St. John's Five Drubs Beavers, 75-50; Student Council to Picket Lunchroom

Demands Change in Price Structure Of Cafeteria, Protests 'Poor Quality'

By Israel Levine

Student Council dissatisfaction with lunchroom food and prices boiled over last Friday when SC voted to form a picket line tomorrow from 9:00 to 3:30 in the College's cafeteria.

The decision to set up picket lines in front of the lunchroom food counter came when it was decided "that the time had come to show student strength in protest against the high prices and poor quality of food dispensed by the cafeteria management." All SC members present unanimously joined a Student Council Strike Committee which was set up to organize the demonstration.

To Boycott Lunchroom

In addition to picketing the food counter, the Strike Committee has requested that all members of the student body and faculty at the College lend their support by not purchasing food in the lunchroom tomorrow. Leaflets will be distributed in the morning, reminding students of the demonstration, and picketing by members of the Strike Committee will be carried out continuously, through hourly shifts.

The Strike Committee also asked that students refrain from all forms of violent action. Such activity, according to the chairman of the committee, would hamper the strike effort, and every means will be taken to conduct the demonstration as peacefully as possible.

Student Patience Gone

"The objective of the strike," a spokesman declared, "is to show the strength and unanimity of the students in their dissatisfaction with cafeteria policies. If food prices are not reduced, if quality is not improved, and if the management continues its attitude of non-cooperation with the SC Lunchroom Investigating Committee, future demonstrations will be held. The patience of the student body is at an end. As of tomorrow, we're demanding action."

A report by the SC Lunchroom Investigating Committee which was also presented, was voted down as "inadequate."

A meeting of the Faculty-Student Lunchroom has been called for this Monday. The strike will undoubtedly be the first order of business.

Redmen Lead at Half, 35-23; Boykoff High Scorer with 27

By Norm Zukowsky

With Bobby Scheer, the only defense an undermanned Beaver quintet had against Harry Boykoff, out on fouls after 22 minutes, St. John's red-hot Redmen whooped it up and ran off with a 75-50 victory over the Beavers last night before the biggest crowd of the season at Madison Square Garden.

Scheer played Boykoff well and held the six-foot nine-inch mastodon to nine points in the first half. Bobby also intercepted half a dozen bucket-bound passes, and guided the St. Nick offense. But when Scheer fouled out two minutes after the intermission, Harry found only minor-league opposition in Al Siegel and Moose Hillman, and duplicated his early season feat of scoring 27 tallies, a season high for the Garden.

Doctor Second Highest

Speedy Len Doctor caught fire and it was largely his clever markers in the first half that enabled the Redmen to leave the court at the half with a 35-23 margin. He totalled 15, while Ray Wertis popped in 14, as did Beaver Captain Paul Schmones, who played with a stiff neck.

In the curtain raiser, a smooth-moving West Virginia five stifled Jackie Goldsmith, who caged only four baskets, and therefore also stifled LIU, by 59-51.

Boykoff Starts Fast

While Scheer was getting acclimated, Hightower Boykoff pivoted for two quickies, threw in two free throws, and fed the fast breaking Doctor for three straight layups. After five minutes of play, St. John's was on its way, 14-0.

Fouls out early in second half.

Alum n Hoop Tilt Features Korovin, Levine for Grads

The famous "Midgets" of the 1937-38 quintet have been added to the list of former Beaver basketball greats who will be featured in the classic alumni- varsity basketball game to be held in the Main Gym this Feb. 9 after a four-year wartime lapse.

Top home attraction of the season, the game will be played before an expected sellout crowd, with even the officials, press, and players plunking down their dollars to pay their way in. The alumni quintet is expected to give the varsity quite a battle, with Hal Korovin and Bill Levine, stars of only a year ago, in the lineup. Standing six-four and six-three respectively, both are tough men under the backboards.

Mastermind Also Plays

Some of the other names appearing in the "old grad" lineup include Moe Spahn, Sam Winograd, Milt Trupin, Lou Spindell, and Brooklyn College Coach Artie Musicant. Masterminding the varsity outfit will be JV hoop pilot Bobby Sand.

