C Proposes School Patrol to Cut Crime

A motion calling for the creation of student patrolmen in the locker rooms has been proposed to the Student Government School Affairs Committee. The committee suggested that the Hygiene Department assign groups of students to patrol the locker rooms during gymnasium sessions. These students would not attempt to question or to delay suspicious characters themselves, but would immediately report their presence to proper authorities. The School Affairs Committee feels that the presence of these individuals will serve to deter crime.

Impractical and Improper
Dr. Hyman Krakower (Chairman, Hygiene) commented that the motion in the locker rooms falls under the jurisdiction of the Department of Buildings and Grounds and not the Hygiene Department. He said that it is impractical as well as improper for a student to act as a patrolman in the locker rooms. "By the time the student returns to the scene of a crime, the guilty person will most likely have left."

Professor Krakower noted that the motion has "good intentions, but is definitely out of place with respect to the Hygiene Department, and to the use of student patrolmen."

Cites Incident
A student whose pool locker had been robbed, was recently instrumental in apprehending another student who was acting suspiciously.

The SC School Affairs Committee cited this as an example of what positive student action can accomplish.

Iolanthe' to Open Tonight; Called Best of G&S Works

By Ed Kosner

So you think you've got troubles? A young man who, through the mysteries of genetics, finds himself in the unenviable position of being half man, half fairy (pixie) will attempt to overcome this handicap and end in the hand of his mortal loved one on Friday and Saturday evenings in the Gilbert and Sullivan Society's production of Iolanthe.

The operetta, which has been described by critic Deems Taylor as "musically the best of all the Gilbert and Sullivan works," concerns the difficulties encountered by Strephon, the mixed up young swain, and Phyllis, a beautiful young ward of the English Court.

Plot Thickens
Complications involving the Lord Chancellor and Iolanthe, Strephon's mother, arise but to everyone's surprise the lovers are united in time for the finale. Richard Solow '56, will sing the role of the Lord Chancellor and Iolanthe will be played by Helen Feld '55. The troubled lovers will be portrayed by Carol Jay Dawns '58 and Al Freidman '56.

Deadline
The deadline for applications for co-curricular activities awards for graduating seniors has been extended to next Tuesday. Applications may be picked up in the Student Government Office, 20 Main and the office of the Department of Student Life, 120 Main. They must be returned to 120 Main and directed to the Student-Faculty Committee on honors and awards. Students should not confuse these awards with those given by Student Government. Separate applications for these are now available in the SG Office.

Sr. Show Tix Still Available

Today is the last day that seniors will be able to pick up tickets for the Senior Show, which is being presented tonight and tomorrow night. Tickets for either performance are still available in the senior office, 109 Army Hall.

"This year's show is one which no senior will forget," said Jerry Vanderberg '55, who has arranged the program. "We've mixed together top-notch talent, a few original songs and a lot of original comedy. The result is a really professional show."

The show was originally called "Robbie." The title has since been changed, but the new name is being kept secret until tonight. Larry Podell '55 is directing the show and Bob Silbur '55 will be the emcee.

The program is being presented at the Joan of Arc Theatre, Amsterdam Avenue and 92nd Street. Tickets are included free in the Commencement Package, which may still be purchased, or they may be bought separately for fifty cents.

