Post-Grad. Science Study 'Not Possible'

It is not possible for the science departments to present programs of graduate study at this time because of a lack of facilities and funds, according to Prof. Oscar Janowsky (History).

This statement was made last week in answer to charges by faculty members that the graduate school program discriminates against the physical sciences in favor of the social sciences.

Too Costly

The director of graduate studies said that the departments of biology and physics had informed him that they were not ready to give post-graduate courses because they would be too costly and there are not enough laboratory facilities available. He hinted that there would be room for laboratories after Manhattanville opened, but he doubts whether there would be enough money to build them.

Prof. Charles Corcoran (Physics) said that his department could design a graduate program in theoretical physics without the need of more laboratory space, but noted that there would not be enough students registering for such a course to pay for it.

"Cooperative Venture"

Approximately twenty graduates are necessary for the presentation of a post-graduate course.

Funds for the graduate program are supplied by student fees and grants from private groups and foundations.

Professor Janowsky called graduate study a "cooperative venture" among administration, faculty members and students.

Dean to Ask Disciplining For Student

By Louise Gross

Unable to discover who arranged to have a box of anti-McCarthy tags delivered to a student at the College for distribution on campus, Dean James S. Peace (Student Life) has announced that he will seek disciplinary action against the student.

The student, Jim Liburd '57, had received the box last week from a man he claimed he didn't know. "We're trying to get at the root of this matter," Dean Peace said, "and Liburd has been evasive and untruthful about it. Therefore, I'm recommending that he be brought up before the Student-Faculty Discipline Committee for lying."

Changes Story

Liburd first claimed to have received the box from another student at the College. When the student denied this, Liburd, in a tape-recorded interview made with his consent, then said that Al Sirota had given him the box.

Al Sirota had been one of the organizers of a proposed student march on Washington, D.C., to support the censure of Sen. Joseph McCarthy (R.-Wis.), until it was discovered last week that he was no longer a student at the College.

"Man I Didn't Know"

When Dean Peace indicated that he would call Sirota for confirmation of Liburd's assertion, Liburd again changed his story, this time claiming that "a man I didn't know" had given him the box last Thursday morning on 132 Street and Broadway.

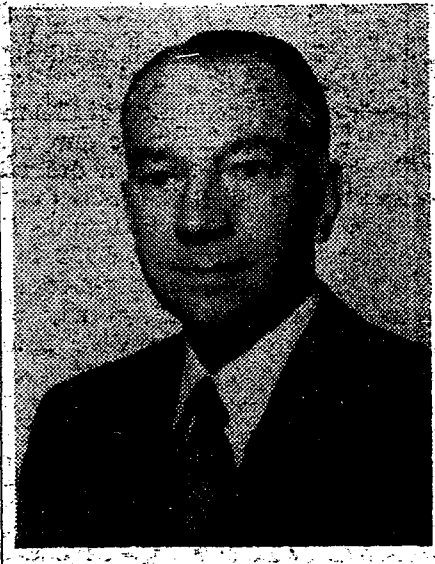

Liburd said that Sirota had told him to meet the man, de- (Continued on Page Two)

Fee Comm. Votes To Open Meetings

By Edwin S. Trautman

The Student-Faculty Fee Committee voted unanimously Monday night to open its future meetings to anyone at the College. At the same time, Dean Daniel F. Brophy (Student Life) approved a plan calling for rotation of faculty members on the SFFC.

Approves Plan

Dean Daniel F. Brophy

Dean Brophy, in approving the proposal submitted to him by the Faculty Committee of Five, explained that, beginning next semester, two faculty members of SFFC will be selected for three-year terms, two for two years, and the fifth for one year. Those members of the current committee who have served longest will be dropped first.

SC Plan Rejected

The recommendation that SFFC meetings be opened was also included in the report submitted by the Committee of Five. According to Dean Brophy, however, SFFC itself voted to open its meetings before this plan was submitted to it.