Sand, incidentally, will do a stretch on the court with the renowned "Midget" five, which won glory while playing for the

Dramsoc Choosing For Spring Term Hasty Heart Cast

Announcing "The Hasty Heart," its first production of Heart" by John Patrick as its first production of the Spring season, Dramsoc revealed that casting is now in progress and is open to all students in the College.

The play, which had a long popular run on Broadway, concerns six soldiers hospitalized in the Burma theatre, and revolves around one of the soldiers in particular.

"The Hasty Heart" will be given early in March, and all those interested in participating in the production may attend today's meeting in 308 Main at 12:30, or contact Henry Weinstein '46, production director.

Casting will go on Fridays and Mondays from two to five in 308 Main, with rehearsals starting after exam week.

'Vector' to Appear In Exam. Week

This semester's second issue of Vector, which usually appears during the last week of the term, will not be on sale before the week of finals because of an influenza epidemic among the workers at the printing plant. The Vector office will be open for distribution as often as possible during exam week and all through registration week to accommodate all subscribers, according to Harold Bieber '47.

This issue will feature articles on "Television" by Morton Scheraga '44 and "Nuclear Fission of the Atom" by Murray Rosenblatt '46.

Co-Eds to Remain at College; 2000 Vets May Enroll Here

Refuting rumors that female students will be restricted at the Main Center of the College, Mr. Robert L. Taylor, Registrar, announced yesterday that only those not meeting the required entrance average will be excluded.

Students Gain FCSA Equality

A term of dissension on ways and means of providing equal student-faculty representation on the Faculty Committee on Student Activities, has culminated in the selection of five students to fill the student posts on the key group.

After several compromise proposals had been turned down by Student Council, it was decided finally to have a sub-committee of the FCSA, as formerly constituted, choose five from a list of ten students previously nominated by the council. The subcommittee, composed of two students and two faculty members, selected Arthur Goodman '47, Roslyn Keller '46, Ray Kaufman '47, Judy Feinstein '47, and Burt Sellinger '46. Eugene Weinschenker '46 has been chosen as an alternate member.

New Co-Ed Sports Group Plans Vacation in Mass.

Co-Ed Capers, a new sports minded student group, is planning an intercession winter frolic. The group will leave New York for East Northfield, Mass. on Jan. 26, and will be home four days later. The cost of the entire trip, including train fare will be about 25 dollars.

Before this term, Mr. Taylor explained, those students failing to meet the required average were given a written examination upon which their eligibility was based. Both men and women came under this system. For the spring term, the School of Education will be closed to take the exam instead of meeting the average requirements.

An expected increase in the number of veterans enrolling for next semester will more than counter-balance the loss in female population at the College, he said. From a total of 436 veterans 8 per cent of the enrollment this present semester, the figures for the coming term may increase to about 2,000 veterans, 30 per cent of the tentative registration.

Vacation Jan. 25

Final exams will run from January 17 to 25, and hours and dates of individual exams are listed on the Day Session bulletin board outside 100 Main. The intercession vacation will begin on January 25 and will continue to February 13. Enrollment is scheduled for the first, fourth, fifth, sixth, and seventh of February.

Sheets with more detailed information about the enrollment dates are now being distributed in front of 100 Main. The schedule of recitations for the spring term will be posted on the bulletin board on Jan. 25

Don't Cross the Line

When 40 members of Student Council, representing a goodly cross-section of College organizations, get together and unanimously call for a picket line against the cafeteria management, it is quite obvious that there is something wrong with the mastication joint. The Campus feels that the average student who patronizes the lunchroom will agree. You don't have to be an expert in dietetics to know that you're being charged high prices for food that is distinctly inferior in mouth watering quality.

Dear Mayor:

For all his color and personality, Fiorello H. LaGuardia did little for the cause of higher education in New York City. He promised much and gave us a lot of high sounding phrases, but promises may be conveniently forgotten and words vanish as soon as they are sounded. Mayor O'Dwyer, it's up to you to deliver the goods as far as making this college a better place is concerned.

Here are some suggestions:

- Revitalize the stagnant Board of Higher Education.
- Let's not have any more hedging on the question of a substantial increase in city budget allotments for the four city colleges. This is a prime necessity for:
- A new set of buildings to replace the morgue we now have, and to relax the tight policy now surrounding faculty promotions.

