S. C. Swings Into Action On April Peace Rally

Council Appoints Provisional Strike Committee of Five; Launches Preparations for Anti-War Demonstration

Active preparations for the student anti-war strike on April 22 were begun at the College yesterday with the appointment of a Provisional Strike Committee of Five by the Student Council.

In view of the fact that the American Student Union has not yet received official recognition, the Council has decided to take the initiative in leading the strike, it was stated by Julian Lavitt '36, president. A cooperative attitude on the part of the faculty was reported by Simon Slavin '36, who has interviewed certain leading figures of the Administration.

The Provisional Strike Committee will draft strike arrangements and attempt to secure the support of every extracurricular body on the campus. It consists of Lawrence Knobel '36, Simon Slavin '36, Judah Drob '36, Herbert Robinson '37, and Stanley Silverberg '39.

Rose Cleared

An investigating committee cleared Mr. A. L. Rose, head of the College Employment Bureau, of all charges of Negro discrimination. The committee submitted a report, which was accepted unanimously. This report commended Mr. Rose "for his just and impartial handling of the employment office and for his generous treatment of the minorities in this school."

The group reported that far from "discriminating against Negroes, Mr. Rose has done all in his power to help them."

Another Council committee, set up to investigate a charge that James Wechsler, author of Revolt on the Campus, was not allowed to speak on the ASU at a student meeting in Townsend Harris High School, affirmed the charge. It reported further that there existed censorship of the official publication of Townsend Harris Hall, The Stadium.

Student Advocate Out

Dormont Praises March Issue of New ASU Publication; Articles on Liberty League and ROTC are Featured

By Edward Dormat

Slightly belated, but still going strong, the March issue of Student Advocate is on sale today at the College. Here we have the essential spirit of the ASU on paper—a vital, militant organization, spotting danger quickly and ready to fight for its rights.

AFA to Hear Talk On Negro Congress

Manning Johnson will address the monthly meeting of the Anti-fascist Association of the Staffs of the College on the "National Negro Congress—an Anti-fascist Force," on Sunday, in room 126 at 3:45 p.m.

Following Mr. Johnson's address, the committee of eleven appointed at the February meeting to study the reports of the special Associate Alumni Committee, will probably report its findings to the Association. The group was to study the documents in relation to their anti-fascist implications.

Manning Johnson is prominent in labor circles. He was a trade union delegate to the Negro Congress, held on February 14, 15, and 16 in Chicago, Illinois. He is the business agent of the Cafeteria Workers Union, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. Mr. Johnson is also an organizer of workers and trade unions in the Harlem district of the city.

Robinson Hits College Reds

President Raps Communists
As "Skunks" and "Liars"

President Frederick B. Robinson, Wednesday denounced the College unit of the Communist Party "as a slimy group," "skunks," and "liars" before a special meeting of all staff members in the Great Hall, called to hear the President discuss matters of salary, tenure, and promotion.

Before the meeting had started, Dr. Robinson had been charged with calling the meeting "in order to intimidate and divide his opponents" in a leaflet distributed by the Communist unit in the Faculty Mailroom. The president read the leaflet, and then made his comments on its authors.

Questionnaire Distributed

Dr. Robinson stated that the Board of Higher Education had requested the presidents of all the City Colleges to submit recommendations for a revision of the salary schedules. To ascertain faculty opinion, President Robinson distributed a questionnaire last week on salary and tenure matters.

At the meeting, he discussed the questionnaire point by point, and declared that he hoped all would answer with (Continued on Page 3, Column 3)

Cowley Lauds Social Trends In Literature

Editor Speaks on "Currents
And Criticism" Before
Literary Workshop

"CRITICISM TODAY USES DIALECTICS"

"There is an extraordinary richness coming into proletarian literature," said Malcolm Cowley, literary editor of New Republic, speaking on "Currents and Criticisms" before the Literary Workshop yesterday in Doremus Hall. Mr. Cowley cited the work of Clifford Odets in the theatre as an example of the best in the new literature, from the standpoint of content as well as technique.

