

A New Coach—A New Attitude

By Morton Sheinman

It was only a workout during the first week of pre-season practice, but there was an unusual tenseness about it. The basketball players moved quietly and cautiously on the yellow floor of the Main Gym. Instead of the noises one is accustomed to hearing in a gymnasium, there was only the dull thud of the sneakers and the hollow bouncing of the balls. The athletes were silent as they displayed their skills. Nat Holman, their coach, watched them closely, carefully, intently taking note of every move they made. They were the champions and everyone knew it. Two of the players, Al Roth and Floyd Layne, detached themselves from their mates and walked to the water fountain. Roth looked at Layne and said, "You know, Floyd, this is the quietest team I ever saw."

This happened just two years ago. But for certain circumstances, the scene might well have been repeated this week—with only the players' names changed. On Monday, a new season began and a new and different attitude manifested itself in the College's basketball team.

The gymnasium is no longer hushed and still. The athletes no longer resemble automatons. They look like boys at play, not men at work. They laugh and joke as they play, enjoying their revelry, for they know it is a game they take part in and not a toil. The sweat that glistens on their bodies is the healthy sweat of a hard workout, not the beads of perspiration that come from being tense and nervous.

No glory is to be theirs, they know. They are small time now. They play, not for recognition, but because they enjoy their game. Not one of them is a figure in a showcase of All-Americans.

After 34 years, the team has a new coach. His knowledge of the game is not as vast as Holman's but it must be remembered that Dave Polansky was not yet born when his predecessor started coaching at this school. He is a young man, only 33, and but for the mature lines on his face might easily be mis-

All-College Meetings To Evaluate Schools

The entire College—32,000 faculty and students of both the Main and Commerce Centers—is being called upon to participate in the most sweeping evaluation in its history.

Plans for setting up an All-College Conference—an examination of "City College in a Democracy"—were drawn up at a dinner of Commerce Center and Main Center representatives of the faculty, Student Council presidents and student newspaper editors.

Joseph Clancy '53, SC president, originator of the Conference idea, declared yesterday that the results of the Conference will be "City College's contributions to Pres. Buell G. Gallagher when he is officially inaugurated on February 19."

He explained that the results of the Conference will lay the groundwork for an entire revamping of all facets of College life with an upward look towards correcting all that can be improved here.

A twenty man Conference Steering Committee outlined five broad areas of College life for panel and report topics:

- 1.) Student-Faculty Relations
- 2.) City College and the Community
- 3.) Extra-Curricular Activities
- 4.) Curriculum

Members Accepted For Lock and Key

Lock and Key, the Senior Honorary-Service Society, is accepting applications for membership. Forms are available in 120 Main and must be submitted by November 10. Juniors as well as seniors can apply.

Lock and Key members are leaders in many college service organizations. Acceptance for membership is recognition of service to the College.

APO Initiates Drive To End Crime Wave

By Hartley Chazen

Alpha Phi Omega is spearheading a drive to halt the increasing number of crimes and petty robberies being committed at the College, it was learned yesterday.

Action was begun by the fifty member group at an APO luncheon held with Pres. Buell G. Gallagher, Dean James S.

'Serious Problem'

Pres. Buell Gallagher

Peace (Student Life) and Dr. Victor Schector (Biology) where the "seriousness of the problem" was discussed.

It was learned that the president of the service fraternity, Alfred Wilner '53, outlined the following solution to a problem which he termed "not only difficult, but one that needs immediate solving."

1. That a list of all reported robberies at the College be compiled.
2. That the College Administration be consulted for aid in obtaining police protection.
3. That letters be sent to the Alumni Association informing them of the "serious crime wave" at the College.
4. That strong requests be made to high ranking police officials for additional police protection around the campus.
5. That brother APO chapters

'Book Of Month' Chooses Prof. Johnson's 'Dickens'

By Francine Marcus

Seven years of intensive research and writing has culminated in the "best thing I've ever written," explains Prof. Edgar Johnson (Chairman, English), whose two-volume biography, "Charles Dickens: Tragedy and Triumphs," has been chosen a Book of the Month Club selection for January, 1953.

The selection of the book marks the first time that the Club has featured a two-volume work. Professor Johnson's book is being hailed as "the best and most complete life of Dickens ever written" by critics and authors. Clifton Fadiman, Henry Seidel Canby,

John Marquand, Christopher Morley and Amy Loveland comprised the Book of the Month Club judging committee.

