Liberal Arts Students Allowed Extra Credits

Liberal Arts students affected by changes in the mathematics and science requirements will be permitted to take up to 132 credits free of charge, announced Mr. Robert Taylor (Registrar).

As a result of the changes instituted, BA candidates are required to take only one term of a four-credit course in mathematics. Originally, the curriculum required two terms of mathematics, both three-credit courses. The science sequence courses were raised from three to four credits, with students being required to take sixteen credits in science. Before these modifications were introduced, only five science credits were required.

Due to the overall changes, therefore, students will entail a loss of four credits for those affected. We will be liberal with the students who are now enrolled in their junior and senior years and who have not yet completed their requirements," Mr. Taylor said. He stated that students would be allowed one extra credit for each incomplete science course. He added:

Where a student has had six credits of mathematics instead of the required four, and has not yet met his science requirement, five credits would be allowed. However, the student need not take more than the required 128 credits if he chooses not to. Students, moreover, do not have to make formal applications for permission to take these credits. We simply recognize that various difficulties arise and some provisions have to be made for students caught in the middle."

Those who entered prior to September and who have completed Math 61 may be excused from Math 62 provided that the number of credits earned in mathematics and science totals at least nineteen.

Announces Changes

Mr. Robert L. Taylor (Registrar) yesterday announced that matriculated B.A. students will need only one term of math and may take 132 credits without charge.

Senior Class

Senior class cards entitling holders to discounts to various senior activities are now on sale in the Senior Office, 109 Army, for one dollar.

Pledges to the senior prom are also available in the Senior Office. The prom will be held Saturday evening, Dec. 25, at the Park Lane Hotel, and will cost twenty dollars and fifty cents per couple. Holders of class cards will receive a fifty-cent discount.

A five-dollar pledge must be received by the Senior Office before Oct. 31. Another five dollars must be handed in by Nov. 19.

Aspects of Japanese Culture to be Studied This Spring

A new course, dealing with aspects of Japanese civilization, will be offered by the College coming spring term, according to Mr. Arthur E. Tiedmann (Instructor), and Prof. J. Cohen (Economics), who drew up the course. The course will be officially designated as Unattached 8. The grant of between 700-1200 dollars for the course, depending on expenditures, has been received from the Japan Society. The Society is composed of prominent Americans having a special interest in Japan, and has been in existence for many years. The course will carry two credits and will meet every Tuesday from 2-3:40 P.M. It is open only to Juniors and Seniors. The course is to consist of fourteen lectures; each lecture will deal with a special aspect of Japanese culture.

The lectures will be delivered by recognized authorities, at least ten of whom will be guests from without the College. They will include visiting professors, writers and professional men. Whenever appropriate, films and other audio-visual aids will be employed.

Kosher Food Planned For College Cafeteria

Plans are now underway to add kosher meat sandwiches to the menu of the College cafeteria in the near future, according to Mr. George Shuster (Cafeteria Manager).

Representatives of the Kosher Snack Company will meet with Mr. Shuster next week to discuss the details of the proposed innovation.

"We want to be sure that the students will get their money's worth," said Mr. Shuster, "and for this reason we are taking time to get the best possible merchandise at the most reasonable prices."

Election Cards

Today is the deadline for the filing of election cards. All students who expect to attend the spring semester are required to file Election Cards in the Registrar's Office, 115 Main. Students should list on their cards their choice of both elective and required courses for next term.

The final schedule of recitations will be based in part upon student needs for courses as shown by election cards. Those who do not file cards by today will register late.

61 Receive Soph Honors

Sixty-one students earned Second Year Honors this term, Mr. Peter Prehn (Assistant Registrar) announced.

Those receiving Highest Honors were Simeon Berman, Gabriella de Beer, Lowell Dworin, Martin Gardy, Elise Goodman, Murray Sumner and Herbert Vertner.

Discounts Probable By End of Term

Discounts for student purchases will soon be a reality due to the efforts of Student Council. In all probability students will be able to obtain free discount cards by the end of this term, and purchase articles in the campus community and throughout the nation with large savings.

Administered by the Student Discount Division of the Student Welfare Organization, this plan involves the purchasing of the discount cards from the Metropolitan New York Region of the National Student Association.

They will be signed by issuing officers and will bear the name of the College, the student, his address and his signature. Columbia and New York University have also adopted this plan. Lists of the stores where purchases can be made will be available to all students.

Student's Hearing Delayed By BHE

By Louise Gross and Ed Trautman

The appearance of Mrs. Sema Gorkin '55 before the Board of Higher Education unit investigating subversion has been postponed indefinitely because of her public statement last week that she would "vigorously decline to aid such a loyalty probe," Mr. Michael A. Castaldi, director of the inquiry, announced yesterday.