A Student Council plan calling for selection of student SFFC members by SC was rejected by the Committee of Five whose study of SFFC operations had uncovered "no friction or difficulty encountered by the committee as presently constituted."

Current Setup

The student members of SFFC now include the treasurers of SC and THC, and one representative each from the publications, clubs and classes.

In explaining the retention of this group, Dean Brophy noted that "the committee was very opposed to leaving out those broad areas of College life in which students are most deeply concerned."

"Year Terms Desirable"

Latin Guests To be Feted Next Tuesday

Final plans are being made for the visit of six Latin American Students to the College next Tuesday. The students, who have just returned from Europe on Pax-Romana scholarships, will be guests of the Metropolitan New York Region, National Student Association.

Current plans for the visitors' reception begin with an interview with President Gallagher at 10. They will then meet with members of The Campus, and Observation Post.

Campus Tour

At 11 the group will be taken on a one-hour tour of the campus. A luncheon will be held in their honor in the faculty dining room at noon.

After the luncheon, the group will leave for an afternoon visit to the United Nations. There they will be introduced to the representatives from their native countries.

Visit Film Labs

The visitors will return to the College after supper when they will visit the labs of the Film Institute and the studios of the Art department. Their activities for the day will end with a visit to a session of the Evening Session Council.

The six students include: Manuel Esteban Cal y Mayor from Mexico, a major in jurisprudence; Enrique Velez Garcia of Puerto Rico, majoring in medicine; Florencio Delgado from Panama, a diplomacy student; Jaime Cordova, a Peruvian medical student; and Pedro Sauma of Bolivia and Gustavo Getti of Paraguay, both law majors.

The Latin American guests will visit six colleges in the metropolitan area.

Advisor to Catholic Students Hits 'Offensive' Merc Joke

A joke which appeared in the latest issue of Mercury became the center of a controversy last week after a number of Newman Club members interpreted it as "a direct attack" against "one of the chief tenets of the Catholic faith."

The joke, which was printed on page six, column one, alluded to the Virgin Birth.

It was brought to the attention of the Reverend Father William J. Mulloy, counsellor to Catholic students at the College, by Phyllis Queally '55, president of the Newman Club, after many students had complained about it.

Writes to Advisor

In a letter written to Prof. Coleman O. Parsons (English), Mercury's faculty advisor, Father Mulloy berated the publishing staff and the faculty advisor who "permitted the attack" on a basic Catholic belief.

Father Mulloy called the joke "thoroughly offensive" and "insulting ridicule," as well as an "attempt at humor."

Expresses Regret

Replying to the Father's letter, Professor Parsons expressed regret that the joke had proved offensive. He said that he had conferred with the staff of the humor magazine, and they would "exercise great care in the future to exclude jokes that might wound any religious feelings."

Prof. Coleman O. Parsons

John Turner '55, Mercury editor, said that the joke would "certainly not have been published if we had known that it would prove offensive."

Three Groups Join To Collect Clothing

Clothing for Korean children will be collected beginning Friday outside Knittle Lounge and in House Plan.

The drive, jointly sponsored by Alpha Phi Omega, House Plan, and The Campus, will continue until next Tuesday. It was begun after a letter from Pvt. Fred Newman, stationed in Korea, was published in The Campus.

Private Newman, a former student at the College, described the Korean children as "walking around barefoot, in clothing which should not be used for dust rags." He asked the College's students to send clothing so that these children could have a warm Christmas.

House Plan began collecting the clothing at its Halloween Hop last Saturday night. It also collected ten dollars for shipping expenses. An additional ten dollars has been pledged by The Campus.

"Students may bring all kinds of clothing," said Barry Mendelsohn '57, of APO, "but we especially want children's winter garments."

