Holman, Sand Fate In Hands of BHE

The Board of Higher Education will decide later this month whether Nat Holman and Mr. Bob Sand are guilty of conduct unbecoming a teacher and neglect of duty. The forthcoming decision will be the result of a seven-month trial conducted by the BHE trial committee headed by Mr. Gustave Rosenberg.

It is expected that the committee will render a report and recommendation to the BHE at the January 18 meeting," Pres. Buell Gallagher said yesterday. The committee will then have to decide whether or not to go along with the recommendation. In any case, the committee should take at least another month before the decision is made.

The trial committee has conducted the trial in a dignified manner. Professor Holman stated yesterday, "I am sure the verdict will be a fair one. I miss the school and I'd love to come back."

For the members of the "Dough Championship" basketball team who were suspended for taking bribes, the former hoop coach said, "The boys have suffered a great deal and I feel strongly that they should be given a chance to finish their college education. Of course, it's up to the administration to decide whether they should play basketball for the College."

Professor Holman has not attended a basketball game at the College this season because he feels "it would be an embarrassing situation. But," he added, "wait until this thing is over." In the interim, he has kept in touch with collegiate basketball by viewing games at Madison Square Garden.

Mr. Sand is also very anxious to resume his teaching career at the College. "I've been teaching here a long time," he said yesterday, "and I would like to continue to do so. However, it's all up to the BHE."

Students, Profs To Match Wits In Quiz Today

Professors and pupils will match wits in the semi-annual Student-Faculty Quiz today at 12:30 in 306 Main.

The quiz, sponsored by Sigma Alpha, Junior Honorary Service Society, will feature a musical question, a "who am I?" question, twenty questions and a mystery guest. "Humor is the keynote," remarked Herb Rubin '54, Chancellor of Sigma Alpha, "and everyone is invited to attend."

There will be ten participants, five faculty members and five students. The faculty representatives will be: Mr. Irving Branman (Speech); Prof. William Frankle (Hygiene); Prof. Cecil Kindle (Geology); Prof. Samuel Middlebrook (English); Mr. Joseph Tafet (Economics). The student participants include Howard Brown, '54, Sheldon Podolsky '54, Gerry Smetana '55, Ronald Stringer '54 and Norma Wolk '56. Mr. Sy Schaffel (Geology) will moderate.

Stripper Contributes Services; To Speak for Clothing Drive

The new year is but a week old, and already the College finds itself the storm-center of one of the most heated debates of our time. Today, before hundreds of intensely interested scholars, Miss Lois DeFee, the nationally renowned pelvic poetess will speak on "Burdlesque vs. Fine Art."

Her lecture will take place in the Townsend Harris Auditorium at 12:30. Miss DeFee will not charge any money. All who wish to hear the 6'4" "Queen of the Amazons" will have to contribute one piece of clothing. The apparel will be donated to the "Save the Children Federation" by Phi Epsilon Pi, sponsors of the dissertation.

Miss DeFee, who has appeared before large crowds in Union City and Newark, will be unable to contribute any of her garments to

Expect Board Approval For M'ville Allocation

Suspended OP Editors Denied GFCSA Reprieve

The General Faculty Committee on Student Affairs Tuesday upheld the suspension of the Observation Post Editorial Board imposed two weeks ago by its sub-committee, the Student Faculty Committee on Student Affairs, on the grounds that no new evidence had been presented.

In a statement released by Prof. Michael Kraus (History), Chairman of the GFCSA, members of the committee expressed their "regrets that the Editorial Board of Observation Post feels that there was a misunderstanding between its members and the SFCSA with respect to the form of retraction or modification of the OP editorial suggested by the Committee. In view of the fact, however, that no new evidence was presented, the ruling of the SFCSA is maintained."

The suspension of the nine member board followed an editorial which appeared in the December 10 issue of OP and which attacked seven supporters of the daily newspaper referendum. In the opinion of the SFCSA, this editorial "unjustifiably held those people up to ridicule and humiliation in the eyes of their classmates." The committee suggested that a retraction be printed in the next issue.

