HE's Feinberg Group to Confine Investigation to Communist Activity

The Board of Higher Education Committee on the Feinberg Law will confine its activities to investigation of possible Communist Party infiltration into the municipal colleges, stated Mr. Gustave G. Rosenberg, committee chairman. Past membership in the Party, however, will imply present membership unless evidence "that the accused has terminated his membership in good faith" is forthcoming. The Feinberg Law requires the BHE to conduct an investigation to determine the presence in the ranks of members of groups listed by the Board of Regents as subversives, and to dismiss such persons from their positions. The Communist Party was so listed by the Regents in September.

Answers Questions
Mr. Rosenberg, acting for BHE Chairman Joseph B. Cavallaro, answered pertinent questions pertaining to the activities of the committee in a letter to Mr. Mitchell Title of Columbia University. The reply was sent by Mr. Cavallaro to student newspapers at the city colleges. The committee, acting under Section 903 of the City Charter, will also dismiss any employee of colleges who refuses to answer questions posed by "a duly constituted official body" on grounds of self-incrimination.

Accused May Answer
Asked whether the accused could be presented with a statement of the information against him in order to be given a chance to prepare his answers, Mr. Rosenberg said, "The rights and privileges of employees of the BHE have been carefully set forth in education law. These stipulate that charges preferred against an individual must be set forth in a written statement sufficiently explicit to permit the accused to prepare a written answer."

However, when a hearing "boils down to a case of the accuser's word against the defendant's," the chairman noted that "since the creditability of witnesses is always a question of fact, the BHE, acting through its Trial Committees, must make the decision."

to Conduct Tours of South Campus

Hour-long tours of the Student Union Building will be given Thursday and Friday. Those interested can contact Sy Goldenberg or Dave Siegal of Compton or meet at the main gate to Manhattanville between 12:30 and 1:30 on Thursday or between 3 and 4:30 on Friday. Male guides are needed to lead tours through the building. All men interested should leave their programs in Box 2 in the SC office, Main. Tickets for the College's first student Union Ball are on sale in House Plan, 120 Main and 20 Main, and cost three dollars per couple. The semi-formal dance will be held Saturday, Nov. 21 at 8 in Great Hall.

Classes Called To Hear Helsinki Chorus Today

A rehearsal of part of the sixty man Helsinki University chorus, the "Ylioppilaskunnan Laulajat," which will appear in the Great Hall at 12:30.

By Edwin Trautman
Classes will be called at 12:30 this afternoon to enable students to attend a concert given in the Great Hall by the Helsinki University Chorus. The program was arranged by Prof. J. Bailey Harvey (Speech) and Dean Daniel J. Brophy (Student Life), who made contact with the Finnish Consul General's office and obtained permission for the sixty-man chorus to appear here. President Buell Gallagher, cooperating with the Committee on Cultural Relations, suspended classes for the half-hour necessary for the concert.

Six Week Tour
The "Ylioppilaskunnan Laulajat" as it is known in Finnish, is currently making a six-week concert tour of the United States and has included a number of colleges and universities in its itinerary. Organized in 1883 to help create and develop Finish Music, the choral group is under the direction of Mr. Matti Turunen.

The chorus actually numbers 150 students, both from Helsinki University and other higher educational institutions in Finland. The sixty members were selected for the tour to celebrate the seventieth anniversary jubilee of the group.

Half Hour Concert
The group, which is scheduled to appear at Carnegie Hall on Sunday, will tour the College and will then present a half-hour concert consisting of a "selection of pieces attractive to students."

Professor Harvey expressed enthusiasm for a proposal that at some future date students from the College chorus arrange for a similar tour of Europe, noting that "if transportation expenses could be met, it is likely that a profitable tour of the continent could be arranged."

SFCSA Okays Fee Increase

The fifty-cent fee raise passed by Student Council last week was approved Monday by the Student-Faculty Committee on Student Affairs on the grounds that SC has the power to take such action.

Dean Daniel Brophy (Student Life), a member of the SFCSA, has been instructed by that group to notify President Buell Gallagher of its action. The president will bring it up for approval by the Administrative Committee of the Board of Higher Education, which is composed of the presidents of the four municipal colleges. If it meets with their approval, it will be brought up at a regular BHE meeting.