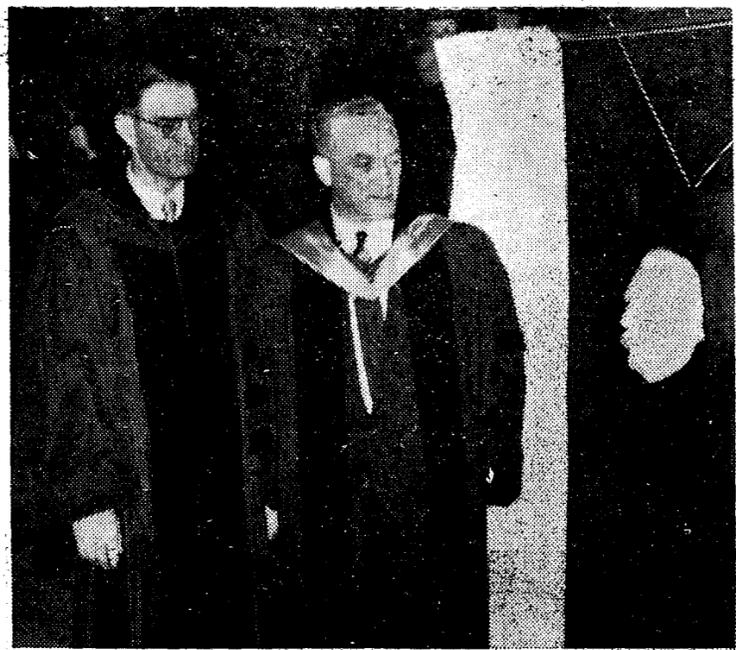

More Than 500 Witness Charter Day Ceremonies

Over five hundred people attended the College's 108 anniversary ceremonies of Charter Day yesterday in the Great Hall. The program began at 10:30 and was presided over by Pres. Buell G. Gallagher. He described the event as "a happy custom which each year brings back to the College members of the jubilee class." The class of 1905 was honored this year. Kenneth Groesbeck '05, representing his class, told the assemblage that "City College still teaches the lesson that our difficulties can be the making of us if we overcome them."

Felix Frankfurter '02, Associate Justice of the United States Supreme Court, was to have paid a tribute to his predecessor on the court, Oliver Wendell Holmes, but could not appear because of "judicial duties."

President Gallagher (left) and Arthur W. A. Cowan, trustee of the Philadelphia Community Foundation, view the death mask of the late Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, which Mr. Cowan had just presented to the College.

A facsimile of the Gutzon Borglum death mask of Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes was presented to the College by Arthur W. A. Cowan, trustee of the Philadelphia Community Foundation, in honor of Justice Frankfurter.

In making the presentation, Mr. Cowan cited Justice Holmes' belief in "the free market of ideas" and said that "the teacher must be free in order to truly teach."

'Vital Things
"One of the most vital things we must do is protect the freedom of teachers," he continued. "Sometimes it seems that some of us don't care. If we don't, we fight as well use phonograph records," Mr. Cowan said.

Justice Frankfurter was also presented with a special Student Government Award in absentia, by out-going SG president Barney McCaffrey '55. McCaffrey, in making the award, referred to SG as "the only democratic body representing the students."

The annual SG Human Relations Award was presented in absentia to Dr. Albert Schweitzer, philosopher and medical missionary.

Receive Awards
Seventeen students received SG Major Honor awards for outstanding co-curricular activities and 220 major and minor varsity letters were awarded to the College's varsity athletes.

Salvatore Sorbera '57 won major letters in wrestling, rifle, cross-country and track and field, the first athlete in the College's history to win four major letters in one year.

Police Academy Graduation Slated for Great Hall Today

Commencement exercises for 739 probationary patrolmen graduating from the Police Academy will be held today at noon in the Great Hall.

Mayor Robert Wagner and Pres. Buell G. Gallagher will address the graduates, fifteen of whom have college degrees. Police Commissioner Francis W. H. Adams will preside.

Dean James S. Peace (Student Life) expressed hope that sixty of the graduates would be assigned to the sixtieth precinct, in which the College is situated. Sixty patrolmen from the last graduating class were assigned to this district.

Seven pistols will be awarded as prizes for highest averages at the exercises.

The average age of the graduates is 26 years, of the group 653 are veterans of the armed forces. The rookies were appointed to the department February 1.

Art Display
Members of the College's Art Society will display their entries in Knittle Lounge next week in the Society's annual contest. The contest, which was originated last year, is open only to members of the Society. Cash prizes will be awarded in three categories: painting, graphic arts and design.

Tix On Sale For Boatripe

Tickets for the 1955 Boat Ride to Bear Mountain are now on sale at two dollars a person at the Ticket Bureau, 120 Main.