On December 16, the OP printed an editorial which in the opinion of Andrew Meisels '55, OP editor-in-chief, was an "adequate retraction." The SFCSA, however, felt that the "retracting" editorial had not mitigated the effect of previous attacks. The Student Faculty Committee, therefore, ruled that OP's editorial board be suspended from "any and all participation in the editing, publication, or distribution of the Observation Post until Feb. 1, 1954."

Commenting on the General Faculty Committee's sustension of the OP editorial board's suspension, because no new evidence had been presented, Meisels said, "The basis for the GFCSA's action is the belief that the SFCSA can do no wrong. It has not acted as an appeal body, but just as a rubber stamp for its sub-committee."

To Move Vending Machines Before Spring Term Begins

All of the vending machines in the corridors of the Main Building and Townsend Harris which have been declared illegal will be removed before the beginning of next semester, announced Dean Leslie Engler (Administration).

The machines were first installed nearly seven years ago and it was revealed only last month that many of them were illegally obstructing passageways, according to sections of the New York City Building Code. The administration had said then that the machines would be removed during the Christmas vacation.

"The reason they haven't been removed yet," Dean Engler explained, "is that we're too busy with more important work to give immediate attention to such a minor problem. The machines will be taken from the hallways as soon as Dean Daniel Brophy (Student Life) and Mr. George Shuster (Cafeteria Manager) tell Mr. Aaron Zwiefach (Business Manager) how many of the machines now in the corridors can be put in the cafeteria and in the lounges."

Dean Engler said that the transference of the candy dispensers will take place during intersession "because that is the only time that the men removing the machines would not interfere with students travelling between classes."

A cigarette vendor probably will be placed in the Knittle Lounge, according to Dean James S. Peace (Student Life). He said he would meet with the concessionaires to look into the possibility of putting dispensers in the Army Hall lobby, 15A Main and some rooms in Townsend Harris. Dean Peace pointed out, however, that machines in these places could be more easily broken into than if they remained in the corridors.

An appropriation of over 1,300,000 dollars for renovating and reconstruction at Manhattanville is expected to be approved next Thursday by the New York City Board of Estimate, according to Pres. Buell Gallagher.

The appropriation will be made at the same time that final plans for the South Campus are approved. "I anticipate no difficulty in gaining the approval of the Board," President Gallagher commented.

Construction will begin as soon as bids are received for the work, and Manhattanville probably will be ready for full use by September, 1954.

See page 3 for complete map and key to the North Campus and Manhattanville.

Plans for buying the property, formerly the Manhattanville College of the Sacred Heart, were begun nearly six years ago, but the purchase was not completed until September, 1952. Since then, women's hygiene classes have been held in the gymnasium and pool.

The most striking benefit of the realization of the Manhattanville campus will be the creation of a Student Union Center. The largest building on the Manhattanville grounds will be used for all extra and co-curricular activities including clubs, social organizations and publications. Space has also been allotted for lounges, cafeterias, ballrooms, kitchen facilities, clubs and book and school supply stores.

No substantial increase in classroom space is expected with the addition of Manhattanville because Army and Finley Halls will have to be returned to the city next fall. Administrative offices will remain in the Main Building, with science classrooms, offices and laboratories taking over the North Campus buildings and arts and social science classrooms and offices being moved to Manhattanville. The School of Education will occupy South Hall.

Grant College Plea; Parking Forbidden On Convent Ave.

"No Parking" signs once again appear on Convent Avenue, replacing the alternate parking system instituted at the beginning of the semester.

The system of parking on different sides of the street on alternate days was instituted on Convent Avenue to facilitate street-cleaning. The parked cars, however, caused severe congestion during changes of classes, blocking the crosswalks and forcing students to climb over bumpers.

Dean James S. Peace (Student Life) requested the Department of Traffic to return the "No Parking" system. The Department complied with his request.