Meanwhile, members of the SC who opposed the raise hope to bring it up for reconsideration at the next Council meeting.

Unrevised English Must Be Completed

Students who took English 3 under the old curriculum and have not yet taken English 4 must take the unrevised English 4 course next semester, which is the last time it will be given. The newly revised English 3 no longer follows a chronological order and the English 4 curriculum will be revised next term in order to complete the sequence. However, according to Prof. Edgar Johnson (Chairman, English), several sections of the old English 4 curriculum will be scheduled for the benefit of those who took the old English 3 and have not yet taken English 4.

Last Day to Give Blood

Almost twenty four percent of those who had appointments yesterday for the College Blood Bank failed to give blood. Fifteen percent did not show up and nine percent were physically disqualified. Only 140 pints were collected yesterday as compared to last year's total of more than 200 pints collected on the first day. Today is the last day that the Blood Bank will be here. Co-chairmen Fred Coppola '56 and Buddy Nachman '55 urge everyone to keep their appointments.

Marxist Group Seeks Advisor; Gets Extension

By RoseAnne Donner
The Marxist Discussion Group has been allowed an additional three weeks of temporary club status in order to look for a faculty advisor, according to a decision of the Student-Faculty Committee on Student Affairs last Tuesday. The club, which aims to foster interest in Marxism and allied philosophies, has approached seventy faculty members. Of these, ten who were interviewed in person gave direct refusals, and six refused who were contacted by mail. Most of these explained that they were "too busy"; one termed it "too risky."

According to the SFCSA's club regulations, no club may function without an advisor. Mr. Stamos Zades (Student Life) pointed out that this department cannot appoint an advisor since the position is non-salaried. The SFCSA has suggested that those faculty members who have tenure should be interviewed by the Marxist group.

Smetana Opposes SFCSA
Gerry Smetana '55, president of Student Council, said Council will support the existence of any group without an advisor because "many faculty advisors do not advise, and only handle administrative red tape for the organizations."

Prof. Yervant Krikorian (Philosophy) who has served the group as faculty advisor for the past three terms, left this position at the end of last term because he felt that someone else should take over. He commented, "Being a faculty advisor to a group doesn't indicate sympathy with its views. I could as easily serve a group studying caterpillars or atheism." (Continued on Page 3)

Dr. Condon Aids Disabled Students

By Walter Rothstein

Margaret Condon is an inspired woman. Dr. Condon is Executive Officer of the Health Guidance Board which aids physically handicapped students, and she calls it "the most satisfying job on earth."

A petite, white-haired woman who is, as one blind student says, "the nicest person I've ever known," she acts as assistant and mother-confessor to handicapped students from the time they enter the College to their graduations. After that, she aids them in finding employment.

Set Up Guidance Board

The Health Guidance Board, located in Townsend Harris, was originally established to deal with an expected influx of war-caused handicapped entrants, and aids such students in many ways:

(1) Students are given certain liberties in registration. Thus, those with cardiac and ambulatory difficulties may schedule most of their classes in the same building or on the same floor.

(2) Classes are scheduled to enable those students to avoid rush-hour crowds.

(3) Notices are sent to teachers with handicapped students in their sections to advise them of necessary special treatment.

(4) The visually handicapped may have special arrangements made for them to take quizzes and examinations in the Health Guidance Board office.

100 Handicapped Students

Despite the fact that the war occasioned no great rush of handicapped students, the Health Guidance Board has continued to exist, serving those whose disabilities are not war-caused. At present, the total enrollment of the handicapped (Uptown and Commerce Centers) numbers almost one hundred, including those with various degrees of blindness, deafness, palsy, diabetes and the post-tubercular.

Dr. Condon, a clinical psychologist, marvels at "their independence." She cites Vito Proscia '54, a blind student who expects to teach physics in college. He not only belongs to two fraternities and partakes in other College activities, but keeps Dr. Condon informed about current Broadway plays and movies. "He's jet-propelled," she smiles.