Takes Trip

The English professor's labors on the 450,000 word, 1,300 page biography began in 1945 with a trip to London in order to become acquainted with "the native land of Dickens." Following his return to the United States in the same year, Professor Johnson secured microfilms of all available Dickens material, spent "hundreds of hours going over thousands of pictures and paper about Dickens" in vari-

Hillel to Hear Gallagher Talk

Pres. Buell Gallagher will be the guest speaker at Hillel's Oneg Shabbat Ceremony to be held on Friday afternoon, November 27, at 1. The ceremony welcoming the Sabbath is celebrated weekly with the traditional "Kiddush" and the lighting of the candles.

Each week a play or a skit is added as part of the ceremony. This week Hillel director, Rabbi Zuckerman will deliver an address.

All students are invited to attend. Refreshments will be served.

Square Dance Set For Tonight in Gym

There will be a square dance tonight in the Main Gym beginning at eight o'clock, announced Gerry Smetana '55, chairman of the Student Council Publicity Committee, yesterday.

The dance is co-sponsored by the Friday Night Dance Committee and the SC Social Functions Committee and will feature caller Shelly Andrews and his band. Everybody with a pair of dungarees is invited to attend. Admission is free and refreshments will be served.

Memorial Fund To Aid Talented

By Robert Rossner

The Theodore Goodman Memorial Fund will be used to continue "Teddy" Goodman's work, Prof. Edgar Johnson (Chairman, English) said yesterday.

Professor Johnson, chairman of the Fund Executive Committee, which has set a goal of raising $50,000 "for the encouragement of superior imaginative writing" through prizes and loans to students and young alumni, revealed that the late Professor Goodman had aided students for many years in this manner.

Gave Aid Personally

"Through the use of his own money and money he got from friends and former students," Prof. Johnson said, "he did a great deal for students who were finding it difficult, financially, to remain at the College. In some cases, the aid was as little as five or ten dollars a week; in others, it was more. Nobody knows just how much money he gave over a period of years."

He declined to mention any of the people who had been so aided, "since Teddy told me of these incidents in strictest confidence" but did say that a number of them went on to write notable stories, which have appeared in many publications.

$5,000 Collected

$5,000 has already been given to the Fund Faculty members and students are being asked to help with contributions which may be sent to Professor Johnson or Prof. John C. Thirlwall (English), secretary-treasurer of the Committee or to the office of the English Department, 116 Main.

for Day and Evening Sessions.

Prof. William L. Finkel (Chairman, Speech), tentative chairman of the All College Conference, explained the importance of the panel topics. "It is not our purpose to draw up vast reports of the College's shortcomings in terms of leaky faucets, etc., but rather to present our new president with a complete survey of all the College stands for and all the areas where it can be improved.

Classes May Be Suspended

THE CAMPUS learned last night that President Gallagher, who is nominally sponsoring the All College Conference has agreed to Clancy's idea of having classes suspended for a few hours during December in "order to allow students to attend round table discussions of these topics."

Senior Is Defeated For Assembly Post

Miguel A. Rivera '53, running on the Republican-Liberal ticket, was defeated in his campaign for the state assembly by O. V. Maiesca, the Democratic incumbent, in Tuesday's national elections.

After he had lost, Mr. Rivera stated that he was undecided on whether to run again in 1954. "A great deal depends on what my 'political uncle', Professor (Gov.) Buckvar says," he commented.

Prof. Theodore Goodman

Theodore Goodman Memorial magazine is planned. The magazine, containing the best short stories of Professor Goodman's last students and reminiscences of him by these students, will be sold at the College to undergraduates and alumni. All proceeds will be donated to the Fund.

TW's 'Tempest' In Preparation

"This is perhaps the greatest of Shakespeare's triumphs, for its scope is the width and breadth of the human mind and imagination." An attempt to bear out Christopher Morley's praise of "The Tempest" will be made next weekend, November 14, 15 and 16, when Theatre Workshop opens its Fall season with a production of this work at the Pauline Edwards Theatre.

Tickets have been placed at the lowest prices in many years $7.50 for Saturday night, and $5.00 for the Friday and Sunday night performances. They may be obtained at the Ticket Office (120 Main) or in the TW office (220 Main).

