Eleanor Roosevelt Will Speak Today

Former United Nations Representative To Talk in Harris Auditorium On 'UN and World Youth'

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, launching the Collegiate Council of the United Nations at the College, will speak today in Townsend Harris Auditorium at 12:15. Her topic will be "United Nations and World Youth."

Mrs. Roosevelt will be introduced by Pres. Buell Halper.

Having completed an extensive college-wide tour in which she visited numerous colleges and universities, the former chairman of the United Nations Committee on Human Rights will concern herself with a discussion of problems common to both students in the United States and foreign countries and their views on the subject.

Mrs. Roosevelt, in direct connection with the CCUN, will discuss the necessity for college students as future world citizens, familiarize themselves with the United Nations as an instrument of international mediation and understanding.

The CCUN holds model assemblies based on actual UN procedures at various colleges represented in the organization. Almost

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt every college and university in New York, including the other municipal colleges, is a member of the CCUN.

'Disillusioned' Holman Awaits Postponed Committee Meeting

Nat Holman confessed he is a "disillusioned man" Tuesday night.

Waiting a decision from the School of Higher Education on the part of the Trial Committee regarding charges against him and Mr. Harold (Bobby) Sanderson in connection with the 1951 baseball scandal, Holman said he was "completely unaware" that the BHE's special meeting had been postponed.

The meeting was originally scheduled for this evening, but because of illness or absence from the part of several Board members, it was postponed until Wednesday, March 3, at 7:30.

It is unfortunate that the trial will be dragged out like this," suspended basketball coach "It's been a year-and-a-half and a man on trial has a right to know whether he is guilty or innocent."

He feels the same way about the man in any departments in the College," he continued. "If a man is guilty, they ought to wrap it up. If not, then they should say so. A man is either one or the other. He should not be left in the middle."

Professor Holman said he would sit back and wait for the decision.

'Graduate School Is Asset'

The College's graduate schools have increased the level of undergraduate instruction, according to Prof. Oscar Janowsky (History), Director of Graduate Studies. He asserted that many scholars have been brought to the College who would not have accepted the offer of a teaching position were it not for the fact that part of their time can be devoted to graduate studies.

Professor Janowsky also said that statements made by former Student Council president Gerard Smetana '55, asserting that the graduate school encroached on undergraduate studies, were "without a basis in fact."

At present, six courses in the Graduate School of International Relations are open only to graduate students. Nine other courses are offered both to graduates and to undergraduates. Seniors and juniors are registered first in these latter courses, said the professor. "Then, either when a class has been closed due to full registration, we slip one or two graduate students into the course."

Jury Decides Libel Suit In Favor of NY Times

Libel suits instituted against the New York Times by four former officers of Student Council were decided in favor of the Times yesterday.

After deliberating for fifty minutes, the jury rendered a verdict which stated that the Times had not committed libel when it quoted Prof. William Knickerbocker (Romance Languages) as stating that the student strike of April, 1949, was "Communist led" and "Communist inspired."

Trip Petitions To USSR Set

Students who wish to participate in the tour to Russia this summer must file nominating petitions by March 29, according to a motion passed last night by Student Council.

The nomination petitions and regulations explaining how nominations may be made will be available tomorrow in the Student Council office 20 Main.

The nominating procedure approved by SC implements the referendum passed last semester to send a student delegation to visit the Soviet Union.

"Students who are elected to go on this trip are expected to bring back and disseminate in the College what they have experienced," said Gerry Smetana '55, chairman of the SC International Students Exchange Agency. "For this reason, he explained, graduating seniors are not eligible to be nominated."

A College-wide election will be held from April 12-15 to narrow down the number of nominees. This will be followed by a second election to decide on the actual delegation. It is expected that three students will make the trip.

Council also voted to co-sponsor a question and answer forum with Pres. Buell Gallagher with The Campus to be held on Thursday, March 25 in the Great Hall. This will be the second annual question period at which Dr. Gallagher will have appeared since he came to the College in 1952.

The plaintiffs, Albert Ettinger '49, William Fortunato '49, Leroy Galperin '50 and Robert Oppenheimer '50, were leaders of the strike, which was called to protest the retention of Professor Knickerbocker and Mr. William Davis (Economics), who was then director of the Army Hall dormitories. Both had been charged with discriminatory practices.

Mr. William Fortunato

The plaintiffs brought suit for 100,000 dollars late in 1949, and the case was brought to trial last fall. The jury was unable to reach a decision and a new trial was instituted.

SC Supports Suit

Last month, Student Council voted to grant the plaintiffs 300 dollars to enable them to continue with the second trial. Mr. Fortunato had expressed confidence that the plaintiffs would win their case.

'Plaintiffs Not Communists'

Mr. Thomas Dady, lawyer for the Times, said in his summation on Tuesday that "a verdict for the defendant (the Times) would not mean that the plaintiffs were Communists. The position of the Times is merely that the article in question does not identify the plaintiffs as Communists."

Last semester, Professor Knickerbocker and Mr. Davis settled out of court a suit brought against them by the same plaintiffs for an amount believed to be about 300 dollars.