Another blind student, Norman Balot '55, is an outstanding member of the College's varsity wrestling squad and was recently elected to Sigma Alpha, honorary junior service society.

Readers Aid Blind

Readers are employed to aid the blind students. They are paid from funds supplied by the New York State Education Department. At all hours in Townsend Harris, groups of the blind and their readers may be found. The blind are aided further by sound scribe machines and sometimes by Braille texts.

Dr. Condon recently completed a survey on the post-graduation activities of disabled students, which "proves quite heartening," she says. Eighty-two percent of those who replied to her questionnaire are employed fulltime and fifty-eight percent are engaged in work closely related to their major subject in college.

without sharing its convictions. Although it is inconceivable to me that this group shouldn't find a faculty advisor, I would be willing to take it next term if no one else will." This term, Professor Krikorian is advisor to the Politics Club.

Dean James Peace (Student Life) attributes the advisor problem to lack of time on the part of teachers. "I hope it's not fear. I think the XYZ club might have just as much trouble," he said. Larry Gorkin '54, vice president of the Marxist Group, believes that "nowadays teachers have reason to fear any connection to Marxism." He added that in former times, his group rarely made use of its advisor.

G & S Society Plans Show; Seeking Help

The Gilbert and Sullivan Society, the College's new comic opera group, expects to present "Trial by Jury" as its first production sometime this semester.

The group has openings for lead and choral singers and are interviewing applicants for parts in operetta. A reading knowledge of music is not required. Candidates for the posts of director and producer will also be considered.

Men Wanted

The group, consisting at present of seventeen women and five men, expects to grow considerably in the next few weeks. Tenors, baritone and basses are especially welcomed.

The Society, which expects to rival the Savoyard groups at Hunter College and at Brooklyn College has two free rehearsal studios at its disposal. The dance studios both here and at the Downtown Center are available for use.

The Practitioners of Terror

In his speech before the Alumni Tuesday night, former president Harry S. Truman cautioned, "in making this fight against communism, we should be sure that we do not fall into the trap of adopting the totalitarian tactics of the Communists themselves. . . . In all I did, when I was president, to combat communism, I always sought to preserve the rights of the individual."

These words may some day prove to have been most prophetic—disastrously prophetic. For those pompous, posing practitioners of terror—whom Edward R. Murrow turned us against last February in the Great Hall—have been weaving their web of suspicion, fear, distrust and uncertainty around the nation's colleges and universities.

Mr. Truman's remarks were singularly appropriate because he spoke at a time when "totalitarian tactics" were being employed against two of the greatest institutions of higher learning in the world. A week ago, Harvard University was viciously attacked by Sen. Joseph McCarthy because a professor, whom the Senator pronounced subversive, was summarily removed from the faculty.

A few days later, The City College was vilified and slandered before millions of radio and television listeners by Walter Winchell. Declaring that "City College is going to have another scandal", he went on to say that "a full professor, whose initials are J.B., has resigned from City College after he was subpoenaed to testify before a congressional investigating committee."

This statement is factually incorrect on two points. First, no full professor—with any initials—has resigned this term. There is an assistant professor with those initials who recently resigned from the faculty. Secondly, since the latter part of September, when the Communist Party was found subversive and listed as such under the Feinberg Law, a special committee, set up by the Board of Higher Education, has been the sole body investigating subversion in the municipal colleges. No instructors from any of the municipal colleges have been subpoenaed to testify before any congressional committee during the past two months.

It is possible that the J.B. referred to was not a full professor and that he was asked to testify before the BHE committee, not a congressional committee. However, this is mere speculation. From the facts available any such speculations constitute a definite invasion of "the rights of the individual."

We feel that the Feinberg law—which deems membership in certain listed organizations prima facie evidence for disqualification from teaching—has done much to help spin a web of suspicion and slander. When the Supreme Court held the constitutionality of the Feinberg law in May, 1952, Justice William O. Douglas, dissenting, predicted:

"Where suspicion fills the air and holds scholars in line for fear of their jobs, there can be no exercise of the free intellect. Superstition and dogmatism take the place of inquiry. A 'party line'—as dangerous as the party line of the Communists—lays down the 'party line' of the orthodox view, of the conventional thought, of the accepted approach. Fear stalks the classroom. The teacher is no longer a stimulant to adventurous thinking; she becomes instead a pipeline for safe and sound information. A deadening dogma takes the place of free inquiry. Instruction tends to become sterile. Discussion often leaves off where it should begin."