Book Burning Significant

One of the most significant events in world literature in the last two hundred years was the burning of books in Germany by the Nazis, Mr. Cowley stated. This act awoke writers and intelligent people in all countries to the need for the preservation of culture, and got through the skins of even those writers living in ivory towers.

The central feature of current literary criticism, he said, is the dialectical process: thesis, antithesis and new synthesis. The burning of the books by the Nazis, the Paris World Writers' Congress, and the American depression are important factors influencing current criticism.

The depression began to show actual effects on literature at about 1932, when Michael Gold's attack on Thornton Wilder for being an intellectual snob who writes only on the past awoke the middle class to new forces in literature.

Mr. Cowley devoted a large part of his speech to a discussion of "Artists in Uniform" by Max Eastman and Stephen Spender's "The Destructive Element." He said that Mr. Eastman brought one great element into American literature: the fact that a revolution will not make good novelists out of poor ones, or good critics out of bureaucrats. "Mr. Spender characterizes the united front of criticism. He gives the tenor of the Paris Congress, which is that the good in literature is about the sufferings and the joys of ordinary people, and the bad about abstractions, race differences and racial superiority."

When asked about the market for revolutionary literature, Mr. Cowley remarked: "Bad." He said that few of the revolutionary novels have a circulation of 3,000, and that almost no magazine stories or articles are paid for.

ACTRESS SPEAKS

M. Brown Tells Workshop Theatrical Experiences

Marie Brown, leading lady of the recent Broadway production "How Beautiful With Shoes," addressed the Theatre Workshop yesterday at 1 p.m. The talk was given at the House Plan Center.

Miss Brown spoke of her experiences as an actress and of the chance occurrences which led her to the professional stage. The address is the first in a series of speeches by prominent theatrical personalities to be sponsored by the group. The Theatre Workshop was recently organized by Dr. Richard Ceough of the Public Speaking Department.

Hundreds Attend Senate Hearing On Proposed American Youth Act

Cat Has Quads
In Club Alcove

Felix, feline of the lunchroom, increased the Newman Club's roster by four when she gave birth to quadruplets under a bench in the club's alcove during the weekend. Cat and kitties are reported doing nicely.

Felix has been exterminating the stray mice around the cafeteria since the day, three years ago, when she adopted the College. "Felix is probably the most promiscuous cat at the College," revealed Mrs. Kamholtz, director of the cafeteria, "but she has kept our place free from mice." Visitors are welcome at the club—milk for kittens requested.

House Council Restricts Vote To Own Affairs

The Council of House Plan Delegates resolved at its weekly meeting Wednesday that it "shall, for the time being, formally commit itself on problems only of internal administration." The vote was 14 to 9.

The question of a House Plan policy on any consideration outside its own organization was brought in when the Council voted last week to ask the College administration to grant the ASU a College charter. A stipulation was added to this petition that granting of the charter was not necessarily a sanction of the ASU.

Karpp Backs Stand

Mr. Mortimer Karpp, director and organizer of the House Plan, stated that he voted for the resolution because "in the present stage of our development we can properly concern ourselves only with administration problems."

Mr. Karpp stressed the fact that the Plan will not carry out its intention to be an organization where all sects and beliefs can meet on common ground if it adopts a partisan view on any outside issue.

Chick Chaiken '38, president of the Council and a member of Sim House, said that "the Council acted unwisely in this regard. It should reconsider the question as soon as possible for it cannot logically erect a 'Wall of China' about the House Plan."

NYA Criticized for "Inadequacies"; College Delegates Leave Tonight To Attend Last Session Tomorrow

"The young men and women of America cannot, like pigs or wheat, be considered as surplus; they cannot be held in reserve or put in cold storage, and they cannot remain idle forever." With this declaration, Phil Schiff, headworker at Madison House, New York, urged speedy enactment of the Benson-Amlic American Youth Act at the first session of the hearings before the Senate Committee on Education and Labor yesterday.

WPA Workers To Lose Jobs

College Project Employees
To be Fired in Summer

More than 800 workers employed on the various WPA projects at the College will lose their jobs at the end of June as a result of instructions issued to all work relief agencies by Daniel W. Bell, Acting Budget Director.

