Three Groups to Co-sponsor Open Student Union Forum on Programming Problems

By Louise Gross

An open forum to discuss the problems of programming the Student Union will be held next Thursday at 2, in House Plan, jointly sponsored by the SU Program Committee, House Plan and "The Campus."

Invitations to the forum are being sent to all student organizations at the College. Alumni and faculty concerned with the Student Union will also be invited. Both individuals and representatives must sign up for the forum in The Campus office, 15A Main.

The committee has chosen the kind of program for the Student Union, to be the centennial theme, according to Larry Lerman '57, HP treasurer. There are so many specific problems concerned with SU that we feel we should concentrate on only one, in order to make the forum effective," he said.

Among the questions facing the Program Committee are, "What kind of day-to-day program should the Board of Managers have if any?" Also, "What kind of House Plan will be, how can we integrate all the freshman story programs and how can guidance toward activities be provided by the faculty?"

The House Plan building will be completely turned over to the Student Union, which will begin with a report from the Program Committee on what progress has already been made and go on to a consideration of the problems involved.

The program Committee will report on the forum as a first step for further discussion.

WVCC

A re-broadcast of the first program of the College's radio station, WVCC, may be heard today at noon. The inaugural broadcast featured appearances by Pres. Buell G. Gallagher, Steve Allen and Ernie Kovacs.

WVCC operates on a frequency of 550 kilocycles and may be picked up anywhere in the Main Building with an ordinary plug-in radio.

WVCC plans to expand its programming schedule next week.

Chi Lambda Activities Fair In Great Hall, Today at 12

The Activities Fair in the Great Hall at noon today, sponsored by Chi Lambda, will mark the opening of "Join-A-Club Week" activities at the College. More than forty clubs and organizations have agreed to man display or game booths at the fair, which will be open to the entire student body. Caduceus will demonstrate the dissection of a cat. A display of white mice by the Biological Society and a search by the Geological Society for traces of radiation in the stone floor of the Great Hall are being planned.

The game booths, a new feature at this term's fair will include a balloon shaving contest conducted by Alpha Phi Omega and a ring toss game under the auspices of Chi Lambda. Free prizes will be awarded to winners at these booths.

Entertainment by the Gilbert and Sullivan Society will highlight the second hour of the 12 to 2 program. Following the musical presentation, a fashion show sponsored jointly by House Plan and Chi Lambda will be presented.

Nine volunteer models will display sport, school and business fashions, supplied by a well known sportswear manufacturer. Mr. Joseph Taffet (Economics) will moderate this part of the program.

"The Activities Fair seems to be exceptionally well conceived and organized this term and we all hope it will be very successful," commented Mr. Stamos Zades (Student Life).

"Many students here," said Marilyn Blumberg '56, of Chi Lambda, "are unaware of the many interesting activities supplied by the numerous clubs at the College. We hope the Fair will help them to realize the varied extra-curricular program available to everyone," she added.

Pres. Delivers Talk on Radio

Pres. Buell G. Gallagher once again took issue with college "professionalism" Tuesday night. A guest on WAEC radio's 11:30 Clubhouse, Dr. Gallagher reaffirmed several points he made in a speech in Chicago several weeks ago.

The president said that "a good deal of sport defined as 'amateur' ought not to be. Whenever a man is paid to play he's a professional. If he is paid by a college he's still a professional." Dr. Gallagher suggested that those colleges which want to pay their athletes should say so and form a National Collegiate Athletic Professional League.

BHE Refuses to Re-Open Townsend Harris H.S.

By Sheldon Scherr

The proposed restoration of Townsend Harris High School was rejected by the Board of Higher Education Monday night.

The movement to restore the high school began last fall when alumni of the one-time school for gifted children made inquiries as to the feasibility of re-opening the institution when the College's Liberal Arts and Sciences school moved to Manhattanville in the fall.

Factors Against Re-opening

A report by a special committee of five members set up to study the matter reported that although "there is special interest in the gifted child" and in providing suitable educational facilities for such students, several factors work against re-opening of the school.

The report said available evidence was insufficient to show whether such a school was beneficial to the gifted students, and likewise did not show what effect "segregation" of these students had on students who attend other schools.

Closed in 1942

The board resolved that "it is not presently in the best interests of higher education in the City of New York" to undertake re-establishment of another school for gifted children.

Townsend Harris High School had been located in the building of that name until 1942, when the BHE closed it as an economy measure.

Mercury Again Being Sold to Evening Session Students

Mercury will go on sale in the Evening Session next Wednesday, March 30, according to its editor-in-chief, John Turner '55. Its sale to ES students was halted on Tuesday, March 15, by Miss Farmer (Evening Session Student Activities).

Miss Farmer had charged that the magazine was selling illegally because it had not requested permission.

Tickets Available for Dramsoc Play

Tickets are still available for Dramsoc's production of Lillian Hellman's "Montserrat," to be staged at the Pauline Edwards Theater tomorrow and Saturday nights.

