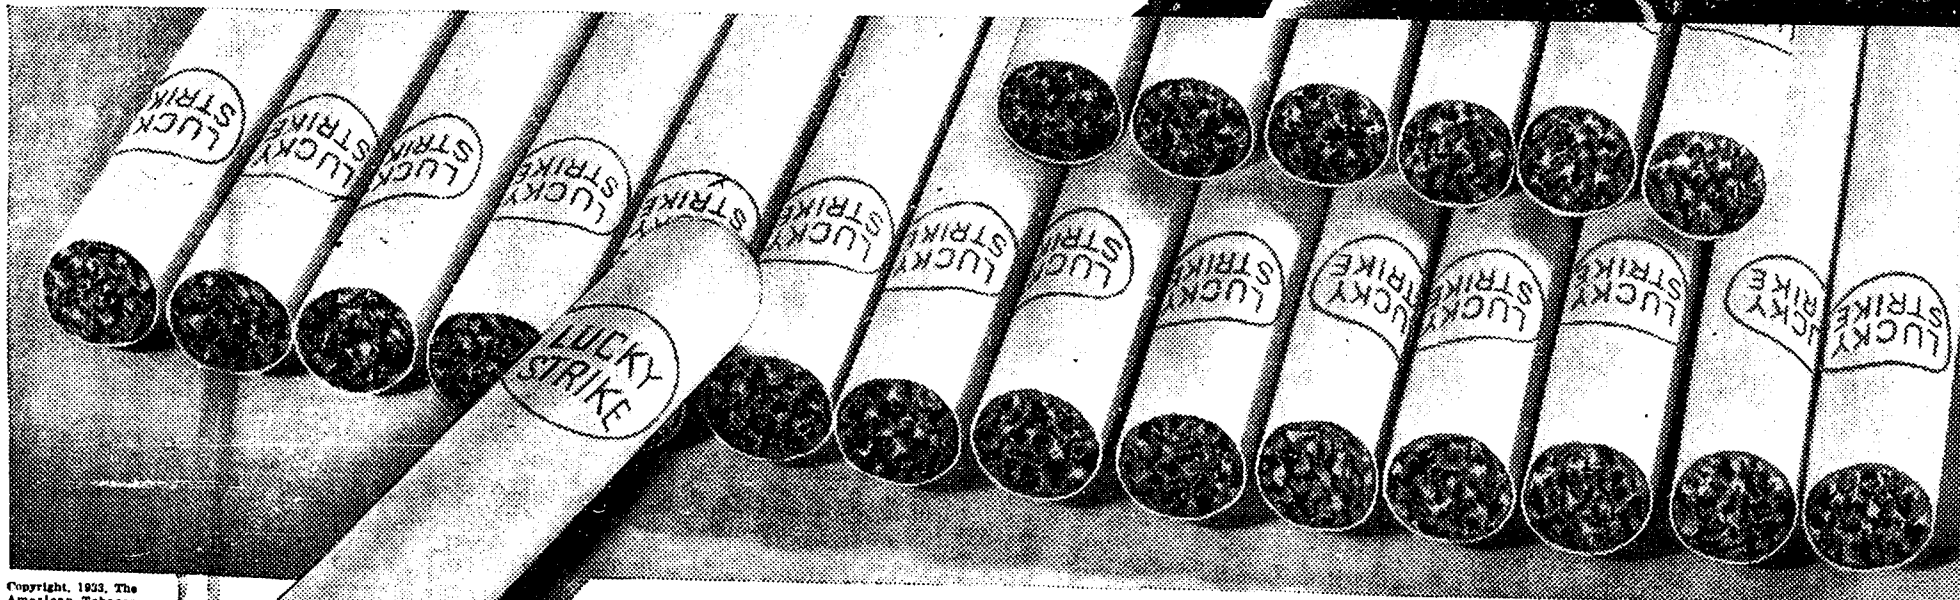

The elections will take place Wednesday, December 20 at eleven o'clock in the classrooms. Those students who are not in class at this time can vote in The Campus office, room 409.

The problem of electioneering will come up before the S. C. today at its meeting. All indications point to a heated debate. When a resolution to permit electioneering was presented last Friday, the arguments flew fast and furious. The matter was tabled until today's meeting.

Another major item on the agenda of the steering committee is the selection of the recipients of the insignias awards.