Mr. Bell, acting under President Roosevelt's orders, has commanded the agencies to make no further commitments for work relief projects that cannot be completed before July 1, the beginning of the new fiscal year.

Mr. Howard G. Bohlin, faculty member in charge of all WPA activities on the campus, stated that the projects would be discontinued on June 30 in accordance with the edict. He added however that official notice has not yet been received, and that his information has come only through the newspapers.

President Robinson could not be reached for a comment.

The discontinuance of WPA funds will leave the library, the tunnel and the Lewisohn Stadium projects incomplete. New sources of funds for these projects have not as yet been sought, according to Mr. Bohlin.

The edict was issued by President Roosevelt after he had conferred with Harry L. Hopkins, WPA administrator, Corrington Gill, Hopkins' financial specialist, and Mr. Bell.

Lederer Talks on Fascism

Calls Jap System "Anti-capitalistic But Not Socialistic"
In Address to College History and Economics Clubs

Japanese fascism was described as "anti-capitalistic, but not socialistic," by Dr. Emil Lederer, dean of the Graduate Faculty of the New School for Social Research, before a joint meeting of the Economics and History Societies yesterday in room 126 at 12:30 p.m.

As evidence of the opposition of Japanese fascism to big business, Dr. Lederer, who was visiting professor at the Imperial University of Tokio from 1923 to 1925, pointed out that the fascists of Japan "assassinate not only ministers but capitalists as well." "It is a military movement, not a political one," he continued.

Professor Lederer claimed that the young military officers, who are for the most part from the agricultural class, would, if they were in power, "conquer China this afternoon, kill the capitalists, and solve the agricultural problem by abolishing peasant rent." "The driving force behind this movement is the desire for glory," he added.

High School Principal Denies ROTC Formation

The movement to establish an ROTC unit at Stuyvesant high school has no official status, Sinclair Wilson, principal, declared last Monday.

"Colonel Robinson has no connection with Stuyvesant. We have held no discussion concerning the establishment of an ROTC here," he said after reading an unknown student's charges in last Thursday's Campus that he and Colonel Robinson "are between them setting up an ROTC corps at Stuyvesant."

• Around The College

Mr. A. T. Salter of the Personnel Bureau was the third speaker in the Bureau's how-to-get-a-job series. He confined himself chiefly to the usual formula, previously expressed by the other speakers: Walk softly and wear a clean shirt.

Mr. Salter is a believer in thoroughness. "Spend at least seven or eight hours a day looking for a job," he cautioned his audience in the Webb Room yesterday. Obviously a devotee of Dr. Payne's recently published critiques, he insists on a job to fit the personality.

At the Biology Society meeting yesterday, Professor Williams spoke on "Chromogenic Bacteria." He discussed red bacteria briefly, and told the appropriate joke.

Mr. Hiram Mann created somewhat of a diversion yesterday, during his speech to the Law Society. Mann, possessed of very definite nature-in-the-raw tendencies, emphasized his most important points by expectorating (spit is a nasty word) on the floor.

"Our sick society needs a hot bath," declared Dr. Samuel Schmalhauser at last Thursday's meeting of the Psychology Club. He made this statement during a discussion of the relationship between economics and Psychology. The hot bath, Dr. Schmalhausen intimated, is social revolution. New York American, please copy.

Evidently none of Thursday's speakers was able to keep social consciousness out of his speech. Dr. Max L. Hutt of the Educational Clinic, spoke on "The Place of the Clinic in the School System."

There is no point in treating a child for malnourishment or a neurosis, Dr. Hutt declared, if "the forces in society making for that difficulty continue to exist."

Later in his speech, he described the psychological facilities in Soviet Russia. There the psychologist works not in the office—to cure, but in the factory—to prevent maladjustment.

perfect freedom, in groups, or as individuals. The Instructors Staff Association and the American Association of University Professors recently decided to answer the questionnaire as units. No member of the staffs is required to forward a reply.

