SC Modifies AYD Stand In Michigan

Just two weeks after communicating with Michigan State College in protest of the "undemocratic banning of the American Youth for Democracy on the campus", the Student Council decided Friday evening to write another letter to that institution modifying its position.

The action came upon receipt of a letter from J. A. Hannah, president of Michigan State, in which he informed SC that "the six of our more than 13,400 students who are known to be members of the AYD were penalized for refusing to abide by the decision of a majority of students on this campus, as expressed through their representatives on the Student Council."

Continues Activities

Upon learning that the AYD continued to meet as a campus group and circulated handbills against College regulations, the Michigan State Student Council recommended disciplinary action for the AYD members. After several hearings, the Faculty Committee followed the student recommendation and placed those students on disciplinary probation.

Interpreting this action as an attack against academic freedom, the College SC sent president Hannah a letter of protest.

Hasty Action

Commenting on the matter, Robert Meagher '49, representative of the Varsity Club declared, "In our haste to get this action through, we neglected to get all the facts on the case and as a result we must write a letter of apology."

Search For Calories Exhausts School's Small-Change Supply

The present scarcity of nickels at the College developed soon after 26 candy vending machines were installed here early last term. Since then, more than 200,000 indian-heads have been thrown into the machines by calorie starved students.

Victor Chicollo, the blond boy who supervises the candy setup, confesses that he cannot account for this yen for sweets. He discounts the theory that the students are building themselves up for the coming football campaign.

According to Vic, chocolate covered candies are the largest seller.

Vic himself eats very little chocolate. He says that he is sick and tired of looking at it.

He is often asked how his firm, The Automatic Canteen Corporation of America can afford to sell

Alumni Group Announces Prizes for Graduates

Nine prizes for outstanding activity in scholarship, athletics and social relations will be offered to City College graduates each semester by the City College Club, it was announced by Louis Rogoff '28, chairman of the Committee on Undergraduate Activities of the alumni group.

Three prizes will be awarded in each field of endeavor, in addition to membership in the club. Those interested in the scholarships should contact the Lamport House, 25 West 22nd St.

Centennial Drive Fashion Review Set for March 22

Jinx Falkenberg and Tex McCrary will be co-commentators at a Centennial Fashion Show Luncheon, to be held March 22 at the Waldorf Astoria, stated Mrs. Herman L. Weisman, chairman of the Women's Division of the Centennial Fund Drive.

The theme of the review will be an "Interpretation of Lavender," in which fashions of 100 years ago, the present and future designs of women's raiment will be featured.

Tickets are priced at $20 for the Lavender Horseshoe and Runway; $12.50 for the main floor and first tier boxes; and $10 for second tier boxes. They can be obtained by sending a check of the desired denomination to Lamport House, 25 East 22nd St.

the scarcer candy for the wrapper marked price. His stock answer to all such queries is that the company buys the candy in large quantities direct from the manufacturer and this eliminates the price given to the middleman.

Vic denies all reports that the machines are mechanically imperfect. "Only one nickel out of every thousand is lost," he said. Refunds are made whenever a student loses a coin due to a mechanical defect. Vic warns however, that although the machine will reject all coins except nickels, five dollar gold pieces will fit.

"Oh yes, there is one thing I neglected to add," he said. "Please don't write that I fill the machines every hour on the hour from nine until three o'clock. I'm an old softie."

O. John Rogge, former Assistant Attorney-General of the United States, will speak on "American Fascism Reconverts" in Doremus Hall today at 12:30.

The revival of fascism in post-war America and its effect on college students will be discussed by Rogge, who will appear under the auspices of many of the College's prominent student organizations, among them Hillel, the American Veterans Committee, and the Tom Paine AYD.

Rogge Interviewed

When interviewed by The Campus yesterday, Rogge declared his intention of devoting part of his speech to a discussion of the current plight of teachers, in addition to a survey of Nazi infiltration in America. "I realize that the present generation has been handed a 'hot potato'," Rogge said, "but the big test will come when they try to hold on to it."

"Education will probably prove the difference in preventing totalitarianism," he continued, "and it seems to be the only remedy for what ails this country today."

The Cause Celebre

A graduate of Harvard Law School, he is the author of "I Take My Case to the People", an expose of current American fascists and fascism.

