O'Dwyer to Address College Assembly In Centennial Charter Day Ceremonies

Fosdick Speaker at Church Dinner; May Day Rally Has Norman Thomas

Norman Thomas, former Socialist Party candidate for President, will be the featured speaker in a May Day rally today in the "T" between Harris and Tech at 12:30.

The rally, sponsored by the Student League for Industrial Democracy, will have as its theme "Free Labor," and key labor leaders will speak.

Among those labor leaders present will be Frank Crosswaith, of the Negro Labor Committee; Lawrence Glazer, Educational Director of the Textile Workers Union, CIO; Ben McLaurin, of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, AFL, and August Classens, secretary of the Social Democratic Federation.

Juame Miravittles, head of the Catalan Militia during the Spanish Civil War, and a leader of the Spanish Government in Exile, will address the meeting on the current anti-fascist activities of the Spanish trade unions.

In case of rain, the rally will be held in 126 Main.

Student Council officer nominees require 75 signatures, while NSO nominees need 100 names. Student Plays Fillies, Songs

He's just an average student, maybe with a little more talent, but still just the average student. He gets fair marks, likes females, enjoys spectator sports, and also dabbles in horses, as a participant. He goes to class, and eats in the same cafeteria that we all do. But on Sanford, "Sandy" Kopelson '48, and his fellow composers depends much of the success of the Dramsoc Presentations.

Sandy is one of a group of developing composers that the College may claim credit for. He had entered the College as a pre-law student but the call to the keyboard was too strong so he dropped his dusty tomes to continue in the school of Liberal Arts as a Music major.

Sandy acquired the love for music from his father. After banging on the piano at home he began to take lessons at the age of seven and has been playing for thirteen years. Recently, he has been taking organ lessons. During high school he wrote for school plays and his Senior show. Last term the background for "Our Town" was his work.

After College Sandy plans to try to break into the stage musical field, his favorite form of work.

Just an average student, maybe with a little more talent, except that Sandy Kopelson has been totally blind since birth.

Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, Rector Emeritus of Riverside Church will be the guest speaker at a Student-Faculty Dinner today at 12 in the St. Lukes Church, 141st Street and Convent Avenue, Tollie L. Caution, President of the sponsoring Christian Association, announced yesterday.

The dinner, which has as its objective the bettering of the relationships between Faculty and students, is open to all. Prices are $.50 for students and $.75 for faculty. Among the guests will be President Harry N. Wright and many others.

Doctor Fosdick, who was born in Buffalo on May 4, 1878, has numerous degrees including his A.B. from Colgate, B.D. from Union Theological Seminary, A.M. from Columbia, and L.L.D. from the University of Michigan. He also attended the Glasgow (Scotland) University. The Phi Beta Kappa man was ordained by the Baptist Ministry in 1903.

The former Riverside Church preacher, who has established his residence in New York, is also known as the author of many books on religion, character and personality. Among them is "On Being a Real Person," a bestseller a few years ago.

Large Grant Enables HP to Burn Mortgage

With a contribution of more than $6,000, Mark Eisner, '05 former Chairman of the Board of Higher Education has retired the mortgage on the Adolph Lewisohn House at 294 Convent Ave. House Plan will use part of the money saved to increased its donation to the Centennial fund.

South Hall Sure to Get Lit When College Has Its Way

There may be a chance for the children of darkness at South Hall if a requested appropriation to install a lighting system at that outpost of the College is approved by the City Board of Estimate.

It all stems from the fact that there is no wiring system at the Hall, and in spite of the remarks that rats have eaten away the wires, it can be stated that the installation of this new fangled gadget had to await the general reconditioning of the building. A request asking the Board of Estimate to appropriate $15,000 to cover the cost

Present Honorary Degrees To Baruch, Wagner, Others

By Sid Maran

Mayor William O'Dwyer will address a Great Hall assemblage of faculty members, students, and prominent College alumni—among them Supreme Court Justice Felix Frankfurter '02, Senator Robert F. Wagner '98, and Bernard Baruch '89—as part of day-long observance of the College's one hundredth Charter Day on May 7, President Harry N. Wright announced yesterday.

