S.U. Nominees Win Offices In Elections

Burnham Defeats Axelroad By Slim Margin; Soltes Elected Secretary

The election of Herbert Robinson '37 and Louis Burnham '37 in the Student Council elections completed the victory of the Student Union party and insured complete control of the Student Council by the SU. Robinson is the president-elect and Burnham the vice-president elect of next term's council. Election of Aaron Soltes '37 secretary was announced by the Elections Committee last Thursday.

Robinson defeated David Goldman '37, independent by more than three hundred votes piling up 1671 votes to Goldman's 1336. Burnham's margin of victory over Victor Axelroad '37, candidate for vice-president, was only fifty-two votes. Burnham receiving 1528 to Axelroad's 1476. Only slightly more than thirty-one hundred votes were cast in the election.

SU Statement

Robinson, Burnham and Soltes issued the following statement Friday:

"The victory of the City College Student Union Party, interrelated as it is with the corresponding victories of the American Student Union parties at Hunter and Brooklyn, indicates that the great mass of students in the city colleges do support the American Student Union and the policies for which it stands. The success at the City College shows further that we earnestly desire the ousting of President Robinson.

"But now that the elections are over, we must look to the coming term. The Student Union Party made certain pledges. It will endeavor to carry out these pledges, and we call upon the student body to support us if they desire victory."

Axelroad could not be reached to comment on his defeat. Goldman declined to issue any statement.

SU Captures Classes

SU victory in the council elections supplemented success in the class elections as reported yesterday in The Campus. All elective offices in the college were filled this term by candidates supporting the American Student Union except the vice-presidency of the '39 Class. In the '38 class no candidates contested the SU nominees, '37 only one who was unsuccessful. '40 elections will be held next term.

WHY DELAY?

Fifty-one days have passed since department heads submitted recommendations to the president for next year's appointments.

Thirty-one days have passed since Morris U. Schappes was informed he would not be recommended for reappointment.

To date, the president has not forwarded these recommendations. The Board can take no action on the Schappes case until the president submits the recommendations.

When will these recommendations be sent?

House Members Vote on Policy

The Council of House Delegates has been empowered to take a definite stand on issues affecting the student body at the College for the time being, but not as a general policy. Delegates to the Council are to be instructed by their various Houses on questions of general policy, according to a House Plan will referendum.

The results of the poll were greatly influenced by the Schappes case according to leaders at the House Plan who had expected the result to be the other way around in regard to commitment.

The outcome of the poll was very close. 315 students voted for commitment for the time being, 310 against, while only 301 students wished the Council to include the proposition as a general policy as opposed to 319 who did not. There were 319 votes for individual House instruction of delegates; 291 thought the delegates should vote independently, subject to recall by their individual Houses.

The referendum was begun in April and concluded last Wednesday.

BULLETIN

Student Council officers were summoned yesterday to attend a meeting of the Administrative Committee of the Board of Higher Education last night at the 23 Street building. The call was issued to the council by Charles H. Tuttle, chairman of the committee. The meeting was still going on late last night as The Campus went to press.

Council Plans Student Poll On Robinson

S.C. Mails Letter to Board Of Higher Education, Asking Permission

Plans for a referendum on President Robinson are under way again today as the Student Council announced having mailed a letter Friday to the Board of Higher Education, asking permission to hold such a referendum. Two previous attempts by the council to conduct a questionnaire were stymied when the Board declared it would consider the holding of a referendum "insubordination and a serious breach of discipline."

Charles H. Tuttle, chairman of the Board's administrative committee for the College when questioned last Friday, expressed doubt as to the possibility of the Board's granting permission.

"I have no reason whatever," Tuttle stated, "to believe that the administrative committee would adopt any other attitude toward such a referendum than that clearly expressed on the committee's behalf to the president of the Student Council in letters of the chairman of the committee dated March 5, and March 10, 1936."