Organ Recitals Held Wednesdays

An organ recital featuring the works of the English school of Prof. George Wilson (Music) composers will be offered by Wednesday at 3 in the Great Hall.

The recital is one of a weekly series. The last, given yesterday, highlighted Schumann's "Sketch in F minor," "Meditation" by American composer James Rogers, and "Gavotte" by Giovanni B. Martini, teacher of Gluck and Mozart.

The organ recitals, a tradition at the College, were disrupted last spring by the repair of the Great Hall. They were resumed last month.

Yielding to the demand of his regular audience, Professor Wilson will present an all-Bach recital on March 26.

AVC Dance On March 15

AVC's first social this term will be an "Ides of March" dance, Saturday, March 15, in Army Hall Lounge to the music of Joe Nagen and his Orchestra.

Door prizes for free evenings at the Bal Tabarin and Zanzibar are included in the 85-cent admission.

SC Holds Bias Rally; OPA Lawyer to Speak

In an effort to crystalize student support for some form of anti-discrimination legislation, the Student Council is running a rally today at noon at the flagpole.

An address by Ted Leskes, representing the Social Legislation Committee of the American Jewish Congress, will highlight the event. Mr. Leskes was formerly Regional Enforcement Attorney for the OPA.

Student leaders and faculty members are also scheduled to speak.

Veterans in Fight For Rogers Bill Off to Washington

Veterans Association and American Veterans Committee representatives joined fellow delegates from 71 other colleges in launching "Operations Subsistence," by appearing before the House Veterans Affairs Sub-Committee on Subsistence Friday.

Ten delegates, among them, Jess Nementzow '47, former vice president of the Veterans Association, testified in favor of the Rogers Bill, which proposed to increase veteran subsistence. Emphasizing that the veteran is not looking for a handout, the delegates claimed that the rise in prices had cut the value of the subsistence dollar, thus shrinking the GI allowance and destroying the intent of the GI Bill.

Tub-Thumping for 'Microcosm' Heard Clear to Ashtobula, O.

"Microcosm," the senior yearbook, has gotten itself into a lot of odd places, but last week "Mike" set a distance record for City College publications. Mr. A. A. Johnson of Ashtobula, wrote in, asking for information concerning a subscription. A poll of the "Microcosm" staff showed that no one had any relatives by the name of Johnson anywhere, much less in Ashtobula. The only solution to the mystery must be that one of the Mike ads got as far as Ohio and irresistibly attracted the attention of Mr. Johnson of Ashtobula.

Meanwhile, the editors of "Microcosm" have been writing to various well-known alumni asking

NCAA Offer For Playoff Is Accepted

The Faculty Athletic Committee yesterday accepted the invitation of the National Collegiate Athletic Association's District Two Selection Committee to play Syracuse University at Troy, N.Y. tomorrow night for the right to represent this district in the NCAA Basketball Tournament.

Student sentiment was overwhelmingly in favor of accepting the bid. Co-captains Paul Schmones and Sid Trubowitz appeared before the committee, both strongly advocating on behalf of the players' acceptance of the Troy play-off. A group of close to 1000 students, led by student groups, demonstrated in front of the Hygiene Building while the committee was in session.

The greatest!

The brilliant exhibition of top-notch basketball displayed by the City College five in annihilating New York University, 91-60, at Madison Square Garden Tuesday night undoubtedly ranks as the greatest team performance of the season and the finest showing by a Beaver quintet in recent years.

Thus the inspired St. Nicks posted their 15th victory in 19 starts as a strong argument for an invitation to the NCAA Tournament, which begins next Thursday at the Garden. With Syracuse (19-5) the leading contender, Nat Holman's valiant crew seemed headed for a playoff with the

The editors ask that presidents of all organizations contact their office at 280 Convent Avenue, to arrange for group photographs and copy. Seniors are warned that although the last day for taking pictures for the yearbook is March 31, they will not be able to choose the picture they will want printed in the book after March 22. Appointments for pictures should be made at Apeda Studios.

Summa Cum Laude

The College has a champion once more.

In setting off their spectacular atomizing of New York University, the Beavers of Nat Holman showed all the attributes of greatness. They showed individual brilliance, welded into a juggernaut of teamwork. They passed, they shot, they guarded as very few of the 18,452 Garden fans had ever seen before.