Judge Pecora Likely to Fill BHE Vacancy

Reports in the New York Herald Tribune and the New York Post list former State Supreme Court Justice Ferdinand Pecora as the leading candidate to fill the seat on the Board of Higher Education vacated by the resignation of Generoso Pope, Jr.

Mr. Pope, who resigned on September 27 because of personal commitments, was appointed to serve a nine-year term on the BHE by former Mayor William O'Dwyer in 1950.

Mr. Pecora, a former candidate for mayor of New York, would serve the remainder of Mr. Pope's term if named to the Board. He is president of the Four Freedoms Foundation and is a former student of the College. He received his LL.B. from the New York Law School in 1906.

The Tribune article cites an unwritten rule of New York education boards which would require that Mr. Pope be succeeded by an Italian. A similar vacancy on the Board of Education caused by the appointment of George A. Timone to a judgeship, must, according to the unwritten rule, be filled by a Catholic who lives in Manhattan.

Two weeks ago Mrs. Gorkin was requested to appear before the BHE committee, but she had not been able to arrange an appointment. Yesterday Mr. Castaldi announced that in view of her statement, which was published in the Observation Post, he decided to "postpone her appearance and consult with his committee before taking any further action."

Mr. Castaldi said that Mrs. Gorkin had been called as a former clerk—February to May, 1951—in the BHE's Department of Planning and Design. As an ex-employee, she is now under no compulsion to cooperate with Mr. Castaldi.

Mrs. Gorkin was chairman of the College's Marxist Discussion Club and is an active member of the Labor Youth League which has been listed by the U.S. Attorney General as "subversive." The group is appealing the listing.

Mrs. Gorkin is the first student to be called by the Castaldi committee. She is also, therefore, the first student known to refuse to cooperate with the BHE's efforts to eliminate Communists from the municipal colleges.

Although President Gallagher has said that all citizens, students not excepted, who have knowledge about the operation of an international conspiracy are obligated to reveal that information, he noted that there was not much

Representatives Meet Today To Plan 'Join a Club Week'

Representatives from many of the College's organizations will meet today at 12:15 in 20 Main to formulate plans for "Join a Club Week."

The week is scheduled to begin on November 15 and will include a Club Fair in the Great Hall on Tuesday, November 18. The week is intended to increase student interest and membership in the College's clubs and organizations.

Rallies are planned for the Great Hall with prominent guest speakers invited. Other activities planned for the week are a film program on Monday, a social dance on Wednesday, and a Student-Faculty Tea on Friday.

Plays performed by the drama groups, forums sponsored by the political clubs, and demonstrations by the athletic clubs, are also scheduled. Tech groups will offer demonstrations and films during the week.

Organizations interested in participating in Join a Club Week are urged to attend today's meeting. Clubs unable to send representatives to the meeting should contact Barry Weinberg '56 in 20 Main as soon as possible.

Student-Faculty Tea Tomorrow Afternoon

The second in the series of Student-Faculty Teas for this semester will be held tomorrow from 3-5 in Knittle Lounge. The tea is sponsored by Dramsoc, the College drama group, announced Miss Cynthia Benzing (Student Life).

The teas are held every other week, alternating with the Friday afternoon dances.

Friday afternoon Student-Faculty teas were initiated last semester and seven of them were sponsored by numerous organizations, including the Education Society, Hillel and House Plan.

Clark Assails Del. Governor For Race Violence Inaction

By Matt Kaufman

Prof. Kenneth B. Clark (Psych.) charged that the Governor of Delaware, J. Caleb Boggs, played a "major role" in the mob violence, opposing racial integration in the city's schools, which recently prevailed there. "He was hesitant and indecisive at the crucial initial stages of lawlessness; he contributed to the duration and intensity of defiance by his willingness to make concessions to those who threatened violence."

Prof. Kenneth Clark

Prof. Clark, who is social science consultant to the legal staff of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, went to Milford at its request in order to make an objective appraisal of the total situation.

Gives Mob Strength

"The Governor," he said, "was in Milford when one of the earlier hysterical mass meetings was held. The pattern of lawlessness was clear at that time and yet he refused to publicly censure the methods of the mob. Through this, he gave status and strength to those who incited others to violate the United States Constitution and the laws of the State of Delaware."

"Gov. Boggs tried to convince the NAACP representatives that they should 'compromise' by agreeing to withdraw the eleven Negro students from the Milford school 'voluntarily' until the protests decreased. The Negro leaders knew then that eventually some method would be found whereby the eleven Negro students would be ejected from the school."