First attempts on the part of the Council to compile an accurate report on student sentiment towards the president were made early last March when the Council announced it would conduct a referendum on the president's fitness for office. The Board of Higher Education immediately took steps to prevent the Council from carrying out its plan. In a letter to Julian Lavitt '36, president of the council, Charles Tuttle declared the Board was opposed to the holding of the questionnaire.

Following receipt of Tuttle's letter, the council urged the Board either to grant permission to the council or to conduct the referendum itself. The Board refused both requests.

Shortly thereafter, the Council voted to conduct a six-point referendum, the main question to read: The Student Council shall hold a referendum on the fitness of Frederick B. Robinson for office. John T. Flynn, of the Board of Higher Education, thereupon informed the Council that a "referendum on whether to hold a referendum" would also be considered insubordination.

1,000 Students Join in Protest To Annual Jingo Day Review; ROTC Parades in Stadium

1,000 Demonstrate in Peace Rally as Mili Sci Men March in Exercises

While 1,000 students outside Lewisohn Stadium demonstrated in a peace rally, 900 people, of whom at least 700 were outsiders, watched the ROTC unit of the College march in the annual "Jingo-Day" review last Friday afternoon.

This year, the exercise were cut down tremendously, only sixty-five minutes being required for the review and the presentation of awards. A large group of women, representing numerous organizations, donated the prizes. The Daughters of the Revolution, of the American Revolution, of the Confederacy, of 1812, and of the Union 1861-65, all presented prizes. Other women's military organizations which granted awards were the New England Women, Colonial Dames of the XVII Century, American War Mothers, and the Patriotic Women of America.

Only two competitions were held, Winston Sims capturing the medal for proficiency in the Manual of Arms, and Max Goldstein, who was third in the Manual of Arms, winning the School of the Soldier prize. Cadet Diamond won a gold medal, awarded by the New York American, for the best essay on "What the ROTC Means to Me." Mention of the Hearst paper brought scattered hisses from the audience, as did the award for rifle shooting in the Hearst tourney.

CHAMPION OF YOUTH ON SALE IN ALCOVES

Amidst the turmoil of conflicting emotions and opinions of Jingo Day, the Champion of Youth made its first appearance last Friday.

Declaring that it is being published "because this depression generation wants and needs a champion, one which will treat the problems of young people today," the magazine carried in its first issue articles by James Wechsler, Governor Olson of Minnesota, Angelo Herndon, Grace Lumpkin and Granville Hicks. Wechsler and Herndon are both members of the editorial board of the publication.

Among the articles featured are "The Dice Are Loaded," by Governor Olson, "M' Stands for Murder," by Harold Ward, and "Craft or Industrial" by John L. Lewis.

The Champion has been on sale in the College alcoves since Friday.

Bacteriological Society Elects Rickes President

The Bacteriological Society held its election of officers for the coming semester on Thursday. Edward Rickes '37 was appointed president. Morris Gallant received the appointment for vice-president; Hillel Levinson was elected secretary, and Leo Zeisel was made publicity manager.

A trip to the Public Health laboratories at Otisville has been scheduled for the week following final examinations. The series of lectures for the term will be brought to a close next Thursday, when a prominent member of the Health Department will address the club at 12:30 in room 315.

ROTC Band Unit Hits Jingo Day

Joining the counter-demonstration after the completion of the regular "Jingo Day" exercises, members of the College ROTC Band lent their support vociferously to the protests against militarism on the campus Friday.

Threatened with reprisal if they boycotted the affair, several members of the band demonstrated their disapproval of the military display by wearing dark glasses "as blinders" and goose-stepping during the exercises in Lewisohn Stadium.

After the review, a great portion of the band joined student protesters in the cry "Down with the ROTC!" Five bandmen saluted demonstrators, with raised fists as they marched down Convent Avenue at the conclusion of the exercises.

Entire ASU Slate Sweeps Elections At Hunter College

The American Student Union gained a victory at Hunter College when a full slate of candidates running on the ASU ticket were elected last Wednesday. The successful candidates ran on a platform advocating recognition of the ASU at Hunter, support of the Student Peace Strike, and a campaign for improved facilities and new buildings.