Prefer Elevator to Finley Walk? Then Go Downtown, Young Man

By Walter Rothstein

The Bernard M. Baruch School of Business and Public Administration might well be in China as far as the average student at the College is concerned. Students here prefer the shorter and more familiar designation "Downtown".

The fifteen floor building on Twenty-Third Street in which the Business Center is situated is a buzzing place with as many activities as if not more than the Main Center. Though handicapped by a shortage of space, there exist over 100 active organizations; fraternities and honor societies, this despite an enrollment of more than 2500 students.

The School of Business was established in 1919, although some business courses were included in the curriculum as early as 100 years ago. The corner stone for the present building was laid in 1928 on the site of the old Main Building, so that the school antedates the present Main Center. The Business School is headed by Dean Thomas L. Norton.

The first thing which strikes a visitor to the building is the desperate attempt made to deal with the problem of transportation to classes, all located in the one building. The six elevators are posted with a complicated timetable which announces the specific hours during which each car takes on passengers, up or down, express or local, and the floors at which they stop.

Amid this hubbub the average student goes to classes, engages in some extra-curricular activity (two or three dances, are held every week), and still has time for work. Eighty percent of the students hold jobs during the semester. Naturally, the School of Business student is more serious than the average student of the uptown College. Further, as one member of the administration commented, "The business student seems better rounded, more outgoing."

This spirit is manifested in the Boosters, a girls' service organization, whose function it is to aid the other organizations in operating. The present membership, exclusive of candidates, of which there are a great number, is ap-

Pres. TV Defender Of Wechsler's Book

Pres. Buell G. Gallagher will appear on the television program "Author Meets the Critics" this month to defend James A. Wechsler's new book, "Age of Suspicion."

Mr. Wechsler, editor of the "New York Post," wrote the book as a result of his appearance before Senator McCarthy's Senate investigating committee.

The program will be aired on Sunday, Jan. 31, at 7:30 over station WABD-TV, Channel 5. Appearing with President Gallagher and Mr. Wechsler will be Miss Virginia Peterson, moderator of the program, and Pres. George Shuster of Hunter College.

proximately eighty. The very name of the club would be anathema uptown, where too many would be reminded of the babbity which Sinclair Lewis satirized.

While the Main Center and the Business Center are ostensibly parts of the same school, some business students can't restrain a natural resentment at the greater advantages of the uptown student, such as the added space provided by Manhattanville and the projected Student Union Building. What's more, while the Carnival Queen contest is held jointly, Carnival is a separate affair for each school. Also, the annual boatride is held on different boats. On the other hand, the uptown student may well envy the School of Business' Cooperative Training Program, under which students work as part of their curriculum and get paid as they accrue college credits.

450 in Entering Frosh Class; Predict Smaller Feb. Classes

Only 450 freshmen will enter the Main Center Day Session next month, constituting the smallest class the College has seen since the years right after its founding.

Mr. Robert Taylor (Registrar) explains that this is part of a trend toward smaller February entering classes caused by the new annual graduation system in the city's high schools.

Last February, the entering class numbered 655, or 200 more than is expected this year. Last September's entering class of 1406 was more than three times as large. Mr. Taylor predicts that the size of the February classes will soon diminish to one-ninth the size of the September classes.

The new frosh class will be equally divided between the School of Technology and the School of Liberal Arts. Men will outnumber women three to one.

Draft Woes Taken in Stride By Conscientious Objectors

By RoseAnne Donner

Some people complain about their draft board troubles, but to Stanley Weiner '54, a conscientious objector, they are just a part of living.

"After an interview next Tuesday," he said, smiling amiably, "I will get either a 1-0 classification and do work of national importance for two years, or go to jail for five years."

Jailed With Costello

"There was never any alternative for me. I place too high a value on human life to be able to kill. The Nuremberg trials strengthened my recognition of man's obligation to follow higher ethical laws despite governmental pressures.