Dramsoc Will Present Comedy This Weekend

When identical twins, whose natures are as opposite as those of Mr. Peeper and Rubirosa, are thrown into a situation involving a millionaire who doesn't care to be one, the millionaire's mistress, and the mistress's other lover, the result is bound to be chaotic. Confusing it is, but hilarious it is also as the subject of Jean Anouilh's musical comedy "Ring Round the Moon," which will be presented by Dramsoc this Friday and Saturday evening at the Pauline Edwards Theater.

Edward Hefferman '56, who directed the show, will play a dual lead as the twins. Last semester Ed was the recipient of the Beaver Award as the best director for his work on the Dramsoc production, "The Love of Four Colonels."

This production brings another Beaver award winner, Edward Zang to the footlights. Zang played the role of the wicked fairy in "The Love of Four Colonels" for which he was chosen as the best actor.

Hipsters Wait As Cat Goofs

A cat was missing for two hours last Thursday and thirty-five others were left motherless as a result.

Ben Patrusky '57, the stray who organized the Modern Jazz Club in conjunction with a second feline, Stuart Robinson '57, had called a first meeting of the Club. Thirty-five "progressive" cats showed and waited to be guided onto the "eternal light." It was Patrusky who was to guide. Patrusky didn't show.

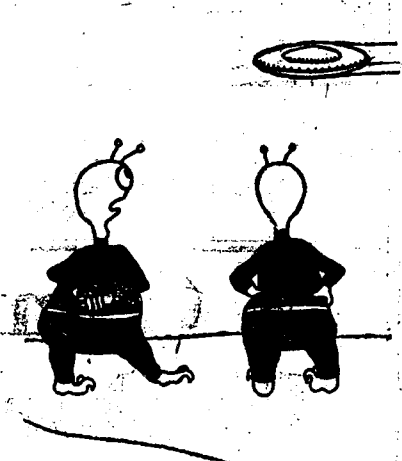

The cats waited. When finally contacted, Patrusky said, "Man, they should have faked it." In explaining his disappearance, he said he was out trying to convert some Boy Scouts.

Tomorrow, however, he promised to have a "very special treat" for those who attend the meeting to be held in 17 Main.

The Modern Jazz Club was organized to provide a fuller and deeper understanding of modern music. The club hopes to keep its membership down to a minimum, however.

Patrusky explained, "In order to create an aura of intimacy and informality which is conducive to, if not indispensable for, the complete appreciation and exploration of progressive music, it is necessary for the group to be kept small."

In the near future the club hopes to study the interpretations of Dave Brubeck and Stan Kenton.

"Ring Round The Moon" also features Barbara Kaden '57, Zara Anelian '55, Alan Marlowe '58, Burton Cohen '57, and Nan Wagener '58. Esther Small has designed the sets.

With the production of this musical comedy, Dramsoc enters its sixty-seventh year as a dramatic group at the College.

Tickets for "Ring Round The Moon" are on sale in 120 Main and are priced at eighty-five cents and one dollar. They may also be purchased at the door before the 8:30 curtain time.

Merc Begins Beauty Quest

A contest to choose the Miss Mercury who will appear in this year's 75th Anniversary Issue will begin this week. All the cute chicks who wish to enter should come to the Mercury office, F3, Army Hall basement between 12-2, Thursday or 3-4, Friday.

Any pertinent photos should also be produced at this time. Groups at the College are invited to sponsor candidates for the title of Miss Mercury. In addition to having her picture published in Mercury, the lucky winner will be the recipient of other awards, including tickets to a hit Broadway show.

John Turner '55, editor of Merc, said, "We also plan to enter the winner in the annual Miss Cherry Blossom contest held in Washington D.C. This issue's Miss Mercury shall be the pride of City College. We will spare no effort in our search for the right coed."

Applicants for the Miss Merc title should come early to avoid the anticipated rush.

Patrol of ES Is Underway

Four detectives from the United Detective Service Bureau began patrolling the campus Monday night. Posted on St. Nicholas Terrace, Convent Avenue, the Quadrangle, and Amsterdam Avenue, the detectives policed the College from 6 to 11.