Those elected to the Student Self Government Association for the coming year were: Janet Mears '37, president; Annabelle Butler '37, vice president; Rose Luttan '38, secretary; and Jane Sherman, Chairman of Judicial Board.

The ASU has not as yet been legalized at Hunter despite the requests by students for its recognition. The matter has been referred to the Board of Higher Education and, since similar requests have been made by the College and Brooklyn College, it is expected that the Board will decide for all three institutions at once.

Histrionics "More Than Adequate" In Dram Soc's 'Waiting for Lefty'

By Julian Utevsky
The Dramatic Society is to be congratulated. First, because with its recognition of the importance of the revolutionary theatre to the extent of presenting one of its plays, the Dramatic Society has finally caught up with a student body which has been patronizing this form of drama since the Theatre Union's performance of "Peace On Earth."

Secondly, because in Clifford Odets' "Waiting for Lefty," it chose what is probably the best example of revolutionary dramas. And finally, because last Friday at the Pauline Edwards Theatre the Society excelled itself in giving a performance worthy of this play.

I think the Dramatic Society would

Demonstrators Hear Talks By Professor Cohen and Other Staff Members

Undergraduate determination to remove military science from the College curriculum was again manifested last Friday afternoon when 1,000 students joined hands to protest the annual Jingo Day military review. After attending an outdoor meeting conducted on Convent Avenue by the Student Council, the group moved into the Great Hall to hear an address by Professor Morris Raphael Cohen on the anti-ROTC movement at the College.

Unlike former years, no disorders or disciplinary action marred the proceedings. Keeping within the bounds set by the faculty in granting permission for the peace rally, the demonstrators listened attentively to student and staff speakers until the meeting was adjourned.

Form Picket Line

Then, a huge picket-line was formed, and students marched back and forth past Lewisohn Stadium roaring their opposition to ROTC and preparedness. Large placards and banners accompanied the paraders as they repeated their cry: "Build Schools, Not Battleships." Returning, they swung in behind the band, and it was this aggregation that received the brunt of their chants.

At several minutes before three p.m., Herbert Robinson '37, vice-president of the Student Council, stepped to the platform and opened the meeting. In rapid succession, Simon Slavin '37 of the Council, Judah Drob '37, chairman of the college branch of the American Student Union, Lou Zuckerman '38, president of the junior class, and Louis Burnham '37 of the Douglass Society, recalled incidents of past Jingo Days and urged students to continue agitation for the abolition of the ROTC.

John Kenneth Ackley '28, College recorder and chairman of the staff anti-Fascist Association, congratulated the students for their demonstration. "It's a healthy sign to see students fighting for peace," he said.

Also representing the AFA was Mr. Jack Friedman, who denounced the Liberty League and other war-mongers. (Continued on Page 4, Column 1)

Roger Goodman to Cover Oriental Waterfront In A Series of Thrilling Articles for Campus

With the formal appointment of Roger Goodman '39 to the staff yesterday, The Campus added one more reporter to its corps of foreign correspondents. This makes a total of one in The Campus foreign bureau.

On July 10, a giant liner (unidentified as yet) will steam out of New York harbor carrying Mr. Goodman on the first leg of an extensive tour through Asia. The schedule of the tour, which will last eight months, carries our reporter to Japan, China, India, Ceylon, the island of Bali, and Palestine. And if there is time, perhaps a brief run over to Egypt.

Accounts of his observations will be dispatched to The Campus every week, and will be published regularly next fall. Since J. P. Moses, our business manager, will not yield to persuasion, these reports will not be cabled. They will wind their tortuous path through the mails to The Campus office.

Globe Trotter

Mr. Goodman is not without qualifications for his important position. He is a globe-trotter of considerable experience, having been abroad four times. But this will be his first visit to the Orient. Previous travels have taken him through most of Europe, and his last summer was spent in the Soviet Union.

As for his writing ability, Mr. Goodman brings testimony in the shapes of two awards for excellence in English composition picked up at Townsend Harris High School, when he attended classes between voyages.

Mr. Goodman speaks English and only a smattering of French and German.