The steamer Peter Stuyvesant will leave from the Day Line Pier at 42 Street on Sunday, May 15 at 9:30.

While the steamer chugs up the Hudson the entertainment including a two and one-half hour "showboat style" variety show, will be presented. For the more energetic members of the crew there will be dancing on both the upstream and the return trips.

Just in case anyone has overslept and forgotten to eat breakfast, plans are being made for a lox and bagels breakfast on board the steamer.

Students interested in the journey should get their tickets as early as possible as there is no guarantee that any tickets will be left after this week.

The Boatripe is co-sponsored by Alpha Phi Omega and the Student Government.

Election Statements To Be Distributed

Ten-page booklets containing statements from each of the election candidates will be distributed by the Student Government Election Agency next week.

"Booklets are being distributed," according to Matt Kaufman '57, a member of the Elections Agency, "to acquaint the student body with all the candidates, and encourage voting."

Each class year will be given a few pages upon which the candidates may present a statement of seventy-five words giving their views, qualifications, and their plans if elected.

Elections will be held next Friday. Students are required to present their entire student activities cards in order to vote.

Time for Action

The report of the suggestions resulting from the All-College Conference, which was delivered as part of yesterday's Charter Day ceremonies, contained much that can be valuable to the College in future terms. Even though a few of the proposals made are somewhat vague, the great majority, if prompt action is taken upon them, can be of great benefit to the College.

Our only complaint is that these suggestions represent the views of a fairly small but interested minority of people at the College. This fact in no way reflects upon the value of the proposals themselves. The people who did attend the conference were people who have taken an active interest in the College's affairs. And, even better, they were not confined to the ranks of so-called "student leaders." They represented no vested interests; they represented the College community as a whole.

The only trouble is that this representation was too small. Here was a chance for everybody to take an active part in the actual formulation of policy at the College, yet only a handful took advantage of the chance.

It is a safe bet, however, that the people who didn't take part in the conference will go right on complaining about the way things are run. They will push back their chairs in the cafeteria and wail that if they had anything to say about it, things would be run differently around here. We've got news for them: they missed the boat.

The titles of the panels at the conference may have had something to do with the limited number of people who participated. They were definitely too vague. Yet, as general as they were, they resulted in the formulation of some really concrete suggestions. Some of the best proposals which come to mind are those calling for wider use of classroom seminars, for a re-evaluation of the marking system, for the establishment of an honor system, for giving clubs the option on whether they want faculty advisors, and for giving students a say in curriculum formation.

But these proposals can be valuable only if the committees to which they are given for study complete this study and decide on some action as soon as possible. Many of the recommendations from the last conference are lying, unattended, in the library. We hope the committees will not make their main concern whether this year's suggestions will lie on top of last year's or below them.

A Tribute

It was with deepest sorrow that all who knew H. Lyle Winter received the news of his death. Those who were fortunate enough to have been students of Mr. Winter remember him as a friendly, warm-hearted person, quick to smile and equally quick to light up the faces of his class.

Lyle Winter had genuine and unusual talents for teaching. He was able to combine his wide background and knowledge of the theatrical and literary world with a gentle, kindly humor that endeared him to his students and associates alike.

His enthusiasm for poetry expressed itself not only at the level on which he conducted his classes, but also in his pet project—the recording of literary masterpieces—which he instituted at the College and upon which he spent much time and energy. His devotion to this undertaking is revealed by the fact that we now have one of the foremost collections in the country solely through his efforts. His interests were such that only a week before his death, Mr. Winter promoted the first playing before the student body of recordings of famous poets reading from their own works.

We feel that it would be an appropriate tribute to a man who has contributed so much to the College that the College's record collection be named "The H. Lyle Winter Record Library" in his honor.

We deem it fitting that the president of the institution to which Mr. Winter devoted so many years has volunteered to conduct the funeral services. The services, which are being held at 4:30 this afternoon, are open to all students and faculty. We hope that those who are grieved at his passing will take some time out to pay him their last respects.