THIRTY

I'm a sucker for punishment. After three and a half years at the College I'm still in love with it—with its constant state of flux, its play and counterplay of personalities and opinions, its students and its faculty members (well, most of them). Through the looking glass of The Campus I've seen practically every nook and cranny of this school, every change, slight or marked. This morning I woke up as an outgoing Editor-in-Chief, and I've got a free space to write what I please about this school. And I'm still in love with it.

In the near future somebody on the faculty will get the bright idea of objectively going over the curriculum in his own department. When he has been thoroughly disgusted he may possibly begin to feel that something's wrong in other parts of the school. And maybe he'll be someone with tenure who'll start raising Cain about the stagnation of the courses of study here. And maybe something will be done.

Or, maybe, some students will look up from their books and begin to question what is in them. Then something WILL be done. Classes taken with a shrug of the shoulders because they're on the required list should be dropped from the curriculum without hesitation or revised completely.

Now we come to the women. This College lost one of the most sincere and outspoken proponents of co-education in the country when Dean Esek Mosher died. It's time to take up the cudgels again, not to keep the present gains which we are in the process of losing, but to make this a co-ed school, and include frustrated Hunter in that proposal.

I can think of no better College than this one to start a real country-wide student movement. Any such movement must be a centrifugal one—radiating outwards. When students have been united in a College-wide rousing-up the force will be felt outside. But it will require leadership with a clearer outlook than much of what we have here today.

... Last night the final page proof was read, the last page form was placed on the presses and I was an ex-Editor-in-Chief. My years on The Campus have been an important part of my life experience—an experience that has both exalted and humbled me. To the fellows and girls I've worked with on the paper—thanks... thirty...
—Max Halperen

Phi Beta Kappa Approves 11 Seniors and Graduates

Prof. Henry Semat (Physics) has announced the names of eleven graduates and seniors of the College who have been elected to the Phi Beta Kappa chapter of the College.

They are: Robert Schwimmer, Joseph Sokol, Alvin Boskoff, Bernard Brown, Leon Wengrobsky, Jerome Abrams, Arthur Mayer, Wolfgang Rosenmeyer, and Seymour Linder.

LOCK ELECTS KEYS

Lock and Key, senior honorary society, last week elected Roslyn Keller '46, to the post of Chancellor; Max Halperen '46, Vice-Chancellor; Arthur Goodman '47, Scribe. A partial program for next term includes: continued sponsorship of the Main Center section of the Beaver Handbook and of the Mercury revival.

Chess Men Cop Tourney Plesset, Roskind Win

Kevin Plesset '48, representing the College, captured the Intercollegiate Chess Championship tourney, which took place during the Christmas vacation at the Manhattan Chess Club. Plesset placed first in a field of 23 participants from 15 colleges. He received the David Levine Memorial Cup. David Roskind '48, also of the College took second place in the tournament which was run on the Swiss system. Both of these are members of the College's Chess Club and Team.

Dr. Dedeck-Hery, Language Expert, 62, Dies Suddenly

Prof. Louis Venceslas Dedeck-Hery (Romance Languages) died suddenly at home during the Christmas recess. His age was 62.

He was at the College since 1931 and was made an assistant professor in 1940. Before coming here he taught Latin, Greek and French in European universities. An expert on medieval French, he had just completed a critical edition of "Consolations" by Jean de Meung, a 13th century French translation from the Latin of Boethius' "Consolations of Philosophy." Fourteen years of study and travel went into this work.

A native of Czechoslovakia, Dr. Dedeck-Hery was a frequent contributor of articles on medieval philology to Czechoslovak and French publications.

City Lites

By LARRY WEINER

A belated thank you to Nat Kingsley for his good work while we were out. The flu germ put a temporary dimout on our citylite but it's back again, as usual a shining beacon in the troubled waters of college journalism!

With the regular Western Union channels dead because of the operators' strike and the sportswriters unable to file stories from the Garden on last night's game, Chief Miller was thinking of getting a five-cent cigar, a blanket, and making a fortune sending up smoke signals from the Garden rooftop.

To the young lady who signs herself 'Desperate' and writes that she wants to pass the final exams in the worst way, our advice is:

Wear a pink and yellow kimono and have your hair done up in curlers. We can think of no worse way to pass an exam.

