Views on Athletic Program In Pres. Gallagher's Report Meet With Mixed Reactions

Opinions on Pres. Buell G. Gallagher's appraisal of athletics at the College in his biennial report to the BHE ranged from strong disagreement to general acceptance.

Disagreement with the president's views was expressed by Stan Worschel '55, Student Athletic Association president, and Ben Trasep '56, president of the Varsity Club. "According to Dr. Gallagher, we have a fresh and healthy emphasis on amateur athletics," they commented. "We agree with the 'fresh' aspect but not with the 'healthy' one. The health of the program does depend upon the absence of commercialism but it also depends upon competent coaches. The administration's present policy has caused, and will continue to result in, the release of good coaches."

Another aspect of intercollegiate athletic policy was expressed in the opinion of Dr. Arthur Des-Grey (Faculty Manager of Athletics). "The president's report on the whole takes recommendations suggested by the General Faculty Committee on Intercollegiate Athletics in its annual report. The policy set down in the report is a wholesome one. However, the present program can still be expanded and yet not be commercialized. There is a definite need for freshman teams."

Allen Kraut '55, Day Session representative to the S.A.A. executive board, agreed that, "the president's report puts the issues involved in the correct perspective. I'm glad he makes the point that the city should provide adequate funds for a decent athletic program. Big-time gate receipts are not the proper solution."

Conference

All students or faculty members interested in serving on panels to lead discussions of sub-topics for the All-College Conference whose theme is, "What are the responsibilities of City College for developing values in thought and action?" are urged to contact Professor Edward Mack (English) in his office, 118 G Main as soon as possible.

Peace Favors Voluntary Lists 'In Principle'

Dean James S. Peace (Student Life) has given his qualified support to the principle of voluntary membership lists of College organizations.

"If we could get the students to submit the lists voluntarily, and if they could be verified without any red tape, I'd be all for it," he said. "However, I don't think we can get them voluntarily."

Formerly Voluntary

In the past, students have submitted a voluntary list of their extra-curricular activities to the Department of Student Life. But, Dean Peace pointed out, there is no way of verifying this information.

Six political clubs have indicated that they will not comply with the present ruling requiring compulsory full membership lists nor with a modified ruling which Dean Peace had planned to request from the Student-Faculty Committee on Student Affairs.

Regrets Decision

"Since the clubs have already said that they will disregard the ruling no matter what the SFCSA decides, there doesn't seem to be any point in requesting the SFCSA to modify it," Dean Peace said.

"I am sorry to see that the clubs have chosen to defy the ruling," he added. "I would much rather they had accepted it under protest. Then we could have attempted to find some solution."

The Department of Student Life is "duty-bound" to accept the SFCSA resolution, Dean Peace said. Thus, unless the resolution is changed, those organizations refusing to comply with it will lose all club privileges.

Beavers Lose 7th; Conlin Nets 23 To Pace Rams

By Sam Stein

Things were far from rosy for the Beavers at Rose Hill last night, as a strong, tournament-bidding, Fordham basketball team defeated the cagers, 78-59.

Last night's loss gives the College's team a 6-7 season record. Fordham now sports a 16-7 mark. The win was the Rams fourth straight win over the Lavender.

Despite captain, Merv Shorr's 24 points high for the game, the Beavers were unable to equal the Rams' scoring combination of Ed Conlin, Bob Reese and Billy Lyons. Conlin was high scorer for the Rose Hillers with 23 points, while Reese hit for 13 and Lyons for 11.

Cagers Away Tonight; Play Bridgeport Five

By Sam Stein

A greatly weakened Beaver five will take to the road tonight to face the University of Bridgeport Knights in a game that will see the College squad operating for the first time without the services of Jack McGuire and Bernie Cohen. The loss of both McGuire and Cohen has left Coach Nat Holman with the problem of finding a new back-court combination to replace the absent Lavender Aces. "Losing McGuire was bad enough," Holman commented, but Cohen's unexpected departure makes things worse."