MAYOR O'DWYER

Talks by Dr. Ordway Tead, Chairman of the Board of Higher Education, and Sydney Herbert Wood, principal Assistant Secretary of the British Ministry of Education, will highlight the convocation, which is expected to begin at 10:30. No classes will meet after 9:50 on Wednesday.

To Honor Notables

Honorary Doctor of Laws degrees will be conferred on Justice Frankfurter, Senator Wagner, Mr. Baruch, and Doctor Stephen Duggan, '90, Director of the Institute for International Education. Gano Dunn, '89, President of Cooper Union, Doctor Charles A. Elsberg, '90, neurosurgeon, and David B. Steinman, '06, architect, will receive honorary Doctor of Science degrees.

The Reverend Doctor John C. Schroeder, '17, Professor of Religion at Yale University, will deliver the invocation, after which President Wright will officially welcome the College's guests. Later, Professor Nelson P. Mead (Chairman, History) will present the candidates for degrees to President Wright, who will make the awards.

Student Leaders to Speak

Arthur Katz '47, and Robert Sussman '47, Student Council Presidents of the Main and Commerce Centers, will represent the undergraduates with brief messages, while a noted theologian, The Reverend Doctor David de Sola Pool, of the Spanish and Portuguese Synagogue, will terminate the Great Hall proceedings with the Benediction.

Immediately afterward, a special guest-alumni-faculty-student luncheon will be held in the cafeteria. A reception in President Wright's office for approximately 150 pre-twentieth century graduates of the College will follow the luncheon.

Free Ball Game

Burial of the now-famous Alpha Phi Omega time capsule will culminate the day's exercises, after which President Wright is expected to lead the delegation to the Lavender-Brooklyn College baseball game in the Stadium at 3:30. Admission to this contest will be free to all.

SC Limits Tickets In Boatride Sale

There may be a shortage of tickets for the annual Student Council Boatride to Bear Mountain on May 25, according to Lewis Jackson, treasurer of Student Activities. Only a limited number will be sold to prevent overcrowding of the "Alexander Hamilton," which will fly the Lavender colors.

Tickets for "U" Card holders at $1.50 and for others at $1.75 will be sold in 20 Main and in the Lunchroom today.

Fund Subscription Hits $1500 Mark

Though only a few of the 2600 Student Centennial Fund Campaign booklets distributed have been returned to date, $1500 has been brought in by Uptown Day Session students, Florence Moskowitz '47, Fund Committee chairman announced. Booklet solicitation, with subscription certificates of $1, $5, and $10, is the primary method being used in the collection of $150,000, the campaign's goal.

Miss Moskowitz said that $1500 to date represents "a good start", but that many students are holding on to money which should have been brought into the Faculty Room, 200 Main, as soon as it was collected.

Student Federalists To Collect Pennies

A "Pennies for Peace" campaign to strengthen the United Nations Organization will be conducted from May 1 to May 15 by the College chapter of Student Federalists, yesterday announced Abe Bargman '48, president. On a scroll to be presented to Senators Ives and Wagner will be inserted eight thousand names, each one to be accompanied by a penny, the total to defray the costs of the delegation.

Past, PRESENT, Future

The one-hundredth celebration of the College's Charter Day next Wednesday will be replete with all the fanfare and dignity befitting such an occasion. The speakers will all point with the customary pride at the College's first century and view with the usual hopefulness its next hundred years. Accomplishments of the past and prayers for the future will be emphasized, as they should be.

There will be, as a result, emphasis on the students of yesterday and tomorrow. To the former will go the congratulations, thanks, and admiration of all. To the latter will go well-wishing expressions of hope. But let us not feel that we students of today are serving as little more than transients between the past and the future. We must realize that we are as vital a part of the College's history as any other generation has been or is destined to be. We are more than people who happen to be passing through at an opportune time, and we must realize that fact.