On Tuesday and Thursday evenings, an additional detective will patrol the area between the College and the High School of Music and Art. On Fridays, the force will be reduced to two.

"The need for this kind of protection has long been felt," said Dr. Bernard Levy (Director, Evening Session). For years, the College has been plagued with incidents of thievery, and muggings.

In order to combat the recent increase in vandalism, Student Council's Legislative Committee drew up a list of preventive measures which students could take. These included avoiding the use of St. Nicholas Park and marking personal property with adequate identification.

UBE Hours

Students will only have three more opportunities for receiving money for sold books or retrieving unsold ones from the Used Book Exchange, according to Gerry Marburg '55, UBE manager.

The UBE will be open 12-2 tomorrow, and from 10-12 on the two following Fridays.

Grad Fellowships Offered to Seniors

Male seniors who plan to teach on the college level and who expect to enter graduate school in September, 1955, may now apply for a cash stipend of up to 1800 dollars for the first year of graduate study being offered by the Danforth Foundation of St. Louis.

These Danforth Graduate Fellowships are open to men who are of outstanding academic ability, personality congenial to the classroom, and integrity and character, including faith and commitment within the Christian tradition.

Applications must be submitted to Prof. Gustave G. Bischof (Mechanical Engineering) in 105 Technology as soon as possible.

Discipline

(Continued from Page One) scribed as "wearing an army field jacket," to receive the box. He admitted that he thought it "peculiar" that he knew so little about this man.

Possible Suspension
Dean Peace has also informed Sirota that if he doesn't explain his role in the affair by November 12, his misrepresentation as a student will be entered on his record card.

The disciplinary action to be taken against Liburd can range "anywhere from a reprimand to dismissal from the College," according to Dean Peace.

Pershing Rifles to Get Award For Efficiency in National Test

By Nat Benezra
A gold loving-cup has been awarded to the English Regimental Headquarters of the Pershing Rifles at the College by the National Headquarters of the Pershing Rifles, for efficiency and cooperation in national competition.

The trophy will be presented to Colonel Hamilton (Military Science), in behalf of the ROTC, on Thursday in Drill Hall. It will be put on display in Lincoln Corridor temporarily and then moved to Drill Hall where it will reside permanently.

The award was made at the National Assembly of the Pershing Rifles in Chicago Saturday night, Oct. 30. The four delegates from the College were Colonel Richard Bozshyak '57, Captain John Branniff '56, Captain Matthew Cyrelson '56, and Lieutenant Philip Goldstein '57.

Among the items upon which the award was based are military courtesy and discipline, expansion of units, administration, and public relations.

The Committee of Five report also specified that original jurisdiction in approving club budgets belongs to the SC Fee Committee. It requires SC to set a deadline for submission of all requests by student groups for inclusion in the Student Activity Fee Budget. SCFC may refuse to consider the request of any group which fails to meet this deadline.

Council's Responsibility
"This," explained Dean Brophy, "gives Council both the responsibility and the duty of seeing that eligible student groups get suitable appropriations. SFFC will not consider any request not originally submitted to the SC Fee Committee."

"If any group feels it has been wronged once the budget has been submitted to me," he added, "they may request a hearing by SFFC which will then make its final recommendation."

Nat Holman Back at Helm As Cagers Begin Practice

By Martin Ryza

Amidst a shuffle of reporters and photographers, Nat Holman began his thirty-fourth season of coaching basketball at the College as varsity practice opened last Monday.

After having sat out the last two seasons under suspension, he was back at the position that earned him the title of Mr. Basketball.

When the photographers got through snapping the familiar team poses, Holman greeted some thirty hopefuls who had turned out. He has a month to get a team ready for the opening game.