New Starters

In tonight's game Holman will experiment with a starting five that he hopes will click. The coach will give starting berths to Ralph Schefflan and Walt Tanenbaum, while the other regulars, Merv Shorr, Herb Jacobson, and George Jenson, will round out the starting five.

"Both Tanenbaum and Schefflan need a little more time," Holman stated. "Just about two more weeks and I'd be sure of them. As it is both boys must grow up quickly — they're replacing two good players."

Tonight's encounter is the first between Bridgeport and the Beavers. The Knights have lost their last six games, their last loss coming at the hands of Adelphi Monday night by a score of 66-59. The quintet from the Nutmeg state has posted a 4-7 record while the cagers show a more impressive 6-4 mark.

Tight Game

Despite Bridgeport's recent losses, the game could prove to be a tight one, especially with McGuire and Cohen gone. The Knights gave Adelphi a rugged battle, with no more than six points separating the clubs until late in the second half. It was the Adelphi squad that handed the Beavers a 107-78 shellacking in the opening game of the season.

Matmen Underdogs Against Mariners

Despite a winless campaign and a period of inactivity, during the recent intersession, Coach Joe Saporita is hopeful the College wrestling team can upset Kings Point this Saturday in Tech Gym.

However, Saporita's optimism may not be enough, for Kings Point has built up an impressive 4-1 record, with victories over Colgate, U. S. Coast Guard Academy, Tufts and Brooklyn Poly. The team's lone loss came at the hands of L. I. Aggies. The Mariners are out to revenge last year's defeat to the Beavers and from all accounts, they are quite capable of doing so.

Leading the Kings Point grapplers is 137 Co-captain Ray Farris, who has gone undefeated this season. He figures to give the Beaver's Steve Karides a rough time. Among the other weight classes, the Mariners are strongest in the lighter divisions. In addition to Farris, they have 123 George Munich, an up and coming Plebe, 137 Rudy Anders, and 147 veteran Carl Mobius.

Although, the Beavers have lost all four of their matches to Hofstra, L. I. Aggies, Lafayette and Lock Haven, their showing against the Leopards, was an impressive performance despite a 15-13 setback.

NYU Sextet Defeats Femme Hoopsters, 50-18

A strong NYU women's basketball team defeated the College's female ensemble by a 50-18 count at the Violet's gym, yesterday afternoon.

High scorer for the winners was Frances Lonzisers with a 22 point total, while petite Sandy Weinberg threw in 7 points for the Beaverettes. Betty Jones followed Sandy with a 6 point mark. However, the outstanding performance of the day was performed by the College's Rusty Jones, a guard who switched at half-time to play forward for the first time, and scored 4 points.

Mermen Gain Fifth Victory Defeat Kings Point, 43-41

By Pat Sheehan

KINGS POINT, L. I.—The College's swimmers, strategically coached by Jack Rider, eked out a 43-41 victory over the Kings Point Mariners here this afternoon as Howie Schloemer swam to a new pool record of 5:16.5 in the 440-yard freestyle events.

The meet was a hard fought contest which saw the score change hands twice before the final outcome.

The Beavers grabbed an early lead when Sol Stern, Bob Kellogg, and Jimmy Johnsen came from behind to win the 300-yard medley relay in 3:12.6. Minutes later, the Lavender went ahead by six points due to Howie Schloemer's first in the 220-yard freestyle event. Kings Point reversed the lead when Charlie Grandjean, last year's Met 50-yard champ, and Harm Williams placed one-two in the 50-yard event.

Regain Lead

The Mariners' lead was short lived however, when, in the 150-yard individual medley, Tony Sousa and Jimmy Johnsen placed first and second. In the next event, the dive, Kings Point captured the first two places to put the Beavers on the short end of a 21-20 score.