Among the various powers Student Council asked for itself in the rejected constitution was cooperation in the supervision of student conduct in the cafeteria and lavatories. Insofar as we're concerned, we object to supervision in at least one of those places.

Married during the Christmas vacation, Mildred Gellerman, formerly Dannenhirsch, becomes the first married woman on the staff in Campus history. Two weeks and she's already managed to land an apartment. The kid's got something.

Not one to rest during a vacation, Professor Cecil H. Kindle (Geo.) spends his summer months exploring the coast of Newfoundland for the Government's Geological Survey to map rock formations in areas where there might be oil, after an article in "Rocks and Minerals," proving that the rocks in the New York area are not of the geological age they were believed to be. Prof. Kindle was asked to revise symbols for relief models of the Hudson Valley for the American Museum of Natural History.

Sport Slants

COLUMNIST DOES A PEARSON
BUT SPELLS IT BACKWARD

By MILT GRALLA

Metropolitan sportswriters have for weeks been offering the following predictions of events in the world of sports in 1946:

- 1) Jimmy Powers envisions Louis flattening Conn.
- 2) Arthur Daley sees a big boom in sports.
- 3) Grantland Rice figures Brooklyn over the Yankees in the World Series.
- 4) Joe Cumiskey predicts a big boom in sports.
- 5) Leonard Cohen's best is that a horse will win the Kentucky Derby.
- 6) Bill Corum expects a very big boom in sports.
- 7) Dan Parker, in his best style, foresees more operations on Broadway Sam for "very close" veins.
- 8) Jimmy Cannon, bringing forth a new idea, believes that "returning servicemen will add to the boom in post-war sports."

With the entire 1946 campaign thus already in the books, and all available predictions completely used up, we are forced to offer our prophecies of . . .

SPORTS EVENTS MOST LIKELY NOT TO HAPPEN IN 1946

Chicago, April 15.—Baseball Commissioner Happy Chandler today announced the indefinite postponement of the opening of the 1946 baseball season because of a strike in the factories of E. G. Spalding, who makes all the baseballs used in the big leagues. With the United Union of Factory-Sweepers, Wall-Washers, and Trash-Basket Emptiers out on strike, production has reached a standstill because of the unsanitary conditions in the factories.

"The whole thing," said Chandler, "is a dirty shame." To which a union official replied, "It's a filthy lie!"

Winnipeg, Manitoba, October 15.—City College basketball coach Nat Holman today announced that, while on a hunting and fishing trip in the Canadian North Woods, he had found a seven-foot, four-inch youngster playing for the Igloo Polar Bears of the Eskimo League. Approaching the 19-year-old, well-built giant, Holman offered him a playing career at City College.

"You be heap big man, much famous," said Holman.

"I regret to refuse," replied the great hoop prospect, "but I already have my M.A. from Columbia."

IN THE KEYHOLE

With HAL KOROVIN
As told to Irv Genn

Now I've seen everything! I used to think it was tough when a ballplayer lost his eligibility for cutting classes or flunking a course or getting caught playing pro. But when three boys get heaved off the basketball team just for getting caught on the wrong side of a new rule, that's a new low.

It'll be tough for the Coach losing Moe Chefec, Jordy Klein and Irv Sylvester—three kids who had the makings. Tough on the boys, too, because they came here to play ball and now they'll end up buying their way into the Garden with me and the other has-beens.

But it's the beginning of the end for basketball here. With this new iron-bound eligibility rule and with the entrance requirement beginning to shoot for the ninety mark, the game has about five years of the big time here. And then our teams will be all set to take on a powerhouse like Yeshiva and Queens College. If I were Holman, I wouldn't be sleeping nights.

Free Lanes: By now I've seen enough of the Schmo-hawks to compare them with the clubs I played for. They rate over the Lauren-Trubowitz outfit and have the edge over what was left of Mike Shinkarik's team when the draft boards got through with it. But the 1944-45 squad was a shade better. More brawn, experience, and reserves . . .

I have Jameson tabbed as the leading player on the team. There are some who have it slightly over him when it comes to shooting, but in every other department he is tops . . .

February 9, I make my farewell bow at the Alumni game. Not only won't I be dumping, but I aim to have put on the hottest night of my career. So pay your buck. To see Hesh hustling, it'll be worth it . . .