American Ideals Defeated

"At no time did the Governor give clear and unequivocal support to those who advocated firmness and based their decisions upon lawful processes and justice."

Prof. Clark said, "Bryant W. Bowles, President of the National Association for the Advancement of White People, may well claim a great 'victory.' America, however, cannot afford any more such 'victories.' This 'victory' which was made possible through an 'understanding with high state authorities' is a tragic temporary defeat for traditional American principles of democracy and justice."

Dehumanizes White Children

"It has been found that opposition to desegregation decreases when those in authority insist upon compliance with the law in the face of initial opposition, and that prolonged and intense opposition is more likely to occur when the attempts at school desegregation are apologetic, gradual, and piecemeal."

"If the political authorities in other states are equally delinquent and if no effective substitutes are to be found," the professor stated, "then the facts that Negro children are the immediate victims and white children are being dehumanized under the guise of 'education' are secondary ironies to the primary and related fact that the structure of lawful, constitutional government will be severely, if not fatally, weakened."

likelihood of disciplining Mrs. Gorkin as a student of the College.

"But," the president emphasized, "the student as a citizen has a moral responsibility not to conceal information about subversive activities."

THE STUDENT UNION STORY:

Need for SU Recognized in 1944

By Louise Gross

Second of a series

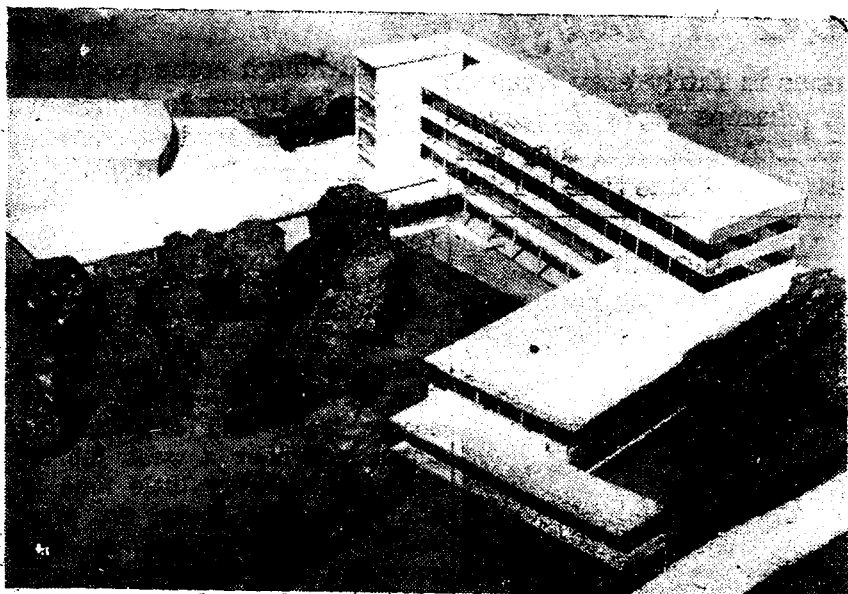

At present, House Plan provides most of the on-campus social life for students at the College.

However, House Plan's limited facilities can serve only a small proportion of the student body. For years, the College has had a center with facilities for students, but it wasn't until 1944 that efforts to create a student center began to take shape.

That year, the Alumni Association initiated a drive to revive alumni interest for the College's 40th anniversary in 1947. A survey conducted by the Association, which studied the needs of the college revealed, among other things, the necessity for a student center.

In 1946 the City College Centennial Fund was begun, with a goal of 1,500,000 dollars, of which 1,000,000 dollars was to be toward the center.

The drive was halted in 1948 because a site for the proposed center could not be found. Then, in 1952, largely through the efforts of alumni, the city granted the grounds of Manhattanville College to the College. Here was the ideal site for the Student Union.

The Student Union, in scale model, shown as visualized by planners in 1948. Plans for the new building were later dropped due to high costs, and reconstruction of the Academy Building at Manhattanville is now underway.

In 1952, a major question facing the newly installed president, Dr. Buell G. Gallagher, was that of building the long-awaited Student Center. The estimated cost for building it was over 3,000,000 dollars, a sum which would take years to amass.

It was then discovered that to convert the Academy building in Manhattanville, which had been a dormitory, into classrooms would cost over 2,000,000 dollars.

President Gallagher then decided that the "one-shot" Centennial Fund should become a more modest, continuous one, and so the City College Fund was born.

In Nov. of '52, the city agreed to pay for renovating the Student Union building up to the painting. By 1953, the City College Fund had amassed 200,000 dollars for painting, decorating, and furnishing it. The major physical Don't They Know About Elevators?