According to Mr. Mark Eisner, chairman of the Board of Higher Education, complaints have been lodged with the board which concern regulations of annual increments. Asked if any salary cuts were involved, Mr. Eisner stated that he thought not, but that a committee was taking care of the whole question.

President Applauded

Contrary to the suggestion in the leaflet to meet the president's remarks with "dignified silence," he was applauded at length by the 350 teachers present at the closed meeting. The handbill further stated that members of the staff should not "be provoked by the mis-statements of fact and irrelevant innuendos with which the President will stud his 'oration'."

Mann Discusses Bill to Benefit Navy Yard Men

Law Society Hears Lobbyist Tell of Difficult Fight For Bill's Passage

Fresh from his conquests on Capitol Hill where he won payment of overtime wages for navy workers who served back in the early eighties, Hiram Mann came to the Law Society to tell his audience how hard it is to get money out of Uncle Sam.

Speaking of his long fight that stretched from the end of the first decade of this century through August 29, 1935, Mr. Mann declared, "It wasn't virtue, just cussedness." At times his voice broke as he recounted the tale of his long labors, telling of the eight times he ran for congress in order to get some publicity for his cause, of the public notices he ran in the Times classified section. The real reason for the final passage of the bill, he said, "was the enormous prestige of the New York Times that allowed me year after year to run those ads."

Having congress pass a claims bill he averred "is a practically fatuous and impossible thing." He took up the fight under the impression that it was "easy money," and he added, "That's why I haven't any money today." It was not until last summer that reimbursement was made for overtime work in the summers of 1878-82.

Hiram Mann is looking for new fields to conquer now that his navy workers' wives and children have been paid. He wants to debate the communists on fair grounds, believing that each man should be allowed to say what he thinks and the man with the best "spiel" should win.

Former Mercury Business Manager Succumbs to Scotland's Influence

Business managers are a queer tribe. Their strange customs and mental quirks have been sufficiently investigated, but one point that has always remained in the dark is the whereabouts of the money-shufflers after their term of office has expired.

This problem seems to have been solved finally. In a typical letter, "Moishe" Spielberg, former financial strategist of Mercury, reveals that he has been buried in the wilds of bonnie Scotland since last September.

It develops that "Moishe" is a medical student at Edinburgh. Which is all rather surprising when one considers how many good medical schools there are in this country.

"Moishe" has already succumbed to the well-famous Scotch influence. His

"This is Not Our 'A-Men,'" Say Authors of Varsity Show

It was Charles Anderson Dana, guiding light of the Sun some forty years ago, who gave that now classic definition of "news": When a dog bites a man, that's not news; when a man bites a dog, that is news. Paraphrasing this we get: When three fellows write a musical comedy, that's not news; when three fellows disown a musical comedy which they have authored, that is news.

And such is the case in "A-Men," the Dramatic Society's Spring varsity show.

Authors Say, "No"

Gathered in solemn conclave yesterday afternoon in The Campus office, Ezra Goodman '37, Bernie Aronof '37, and Emanuel Groobin '37 formally renounced all claims to having authored "A-Men." If they were able to raise the necessary funds, this item should have appeared in the personal notice columns of this morning's gazettes: "A-Men," having left our bed and board, we are no longer responsible for any gags or situations which have crept into the script since its nativity. Vale, 'A-Men,' your life was short and hectic. Nec: January, '36. Departed this life: March, '36. Tearfully, Ez, Bernie, and Manny."

In a statement issued after their meeting, the erstwhile "authors" explained that it was a case "of saving our farces." "Three weeks of rehearsals," the statement said, "have brought a completely new set of lines and situations to the show. 'A-Men' isn't our 'A-Men.' Why claim authorship."

Davidson Won't Talk

Frank C. Davidson, the director and also a member of the public speaking department, received the blow stoically (and silently!). "I ain't a talkin'," was his only comment. E. Lawrence Goodman, president of the Dramatic Society, greeted the news with a snort. When he had cooled down sufficiently to talk coherently, he rejoiced that now he wouldn't have to put the "authors" names on the programs.