Redmen Track Down Beavers; Schmones Sparks City Quintet

Scheer Ruled Out On Five Personals In Second Frame

Finally Captain Schmones asserted his authority and hit with a layup. With Red Breenberg, a Mangiapane-like battler under the boards, Sonny Jameson, and Scheer fighting to get the St. Nicks into the ballgame, the count went to 26-16.

Closest at 26-22

Then Scheer hit a set, Schmones broke fast, fed Jameson and then drove in to score himself. With the Beavers behind at 26-22, it looked as if Nat Holman's hoopsters might pull a repeat of last year's thriller. But the overpowering drive of Wertis, Zaslofsky & Co. proved too much for the Beavers, who couldn't keep up the pace.

For the second and last time, the St. Nicks pulled to within striking distance during the first two minutes of the second half, when Scheer was still around. Boykoff's hook shot was the signal for the uprising. The fast break sprung Jameson for a pair of layups, and the always-improving Breenberg sunk a tap and a foul, to narrow the margin to 37-30.

As Boykoff went up to top in a Zaslofsky rebound, he was fouled by Scheer. (Bob's fifth) and the rest of the contest was definitely Snafu for the Lavender. While Chefec, Siegal, Hillman, Irish, etc. seemed helpless, Joe Lapchick's warriors taught the Hol-men a lesson in the fast break.

Meet Manhattan

In their last game before the month-long inter term recess, the Hol-men return to the Garden Saturday night to square off against Manhattan College.

Printers Drub Jaffe Five; Enter Intramural Finals

Last week's Intramural hoop encounter saw Jaffe bow to the Printers, 34-29, leaving the winners to contend with the winner of the Duke-Bowker game in the intramural finals. In the Main vs. Commerce All-Star game, the Uptown five was whipped, 48-38.

Sparks . . .

Ned Irish's joint over on 8th Avenue was really in tip-top shape last night, decorated with banners for the 25th renewal of the St. John's-City hoop series . . . The Indians, no doubt playing the numbers, came thru with a very appropriate 25-point victory. . . .

Lavenders to the Beaver trainer whose two-hour massage readied Paul Schmones for the tussle . . . 18,000 fans waited when the ball got stuck between the hoop and the backboards on a St. John's shot.

The defeat was the worst since the series' inception.

Quintet Tops Foes By Margin of 129; Schmones Gets 118

The College's basketball team had won seven games and lost two before last night's tussle with St. John's, to place second in the Metropolitan area, along with Manhattan. For the first nine games, the Beavers tallied 492 points, for an average of 54.7, as against 363 racked up by their opponents, or 40.3 per game.

Captain Paul Schmones led the St. Nick scorers with 118 points, followed by Sonny Jameson with 95 and Bob Scheer with 90. Schmones was second high in the city, with Jameson fifth and Scheer sixth.

The individual scoring, excluding last night's game:

	G	FG	F	Pts.
Schmones	9	50	18	118
Jameson	9	42	11	95
Scheer	9	35	20	90

AYD Holds Debate Plans Discussion For Inter-Session

The Tom Paine Club of the American Youth for Democracy is sponsoring a discussion of "The Student and Labor" at 12:30 today in 126 Main. The key speaker, Samuel Dirkin, International Representative of the United Office and Professional Workers' Union (CIO) will present a general picture of labor problems. Leonard Wender '46, President of the Council of Technological Societies and Leo Kaplan '46, President of the Tom Paine Club will then debate the subject as it relates to the student body.

Also on the Tom Paine Club's calendar, is an interesting conference, called by the group, to discuss the problems that face students of the College. It will convene on Feb. 2 at 10:30 a.m. at local American Labor Party headquarters and will concern itself with such topics as lunch-room prices, library fees, restrictions on clubs, and broadening of Student Council powers in addition to national and international problems which affect students. All students who are interested in participating, should contact the Tom Paine Club.

Caduceus Sponsors Drive To Get Books for China

The Caduceus Society is sponsoring, during Exam Week, Jan. 17-25, a "Books for China" drive. Chinese students, suffering from a severe shortage of text books, are badly in need of used texts on chemistry, physics, biology and other technical subjects published later than 1940, according to a Caduceus spokesman. A representative of Caduceus will be on hand in 20 Main, Student Council office.