The play concerns a soldier in the Spanish army of occupation in Venezuela of 1912, who refuses to divulge the hiding place of Simon Bolivar to Isquid, commanding officer of the British forces.

David Margulies '58, is featured in the title role and Ed Zang '56, portrays Isquid. Tickets, priced at eighty-five cents and one dollar are on sale at 120 Main.

Coed Cheerleader Finishes Four-Year Varsity Career

By Sheldon Podolsky

Things won't be the same next basketball season. Norma Haber will be gone. She didn't score any points for the team, or win any games, but she was as well known as Mervyn Shorr, the College's star forward.

Like Shorr, Norma is a four year veteran—veteran cheerleader that is, and in that capacity she attended sixty out of the seventy contests played in the last four years. She even had good reason for missing those few encounters.

"I was either sick or had no way of getting to some of the games," said Norma. When one takes into account that the team went on trips as far as Scranton, Pa., and Waltham, Mass., it isn't too bad a record.

Likes Sports

"I just like sports," Norma said when queried as to why she turned cheerleader. "I like to watch and I like to play. So what was more natural than turning to cheerleading? It gives me a chance to bounce around and watch the game at the same time."

And bounce around she did. At a soccer game at West Point last season she bounced around so much that she went home with a black eye. "A West Point cadet's shoulder hit me right in the eye as I was running off the field," she explained.

Bumpy Jump

Perhaps her most embarrassing experience on the basketball floor came as a sophomore. "We were doing a jump cheer," said Norma, "and the boys and girls bumped into each other while making the jump. Right then and there I made a vow to outlaw that routine."

Since Norma became captain of the squad in her junior year it wasn't too difficult to make that promise stand up. In addition to serving as senior class secretary, clubs editor of Microcosm, graduation commencement chairman, and holding a part

Plan Board To Combine Four Gov't

Plans are currently underway for setting up an association of the student governments of the College's four divisions.

The function of the organization would be to initiate activities and coordinate programs of mutual interest to the divisions subject to final approval by each division's student government.

The group would be known as the "City College Student Board of Government" and would consist of four delegations composed of three students each. The board would be presided over by a non-voting chairman, who would be elected by the group at the end of the previous semester.

"There are many fields we could work in," SC president Barney McCaffrey '55 told a meeting of representatives from the College, at the Baruch School last Saturday, "such as a leadership program of the type we incorporated in our division last year."

Under tentative plans, each group would pay a flat year fee with expenses for other events being paid on a per capita basis. Downtown Evening Session with an enrollment of more than 8000 students is the largest division, while Main Day with 6500 is second.

A resolution stating that "operation and exchange of ideas between the student governments of the four divisions of CCNY is desirable" and calling for the setting up of the body will be submitted to the SC Government Structure Committee this week.

idents, alumni, and trustees for the evils of commercialism.

President Gallagher, declared that "there is a tremendous amount of recruiting" among the colleges. He pointed out a vicious circle of commercialism. "Colleges," he said; "buy players to have winning teams to get the gate receipts to buy more players. I'm all for professional sports. Let the broadcasters not only announce a man's height, weight, and home town, but also how much he is being paid."

Dr. Gallagher also discussed the influence of sports in racial relations. "In the 1930's," he said, "I found a religious reason for going to prize fights. In the prize ring the better man is decided solely by ability, not by his color. "Sports," he continued, "are paving the way for racial equality in all phases of American life."

Brown Planning To Make Appeal To SC Civil Liberties Committee

Eric Brown '57, who last week was suspended from all co-curricular activities for this semester by the Student Court, is planning to appeal to the Student Council Civil Liberties Committee.

Brown was suspended on charges of distributing Labor Youth League leaflets "illegally using the College's name." The throw-aways dealt with the membership list ruling and were signed "City College Labor Youth League (Unchartered)."

"My appeal will be based on both this violation of my civil liberties and the fact that one of the justices on the Court was ineligible to serve," said Brown. Court Justice Paul Siegerman

'57, is scholastically ineligible to hold any offices in College organizations. However, until Tuesday night there were no specific qualifications for serving the Court.

The SC Executive Committee at that time made it a specific requirement that a member of the court have a better than C average.

Charges were brought against Brown by Dean James S. Peabody (Student Life). The LYL was first warned against the distribution of leaflets using the College's name in January, 1953. Brown pleaded ignorance of the regulation.

Prof. Villard Ponders Stock Market Situation

By Roslyn Meiselman

The stock market can do remarkable things," Prof. Villard (Economics) commented with a grin, "but on the whole I don't think that the current 'boom' is one that should be maintained." Professor Villard went on to give his analysis of the situation on Wall Street.

"I think this advice is free, it should have to be good," he said, "any crystal ball doesn't suggest that we're heading for a boom. However, if the market goes higher—if we're to capitalize not only on the boom but the hereafter, as in the results could be ruined."

"Keep the high level from going too high, the professors favor 100 per cent margin requirements. 'The effect would be to keep people from buying on credit. People shouldn't invest in stock unless they can afford to. However, investing in securities will generally pay off in the long run. There's a lot of ignorance here regarding the market and it's not a good place for ignorant people to be.'"