This worries the editors very little and Mr. Goodman even less. For he will have you know that students in Japan and China and India speak English too. At least he hopes so, and so do the editors. The exotic island of Bali, recently glorified in a number of Hollywood travelogues, still presents its doubts, but the editors have faith in their man.

All of which brings us back to thoughts of home. Our correspondent will return to the College in time to take up his books for the spring term. But if he thinks that his expenses will be paid by The Campus, our Mr. Moses has decided thoughts to the contrary. Mr. Goodman has already made arrangements to meet such a contingency. His father, who will accompany him on his travels, will foot all the bills.

Faculty, '39 Class Tangle in Battle As Prof Swoons

By Morton Paul

Four-cornered rounders, or baseball as it is commonly known, is a very pleasant and intricate sport. It is especially pleasant and intricate when it is played by City College faculty members and '39 classmen of the same institution. It is very pleasant to watch Babe Ruth hit a home run but it is even pleasanter to watch Professor Babor, of the Chemistry department, fall on his face in amazement when his bat inadvertently hits a pitched ball. Professor Babor used to be captain of the College water polo team, which may or may not explain things, and the incident was but one of the many deliciously "wacky" occurrences in the indoor baseball game between a faculty team and a nine selected from the College '39 class last Thursday in Jasper Oval.

The faculty lineup was obviously chosen with an eye to speed and deception. At first base was Professor Holton of the Mili Sci department, ably assisted by Mr. Stuart. At second base, Mr. Neegard, Mr. Thompson and Dean Turner collaborated in covering this important assignment. Mr. Jerome Cohen, of the Eco department and late of The Campus, and the aforementioned Professor Babor covered the second base position—completely. At third base one blonde Tarzan from the Hygiene department, named Jarup, was the lone wolf, while sprinkled hither and yon among the one thousand or so spectators were Mr. Wardlaw of the Public Speaking department, Mr. Roberts, Mr. Willard F. Barber and the diminutive but heavy hitting Professor Dawson of the Biology department. The batteries consisted of the long lean Mr. Reynolds of the Math department who was a very good pitcher indeed, and Mr. "Ziggie" Arm, of the Government department, who unfortunately was not such a very good catcher.

As chief umpire and arbiter, pinch hitter and leading light in general, there was Professor Guthrie, of the Government department, who handed down weighty decisions with the sonorous equanimity of a Supreme Court justice. Also dotting the faculty landscape were numerous stooges and substitutes who deemed it best to substitute for their better halves while the aforementioned better half was plying his trade. This unusual policy resulted at one time in a faculty line-up of eighteen men which only made the game more delightful and intricate.

The less said about the '39 outfit the better. It was, to put it mildly, what the barroom flies vulgarly call a "stinko."

Although the game was a classic all the way it really assumed epic properties in the fourth inning. Major Holton first man up for the professors hit a terrific dribble to the pitcher which the heroes of '39 adroitly converted into a home run. Mr. Neegard singled. Professor Babor came to bat, swung a mighty swing and lo the ball moved. The professor was so overcome with emotion that he swooned, after which he continued to second. At this crucial point, Dean Turner hit a screaming popfly to the pitcher. While the ball gyrated beautifully in the air, the '39 classmen, with Sam Moskowitz as chairman, undertook a debate as to just who should catch the object when it finally came down. They failed to come to a decision and the Dean scampered merrily to third while the boys fought for possession of the ball.

In such fashion, did the professors and the students disport themselves to the complete delight of the onlookers, with the possible exception of "Big Bill" Guthrie who was very rudely beamed with a thrown ball late in the fourth inning. After five sessions of such assorted pleasure, the game was called because of threatening classes

Beavers Crush L. I. U.

College Baseball Team Collects 17 Hits and 13 Runs As Johnny Morris Holds Blackbirds to 2 Tallies

There's something about Dexter Park. Perhaps the prairie-like expanse of the outfield is responsible for the prodigious slugging of the Beavers on each visit to the Woodhaven Diamond. At any rate, on Friday they administered a 13-2 thumping to Long Island University, a bunch that has taken the measure of such metropolitan baseball powers as Fordham and Manhattan earlier in the year.