Four 'Main Events' Writers Suspended for Starting Fire

Four staff members of Main Events, the Evening Session newspaper, were suspended from working on the paper by Dean James Peace (Student Life) on Monday for starting a fire on October 30, in the newspaper's office.

The fire occurred when the pranksters burned a number of pamphlets advocating the election of General Eisenhower to the Presidency.

Must Clean Office

Editor-in-Chief Leslie Plastrik, taking quick action, suspended the staff members on Friday.

In addition to suspension from the newspaper, the four students, David Kligman, News Editor, Lee Loher, former Editor-in-Chief, Mark Lando, former News Editor and Martin Miller, Managing Editor, were ordered to clean the Main Events office every day for two weeks.

Loher, Kligman and Miller will not be able to work for the newspaper for two weeks and Lando was dropped from the staff until December 1. The heavier punishment was meted out to Lando because of his failure to attend the conference with Dean Peace and Miss Martha Farmer (Evening Session, Student Life) at which the disciplinary action was taken.

College's Theatre Wing Plans Awards to Student Thespians

For the first time in the College's history, awards, in the form of bronze statuettes, will be given to student actors participating in the dramatic presentations of the semester.

The awards, called "Beavers," will be presented to the best actor, best actress, best supporting actor, best supporting actress, best director and best technical director.

Injured HP Co-ed May Bring Suit

By Neil Prager

Depending on the outcome of X-rays taken at Lutheran Hospital, Sheila Canelstein '56 may sue House Plan for injuries received last Monday while she and a companion, Barbara Frank '56, were attending a House Plan meeting.

Miss Canelstein and Miss Frank were attending a meeting of "Sis" Bowker '56 in the Mosher Room of House Plan when a section of the ceiling fell in on them.

Other members present assisted them to the washroom and cleaned their wounds. Jerry Gold, Assistant Director of House Plan, drove the two girls to the hospital where Miss Frank was treated for a swollen face and Miss Canelstein for bruises on the head, hands and wrists. She was then taken upstairs for X-rays and the girls, Bronx residents, were taken home by taxi. Miss Canelstein was told to see her family physician in the event of headache or nausea.

Miss Canelstein suffered both symptoms that same night and went to see her doctor. He, however, withheld diagnosis until the X-Rays could be developed. After discussing the situation with her mother and the physician, Miss Canelstein stated that she would sue House Plan if the X-Rays showed other injuries than those known.

Both girls related the same story. They had entered the Mosher Room when Marilyn Didrow '56, a House member, noticed a crack in the ceiling. Miss Didrow exclaimed at the time, "That ceiling is going to fall down. I'm not sitting here." With that she walked to the other side of the room. Miss Canelstein and Miss Frank thought that their friend was joking and took seats directly under the crack.

Some ten minutes later the ceiling fell. Before the girls could move out of the way, they were struck by falling plaster.

Senior-Faculty Tea To Be Held Today

The Senior Class Tea, the first event on the '53 class calendar, is scheduled for this afternoon from 3 to 6 in Knittle Lounge.

Admission to the faculty-student affair will be by class card. Refreshments at the social are free. The class cards can be purchased at the door, at the Senior Class office 109AH or from class representatives. The cards can be used to obtain free tickets to the Senior Show.

Today is also the last day to go to the Senior office to pledge for the Senior Prom. The event will take place December 20, on the Belvedere Roof at the Hotel Astor. The cost per couple is $18.50, but only five dollars must be submitted with the pledge.

be contacted and asked to return reports summarizing police protection at their campuses.

The APO president said that the organization was acting as interested students and has no intention of patrolling the campus. "This clearly is not our job."

In a meeting held with President Gallagher yesterday to discuss the problem, the president termed the acts of robberies and petty thieveries around the College a "problem which requires serious thought in the working out of a solution."

Other students interested in bringing about a solution to the problem were contacted by Wilner and a committee was formed. Students on the committee include: Bob Gurland, Freshman Advisory Committee chairman, Edith Samuels '54 and Harry Levine '53, president of TIIC.

Dr. Gabriel Mason, president of the Alumni Association, in a statement to the APO president, declared that he recognized the importance of the problem and that he had submitted the matter to a sub-committee for "prompt study."

Mr. Howard Kieval (Secretary of the Alumni) also expressed interest in working out a solution to the problem, Wilner said.