But more than that, the Lavender showed the courage to come back, after disheartening defeats and faulty performance. Their mournful loss to St. John's was followed by a sparkling triumph over St. Joseph's; their comparative inefficiency against Brooklyn was rewarded by a Vesuvian eruption against Fordham; and the painful edging of Lafayette was erased from memory by what must rank among the great performances of history.

Whether or not the Beavers reach the tournament, whether or not they ever again show their championship form, whether or not they get the rating they so justly deserve, this is our shining hour.

Hide and Seek

We call upon all liberal, intelligent students at the College to either attend that SC meeting in the Faculty Council Room, or make certain that their representative votes for the by-law change.

It's too late to change City College when they hand you a diploma that spotlights you as something you aren't in the field of political thought. (Communists enjoy no immunity from standing up and being counted like the rest of Americans.)

"To which we add:

"To call a Communist a Communist—or to make clear the ties of a political group such as AYD—is not red-baiting.—ED."

Tomorrow afternoon the Student Council has the opportunity of redeeming its cherished democratic principles. On the agenda is a by-law change which would open to observation the now concealed membership lists of all student organizations.

In addition to reaffirming our stand as stated in last week's editorial we are reprinting an excerpt from PM's March 10th issue.

"PM accepts as a primary concern of journalism the right of the people to know who it is who's speaking, on the college campus or otherwise, whether through the AYD or any other organization,

Cherchez Les Facts

The most important duty of the Student Council, in the words of its charter, is to "work for the betterment of the College."

From some of its actions, it appears as though SC has little concern for the betterment of the College. It much prefers to send out letters each week, after hours of debate, on the state of "academic freedom," meanwhile forgetting that there is much to be done right here on St. Nicholas Terrace.

Academic freedom, of course, is a principle which must be fought for. But any battle must be fought intelligently, with all the facts at hand. And here SC has failed. A classic example is its action in respect to the banning of AYD and the resulting disciplinary action at Michigan State College. SC sent a letter of protest to Michigan State. And now, the president there explains that (1) there were only six AYD members out of a student body of over 13,000; (2) the Michigan State Student Council had denied AYD's application for a charter; (3) AYD persisted in its activities; and (4) disciplinary action was taken by the faculty following its activity.

While the explanation hardly proves conclusively that no abrogation of "academic freedom" existed, SC has made itself look foolish indeed by expressing opinions before investigation. As a result, the College's reputation has suffered because of ill-considered haste of its representatives.

Let SC work for the betterment of the College, not for its detriment.

Letter...

To the Editor:

The Campus' editorial last week opposed Student Council's decision to keep clubs' memberships confidential. We believe, with Council, that a student should decide for himself whether to publicize his membership in any organization.

Why does The Campus raise the question of membership lists now, with particular reference to AYD? It is alarmed by the tremendous growth of liberal student activity on campus, in which AYD plays a large part. As part of the general anti-liberal campaign in the country, AYD has been under fire at universities at Michigan, Queens, and Colorado—and its members have been threatened with expulsion. The attack is not upon AYD, but upon the things for which AYD fights; it is therefore an attack upon the rights of all students to organize in defense of their interests.

The Campus suggests that if being an AYD-er means persecution, AYD should reform. Would you rather we blessed Jim-Crow and anti-Semitism? Would you rather we opposed increasing vets' subsistence?

AYD will do none of these things. We will continue to fight for the desires of all students for a decent life, for jobs, for security.

Lee Gottlieb, President, Tom Paine Club, AYD

In this welter of laudable, liberal sentiment, the AYD has failed to answer our principal point: "The students of this College have the right of free access to the names behind any organization which bears the title 'of CCNY.'" —Ed.

We wish to acknowledge letters from the Sociology Society in opposition to an editorial on the Austin-Mahoney Bill, and a letter from a representative of the Student Council Membership Committee objecting to portions of our coverage and interpretation of the SC secret list. Due to our limited space, we found it impossible to print those letters.—Ed.

Statistics Prove Marks Prove to be Statistics

Surprisingly enough, you have a 50-50 chance of getting an A in Greek—if you're taking Greek. A survey of the marks given to students enrolled at the College in June '46 also shows that B's are given to 54.5% of those taking Sociology, 39% of the History students and 50.15% of accounting students.

The most encouraging information gleaned from the chart posted on the classical languages bulletin board is that no one fails Psychology or Humanities. Less cheerful, is the fact that almost as many people fail Math as receive A; 10.5% to 15.5%.