And Justice Douglas' prognostication is being borne out: McCarthys, Winchells, Veldes and Jenners, they, who so easily confuse dissent with disloyalty, now can spread their power more completely. The Feinberg law gives them power over a person's livelihood by transferring the criteria for teaching qualification to teach from competence to association.

It is up to you, President Gallagher, to you, each and every member of the faculty, to you, every educator throughout the nation: it is up to you to stand up and speak out, boldly and without fear, today—not tomorrow, for it will be too late then—against these practitioners of terror; otherwise it will be we, the students, who will suffer.

"The spirit of liberty is the spirit which is not too sure that it is right. The spirit of liberty is the spirit which seeks to understand the minds of other men and women." So spoke George Washington. If this spirit is undermined, we cannot but "fall into the trap of adopting the totalitarian tactics of the Communists themselves."

Eighty-Two Listed As Honor Students

Eighty-two students have qualified for the Dean's List for second year honors, according to Mr. Peter Prehn, assistant to the Registrar.

Highest honors were received by Janice Drucker, Joan Eiger, Rhoda Karp and David Nourok, while Sylvester Bradford received high honors. The entire honor list is posted on the Day Session bulletin board in Lincoln Corridor.

There were only forty students on the list last year, with four receiving high honors and no highest honors. "It would appear that an ever-increasing number of students are qualifying for second year honors because of increased mental acumen, a lowering of standards on the part of instructors or a combination of both," Mr. Prehn commented.

While there are five times as many men as women at the College, nearly half of the students on this year's list are women.

Eligibility for the Dean's List is based on scholastic achievement during the first sixty-four credits of work. Highest honors are awarded for a minimum of fifty credits in A and the remainder in B. High honors are awarded for thirty credits in A and the remainder in B, and students with at least fifty-five credits of prescribed courses in A or B are named to the honors list.

Booters Eye Playoff For Soccer Crown

The College's booters can now sit back and relax—until tomorrow. After polishing off the Long Island Aggies 4 to 1, Wednesday, they have clinched at least a tie for the Metropolitan Collegiate Soccer Conference title. The only team with a chance to tie the Lavender is Queens College. The Knights must beat Pratt Institute of Technology in their final league game to achieve the deadlock.

The Beavers next encounter is a non-league affair with Lafayette at Easton, Pennsylvania tomorrow morning. Following the game, the booters will be the guests of Lafayette at a football game between the Leopard gridgers, and Delaware.

It was quite a complicated succession of events Wednesday. At the start of the day three teams were tied for the conference lead with records of three victories and one defeat. They were the Beavers, Aggies and Kingsmen. Queens was only half a game out with a 2 and 1 mark. Things were cleared up quickly, however, as the four clubs were paired against each other. The Lavender eliminated the Aggies and Queens eliminated the Kingsmen. With Queens practically a sure thing against the Pratt Engineers, who have yet to win a contest this season, a playoff for the title seems to be in order. The date and site of the playoff will be decided at a later date.

If nothing else, the Aggie contest proved that Lucien Daouphars is one of the greatest defensemen to play at the College. His sterling play held the Aggie offense in check as time and again he booted the ball out of danger. Coach

Wolfe predicts that Daouphars is a sure thing for All-American honors this year.

Harriers Hope for Upset Win Over Mighty N.Y.U. Tomorrow

The College's cross country team, currently sporting a 3-1 record will take on a powerful N.Y.U. team this Saturday at Van Cortlandt Park. Despite impressive victories in their last two meets, it is very unlikely that the Lavender harriers will be able to duplicate last year's victory.

The Beavers will face a well balanced N.Y.U. team whose top three men are all running under 27:00. The best Beaver performance so far has been Tom O'Brien's 28:03 time in Wednesday's 15-40 victory over New York Maritime College.