The Campus learned that the APO president is undertaking the action in order to "get results as soon as possible." He told Joseph Clancy '53, Student Council President, "The reason why I'm not taking it through Student Council is because action would be delayed and become snarled in red tape."

A Man's Legacy

No man truly dies while his memory lives. The thirty years that Theodore Goodman gave to the College were fruitful years for his many students. Now, with the establishment of the Theodore Goodman Memorial Fund, countless students of the future will have reason to remember his lifelong devotion to the College.

We knew "Teddy" Goodman as a teacher who gave his classes his own fiery enthusiasm for life, beauty, and self-awareness. We knew him as a member of the Class of '15, a man whose love for the City College of the past was exceeded only by his faith in the City College of the future.

Now we have learned of "Teddy" Goodman, the "friend in need." Over the years—particularly the depression years—it was his loans that kept many students from leaving college, kept young graduates actively working at creative expression in which they showed promise—kept them from giving up.

"Teddy" Goodman believed in his students. The Memorial Fund, with its aid to talented undergraduates and young alumni, will continue his work, and will show that he was not alone in his belief.

We ask you to help this cause.

A Ceiling Needed

House Plan is the largest student organization at the College: almost one thousand Day and Evening Session students use its facilities daily. Monday part of the ceiling in one of the organization's two buildings on Convent Avenue collapsed, injuring two students. According to House Plan Director Dave Newton, the accident occurred because the group's facilities cannot adequately meet the demands of so large a part of the student body.

In the past, House Plan members have volunteered their time to redecorate, repaint and to otherwise improve the houses so that these buildings would be able to more satisfactorily provide sufficient space for the students. It now becomes apparent that these old Convent Avenue structures just cannot accommodate the constantly increasing membership. And yet, all clubs and organizations at the College are also forced to meet or hold office in antiquated, inadequate rooms.

There is at present a drive on among our alumni to collect money for a Student Union Building to be constructed in Manhattanville. The building will provide large, new private offices for every College organization, including special facilities for House Plan. Soon the students will also be asked to support the Student Union Fund drive. The need is urgent. We have the property, the architect's plan—now the money is needed.

ous libraries and, finally, to execute his "most complete biography," inspected material on the author to be found in private collections located in Switzerland and the United States.

Unknown Letters Found

His efforts resulted in the discovery of over 3000 unknown letters and papers belonging to the nineteenth century English author. The sensitive professor confessed to "30 years of keen interest" in Dickens. "I chose for my theme the contrast between Dickens' early and huge professorial success and his personal disillusionment, which grew as he recognized more and more social evils in society."

Professor Johnson, in explaining his choice for a biography, maintains, "Dickens is valuable today because his society is, in essence, our society. The externals have changed, but it is basically an industrial society and its attendant evils, about which Dickens wrote so well."

The professor admits that his love of Dickens, the writer, extends to Dickens, the man. He characterizes the author as having an "enormous capacity for self-discipline."

Professor Johnson has had published a total of two novels, two anthologies and a history of biography, "The Mighty Torrent." On November 18 the English Department chairman will have a collection of Dickens letters published. These letters were compiled by the professor during his search for biographical material.

It was "The Mighty Torrent" which eventually led Professor Johnson to begin the writing of a book on Dickens.

Sets Rigid Standards

The professor explains: "I wanted to write a biography which would meet the most rigorous standards of scholarly readers. At the same time I wanted to make known to everyone the dramatic and exciting aspects of Dickens' life."

Speaking of his "attempts at scholarliness" the author expressed surprise at the selection of his work by the Book of the Month Club.

Is Excited at Choice

"I never expected it to be selected," he stated. "My family and myself are very excited about the whole thing."

The 51 year old Brooklyn-born professor has taught at the College for 26 years and has been chairman of the English Dept. since 1948. He also taught at Columbia University, where he received his education, New York University, Vassar, Washington University and the New School for Social Research.

Speaking modestly of what he terms "the struggle towards my goal," the professor revealed that his wife aided him in the five revisions the biography underwent before final printing.

"It was a struggle. It's always a struggle, if you're critical of what you write," he avowed.

Professor Johnson has a 12 year old son and a 16 year old daughter who "acts, paints, sculpts, dances and 'also' writes."