"My pacifism has already caused me to spend a night in jail," said Mr. Weiner, cheerfully rocking back on his bench. "I was in good company. Frank Costello, Salvatore Solazzo and I all occupied the West Street jail on the same night last April. They were up for tax evasion while I was charged with refusal to take the army oath.

"When I first saw Costello, I didn't recognize him because he was in the nude, but when he put on his $200 suit, there was no question of his identity. He rode over to the courthouse in the same wagon. Costello and Solazzo were handcuffed together and I shared my cuffs with a dope addict. They all felt that pacifism is not the way to be a success. 'War is bad,' Solazzo observed, then advised me to make as much money as I can. He judged the value of money, he said, by the happiness it brings."

Mr. Weiner reviewed his troubles with the draft board: "I refused to accept a 1-0a classification which required service in the army medical corps. I am the Special Assistant to the Attorney General that I didn't care cure men so they could then be killed or be killed."

Bailed Out

The 23 year-old psychology major said that his case then went to Washington where a Presidential Review Board classified him as 1-F, contrary to the advice of the FBI and the Dept. of Justice. "It was when I refused to take the steps forward at the induction center, and symbolically march from civilian to soldier, that I was sent to the West Street jail. The War Resistor's League bailed me out the following day."

Mr. Weiner reflected on his future. "If things go right, when I appeal my classification, I'll be a happy guy."

B. H. Levy Chosen To Succeed Cohen

Prof. Beryl Harold Levy, author and lecturer at Columbia University's School of General Studies, will teach the "Philosophy of Law" course (Philosophy 14) at the College next semester. The course formerly was taught by the late Prof. Felix S. Cohen.

"Relations of Philosophy to the Sciences" (Philosophy 27) will be taught next semester by Dr. Ernest Nagel of Columbia University. Dr. Nagel has just been elected president of the American Philosophical Association.

Retrospect

This has been a term of trials, of referenda and of a raise. Students will pay a $2.00 Activities Fee—a fifty percent increase from last term—for the spring semester. Two trials which have dragged on for quite a while have just reached their conclusions. The trial of the suspended football coaches has gone to the Board of Higher Education for a decision this month while the libel suit launched against The New York Times by four students involved in the case of 1949 resulted in a hung jury and the scheduling of a new trial in February.

During the term the College took part in the production of an educational television series — Panorama; a former president of the United States, Harry Truman, addressed the campus; the development of a graduate school is looming in the distance; the Commerce Center was renamed after Bernard Baruch; the Helsinki Chorus performed in the Great Hall; Walter Winchell and Senator McCarthy slurred the college; the Observation Post editorial board was suspended; newspaper activities for not retracting an objectional editorial.

We noted with sorrow the passing of Prof. Felix Cohen, a loved teacher of philosophy and a former editor of The Campus.

Sports continued in its upward climb; we had a championship soccer team and our underdog basketball players won within three points of upsetting nationally ranked Manhattanville.

The Campus has published twenty issues this term for the first time in over a decade, and according to a student referendum, each newspaper will publish semi-weekly next semester; if the newly elected SC officers continue with as much zeal as they have shown since the elections, next term's council promises to be most effective.

Leaving Space

The expected Manhattanville appropriation brings us through the final tangle of red tape which has enmeshed the college administration for the last six years.

At last we can foresee the end of the many delays which have been beginning to evoke unhealthy pessimism on the part of the student body toward Manhattanville planning.

We hope that the invasion of the masons, carpenters and painters on the Manhattanville campus will stir new hope in the hearts of those cynics who have come to accept our cramped and overworked facilities.