Schloemer came through with a first in the 100-yard freestyle event. Kings Point grabbed second and third, bringing about a 25-25 tie. Bob Kellogg showed the way home for Shelly Manspiezer, a promising Beaver sophomore, in the 220-yard breaststroke. The College was never behind after that.

Lose 440-Relay

Howie Schloemer continued his great afternoon, by breaking the 440-yard freestyle record. The Beavers then dropped the 440-yard relay but the outcome of the meet had already been decided.

Coach Rider was very satisfied with the squad's showing, considering the swimmers have lost Ben Trasen and Lou Ruffino for the rest of the season.

This coming Saturday the swimmers face Hunter at the College.

Fencers Meet Strong Tiger Squad on Saturday

The College fencing team enters the home stretch on Saturday with an important match against Princeton on the Tiger strip. The Fencers, with victories over N.Y.U. and Fordham, expect to face stiff competition from the Tigers. Last season, Princeton defeated the Beavers, 19-10.

The Tigers, perennially one of the top teams nationally, are paced by epee-men Henry Kinwrat, Kinmont and Hoistman. Al Hoffman, last season, was fifth nationally in epee, while Kolowrat ranked sixth in the nation. Hoffman, who was placed tenth in the standings, won his three matches in last season's match against the Beavers.

The Beavers' main strength will be in the sabre which is paced by Capt. Dick Susco and Marty Wertlieb. With the loss of Ancile Malden through graduation, the epee is not up to strength. However, Joel Wolf is expected to compensate for Malden's loss, as he demonstrated his ability in matches against Columbia and N.Y.U.

After the Princeton engagement, Coach Lucia's squad will finish out the regular season against Brooklyn and St. Peter's. At the conclusion of the regular season, the Fencers may enter the NCAA Regional Tournament.

the monthly draft call is unlikely unless a national emergency arises.

A bill to extend the draft for another four years from June 1955 is now before the Senate after being passed by a large majority in the House of Representatives. The new bill does not provide for educational benefits for veterans.

After the President announced that there would be no educational benefits for those in service after February 1, there was a flurry of enlistments and voluntary inductions. Sixty thousand entered the service in January.

Criticism or Roses?

The first reading of President Gallagher's report leaves the impression that it is a good, comprehensive survey of what has happened at the College during the first two years of his administration. Unfortunately, further reading makes it evident that it is not even that.

The report is, as it was certainly intended to be, an excellent piece of public relations writing. It is a progress chart, listing the re-vamping and improvements that have been instituted at the College since President Gallagher took office in 1952.

Unhappily, it is a selection of the rosier side of the areas in which the rosier changes have been made. It neglects, almost entirely, those areas in which changes are currently in the process of being made or where progress is most sorely needed. We firmly believe that it is with those areas, where concrete proposals are most urgently needed, that this report should have dealt.

The Mistakes

The report neglects, almost entirely, such problems as student-faculty-alumni relations where, although some progress has been made, much work is still badly needed. It touches on the problem of the Student Union only long enough to say that the building is there, bypassing such problems as coordinating student activities within it and financing the running of the building itself. The question of how far the students' role in the expansion of co-curricular activities should be carried is ignored altogether.

It is with such problems as these, which confront the College every day, that this report should have been concerned. The question arises: Should we look for solutions, even proposed solutions in a report such as this? We are convinced that the answer must be yes. Otherwise, what sense is there to making such a report? If it is to be made only to comply with a Board of Higher Education ruling, then it could just as well consist of a series of progress charts submitted to the BHE for its private and quiet consideration.

We believe, however, that such reports should be made in the form of a program of constructive planning for the years ahead. If the BHE or anyone else wants to know what improvements have been made in any two-year period, the information is readily available to them in the College records. If, however, what is wanted is an honest, comprehensive consideration of those areas which need improvement, then there is a very definite and vital purpose to the preparation of the president's report.