Laboratory Situations

The South Hall classrooms will be equipped with fixtures to aid in demonstrating teaching techniques. A major facility will be a "one-way vision studio" allowing students to observe actual classroom situations, and yet, remain unseen by the children.

In addition, special laboratory classrooms will be designed for use by education students majoring in music, science and the arts.

The Education Library, now located on the Main Building's third floor, will also be transferred to South Hall. Education teas and dances will be held in one of South Hall's larger rooms.

Dr. Hubert Beck (Education) commented, "Most important, education students will now identify themselves as a group." He explained that the concentration of classes, faculty and students in one building should encourage cooperativeness and a feeling of unity.

Workshops Continue

Dr. Beck commented that South Hall's central location, size and office space is suitable for his department's needs. He also was pleased to see that Industrial Arts classes will continue to be conducted in South Hall's basement workshops. These courses are regulated by Education Department policies.

The Education Research Seminar and Office of Institutional Research, now located in Army Hall which will be closed next year, will be the first to move.

Select Carnival Queen Finalists Next Saturday

By Murray Farber

The four loveliest co-eds at the College will be chosen a week from tomorrow, November 15, at the Carnival Queen Dance to compete for the title of "Queen" at the House Plan Carnival in December.

Candidates have until tomorrow afternoon to apply at House Plan, 292 Convent Avenue, for the contest. Applicants for the title will then be screened and fifteen contenders will be chosen to appear at the Carnival Queen Dance where four of them will be named to represent the Day and Evening Sessions of the College's Main Center in the final competition. One finalist is also picked by the Commerce Center.

The semi-formal, next week, is scheduled to commence at 8 in Drill Hall. Tickets can be obtained for one dollar at House Plan or at the door. The student-faculty committee which will pick the four finalists will probably consist of Mrs. June Callagher, the President's wife, Dean James Peace (Student Life), Miss Martha Farmer (Student Life, Evening Session), House Plan Director Dave Newton, Student Council President Joseph Clancy '53, and Evening Session SC President Samuel Beizer.

On December 6 at the HP Carnival, Miss Carnival Queen of 1952 will be named by a committee that is expected to include Judge Hugh Delaney, Mrs. Vincent Impellitteri and Jinx Falkenberg.

As in the past, the Carnival Queen will serve as official hostess for events at the College during the year. She will also receive gifts ranging from a wardrobe to a chance at a modelling career.

Booters, Rutgers Battle to 1-1 Draw

Holm Notches Beaver Marker; Saites Sparkles As Goaltender

By Ken Rosenberg

Flashing a complete reversal of form in the second half, the College's soccer team fought from behind to tie a powerful Rutgers squad, 1-to-1 at Lewisohn Stadium Wednesday.

The Beavers crashed through at 11:23 of the final stanza when Tommy Holm picked up a loose ball in a melee following a corner kick by Jeff Freedman and booted it past Scarlet goalie Walt Steen.

Rutgers jumped into the lead at 6:30 of the second period when Juel Phillips converted a rebound from five feet out. In this period, the Scarlet missed three tries from close in as Bill Saites, playing in the nets in place of the injured Hal Friedland made some brilliant stops. Saites, the Beavers' second leading scorer this year made 14 saves, most of them very tough as compared to nine stops by Steen.

The Lavender blew an excellent scoring opportunity in the first quarter, when Gus Naclerio, who along with Lucien Daouphars sparked the attack, hit the post in an open net. Joe Atkinson, who picked up the rebound, also missed the open net.

Early in the third quarter Steen made a brilliant diving stop on a shot into the lower left hand corner by Gil Chevalier and Atkinson flubbed an easy shot from about ten feet out.

The Beavers were saved later in this period when a shot by Paul Babba hit the post.

The tie preserved the Lavender's record of being unbeaten in their last 12 Lewisohn contests.

Looking forward to the contest with Brooklyn on November 15, the Beavers have scheduled a scrimmage game with Long Island University for tomorrow at Lewisohn.

His job is not an easy one. It is, of course, much too early to tell how the team will shape up, but Polansky knows that no game will be a pushover. Jerry Domershick is back, along with Marty Gurkin, who at 6'5" is the tallest man on the squad, Merv Shorr, Bobby Logan, Jerry Gold, and most of the others who played for Holman last year.