Attendance at the Charter Day exercises is one way of showing that free higher education means as much to us as it did to Townsend Harris in 1847 and as it will to the students of the class of 2047. Be there!

Two Leaders

Although of different orientation in their efforts to help cure a sick society, Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick and Norman Thomas have one fundamental thing in common. The two men have always shown themselves fair minded and unbiased during their distinguished careers in public service, attitudes too often lacking in those who would "serve the people". It is a tribute to each of them that Dr. Fosdick, a leader in efforts to have religion fulfill its potentialities for good, and Mr. Thomas, a leader in political life who has constantly been a progressive force, have won the respect and admiration of people thoroughly opposed to their philosophies. The College is indeed honored by their presence here.

Add Frills and Fun

Sam Middlebrook, the cultured, witty member of our English Department, has written an interesting article about the College in this month's edition of "The American Mercury." Unlike other articles purporting to give a picture of this institution on its hundredth birthday, Mr. Middlebrook's piece gives a just and considered viewpoint, without attempting to over-evaluate any particular state of mind, imagined or otherwise. Just as it has been a pleasure always for Campus members to attend his classes (crowded though they sometimes are), it is as pleasurable to congratulate Sam Middlebrook on a well-written, informative and above all, fair piece of writing.

New Course to Add Glamour To School Teachers, Classes

By Bernard Hirschhorn

Do you remember your high school teacher? Was she pretty? Did she sport a Veronica Lake hair-do, nylon hosiery, and a figure-hugging dress? Well, if she didn't, you were robbed.

In the future, any female educator who doesn't resemble a Power's model will be hooted right out of the classroom. This delightful situation is a result of the creation of a new course at the College in which young teachers-to-be will be tutored in the art of attractive dressing, hair-styling, make-up and general etiquette. Yes, the day is almost at hand when the wolf call will replace the old fashioned apple, being kept after school will become a privilege, and the teacher's pet will be the most envied fellow in the class.

Working on the theory that "education is concerned with total personality development rather than just theory alone," the program is aimed at pointing the way to future teachers' creating a pleasant learning atmosphere. Dr. Mary Dare Haithecock (Ed.), director of the project, explained. This is a much more practical approach than filling the classrooms with old Varga calendars.

The opening phase of the program was a fashion show held at the College yesterday. Classroom styles chosen by the students with Dr. Haithecock's guidance were exhibited. Dr. Haithecock said that the most emphasis was placed on low-budget clothing, within the range of the young teachers' buying power. In addition, home-made clothes and accessories were spotlighted, along with an exchange of ideas on styles and economy. More than anything else, this program will prove that Billy Rose made a mistake when he said "beauty and brains never mix."

Mercury Spring Issue Goes on Sale May 15

The Spring issue of "Mercury," the College humor magazine, will go on sale May 15, it was announced yesterday by the editors of the newly-reorganized publication.

Styled after the format of "The New Yorker" and "Time", the new issue will be departmentalized and will contain twice as much written material as any previous edition.

An article on Art Criticism by Dr. Joseph Landy (Art), an interview with one of our "better-known" English professors, and a Resorts department, are featured in the forthcoming issue.

Students Resent SEP College Yarn

Student resentment over the article in last week's Saturday Evening Post by alumnus Stanley Frank, '31, was reflected Friday in the Student Council's near-unanimous decision to send Mr. Frank and the SEP a letter of protest.

Most students felt that the report was unnecessarily harsh and did not present a full or true picture of the college today.

On the other hand, there was unanimous acclaim for Mr. Sam Middlebrook's article on the College in the May issue of the American Mercury, now on sale at the newsstands.

Letter

To the Editor:

When the AYD was suspended in Michigan, Student Council, in its haste for action, took a strong, but awkward stand which later was modified. When the AYD issue on the Queens College campus arose, our SC vehemently protested the action.

Realizing the type of organization AYD is, and being on record as not supporting the AYD policies, SC realizes the importance of not having any organizations barred from the campus.