Commenting on yesterday's decision, SC president Manny Halper '54 stated that he was "shocked." He claimed, "It's really rather difficult to see how the jury was able to reach such a conclusion."

Applications Ready For English Oral

Applications for the Oral English Examination are available now in 311 Main, the School of Education has announced.

The Qualifying Examination in Written English will be conducted Thursday, March 18, from 12 to 2 in the Great Hall. Applications will be available starting Monday, March 1 in 311 Main.

All students interested in teaching must successfully complete these examinations. Students are advised to take these tests as soon as possible.

'Glass Menagerie' Staged Arena-Style

Not since 1949, when Theater Workshop presented its novel production of "Everyman", has the Great Hall been used for any dramatic performance. TW is once again undertaking a theater-in-the-round production, Tennessee Williams' play, "The Glass Menagerie."

The four-character play offers Zara Anelian '55, as Amanda Wingfield, the mother. Sam Schacht '55, will be seen in the role of Tom Wingfield, the discontented son, Lila Paul Reiss '55, will play the invalid daughter, and Seymour Metzger '55 will portray Jim O'Connor, the "gentleman caller."

The presentation will be offered March 4, 5, and 6, at 8:30. Free tickets for the performance may be obtained in 220 Main.

In addition, Prof. Frank Davidson (Speech), the director, announced that previews will be held on March 2 and 3.

Prof. Oscar Janowsky make an already difficult teaching assignment even more difficult.

Grad School

The graduate school is still in its embryonic stage, but it already shows promise of developing greatly in scope and it is not made at the permanent expense of the undergraduate. It is not made at the permanent expense of the undergraduate school.

Some students have complained that the graduate school has impaired their undergraduate training. They cite crowded classes and the unavailability of certain professors and elective courses in claims against the graduate school.

Actually, we believe that these ill effects at this time are negligible and well worth tolerating, for a successful graduate school, when it is completely established, could greatly invigorate the undergraduate program.

It has been pointed out that many full-time professors have come to the College because of the opportunity for part-time graduate teaching. In planning for the future enlargement of the graduate school, the responsibility of enriching and not sacrificing the undergraduate program must continue to be kept in mind.

Watchful Waiting

The Student-Faculty Committee on Student Affairs has acted wisely in voting to postpone action on the resolution which called for limitation of its powers.

A similar motion in the form of the Presidential Report and the General Faculty Committee on Student Affairs' criticism of that report are now being studied by President Gallagher, and any action by the SFCSA would have served only to aggravate a situation already complicated with needless prejudices and antagonisms.

Since the inception of the Presidential Committee in March, 1953, the president has heard a barrage of student and faculty opinion on the pros and cons of an extension of student self-government. The president has now asked for, and deserves, a period of judicial calm in which to consider the issues and make recommendations.

We do not ask the student body to lose interest in the current controversy over the extent to which students should govern their extra-curricular activities—but suggest the institution of a period of watchful waiting.

When the President does make known his recommendations—and submits them to the General Faculty—then there will be opportunity and need for open and intelligent comment.

Profs Combine Efforts To Rewrite Dictionary

An enthusiastic mountain climber and an expert horseshoe pitcher have combined their efforts in contributing to the revision of a 3250-page dictionary.

Prof. Joseph A. Dawson (Chairman, Biology), the shoe-tosser, and Prof. Erik Fries (Biology), the hiker, along with 250 other editors and experts, have rewritten Webster's New International Dictionary.

Professor Dawson, who headed the zoology department, and Professor Fries, who served as a special editor, both disapprove of the idea of a dictionary-maker as a "stuffy old man in an ivory tower." Both men are vigorous athletes, the former being also a golfer and the latter a skier.

"The revision of the dictionary," Professor Fries said, "is a momentous task, requiring many years of patience and diligent work." He explained that the dictionary is dissected, and every word is listed on an index card and filed according to subject. "It sometimes takes days to track down a single word," Professor Dawson noted, "because it is often listed under five or more subjects.

Professional knowledge is necessary when it comes to determining the accepted usage of a word. Out of several million listings, only 600,000 were used. This means that each definition had to be submitted to an authority in a broad field and sent from him to a more specialized field.

Professor Dawson received 80,000 words which he then distributed among various experts in such fields as herpetology (reptiles) and protozoology (protozoa). —Hirt

IT'S ALL A MATTER OF TASTE

For cleaner, fresher, smoother smokes from any pack you try, Buy Lucky Strikes, so fully packed, They're tops you can't deny.

Tom Ganiats
University of California

When you come right down to it, you smoke for one simple reason . . . enjoyment. And smoking enjoyment is all a matter of taste. Yes, taste is what counts in a cigarette. And Luckies taste better.

Two facts explain why Luckies taste better. First, L.S./M.F.T.—Lucky Strike means fine tobacco . . . light, mild, good-tasting tobacco. Second, Luckies are actually made better to taste better . . . always round, firm, fully packed to draw freely and smoke evenly.

So, for the enjoyment you get from better taste, and only from better taste, Be Happy—Go Lucky. Get a pack or a carton of better-tasting Luckies today.