In case of a fire blocking the stairway to the offices in the Main Building tower, occupants still have one means of escape—out the window and down a rope.

Located in the seventh floor tower office is the C. F. Davey Fire Escape, a device widely used at the beginning of the century for lowering a person slung in a safety belt fifty feet at the rate of twenty feet per minute. Mr. Robert Petross (Building and Grounds) said, "It will work if the rope isn't rotted and weakened with age."

Members of the Planning and Design staff go up to their tower offices each day. None has tested the "Safety" rope. Dr. Alton Lewis (Director, Student Union) said, "we'd rather face the flames."

problems had been solved. Now began the work on organization and details.

Next week: The Student Union Fee.

Note Superior Ed. Facilities

The new facilities at South Hall have provided the School of Education with greater office facilities, a superior library, and a better integrated curriculum, according to Prof. W. I. Pearman (Education).

Last March, the College's education program was evaluated by the American Association of Colleges for Teacher Education. Certain aspects of the curriculum, such as physical facilities, the library, and the guidance program were brought under criticism.

Prof. Pearman stated that with the moving of the Education School to South Hall, steps are being taken to alleviate some of the conditions. He pointed out that the "Education Library has added over 3000 volumes, almost doubling its size."

"The big thing here at South Hall is that instructors in educational psychology and industrial arts education are now able to confer and hold clinics right in the same building. This provides a cohesive, working unit.

"Also," Prof. Pearman added, "office space is better distributed and it is divided in such a way that greater privacy is given to instructors for conferences with students."

A new advisory position has been added to the Alumni Association staff, according to Mr. Howard Keval '38, (Director, Alumni Association).

Mr. Harry D. Spielberg '19 has been awarded the Centennial Medal for his work as Chairman of the first annual College Fund for the support of Student Union and the College Placement Bureau.

Soccer Team Pacing Loop With Great Offensive Play

The College's soccer team has gotten by its first two games in fairly easy fashion though it hasn't yet hit its top form. Still, the defending Met champs have displayed the best offense in the conference while beating Pratt and the L. I. Aggies. But they will get their first tough test when they meet Kings Point at home Saturday. Game time is 1:30.

"This will be our first crucial game," according to halfback Bob Hayum, one of the key men in the Lavender's defensive array. "Pratt and the Aggies aren't very good teams but Kings Point should be tough all the way."

Despite their 4-2 win over the Aggies, the Booters are far from satisfied with their all around performance of last Saturday. They were breezing 4-0 at the halfway mark but they failed to score after that and ended up on the defensive in a sloppy fourth quarter.

"We started putting in our substitutes too early and they got completely disorganized," Hayum explained. "Before the game we agreed to use everybody if we piled up a good lead. Well, we were ahead 4-0, so in went the subs. They shouldn't have been sent in till later in the half."

The booters were at their best in the first two periods as they displayed an explosive attack that netted three goals in the first quarter. "Our forward line is the best in the league and the team was about perfect in that first half," Hayum said.

Rifle Coach Hopes For Better Record

Don't be alarmed if you happen to hear rifle shots in the vicinity of Lewisohn Stadium, for it is only the College's Rifle squad practicing.

Under the direction of Sfc. Richard E. Hoffman, the beaver marksmen have been in training for over a week in Lewisohn Stadium. With a year and a half of coaching experience at the College, Sergeant Hoffman will try to better the squad's fifth place finish of last season, a year in which the team compiled an impressive 11-4 record. "We don't expect to do any worse," he predicted. "In fact we hope to do better."

Booter Boosts Marks In Own Colorful Way

By Shelly Scherr

Although some people spend most of their lives studying books trying to figure out "a system" to beat the cards soccer player Rudy Gedamke has at the young age of nineteen developed a system of cards that he claims has got the books beat. However, the books Rudy refers to are college texts.

Anyone who has the multifold responsibility of traveling to the College from Queens everyday, going to classes, maintaining a first string post on the varsity soccer team, and also holding down a 30-hour a week job on the side, has very little time to study, explains Rudy. So, after some experimentation, he has come up with the idea of "technicolor" study cards.

On a series of pocket size cards Rudy usually jots down the vital facts about each subject in several colors in order to "systematize things." The different colors, he explains, are for association purposes. The cards can be studied on crowded trains, between classes, and loads of other places, according to the budding soccer star.

Like many of his team mates on the Lavender booters, Rudy learned to play the sport in Germany. Though born in the United States, his parents took him to Germany at the age of three and one-half. His family returned to this country two and one-half years ago.

He received his high school diploma from Bryant Evening High School in June '53 and on the advice of his school's adviser decided to come to the College, a decision for which Coach Harry Karlin is probably very grateful to the grade adviser he never met.