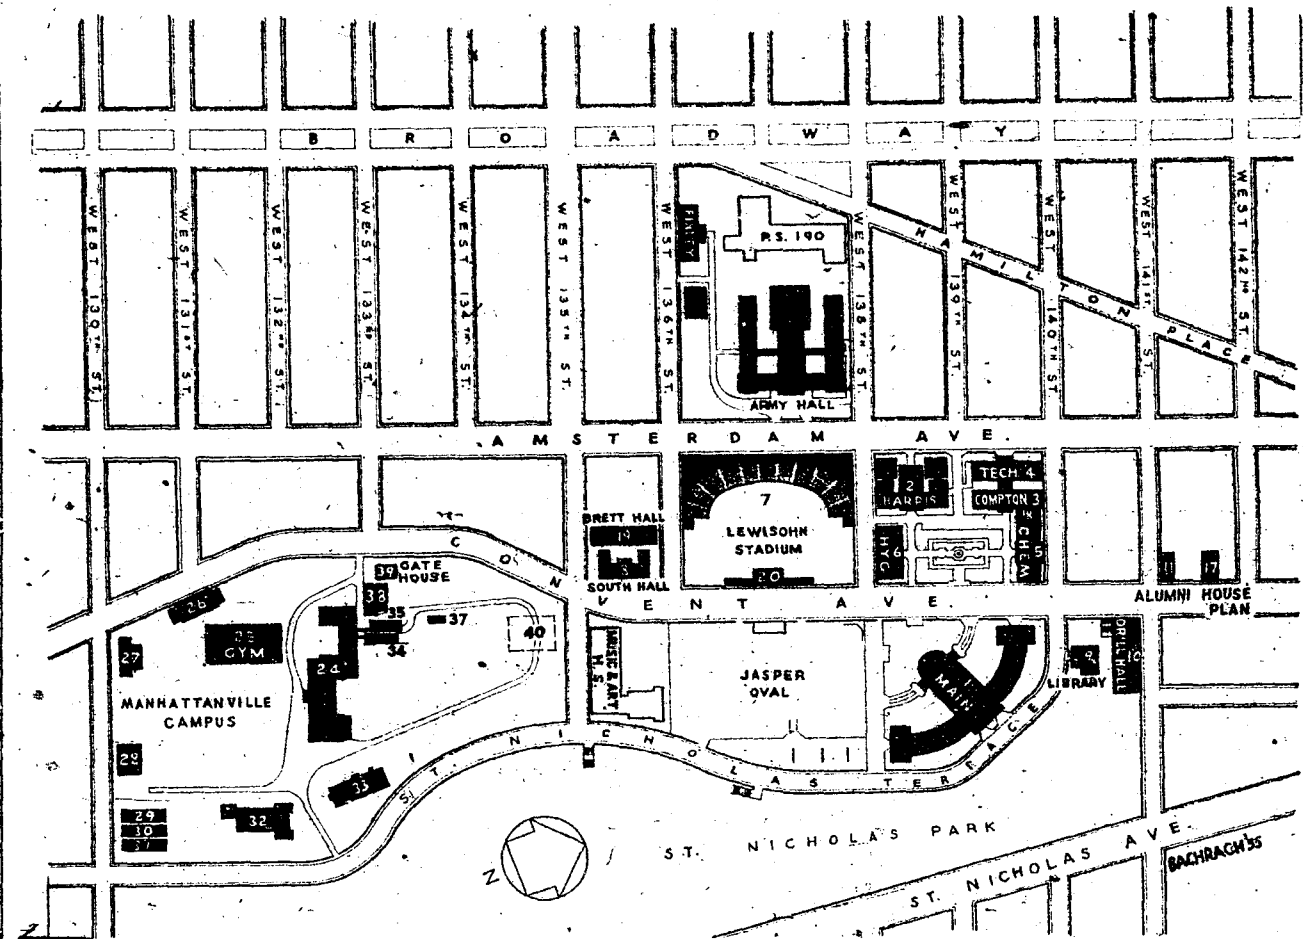

We can now look forward without hesitancy to the day when our expanded campus will allow the College community to realize its curricular and co-curricular potential which has been stymied by the need for breathing space.

Free Clothing

Under the aegis of the College's Committee on Cultural Relations, the College plunged into a noble project of bringing to the school a lineup of uplifting activities. The first program presented, as you will remember, was the Great Appearance of the Helsinki Chorus.