EIGHT INSTRUCTORS REQUEST NAVAL CUT

Eight members of the College faculty were among the signers of an appeal by the National Peace Conference to the President and Congress of the United States, urging "that our military and naval expenditures be fixed on the basis of the defense of our soil." The appeal declared that the country should know if there is any danger and "against whom we are arming."

Those who signed are Professors Jarvis Keiley and William B. Otis, Edgar Johnson, Robert C. Dickson, Ernest C. Mossner, Donald A. Roberts, Maximilian G. Walter and Albert C. Westphal.

HISTORY CLUB PLANS PLANETARIUM VISIT

The History Society will visit the Hayden Planetarium next Thursday, according to an announcement by David Goldman '37, president. All members and a limited number of non-members will be admitted without charge. Mr. Goldman has requested that any student who wishes to accompany the society should see him as soon as possible.

The Chronicle, a periodical published by the club semi-annually, will appear soon after the Easter vacation. The final date for submission of contributions has been set at April 3.

The members of the History Department will hold a reception and tea on Wednesday, April 1, between 3 and 5 p.m. in the History Library, room 127, to which the members of the society and all other history majors have been invited.

bringing forward his two bills on the ROTC.

Louis Burnham's article, "We Are Tired of Waiting, Mrs. Roosevelt," an analysis of the National Negro Congress, is also of importance for liberal students. Here we have an example of the attitude of the Negro youth at present. It is a fine picture. The article receives a double impetus because of the series of comparative pictures of Negro and white schools which are presented in conjunction with it.

Lewis Corey's article, "On the Economic Front" a detailed survey of the situation, we found slightly dull because of the emphasis on statistics—but that's probably our own fault.

Each Puff Less Acid

A LIGHT SMOKE OF RICH, RIPE-BODIED TOBACCO

Luckies are less acid. For hundreds of years, tobaccos were selected—and gradations in flavor secured—by the roughest sort of rule of thumb methods. Hence, one of the most important innovations made by the Research Department was provision for chemical analysis of selected tobacco samples before purchase: the resulting reports offer the professional buyer an accurate guide and reinforce his expert judgment based on the senses of sight, smell, and touch. Thus extreme variations toward acidity or alkalinity are precluded by such selection and subsequent blending. Luckies—A LIGHT SMOKE—of rich, ripe-bodied tobacco!

Luckies are less acid

Recent chemical tests show that other popular brands have an excess of acidity over Lucky Strike of from 53% to 100%.

Foilsmen Hope To Defeat NYU

Violet Swordsmen Favorites As College Team Seeks To Avenge Losses

NYU'S HUGO COSTELLO LOOMS AS OBSTACLE

In an attempt to demonstrate their superiority over NYU in some other line of "athletic endeavor" besides chess, the College fencers will meet the Violets tomorrow at the Commerce Center.

Since the scheduled wrestling match against the Heights matmen has been cancelled, the foilsmen loom as the lone hope to avenge the diverse injuries inflicted on the tender feeling of the Javender athletes by the victorious Violets.

Hugo Costello and his NYU cohorts will be heavy favorites to beat the College foilsmen, but as is usual when a Heights aggregation, the odds mean little. In this case, the St. Nicks will stake everything on winning this match because it would redeem an otherwise disappointing season.

Captain Nat Lubell, who was expected to be the mainstay of the team at the start of the season, has shown poor form in his earlier matches but he has shown in past seasons that he is capable of acquitting himself well against topnotchers in the national championships.

Against Army, Hal Newton and Chester Lampert gave very creditable performances and if they both click tomorrow, the Beavers must be given an even chance of beating the Violets. The chief obstacle in the College's path is Hugo Costello, NYU star and one of the outstanding fencers in the nation.

Pickup Cagers In Third Round Of Intermurals

Six Teams Stay Undeleted; Last Year's Champs Lose In Cage Tournament

Teams "A," "J," "O," "S," "Z" and "AA" continued undefeated as the Intramural Board completed the third round of the pick-up basketball tournament.