It is interesting to note that Howie Buss and Jack Chudnoff, who used to perform for Polansky's Downtown quintet, were asked by Holman to try for the varsity last season. They decided to stick with Dave and now that he has moved Uptown, they have come along with him. In fact, the whole team is with him. To a man.

Cascino Eyes New Record Against Weak Queens Team Tomorrow at Van Cortlandt

By Aaron Schindler

Paced by record-shattering Lou Cascino, the College's constantly improving cross country team meets a weak Queens squad at Van Cortlandt Park in a dual meet tomorrow.

This past week, the Beavers turned in two of their finest performances of the year, though bowing, 23-34 to Fordham in the first, and placing fourth in the Met. Championships in the second. Cascino, after setting the College record in the Ram meet with a 27:38.6 clocking eclipsed that mark while placing fourth in the Met. event in 26:50. Other outstanding times for the election day race were turned in for the Lavender by Joe Marcal, 27:57, and Tom O'Brien, 28:43.

As for the Queens meet, the Lavender, from all past indications, should have little to fear from the Knights. The Queens-men, coached by John Theobald and Bill Schnitzer, have only a second place finish behind Adelphi in a triangular meet preventing a run of four straight losses. The Knights will pit their hopes for an upset on five harriers, Bob Stern, Neil Griffith, Bill Gomez, Claus Kallman and Bill Powell.

Previously, the Queensmen lost to Fairleigh Dickinson, 18-37. This is the same Dickinson team which lost 37-50 to the Beavers in a triangular affair earlier this season. On Oct. 4, Queens lost to St. Peter's J.C. 27-29. In its other meets, Queens finished second and third in only two triangular meets.

Meanwhile, the Beavers seem to be developing from week to week into a top-flight squad. Coach Harold Anson Bruce has at his disposal at least five men who have bettered the best marks of the top Knight harriers. Last year the Bruccemen easily outdistanced the Queensmen, 22-58.

Hoop Squad to Play Exhibition Against St. Peters on Monday

Faced with the almost impossible task of whipping the College's basketball team into shape in three weeks, new Coach Dave Polansky has scheduled its first exhibition game of the season for next Monday afternoon at 4. The Beavers will tangle with St. Peters College in the Main Gym. Admission is free.

"We can't expect to be in first class shape for our opener," the coach stated. "The reason for this is that the time factor will not allow us as much practice as we could use." Polansky referred to the fact that a ruling of the Eastern Collegiate Athletic Conference had not permitted practice to begin before Nov. 1. This allows the team about twenty drill sessions to ready themselves for the opener against Hunter College on Nov. 29. This game will be for the benefit of the Stein Fund for injured athletes.

Except for Sy Cohen, who has graduated, all of last year's key performers are back. Frank Morant, of whom much had been expected by Polansky, has not come out for practice. It is doubtful whether he will play. On the brighter side, Jerry Gold, playmaker of last season's quintet has reported for practice.

Alumni Club to Honor Four Former Athletes

Four of the College's top athletes have been awarded honors by The City College Club, an alumni group. The four, Olympic fencer Hal Goldsmith, high jumper Charlie Fields, soccer ace Billy Galan and Neal Deoul, mainstay of the College's baseball team were chosen by vote of the varsity coaches. They will receive the Annual Award of Merit at the club's meeting in December. The honors are bestowed annually on members of the graduating class who have excelled in intercollegiate sports.

Nimrods to Seek First Victory Against Stevens in Conf. Match

The College's rifle team will try to get on the winning trail tomorrow afternoon when they play host to Stevens Institute of New Jersey.

The Nimrods' hopes for the championship in the newly expanded Metropolitan Intercollegiate Rifle Conference received its first jolt when they dropped their first match of the season to Newark College at the latter's home court by a score of 1346-to-1381.

Sergeant Olaf Funstuck, newly installed coach of the rifle team, had hoped for a victory. "The team has been coming along nicely, and I can tell you that we're going to go into every match with the intention of winning."

"As for Stevens," he continued "I really don't know anything about them. They are a new member of the Met. conference, and a new addition to our schedule.

We've never met them before, and we don't know anything about them. They are a completely unknown quantity to us."

Unlike other years, all the matches for the Nimrods will count in the race for the Metropolitan championship. The league has been expanded to include sixteen teams, three more than last year. Scheduled matches against West Point and St. Johns are not expected to be held, and the match against Brooklyn College originally scheduled for November 21 has been cancelled.