If a Lavender win was looked for at all, an eleven run margin of conquest was certainly something in the way of an upset of the consensus of opinion. But when the nine innings were over, the St. Nicks, who have never heard of a gent called Hoyle, had collected a total of seventeen base hits from a pair of Black-Bird hurlers.

Clair Bee's forces, tallying their two runs in the third and fourth, both unearned, couldn't solve Johnny Morris' technique after that, and had to be content with seven scattered safeties for the entire contest. Morris fanned six and dented the rubber with one of the thirteen Beaver scores.

The Spaniermen broke a 2-2 tie and actually decided the issue in the sixth session with teammates on first and second. Dangerous Danny Frank sent Les Rosenblum home with a timely single off Frank Mitchell. After Wittkin had been forced at second by Morris Chris Michael singled to score the St. Nick pitcher and Frank.

Nat Gainen found himself facing a new pitcher, Ken Norton, and waited for a walk. After Norton had balked, permitting the runners to advance, Michael stole home for the fourth and final run of the inning.

But the Beavers were far from being satiated with a four run lead over a nine that has come from behind more than once to sew up a ball game. Two Lavender runs were registered in the following inning, and another in the eighth. Nor did the Spaniermen let up after that, counting four times in the concluding stanza.

Mitchell, incidentally, was credited with the loss, although he issued a minority of the seventeen safe blows.

Jayvee Sluggers Beat Newton High

A line single to center in the sixth inning by Julie Janowitz, which scored Bernie Fliegel with the winning run, gave the College Jayvee nine an 8 to 7 victory over the Newton High School baseball team in its final game, at Lewisohn Stadium last Saturday.

The triumph gave the Beaver cubs a .500 average for the season with three victories, three defeats and one tie.

Although outhit 10 to 7, the Lavender bunched four hits in the third and fourth innings to tally six runs. Gelber, hard hitting left fielder, got the longest hit of the game, a triple to deep center field that scored Janowitz and Goldstein. The four runs came in the fifth as a result of two Newton errors, two free passes and two clean hits.

Soltes Removed

Arky Soltes started on the mound for the Beavers and lasted until the fourth when he was removed because of a streak of wildness. Prior to that he had struck out five men and held the high schoolers to four hits. Levine relieved him with two men on the bases and only one out but he came through to hold Newton scoreless for the remainder of the stanza. He was removed for a pinch hitter and Mauro finished the game. He was hit hard and often yielding six hits, one of them a double, in three innings. Only the fine support of the Beaver fielders kept the school boys in check.

and professors and students wended their weary way schoolward. In case you're interested, the faculty won 16-5.

Unsung Netmen Deserve Praise

Fred Neubling's brilliant season has perhaps overshadowed the merits of the other members of the College tennis team who have been so instrumental in the success of this year's unit. And as the schedule moves to its close, fears of having ignored those campus stalwarts, who perform so valiantly behind the impenetrable anonymity of "the Beavers," begin to plague this correspondent.

Captain Bernie Freedman's former position in the tennis limelight has been occupied, more or less, by Neubling this season, but his record has been none the less an excellent one. Undeclared in all his matches this year at the No. 2 position, Freedman has lost but one set in competition. On the N. Y. State intercollegiate, he advanced to the quarter-finals before losing a protracted struggle to Charles Tyler, Army star.

Jesse Greenberg has fared only slightly worse. Only a miserable performance in bowing to his NYU opponent mars his record. Soundly armed from the backcourt and possessed of a particularly effective net game, Greenberg should blossom forth into an outstanding metropolitan netman next spring.

The lower singles men, John Anisfield, Dave Linchetz, Sid Weiss, have been none too impressive in their matches this year. The first two, stylish performers, have been far too erratic to make any real headway.

Fordham Noses Out Lavender Trackmen In Final Dual Meet

In their third and last meet of the season, the Beaver trackmen were downed by Fordham, 70-56.