Only two of the players are familiar to Holman. They are team captain Merv Shorr and Ronnie Kowalski. Both are three-year veterans who played under Holman as freshmen. Otherwise the coach said: "It's all new to me. I know we have a difficult schedule but we ought to have a good season since most of the players have had a year or two of competitive experience."

Besides Shorr and Kowalski, he has eight returning lettermen but only two, Jack McGuire and Herb Jacobsohn, are sure of making the team. The four named players were on the starting team last season and will most probably retain their berths. The problem is to find a suitable replacement for the graduated Jerry Domerschick, high scorer for the past three seasons.

Even though there is no individual on this year's squad who possesses Domerschick's all around ability, the team should have more scoring punch. It will have greater depth with some promising sophs around to lend a hand to the veterans.

Top Point-Maker

Off last year's performance chart, Merv Shorr looms as the Beavers' big scoring threat. Shorr, a burly 6 ft. 4 in., averaged better than sixteen points a game. He can score with jump shots from anywhere around the basket and also has a good line drive one-hander. He is the best board man on the team and holds the College single game rebound record. The bulk of the playmaking will be handled by Jack McGuire. A lot depends on what this lanky 6 ft. 2 in. backcourt operative can do. He was a consistent performer last year both in scoring and in setting up baskets.

Herb Jacobsohn is the team's best defensive player. He's 6 ft. 2 in., an excellent rebounder for his height and a tireless ball-hawk. He can score but didn't shoot much last year.

Ronnie Kowalski, 6 ft. 5 in., had a very poor season last year but is potentially the best shot-maker on the team. His lack of poise has prevented him from capitalizing on a natural shooting touch. If he settles down, opposing centers will have trouble holding him in check.

The best of the sophomores are Bob Rosenberg (waiting for an injured finger to mend), Bill Lewis, and Ralph Schefflan. Rosenberg and Lewis, both 6 ft. 3 in., will add strength up front. If needed they can move into the pivot, a position they played on the freshman team. Schefflan is 5 ft. 11 in., has good outside shots and can drive hard. He is a good bet to make the starting five at least by mid-season when McGuire's eligibility will be up.

Mr. Basketball is Back

Rams Top Harriers, 17-4 Kowalski Stars for Beavers

Fordham's cross country team easily beat the College squad, 17-46, at Van Cortlandt Park last Saturday.

Coach Bruce's charges had done pretty well till this losing to Upsala by a narrow margin and outclassing Harvard and Fairleigh Dickinson. But against the powerful Rams they were out of the money all the way.

Fordham took eight of the first ten places. There were two triple ties. Val Simmons, Ed McGuirk, and Walter Koehner deadlocked for first with a clocking of 28:04. However, for scoring purposes they are arbitrarily allotted first, second, and third place, respectively.

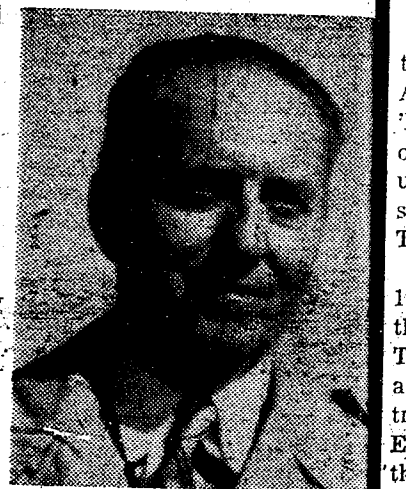

Al Fitzgerald, John Curren, and Ed Kilkelly also ran a triple tie. They were timed at 29:16.

The Beavers salvaged the two other spots in the top ten. Bill Kowalski turned in the second fastest five miles of the day and the fastest of his career, 28:15. He has been improving right along.

Rick Hurford took tenth place in the time of 29:21. It was also his fastest time.

From here on the hill and dalers will have easier going. They have two dual meets remaining, against Queens this Saturday and N. Y. Maritime the following Tuesday. Neither team figures to be tough.