With the hope of continuing this new tradition of cultural activities, Phi Epsilon Pi is making its own modest contribution. On Thursday, January 14, at 12:30, PEP will present Miss Lois DeFee, who will speak on "Burlesque and the Art of Dress." Admission to the program is one or more dollars of clothing. Proceeds go to a Korean clothing charity. It is hoped that the male populace of the College will give the shirt off its back for the Korean orphans to see a man who has not hesitated to do the same in the past.

Suspend Evening Student For Column Attacking Prof.

Mark Lando, Evening Session student and member of the staff of Main Events has been suspended from publication work by the Student-Faculty Committee on Student Affairs as a result of "personal attacks" on Prof. Ephraim Cross (Romance Languages) made in his column. Lando, in a column written the week of December 14, referred to Professor Cross as "Ephraim 'Double' Cross," and "Effie Cross" and said "this vindication of the worthwhile causes" is indicative of the deplorable depravity of a faculty member that can qualify as a Julius Rosenberg but not as a Sacco, a Vanzetti, or an Emma Goodman.

SFCSA, in suspending the student from "any participation, editing, writing or distribution of Main Events or any other student publication at the College," said that, in its opinion, Lando had made "statements which hold up to public ridicule, contempt or hatred a member of the college community." He may apply for reinstatement at the end of the Spring term.

Commenting on his suspension, Lando charged that "whereas some members of the Committee acted with integrity and fairness, some others seemed more intent on settling old scores."

Admitting that the variations on Professor Cross' name were "lamentable," Lando declared that "some individuals were not motivated by the merits of the issue at hand."

Rutgers Beaver Cage Foe In Tilt at New Brunswick

By Ronnie Salzberg

The Lavender cagers will return to the hardwood this Saturday night after a three week layoff when they take on Rutgers University at New Brunswick.

In their last appearance before the Christmas recess, the Beavers displayed fine form as they broke a Brandeis zone with accurate shooting and smart play to score by a slim two point margin.

Especially outstanding were Jack McGuire and Merv Shorr. Shorr put on a fine scoring display while McGuire's playmaking enabled the Lavender to stay out in front. The former Queens ace has been improving steadily and is now showing the form expected of him.

Gordon High Scorer

The cagers will face virtually the same squad which they defeated 86-84 last year, on Saturday. Leading the Rutgers five will be senior forward Larry Gordon, a prolific scorer, who is the holder of almost all of Rutgers basketball scoring records. Gordon has a fine outside push shot along with an accurate jump shot.

Teaming up with Gordon will be George Sundstrom. Sundstrom at 6-5 is the Scarlet's top rebounder. Dud Tighe, Walt Porter and Don Matriolla will round out the veteran five.

The Rutgers cagers have compiled a 5-2 record, bowing only to two midwestern powers, Bradley and Purdue. They have defeated Monclair State, Newark of Rutgers, Princeton, Delaware and Wabash.

Rutgers Improved

Coach Donald White's squad is vastly improved over last year's squad which compiled a poor 8-13 record.

After this contest, the Beavers will not resume play until Jan. 30 when they take on Wagner College. Wagner last week copped the Hofstra Invitational tournament defeating Courtlandt State Teachers, last year's winner, in the final round.

The Seahawks are led by their sensational sophomore pivot man, Ed Peterson, who was voted the most valuable player in the tournament. Following this encounter, the Beavers will travel to Rider College and Montclair State Teachers, returning home to encounter Manhattan on February 6, a killing four games in eight days schedule.

Beavers Demoted In NCAA Listing

The College's basketball de-emphasis program became official this week, with the announcement that the Beavers have been dropped to the ranks of the small colleges in the official NCAA rankings. Merv Shorr was placed fifth in rebounding among the small schools while Jerry Domerschick ranked eleventh in field goal percentage.