Where's your jingle?
It's easier than you think to make $25 by writing a Lucky Strike jingle like those you see in this ad. Yes, we need jingles—and we pay $25 for every one we use! So send as many as you like to: Happy-Go-Lucky, P. O. Box 67, New York 46, N. Y.

My prof sure put me on the spot. With "What's the sine of three?" But ask me what's the sign of taste—it's Luckies you'll agree.

LUCKIES TASTE BETTER CLEANER, FRESHER, SMOOTHER!

Scalping of Redmen Five Poetic Justice to Cagers

By A. S. Podolsky

It was a long frustrating period, but the College's basketball team finally broke the ice Monday. And as far as the Beavers are concerned, the way it happened was poetic justice.

The Beavers were doormats to the major metropolitan clubs for three years until Monday. During that interim, New York University, St. John's, Fordham, Manhattan, and St. Francis have been feasting on Lavender competition. Fourteen times Nat Holman and Dave Polansky sent their Beaver warriors to the battlefield against these clubs and fourteen times the basketball squad has been found lacking.

It looked like a continuation of the same script Monday with one slight change; the Beavers might make it close. Earlier in the year they thrilled a capacity crowd at the Fordham gymnasium to a near upset over the nation's eighth ranked team at that time. The Beavers fought back from a 13 point halftime deficit to tie the game at 51-51 with about two minutes to go. The cagers started to freeze the ball with the intention of taking the last shot which would insure them of at least a tie or maybe an upset victory. But as the fates would have it Danny Lyons stole the ball from Ronnie Kowalski and the Rams continued the freeze only to score on a driving layup by Al Larkin with six seconds left in the game.

Next on the list was Manhattan. The Jaspers were anything but world beaters this season and Lavender hopes were high. Performing in their home gymnasium, the Beavers enjoyed a 48 to 42 lead early in the fourth period. The Jaspers spent the rest of the period catching up and they came within one point, 57 to 56, with about one minute left in the game. Once again the Lavender went into a deep freeze and once again the ball was stolen away, this time with eight seconds left to play. George Miller, a Jasper sub, grabbed the ball from Jack McGuire, dribbled downcourt and layed it up for the game winning basket.

It was the same script but with a different ending on the birthday of the founder of our country. As Sid Friedlander so aptly put it, "It was like old times for Allagaroo," (and he even spelled the word 'Allagaroo' right).

The St. John's Redmen, attempting to make it fifteen in a row over the College by a major met foe, held the lead until the halfway mark of the final period. The role of hero was put in strange hands, those of Marty Gurkin, who failed to live up to his potential the last two years. A one-hander by Gurkin tied the contest at 56-56 and enabled the Beavers to freeze the ball with more than a minute left. This time the Beavers did not lose the ball, calling four time outs in the interim. But as lady luck would have it Domershick's jump shot from the side with three seconds left went in and out of the basket and the game was all tied up going into overtime. Things looked bleak for the first few minutes of the extra session as the Redmen took a 60 to 57 lead. Gurkin came through again, however, this time with a three-point play to tie it up all over again. Then St. John's went in to the Beavers' old pattern of the freeze for the last shot.

It was at this moment that the Lavender turned the defeatist pattern into victory. Jerry Domershick stole the ball at midcourt from Marty Satalino and dribbled in all the way for the game winning basket. Coincidence you say? Poetic justice the Beavers say.

Fencers Win Over Yeshiva; Third Straight

Winning its third match in a row, the College's fencing team defeated Yeshiva University, 15-12 last night at the loser's gym. With Yeshiva leading in bouts 10-9 the Beavers reeled off five successive wins to clinch the match.

The performance of the sabre team proved decisive as they won seven out of nine bouts.

would undertake to coach the weightlifters if there were none available, and "without remuneration".

Those who are in favor of varsity recognition for the group contend that the current squad, undefeated over a two year span, is of championship caliber, and should not be denied an opportunity to demonstrate it. The club recently defeated the top squad in the east, MIT, in convincing fashion.

The advocates of varsity status for the barmen further point out that since they do little traveling,

Conflict Over Status Of Lifters Continues

On Feb. 10, the following notice was sent to various interested parties around the College: "This is to inform you that the campus weightlifting organization will, in the future, be officially designated as 'The Beaver Barbell Club'..."

We have been functioning at a club and therefore cannot represent ourselves as a team..." It was signed "Steve Stone—Pres."

This notice officially brought to the surface a long-time conflict involving the actual status of the College's undefeated weightlifting group. The organization, which is officially listed as a club and as such is able to compete only in intramural activities, had been accused of participating illegally with intercollegiate squads on a varsity level.

The question of whether or not to grant officially varsity recognition was put to several persons involved.

Prof. Arthur H. DesGrey, faculty manager of athletics, said in stating the College's stand on the situation, "It is impossible at the present time to grant the club varsity recognition," Dr. DesGrey continued, "First, there are no hours available to supply men as coaches, also, once they become a varsity team, money would be needed to sustain them, and there are no additional funds available for that purpose. And above all, it should be noted that any funds which would become available for a new varsity would be used in the reestablishment of freshmen teams which have been dropped."