Yet these arch-liberals, yelling about reaction and screaming "academic freedom", had the audacity in the SC meeting Friday to cast dissenting votes against the charter of our new organization.

Know these "liberals" for what they are: Votes against: Marxist Cultural Society, American Vets Committee. Abstention: AYD, Sociology Society.

BASEBALL TEAM MEETS FORDHAM'S NINE TODAY

By Sid Maran

Beaver potentialities in the Met Baseball Conference will go under the microscope twice within the next seven days as Captain Joe Samson leads the Lavender technicians against Fordham's sixth-place nine today at Macombs Dam Park, and Brooklyn College's cellar-dwellers on May 7, in the Stadium.

If mound bulwark Gene Satin can make the Rams the fourth notch on his rifle arm, the Beavers will be sole claimants to second place tonight. NYU's fifth straight league win, by a 12-7 count over Hofstra Tuesday dropped the Flying Dutchmen into a tie for that post with the Convent Avenuers.

Play Drew Saturday

Before the Lavender tries for its second win of the season over Brooklyn, they will travel to Madison (New Jersey) Saturday to trade runs, hits, and errors with Drew University in an effort to extend a non-Conference victory skein which began Tuesday with a 15-1 assault on St. Francis College of Brooklyn. The St. Nicks' overall record now stands at five wins and three losses, plus last Thursday's 3-3 deadlock with Wagner.

Lose To Redmen

A triple parlay of three-hit pitching, flawless defense, and seven Beaver errors earned St. John's a 13-3 decision over the home nine in a Stadium contest last Saturday. Dan Perlmutter's triple and double, and Ernie Levy's two-bagger and long fly accounted for the Lavender tallies.

Intramurals

The elimination quarter-final round of the intramural basketball tournament will begin today at 12:30.

Students interested in participating in an intramural golf tournament at the municipal course of Van Cortlandt Park are asked to get in touch with Charles Sager today at 12 in the Intramural Office, 107 Hygiene.

Racquetters Prep For Jasper Match

Having bowed to RPI Saturday, 5-4, Doc Abe Sperling's netmen took on Queens yesterday prior to meeting Manhattan tomorrow at Riverdale and Brooklyn Wednesday at the home Hamilton Courts. The outcome of the Queens match was not available at press time.

Sperling will start his co-captains, Dave Katz and Bob Povey, against the Jaspers, along with Max Hotop, Vernon Morgan, Donald Cooper and Bill Lippman.

The defeat by RPI was the first of the current campaign. The Beavers previously defeated Brooklyn Poly and Fordham.

Rutgers Bows To Beaver '10'

Another losing streak has been broken! Beaver lacrosse men, who had not beaten Rutgers since 1929, came through in the fourteenth meeting of the two schools, Saturday, to take the Scarlet, 7-6, in overtime at New Brunswick. Chief Miller's charges will face Army's "B" team at West Point on Charter Day.

Led by Allan Heyman, who tallied three goals, the Beavers led 3-2 at half-time and 5-3 halfway through the second half. Rutgers scored twice to tie the game at 5-5 and bring it into overtime.

John Nilan scored his second goal, followed by another by Heyman to nullify a last minute Rutgers tally.

Sport Slants

SHORT SLANTS: With all the publicity-conscious, half-hysterical coaches around this College, it's refreshing to come into contact with a man like Abe Sperling, who guides the Beaver tennis team. The latest news about the author of "Psychology for the Millions" is that he told his sixth man to play his fifth man, for the No. 5 position. Can anyone connected with sports here visualize another coach using this democratic method?

The baseball team is in for tough afternoons if the board of strategy can't locate another class pitcher, to supplement cocky, smiling Gene Satin. With only three long ball-hitters in the lineup (Perlmutter, Shapiro and Levy), the Beaver nine will have a tough time retaining second place in the Met League. Satin may hold his own against a pitcher like Jim Arbucho this afternoon, but he'll have to best NYU's Sandy Silverstein and St. John's Johnny Weiss to make the Lavender a pennant contender.