Team "J" won a significant victory when it downed "G," last year's champions, 11-8. Johnny Demarco '39 stood out on his all around play. Two undefeated teams met when "O" played "Q." "O" won 12-5 as Everett Kassalow '38 scored eight points for the victors.

"S," led by Clarence Wright '37, continued its winning streak by taking "U" into camp. It first sprang into prominence when it scored an upset victory over team "T" that boasts of two football stars, Irv Mauer '36 and Tom Kain '36, in its line-up.

Yesterday's scores: A-15, D-6; AA-8, CC-3; C-12, E-12; G-8, J-11; H-0, L-1; I-2, K-18; M-1, P-0; N-12, R-18; O-12, Q-5; S-14, U-8; T-20, X-0; V-9, W-13; Z-13, DD-11; D-0, F-1; Y-5, BB-30.

Inter class: Class of '38-16, Class of '40-18.

Campus Quintet Loses Second Straight Game

The Campus basketball team dropped its second straight game yesterday by losing to a team composed mainly of Beaver athletes. Irv Mauer and Tom Kain, varsity gridmen, and Jerry Horne, one of the Boston "Blows-his-own" Hornes, a baseball player of sorts, played against the reporters. The final score was 20-0 (basketball, not football).

College Matmen Finish Season With One Loss

Beavers Win Four, Lose One As Lions Spring Upset; Maier Outstanding

For the second time in as many years, the College wrestling team completed its season with an unblemished record but for a single defeat, and surprisingly enough, the Beavers were tripped up both times by the Columbia Lions.

Last season, with the finest array of talent seen around these parts in many a moon, the Beavers were all set to outwrestle the world when the Morning-side Heights matadors forced them to eat humble pie.

This year, despite the loss of Captain Joe Warren and Iz Abrams, the matmen started off with a bang. MIT, Temple, and Brooklyn all fell in quick succession before the St. Nick huskies, and on paper, at least, the Lavenders were a heavy favorite to down the Lions. However, the Columbia matmen opened up their bag of tricks and smothered the Beavers 21-9. As a sort of self-bestowed consolation prize, Chaikin's charges finished their season by swarming all over the Brooklyn Polytech wrestlers.

The outstanding men for the Lavenders this season were Manny Maier 118 lb. captain and Benny Taublieb a 135 pounder, who did an excellent job subbing for the injured Mike Friedman.

Weather Man Holds Varsity Nine Idle

Although only eight days remain before the varsity baseball team meets LIU in the opening game of the season, the squad has not practiced outdoors. If the poor weather of the last two months continues for another week, the game will have to be cancelled or played as indoor baseball.

Coach Irv Spanier's trouble started with the heavy snowfalls of last month. Lewisohn Stadium was buried under four inches of snow when Spanier first decided his charges were well enough advanced in their training to go outdoors.

Hardly had the snow melted when it started to rain. The playing field has been very "wet grounds" for the last week and home plate was completely under water. However, a few really warm days will make the diamond playable, and Coach Spanier confidently expects to call outdoor practice early next week.

Kovner and Singer To Captain Cagers

Springing somewhat of a surprise on Beaver court followers, the College quintet elected Harry Kovner and Jack Singer co-captains for the coming season at its annual basketball dinner.

The move was due in large part to the custom established by Beaver courtmen in selecting seniors to lead their squads. Managerial responsibilities were likewise divided, with Sid Goldberg and Morty Soboloff taking over the post.

Singer was not active athletically during his stay at Clinton High School, preferring to "save himself" for collegiate competition. Kovner, starring for New Utrecht, led the Bensonhurst five in three of its most successful seasons to date. The pair replace Sol Kopitko who climaxed his brilliant court career with a noteworthy exhibition in the losing cause against New York University's team

Junior Varsity Priming For Strenuous Schedule

Recruiting baseball prospects from a variety of fields, the College yearlings are in their second week of training in preparation for one of the most demanding schedules faced by any Jayvee squad.

Among the candidates for regular berths are "Chuck" Wilford, gridiron luminary and wrestler of note, and "Ace" Goldstein, prominent member of the basketball team. Mel Levy, who coached last season's squad, is back again as coach and expects an even better year.