Violets Swept Fordham

While the Bruccemen were winning easily over the Maritime College, the Hall of Famers were in the process of sweeping Fordham 15-40. This, coupled with the fact that Fordham handed the harriers a 17-44 defeat leaves no doubt as to the superiority of the Violets.

Coach Emil Von Elling has, in sophomore George King, one of the outstanding metropolitan runners. Along with King are Vince Chiapetta, and Bruce Lockerbie, both of whom have been clocked under 27:00.

On the brighter side of the picture was the Beaver's performance against the Mariners.

O'Brien First

The Lavender swept the first five positions. Following O'Brien were Paul Pavlides and Gene Forsythe. After this Beaver trio came Joe Brogan and Dave Nourok, both of whom crossed the tape in the time of 30:00.

It was an all around impressive performance and Coach Bruce was well pleased with it. Pavlides, who has been steadily improving with each meet, ran a strong race and it seemed certain that O'Brien could easily have broken 28:00 if the Maritime runners had forced him to go all out.

Holmstrom Ready

By Shelly Podolsky

Herb Holmstrom, "the big Swede," has returned to ranks of the College and the basketball squad after serving two years in the Marine Corps. "At 205 pounds," Herb said, "I'm overweight, but I expect to lose at least 20 pounds before the start of the season. I'll be ready to go again Hunter."

Recently Discharged

Holmstrom, a member of the 1950-51 squad which boasted such performers as Ed Roman, Ed Warner and Floyd Layne, was discharged with the rank of corporal

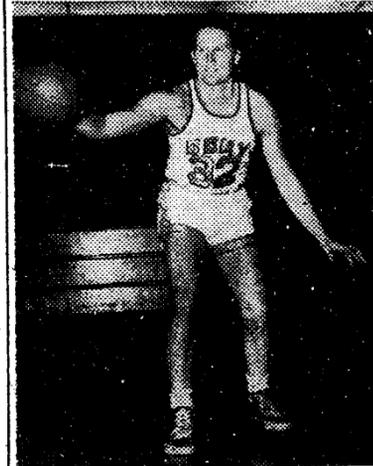

Polansky was happy to see 6-2 engineering major report practice last week. "If he perform anywhere near as well as he did during the 1950-51 season he should be a valuable addition to the squad," Polansky said. "He's very strong and should help us under the boards."

Herbie is a veteran of two years on the varsity. He came up as a soph with the 1949-50 team. He went to the National Invitation Tournament, but dropped out following season to play college ball. He obviously missed the game since the Beavers scored "Grand Slam" that year.

A Lacrosse Star

The muscular Holmstrom is a five letter-man at the College. He has had three years of varsity lacrosse competition under coach Leon "Chief" Miller's leadership. He was an outstanding offensive man for the stickmen.

Swede, as he is called by his friends, majors in civil engineering and finds that the rigorous class work give him little time for much else beside study and athletics. A hard driver, Herb is a good one hander from the side.

Hoopsters Schedule Scrimmage Against St. Peters Tomorrow

Approaching the completion of their second rigorous week of pre-season training, coach Dave Polansky's Beaver hoopsters will meet the St. Peters College quintet tomorrow morning in an exhibition tilt in the Main Gym at 11:30.

According to coach Polansky, "the squad has been steadily improving during the past few workouts. We have a big, strong and fast team."

As for reserves, Polansky thinks that the Beavers will probably have a much stronger bench than last season's outfit, which was constantly plagued by a lack of replacements.

Dave is counting on the following hoopsters to strengthen the

Lavender bench: Bernie Cohen, a fine backcourt man; Walt Tannenbaum, the possessor of a deadly set-shot; Irwin List, a member of last season's varsity, and Herb Jacobsohn, "who has been one of the biggest surprises of the practice sessions because of his highly-improved showing over his play of last season."

The return of Herb Holmstrom, recently discharged from the marines, Oscar Simmons, a stand-out on the Beavers' 1949-50 frosh team, and Gregory Moses, who starred with the Beaver yearling squad of two seasons ago, "should give us a lot of help," commented Polansky.