This 1952-54 report is, in one sense, very far from being a failure: It does bring to light certain facts which should long ago have been freed from the pressure of half-truths and unspoken truths which buried them. Let's take a closer look at the major talking points of the report:

I. The Students

"It means something," President Gallagher points out, "to become a student in a College which has been a principal target of the Communist conspiracy, which has met the attacks successfully, and which has come through to a position of political and social maturity. Our students know this."

It is a welcome relief to see this basic piece of truth pointed out publicly. For years now, the College has been the target not only of the Communists but also of the extremists of the other side. The remarks which have been made and are still being made in some places, remarks intimating that the College is a nesting ground for the Communist menace, should have been refuted long before this.

II. The Double Menace

President Gallagher, citing figures to prove that the number of "subversives" employed by the College is being rapidly reduced to zero, adds that all persons who "on the basis of evidence can be identified as a member of the Communist conspiracy . . . are being separated from the College."

He says, "We are refusing to harm the innocent in order to catch the guilty . . . we are refusing to let the guilty go free in order to protect the innocent." This last statement is a ridiculous self-contradiction. The question of whether Communists should be allowed to teach here is not the problem at this time. Instead, we must ask how, in the name of common sense, is it possible to draw a fine line separating the "innocent" from the "guilty"? Who is to be the judge?

III. The Proper Emphasis

The president's discussion of the athletic program at the College is, basically, a sound study of the rehabilitation of intercollegiate sports. Unfortunately, it comes very close to being another apology for existing. It is only the firm statement that "whatever the pressures, we shall not return to commercialism" that saves this section of the report from becoming an outright plea for forgiveness.

The only important suggestion made in this report, however, is the request that something be done, and soon, to assure the College of adequate funds for its athletic program. President Gallagher, once and for all, has put in the hands of the city fathers the urgent need for funds to support a sane program of "proper emphasis on amateur athletics." We wholeheartedly hope that they do not pass over this request as they have so often in the past. The need this time, is urgent.

IV. The Summing Up

On the whole, we think that this report did fulfill the purpose for which it was intended, that of improving the College's public relations with the outside world. In future reports, however, we hope that President Gallagher will be a little less concerned with presenting the rosy side of the picture and will devote more careful attention to the many areas which are still urgently in need of some really constructive consideration.

Letters To The Editor

CITES BLEMISH

The Editor:
 I find the President's report to be a splendid document marred by only one important blemish. It is written in a vibrant, warmly personal style and quite obviously the product of a man of administrative ability, total honesty and good will. As a publication relations document it is an outstanding exception to the general rule for such outpourings: eloquence in inverse proportion to sincerity!
 To come to the blemish. The extent, really clever, offensive sense of the utterly unjust McCarthyite reproach that City College is in any way a particular breeding ground for communism carried one step too far. There is an anachronistic flavor today, in taking any pride in, or in admitting any kind of necessity for separating communists in the college by special action of the Board of Higher Education.

Action Once Justified

I am not an absolutist, and I can imagine a time when such emergency action might have been justified, when unscrupulous fanatical Marxists, abusing their prestige and authority as teachers, were able to intellectually seduce a number of really but immature minds among students. Today, in the present state of our knowledge of the activity of the communist process of government and the prevailing climate of opinion, such action is at best melodramatic and unnecessary, at worst a violation of basic human and even constitutional rights.
 The communist threat from without is huge and ominous. Let armed forces be as strong as possible in opposing it. But in this country, unlike the situation in France and Italy, the threat of communist subversion from within that Dr. Gallagher takes so seriously is, in my opinion, absolutely negligible.

Matter of Concern

It is a matter of great concern to some of us that Dr. Gallagher, by background, career and personal values is so genuine a liberal, should not see that our work as citizens and above all, as members of a great educational community, is to defend the basic rights of the individual in a democracy to free thought and free speech. If a faculty member is guilty of perverting the truth in teaching with intent to subvert this democracy, let it be proved beyond reasonable doubt, on the basis of evidence from the classroom and from personal and intellectual relations deriving from the classroom to a commitment of his peers, i.e. fellow teachers not by paid investigators hired by the Board of Higher Education.