Louis Black, weight man was outstanding for the Beavers, with first places in the sixteen pound shot put, the discus throw and the javelin throw respectively. Vic Cohen, Lavender high jumper won his specialty with a leap of 6 ft. while Irv Mauer took the broad jump with a 20 ft. leap. However, the Rams dominated the flat races, losing only the 100 yard dash and dividing the two hurdle events.

Black's triumph featured the meet. He put the shot 45 ft. 1/2 inch shattering the old College record of 42 ft. 10 1/2 inches. He also won the discus with a heave of 125 ft. 6 inches and the javelin with a mark of 169 ft. 4 inches.

Alumni Shatter Lacrosse Team

Both tradition and the College lacrosse team's hopes of finishing the season with a respectable record were rudely shattered last Saturday when the usually-meek Alumni upped and walloped the Varsity, 7-5, for probably the first time in the history of the College.

The defeat marked the closing and crowning ignominy of a chaotic season for the Millermen, during which they won two games and lost seven. No fewer than thirty-three men and four referees saw action in the contest, which was a dull affair throughout, except for a few brief flashes of excitement toward the end. The most brilliant individual performance was rendered by Ralph Singer, who was in the nets for the ex-Beavers.

Jesse Sobel, he of water polo fame, Mickey Curran and Sam Mise, who tallied three goals, also performed creditably for the Alumni.

In all, about the only pleasure gleaned from the game by the Beavers was the fact that it was the last game of the season.

However, the team is still hoping and next year perhaps "Chief" Miller may be able to turn out another one of those much feared Beaver tens.

ers. To insure peace, Mr. Friedman said, we must combat those organizations that are lobbying for their own interests.

In his talk, Professor Cohen traced the history of the ROTC at the College and its change in status from compulsory to optional. He recounted the bitter student campaign for elective ROTC, and described the famous blank-column episode of The Campus.

Refuting the arguments of proponents of military training who asserted that it was similar to other courses, Professor Cohen declared that if it were educational, it would be taught by educators and not by the war department.

Professor Cohen made an analogy as concerns preparedness. "A lady who is dressed is much more ready to go out than a lady who is not," he said.

While he confessed he was not sure whether war could ever be eliminated because of elements in human nature that require one's own way and ignore that of others, Professor Cohen said that "pacifists are more likely to win advocates of preparedness over to their side by persuasion than by bad manners."

Jingo Day Highlights

The serenity of the campus on Jingo Day was remarkable to behold. It was probably due to more skillful planning by the military science department. That the demonstrators were disappointed, it is needless to add. Just as the speaker was advising the protestants on Convent Avenue how to act when the cadets marched by, the ROTC entered the stadium fully two blocks away.

After a careful scrutiny, one of our aides informed us that a lone Japanese was sitting in the stands enjoying all the intricate maneuvers. What do you think of that, Mr. Hearst?"

During the earlier part of the meeting Professor Morris Raphael Cohen was seated on the Convent Avenue wall listening to the student speakers. Some children interrupted him, and it was interesting to watch America's greatest thinker examine their Dick Tracy comic books.

When the name of President Frederick B. Robinson was mentioned over the stadium loudspeaker there was no applause for the moment.

S.C. Plans Poll Of Tech School

The Student Council poll of the Tech School on the proposal that the Student Council provide a committee to be in charge of Tech School activities will be held this Thursday, May 27, between 9 a. m. and 1 p. m. The poll will be conducted by ballot in the main corridor of the Tech Building.

The present Engineering Societies (Tech) Council is composed only of representatives from each of the four engineering societies. Lately there has been much dissatisfaction with it because of the restrictions laid on its member societies, which were told by their faculty advisers that they could not discuss subjects outside the engineering field, such as the anti-war movement and trade unionism in engineering.

The proposed committee is to consist of representatives elected by each class of technology students from Lower Junior and higher classes, four officers elected by the Tech students at large and one representative from each of the four engineering societies. "The proposal before the Student Council is intended to set up a body that will express the opinions of the Tech School," a spokesman for the committee in charge of the referendum declared.