College Group Hits Limitation Directed At Charters of AYD

In a strenuous denunciation of freedom-restricting tactics, the Metropolitan New York Regional Committee of the National Student Organization voted Saturday to send letters to the Student Councils of Queens and Michigan State Colleges, protesting the recently-imposed ban on AYD groups at both those schools.

Terming the Queens College action a "breach of academic freedom" and a "suppression of legitimate student activity," the Committee went on record as being opposed to the procedure which led to the ban, and to ban itself.

The NSO is an outgrowth of a history-making conference, attended by delegates from more than three hundred colleges and universities.

Three students at the College—Eugene Schwartz, '49, Ascher Katz, '48, and Abe Bargman, '48—are delegates to the Metropolitan New York Regional Committee.

Teaching English to three Spanish children is only one of the many tasks performed by Carmela Saraco of New Jersey College for Women. A French major, her knowledge of languages makes her an important volunteer worker and a good companion for Cuban, Mexican and Italian families who are finding temporary housing in a USO dormitory.

Oldest living alumnus of Villanova college, J. Stanley Smith, rings the sister bell of the famed Liberty Bell at ground breaking exercises, marking the start of a $1,200,000 building program. Originally brought from England in 1776, the bell was damaged in the "Know Nothing" riots and recast in 1847.

This "seven-come-eleven" combination is actually that for Andy Sivess No. 7 and Steve Senko No. 11, sophomore guards at Rutgers university, who have been playing together for seven years. By the time they graduate it will be 11. Center is Coach Don White.

Sportswriter Hugh Fullerton visited with halfback Jim Hefti at St. Lawrence college while there to address a student assembly. Hefti recently signed with the Washington Redskins.

upstate squad as The Campus went to press last night.

Teamwork Terrific

Contrasted with the one-man victory annexed by Harry Boykoff in the opener, the Beavers' spectacular win over the Violets—the largest score and margin of victory in the age-old rivalry—was achieved by a superb, continuous exhibition of mechanized team play. They jumped to a quick 17-4 lead and steamed along at unreduced pace until the final buzzer sounded, combining overpowering speed with cool, machinelike accuracy and precision to attain the effect of an irresistible and devastating steam-roller.

But although the onslaught which left NYU players and the keepers of record books breathless was the result of a sparkling team effort, the play of many individual Beaver operatives was little short of sensational.

Malamed Terror

Diminutive, scrappy Lionel Malamed was one of the brighter stars in the constellation. Lionel displayed hard driving, shooting accuracy for 15 points; set up his mates for several tallies; and, finally, did a remarkable job on Sid Tanenbaum, holding the Violet captain to four points.

Tannenbaum, McGuire Picked On 'Campus' All-Met Quintet

By Tony Shub

Dick McGuire and Sid Tanenbaum were the only unanimous choices in an All-Metropolitan basketball poll conducted by The Campus this week. Two centers, Dick Holub and Harry Boykoff, made the all-City first team along with diminutive Lionel Malamed.

While the metropolitan sports-writers will announce their balloting this weekend, the choices of the local writers will undoubtedly be close to the final selections. McGuire and Tanenbaum have been considered the city's best playmaker and best all-around players since the season's beginning.

NYU Rates High

Surprise of The Campus poll has been the relatively high value placed on New York U. athletes, and an equally low regard for members of Nat Holman's Beaver squad. The Violets placed Ray Lump, Don Forman and Adolph Schayes on the No. 2 squad. Lou Lipman of LIU and St. John's Len Doctor round out the second team.

Others receiving considerable support were Fordham's twin aces, Tony Karpowich and Jerry Smith, and Columbia's fine bucket man, Walter Budko.

Former all-Mets who received no mention included LIU's erstwhile "greatest player in the world," Jack Goldsmith and Paul Schmones and Sid Trubowitz of the Beavers.

Tanenbaum MVP

One of three seniors on the first team, Tanenbaum repeated as the city's most valuable player. In that detail, Sid also attained unanimity, at least as far as CCNY is concerned.

Eleven members of the Campaigns Bureau Sports Department participated in the poll. The official balloting, by the Metropolitan Basketball Writers' Association, took place at Toots Shor's

Wrestlers To Conclude Against Brooklyn Foe

Seeking their fifth win in dual competition this season, Jack Rider's swimming team faces New York University in the Lavender pool tomorrow night, preparatory to their entry in the Eastern Intercollegiate Championships at Rutgers, Saturday.