To me it is tragic that the four presidents of our city colleges cannot see fit to take this stand before the Board and, in respect to the Feinbers Law, before the state legislature, and that in particular our president has gone out of his way to endorse the Board's course of action in this otherwise exemplary report.

Prof. Mark Brunswick, Chairman, Music

AGREES WITH PRES.

To the Editor:

In President Gallagher's remarks on overcrowding, the elimination of professionalism in athletics, the continuing struggle by the administration to provide better facilities for the students, and the many benefits that the City derives from its support of the College, he expresses views which will receive the wholehearted approval of the College community.

But to judge from past experience, I would guess that the part of the President's report which will probably arouse some discussion is the one which deals with communism. I happen to be in agreement with the President's views. I know that there are some who hold that intellectual freedom can best be preserved by allowing communists the same rights and privileges as other political parties. This notion seems to me about as realistic as the idea that freedom of the road can be best achieved by permitting all drivers to be unmolested in pursuing their objectives.

The blunder which many liberals now regret having made in the thirties and forties is being repeated by the very few who are still in favor of a laissez faire policy towards communists. As if recent history had not shown in many parts of the world that communism is prepared to destroy freedom to acquire and maintain power.

While a laissez faire policy might work in an ideal community, where each individual agrees to respect the rights of all others,—as soon as a single person, communist or other totalitarian, shows that he believes in his own rights to abridge the freedom of his political opponents, laissez faire breaks down.

Prof. Daniel J. Bronstein, Chairman, Philosophy

Film

A half-hour film recording of Edward R. Murrow's television interview with Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer will be presented to the senior class tomorrow at 12 in 125 Main.

Seniors will be admitted upon showing their class card. If the room is not filled by 12:30 students who are not seniors will be admitted.

Dr. Oppenheimer, who was recently labeled a "security risk" by the state department confined his talk with Murrow to the realm of science.

Beaver Ceases Hibernation; Terriers Dam Reappearance

At last Saturday night's basketball game against the St. Francis Terriers of Brooklyn, the Beaver made his return to the College after almost a four year's absence. He was an immediate success as children yelled "I want one," and girls cooed "he's cute."

Throughout the length of the game, Mr. Beaver wandered far and wide. Scurrying through the stands and running about the cheerleaders while they performed, he instilled a new and warm feeling within the hearts of the College's long suffering fans, whose laughs lately have been few and far between.

Each time the Lavender scored a basket or a foul was called on the opposing team, the Beaver jumped up and down clapping his paws and licking his chops as if preparing for the kill. However, all knew that such could never be, for all Beavers, even hate-crazed ones, are vegetarians.

When St. Francis scored, the creature from the Hudson Bay Area (or so rumors claimed) screamed "lucky," "fix" and other savage epithets intended to spur his human counterparts to greater efforts. However, when at halftime the Beaver joined the throng in "Lavender" all was forgiven. "After all," one fan reasoned, "Boys will be boys and why not Beavers?"

"Yeah" said another, "Everyone's entitled to one fling. After all he's been away four years."

Afterward, the living symbol of our college was presented to Prof. Hyman Krakower, (Chairman, Hygiene), who accepted it on behalf of the school. Norma Haber '55 made the presentation on behalf of the senior class.

Now, the creature prowled in the midst of the crowd, snarling at Terrier fans, but giving autographs to the youngsters, regardless of team affiliations and trying to kiss all the pretty girls who were very much divided in their opinions as to the merits of the old Beaver.

SPORT SLANTS

By Martin Ryza

A couple of weeks ago, President Buell G. Gallagher announced that he had submitted, as part of the College's budget, a request for twenty thousand dollars of the City's money to help prop up the College's sagging athletic program.