Prof. Villard explained that the market of dividends is not as high as most people think it is. "Buying and owning securities is the best way of learning about the market, but it can be an expensive way and it should involve funds likely to be needed for emergencies."

I should think that it would be the responsibility of The Campus as a student newspaper of the College to afford me the opportunity, through this column, of presenting my stand on an important issue.

Because I believe my power as the president of The Rolling Wheel Society has been usurped, and because I feel that the group is now in the hands of unscrupulous individuals out to control the student body of the College—I hereby resign from said society and sever all ties with it. Coach Names Galletta Opening Game Starter

By Herschel Nissenon

With the College's baseball team scheduled to open its season next Wednesday against Columbia University, Coach John LaPlace, has nominated right-hander Joe Galletta as the opening game pitcher. Galletta pitched in hard luck most of last season, as the Beavers failed to give him much hitting support all season, but he did manage to twirl a 6-0 victory over Army at West Point.

Start Against Hofstra

Whether Galletta will pitch the entire contest against the Lions is doubtful, since he is also in line to start against Hofstra three days later. The Hofstra encounter will mark the opening of the Metropolitan Conference campaign for the Lavender.

Co-Captain Jimmy Cohen is set behind the bat, while the infield will consist of John Ryan (first base), Co-Captain Mike Kucklinca (second base), Raoul Nacinovich (shortstop), and Eddie Lubitz (third base).

Outfield Undecided

Coach LaPlace is still unable to decide which of his four top outfielders will be in the starting line-up. The four in contention are Lou Bernero, Vince Ciccone (a reformed catcher), Nick Hrinkevich, and Al Wolfman.

This season, as last, the hitting is expected to tell the story. Galletta, Bernie Spiro, Jerry Sherman, and Al DiBernardo compose a good mound corps, but the Beavers had some great pitching last year and finished the season in a tie for last place.

Metropolitan Baseball

This is the third of a series on Met Baseball Conference team prospects for the coming season.

BROOKLYN COLLEGE

If Brooklyn College is to go anywhere in this year's Metropolitan Baseball Conference race, it will have to be up, as the Kingsmen finished in a dead tie for the cellar with the College last season.

Weak Hitting

The Brooklynites have been practicing for a few weeks, with special attention being given to the hitting department. Last year's squad had a total team average of .188.

On the mound, the Kingsmen show their most strength, with Bill Anderson, a previous All-Met selection, handling most of the big games. Anderson will be backed up by sophs George Theodore and Jerry Siegel, who showed a great deal of promise in their freshman years. Bill Werner and senior Jimmy Froicano round out the staff.

Veteran Infield

Barry Gang looks like the opening day choice for second baseman, while Bill Falough seems to have third covered. Shortstop Gene Pulgusi and first baseman Bob Grady both played those positions for the Maroon last year, and figure to start there this year.

Bruce Malmath, who transferred from the College last year, and All-Met outfielder Chester Jakubowski will team up with either Walter Edge or Dave Weinstein in the outer garden.

Paul Pavlides Sets Record In Army Test

For the second time in two months, Pvt. Paul Pavlides, former captain of the College's track and field team, compiled a perfect 500-point score in the Division Physical Training test last month and is believed to be the first man in the history of the United States Army to accomplish this feat twice.

The lithe trainee amazed on-lookers with his record-shattering performance as he recorded twenty pull-ups seventy-five squat jumps, fifty-four pushups in ten seconds less than the allotted time, and forty-one squat thrusts.

Before entering the service, Pavlides took the pre-law curriculum at the College and was awarded a Bachelor of Arts degree in Social Sciences. Besides captaining the Lavender track team, Pavlides was a member of the weightlifting club which capped an Eastern Intercollegiate title.

In the Eastern championships he took second place as a weightlifter and went on to place in the National Intercollegiate meet. Working out during his off-duty hours, Pavlides set out to break the division record. In his first test, taken in the second week of basic training, he scored a 453. (Only second test scores are used as a basis for the record).

His high score spurred him and he aimed his sights at a division record of 465. "During my off-duty hours," explained Pavlides, "I prepared for the test. When I came into the Army I didn't know what a squat or a squat thrust was."

WHAT'S THIS?

For solution see paragraph below.

"IT'S TOASTED" to taste better!

YOU'LL GET A BANG out of the Droodle above. The title is: Daredevil enjoying better-tasting Lucky just before being shot from cannon. Luckies are going great guns everywhere. The reason for their booming popularity is simply this: Luckies give you better taste. They taste better, first of all, because Lucky Strike means fine tobacco. Then, that tobacco is toasted to taste better. "It's Toasted"—the famous Lucky Strike process—tones up Luckies' light, mild, good-tasting tobacco to make it taste even better . . . cleaner, fresher, smoother. Enjoy yourself when you smoke. Have a little fun. Light up the better-tasting cigarette . . . Lucky Strike.