Glat Mainstay Of Swimmers

The present swimming season marks the fourth and final season in which captain Jay Glat, one of the mainstays of the undefeated swimming team, is competing for the College.

Coming to the College from Evander Childs High School, which has one of the best swimming teams in the city, Jay, a freestyler, has since played an important role in the success of the Ridermen.

A six foot, 185 pounder, he swam in two meets in which he took part in the breaking of two College records: Early last season, against Kings Point, he helped break the record for the 400 yard relay. Later on in the season, he broke the 300 yard medley record while swimming against Brooklyn.

It is unfortunate that this year is Jay's last season because he has shown a steady improvement since he started swimming for the school. He plans to make this year his best season, "I hope to improve on my best time of 55.7 for the 100 in the Lafayette meet of last year."

During the past three summers, Jay worked as a lifeguard in Long Beach. While there, he swam in, and won, their annual Labor Day race twice. Before working there he was employed at Orchard Beach.

A biology major, he expects to go to post-graduate school. If a school accepts him by this June, he will leave the College then; however, if he is not accepted, he will graduate next fall.

Beaver Booter Paces All-Stars

Pinky Pinczower scored only one goal in his College career. That one, against Brooklyn College two years ago, brought the Metropolitan soccer championship to the Beavers. Last week Pinky did it again. He scored the only goal that defeated Dixie in the annual North-South game in Sarasota, Florida on Dec. 29.

On the day of his arrival in Florida, Pinky played in a game against the University of Florida in which the North and South merged to beat that college by a score of 3-1.

Several days later, playing under lights, he scored the goal that has made him a hated "Yankee" in Dixie.

Although many of the members of the College's soccer squad were invited, the brilliant halfback was the only one who accepted the invitation to the event.

Boxers to Open Season With Trip to West Point

Looking to better last season's record of one win, one loss, and one tie, the College's boxing team journeys up the Hudson this Saturday to meet a traditionally strong West Point squad. The meeting is the first of the season for Coach Yustin Sirutis' battlers, in a four game schedule.

In last year's encounter with the Cadets, the Beavers came out on the short end of a 6-2 score.

The outlook for the upcoming season is confused in that the Lavender has a solid core around which a winning squad may be built, and yet the loss of four lettermen from last year's team serves to point up a definite material shortage.

Co-captains Arnie Slomowitz and Richie Evans are the men Coach Sirutis will be counting on to get the Beavers off to quick start this season. Slomowitz, who performed last year as a heavyweight, with Austin Hurd taking over Arnie's old spot, Slomowitz reached the finals of the NCAA tournament last Spring before dropping a split decision, and then, competing in the Maccabiah Games in Israel, became the lone American entrant to annex a ring title, as the classy southpaw captured the 175 lb. crown.

Missing from this season's squad are a quartet of capable performers including Frank Quinlan and Jimmy Hess, who along with 125 lb. Evans, were the Beavers' lone point-scorers against West Point last year.

Fencers to V With Yale Sa

Coach Edward Lucia's Lavender swordsmen will be seeking initial victory of the young fencing season this Saturday afternoon at 2, when the highly-touted University fencing team journey in from New Haven, Connecticut to encounter the Beavers in Main Gym.

This Saturday's tilt will be first for the Beavers since bowed to the Columbia University fencers three weeks ago by a count.

The Bulldogs practically the same team which downed Beavers last year, 18 to 9.

Barring unforeseen injury Coach Lucia, who is in his year as Beaver fencing manager will depend on Dick Susco, Sugin and Algis Ratkelis to pose the Yale sabermen.

Susco and Sugin, both of starred towards the latter part last season, performed ably in Beaver loss to Columbia. Ratkelis, a sophomore, is the outstanding newcomer to the squad.

In the foils, Lucia will be relying on Jonas Weiss, Boris Patchsky and Aubrey Seeman, all seniors, to score against the Bulldogs.

In the epee division, Coach Lucia expects to start co-captains Lazovick, and Harvey Miller, seniors, and Ancille Malden junior.