The Maritime meet is scheduled on the same day as the Metropolitan cross-country championships. Originally the Mets were to be run yesterday but the rains came.

Weightlifters Outstand In Met AAU Competition

The Beaver Barbell Club, which for years has been trying to achieve varsity status, came out on its winning way last week by co-captain Don Moskoski who captured second place in the 165-pound class, the weightlifter came in first in the College Division of the Metropolitan Athletic Development meet, completed last Saturday.

Other Beavers who placed were Steve Stone, third in the 165-pound class, Jonas Weiss, third in the 181-pound class, and Cosens who took fourth in the 181-pound class.

Sports Notes

Wrestling

In its first preseason warmup the College's wrestling team made a fine showing against a strong squad representing the McBurney Y.

The match was held in the Tech gym on Friday night, a practice scrimmage, with some matmen participating in more than the usual one match. Particularly outstanding was the performance of Morty Schlein, who made the fastest pin of the evening. He pinned John De Fazio in 44 seconds of the first period. Other Beavers who pinned their men were: Seymour Holtzman 147, captain Norm Balot 157, and Dick Barry 177.

Sal Sorbera 123, Al Taylor 147, and Spencer Neusbaum 147, all won their matches on points.

Intra-Murals

With the holidays over, this term's intramural program is ready to swing into action. Almost every type of contest has been added to the program in order that more students can have the opportunity to display their athletic talents.

However, Prof. Alton E. Richards (Hygiene) has declared that very few applications have been made for student managers and referees.

The only qualifications for the posts are a working knowledge of sports and a sincere interest. Students who are interested should contact Professor Richards in 107 Hygiene.

Booters Beat Queens, 3-0 Meet Stevens Tech Today

By Hank Grossman

Sloshing and sliding their way over the rain-drenched terrain of Queens College, Beavers routed the highly touted Knights, 3-0, Saturday, to extend their undefeated record to five straight while mathematically eliminating Queens from championship contention.

Battling it out for offensive honors once again were the Mr. Big ("Wolf" Westl) and the Mr. Little (Johnny Koutsantanou) of the Beaver's forward line. This time it was "Wolf" who had a slight edge as he kicked in a pair of goals as compared with Johnny's single tally to account for all the Beavers' scoring.

Today, the Beavers journey to Hoboken, New Jersey, where they tangle with Stevens Tech. The Techmen, on the basis of their past performances, should make it a very close contest.

Grand Total

As a result of this goal, Koutsantanou upped his three-year collegiate total to eighteen which moves him one ahead of Tommy Holm's all-career standard of seventeen goals. John had tied the record with a pair of goals against Hunter, last week.

He needs one more score to equal the season high of nine goals. Westl is only one behind Koutsantanou. They are also one-two in the race for the Met. Conference scoring leadership. "Wolf" took over second place from Pete Meyers of Queens who went scoreless in Saturday's affair.

The Beavers wasted no time in going to work on the Queens defense. With only one minute and twenty seconds gone in the first period, Westl powdered a shot into the lower right hand corner of the nets for the College's first score.

The initial period featured outstanding defensive work by both teams. Vahe Jordan, Bob Hayum and Pierre Mayer played particularly good ball for the Beavers and limited the number of shots taken at goalie Wally Meise a minimum. However, later on in the game Wally was forced to make brilliant saves in order to serve his second straight shutout victory.

The second tally did not come until late in the second period. At 17:18, Koutsantanou scored a pass from co-captain Gus Galerio to put the Beavers ahead 2-0.

Scoring Duo

This was more than was needed to notch the Lavender's fifth goal but at 10:50 Westl teamed with Koutsantanou to score third and final goal of the afternoon.

Queens now has a 3-1-2 record which means that Brooklyn Kingsmen have only one set and so in all probability, the Championship will not be decided until the final game of the season when the College takes on Brooklyn at the Kingsmen's home