If the request is granted, it would be the first small step towards rectifying the sub-standard condition surrounding sports at the College. The most glaring shortcoming is the lack of freshman teams in every sport except basketball. There aren't any frosh teams because the Hygiene department can't wangle any money out of the Administration to provide coaches for them.

The athletic program is supported almost entirely by the Athletic Fee which all students pay. This does not provide enough money to pay freshmen coaches. Freshmen pay the fee yet they have no opportunity to compete in any sport except basketball!

Before de-emphasis of sports set in at this institution, basketball footed the bill for all the other teams, freshman and varsity. However, big time basketball and big time gate receipts will not be welcomed back here after the spectacle of seeing the Grand Slam turn into the big bust.

Certainly the evil of commercialized athletics no longer poses a problem at the College. Lavender athletes no longer compete in a frenzied, high pressured atmosphere of the big arenas. The great danger now is that our teams could degenerate to the level where not only would they not be big time, they would not even be of a representative quality.

If our teams are to be representative, able to compete on fairly even terms against good teams, then freshman teams are certainly needed to provide good varsity material. This is particularly true here, where no athletic scholarships are issued.

As the situation now stands, the freshman who possesses potential varsity abilities does not have the means of having his potentialities developed by coaching and through actual competition. Starting with his sophomore year, he can go out for varsities that will be facing opposition of such calibre as the bigger Met colleges and the Ivy League schools. As a freshman he is being denied the chance to compete, after that he may be tossed in over his head against teams with much more experienced personnel.

Professor Hyman Krakower (Chairman, Hygiene), who is in charge of assigning men to coaching positions, says that the money requested from the City could provide for the support of three or four frosh teams.

Unless these funds are forthcoming, the chances of getting these teams are approximately nil. Unless, of course, we sacrifice a few 'minor' varsity sports and channel these funds into a frosh program.

Herb Jacobsohn accounted for the Beavers' only scoring.

The Rams continued to roll as they put in 12 straight points before the Lavender started to hit. With about two minutes left to go in the half, the point starved Beavers started to score as Shorr put in a one hander, Ronnie Kowalski followed with two jump shots, Shorr hit for another three points and Herb Jacobsohn converted a foul, the half ending with the Rams on top, 41-19.

Although the Lavender returned to form in the second half, they were unable to overcome the 22 point bulge which Fordham enjoyed at the intermission.

Fordham extended it's lead to 30 points, 51-21, early in the second half before the Beavers came to life. They hammered at the overwhelming lead but never got close enough to trouble the winners.

The contest was far from reminiscent of last year's between the two teams in which the Beavers were edged, 53-51 as Al Larkin put in a basket in the last six seconds to prevent a major upset.

In the preliminary contest the Beaver frosh were defeated by the Fordham yearlings, 75-44.

Couple of Quick On About 'Chief' Miller

The coach of our Lacrosse team, Leon (Chief) Miller is destined to become a legend at the College, if he isn't already.

The Chief, a full blooded Indian, attended Calumet college and played football with the immortal Jim Thorpe. Besides being an all around athlete in his school days, he later played pro football and pitched for the Philadelphia Athletics.

There is a story about a track meet a few years back in which the chief was challenged to display his form in Track and Field. The story has it that he cleared twelve feet in the pole vault and beat a sprinter in the hundred yard dash. He was wearing a business suit at the time.

Chief Miller also speaks of his accuracy with the Lacrosse stick in a truly descriptive if not quite modest fashion. It seems that the Chief and Allie Reynolds, of Yankee fame, once had a control contest. Allie pitched balls over the plate and the Chief fired them via Lacrosse stick. No need to say who won—Reynolds just didn't have it that day.

The gravel-voiced coach has a

Leon "Chief" Miller

continual duel of wits with charges, whom he describes as a gang of madcap misfits. They were recently spreading the word of how the Chief did stand up to Burt Lancaster 'Apache.'