The Beavers' fourth victory was notched last Friday when they out-swam Fordham University by a 40-27 count. Their sole loss was the first meet of the year, which they dropped to La Salle.

Sparking the success over the Rams were Bob Cohen, who copped first place in both the 50-yard and 100-yard free styles and was a member of the 400-yard relay squad, and freshman Len Goldstone, who won the 220-yard free style event and placed second in the 100-yard free style.

These two are expected to lead the tankmen to a swamping of NYU.

Tennis Schedule

The College netmen, led by Dave Katz, '47, will take on a ten game schedule, according to Prof. Anthony E. Orlando, Faculty Manager of Athletics.

The schedule:
April 12, Queens College, away; 16, Kings Point Merchant Marine Academy, away; 19, Brooklyn Poly, away; 23, Fordham University, home; 26, R.P.I., away.
May 2, Manhattan College, away; 7, Brooklyn College, home; 10, pending; 14, N.Y.U., away; 17, pending.

Baseball Nine, Trackmen Open Outdoor Workouts at Stadium

Sam Winograd grinned broadly Tuesday as he surveyed the group of diamond veterans and candidates who turned out for the first outdoor practice session of the year.

With All-Met choices Danny Perlmutter, slugging outfielder, and shortstop John Las Places heading a long list of lettermen, the prospects for capturing the coveted Metropolitan Collegiate Baseball Conference title are bright indeed.

A tentative 20-game schedule includes nine home games. Only two of the home contests will be played at the Stadium, with the rest slated for McCombs Dam Park in the Bronx.

Concluding their scheduled indoor season with a third place in the mile relay Saturday at the Knights of Columbus Meet at Madison Square Garden, Coach Harold Anson Bruce's track team takes to the cinders Saturday in workouts for the forthcoming outdoor season. The Beavers travel to Brooklyn Saturday to participate in the Met Junior Championships.

HOW TO GET SUSPENDED FROM STUDENT COUNCIL

Student Council is bad enough without the kind of stunt President Arthur Katz pulled at the SC meeting last Friday night. Out of sheer pettiness and meanness, he made a sneering, disgusting reference to my honorably obtained physical disability. He also had the audacity to mimic, practically word for word, the story of how it occurred. I felt completely shrivelled up inside of me.

Under the circumstances, my justifiably angry retort was surprisingly mild in language and tone. Anyone else in my shoes would have thrown a chair at the president. I refused to obey his order to leave the room because I wanted an apology. I still want that apology. A motion to suspend me for two weeks came to a vote, and except for three persons, the entire council came to my support.

Then, on a second thought, certain party hacks on the council decided to make political hay out of the situation, and it was decided to reconsider the whole matter. Forgetting entirely Katz's obscene remarks, they made a big issue out of my 'inflammatory language'. And even though I then apologized for the 'inflammation' in my language, they proceeded to suspend me for two weeks. The vote followed, for the most part, the usual political party line-up in the Student Council.

The whole incident reminds me of a conversation I had with a member of AYD to whom I complained about the authoritarian methods used by Katz to railroad through Council his party line beliefs. His answer was, "The ends justify the means." What I want to know is do they think that ANY and ALL means are justifiable?

I do not believe that the communists should be denied their 'academic freedom', but does their idea of academic freedom include callously insulting and crushing anyone who dares to disagree with them? Isn't their room on the Student Council for 'reactionaries' who read PM as well as 'progressives' who avidly read the Daily Worker.

Personally, I don't think the communists have any monopoly on progressivism. They certainly don't seem to believe in the democratic principles which they so piously and so often hide behind.

Sincerely,
SY POSNER
SC Secretary

AYD Stand

SC president Artie Katz '47 declared, "We didn't make a mistake in complaining to Michigan about the action taken. We were made a technical error."

SC suspended its Secretary, Sy Posner '48 for two weeks, by a vote of 31-14½, because he used "inflammatory language" on the floor of Council. Katz asked Posner to leave the room for five minutes. His refusal to do so "until Katz apologized for the personal insult which he directed at me, "placed an automatic motion on the floor to suspend him for two weeks. The motion was decisively defeated, with only three people voting in favor of suspension. However, his suspension came with a reconsideration of the matter, called for by Alfred Reinhartz '47.