Prof. Bellush Praises FDR For New Deal

By Frank Grande

The late Pres. Franklin Delano Roosevelt was really a "conservative who saved our capitalistic system," declared Prof. Bernard Bellush (History) yesterday at a meeting of the History Society.

Dismissing charges that Roosevelt was a radical or that his economic policies were influenced by Communists, Professor Bellush credited him with saving the stock market, big business, and the banks, and then turning them back to private owners.

War Ended Depression

The professor declared, "While Roosevelt's policies did not end the depression, they did make it possible for millions of people to secure temporary jobs and decent means." The Second World War was responsible for ending the depression.

"Of course, this does not mean that the president was responsible for the war, as some have insinuated," he added.

Describing President Roosevelt as a pragmatist, Professor Bellush said, "He never had any formalized economic principles. But, unlike most people who attain power, he was able to learn and profit from his mistakes."

Major Contributions

"The depression was a turning point in American history. Out of it came one of the president's major contributions: his policy that the government was responsible for the welfare of the people."

The professor also noted that New Deal policies can be traced back to Alfred E. Smith, who "planted the seeds which Roosevelt cultivated."

He described how Roosevelt, as governor of New York, taxed the largest cities to build new school houses and give other social aids to the poor upstate communities.

Two Srs. Receive Ford Fellowships

Two students at the College have received grants from the Ford Foundation for graduate work.

Ruth Fenner '55 and Stanley Budnitsky '55 each were awarded 1800-dollar stipends for work in the behavioral sciences.

Each year, the Ford Foundation awards nineteen of these fellowships to encourage students who did not major in the behavioral sciences to enter the field. The College is one of fifty-nine schools throughout the nation which enters candidates for the awards.

The behavioral sciences deal with the study of individual behavior and human relations.

Senior Class Invited To Homecoming Day

All Seniors are invited to attend Homecoming Day to be held Saturday, May 7, on the Manhattanville Campus. More than a thousand persons are expected to attend the return which will get under way at 10:30.

The scheduled speakers are Pres. Buell G. Gallagher, Jerome J. Klein '06, Alumni Association president, and Harold Lifton '18, campaign chairman of the City College Fund.

Tickets are one dollar each for a buffet lunch, and may be purchased in 109 Army Hall or Saturday in 200 Main at 10:30.

Snodgrass College

The student newspaper of this Missouri girls school has a society column which lists pinnings, engagements, marriages. Included is information about who has recently broken up with ex-pinnées, etc.

This last item seems like a helpful idea to unattached people of both sexes. The title of the column is the best part about it though. It's called "Who's Doing What To Whom."

Johns Hopkins University

Spurred on by the success of their recent Beard Growing Contest students here are launching another competition, a Finger Nailing Contest. The rules are simple: Contestants may start at any time, but only the nail of the third finger of the left hand will be considered. Judging will be on the basis of length, point, color, firmness, and luster. Greased and doctored fingers will be disqualified.

Tulane University

When one candidate for the student government proposed to reduce the price of the cafeteria coffee to five cents, he was promptly rebuffed by the manager of the cafeteria. "With present coffee costs," he squeaked the proposal "it costs four cents for a cup of water."

Harvard University

The Crimson recently carried the following classified advertisement: "Crash causes sudden availability of all parts (except right front headlight) for 42-48 Fords. Laughable low prices . . ."

Western Michigan College

This fascinating item is reprinted in its entirety from the Harvard Crimson: "Notice: if the person or persons who 'borrowed' three walruses from the basement of David Hall will return them by Sunday morning, no questions will be asked and the entire dormitory will appreciate the kindness. It is very important that we have the walruses by Sunday . . . dead or alive. (signed) The Cook."

University of Toronto

One of this Canadian college's fraternities has declared war on gambling. In a stormy three hour meeting, the anti-gambling faction passed a motion which forbade card playing of any kind whether money was involved or not. They followed it up by destroying all playing cards in a bonfire on the fraternity lawn.

One of the disgruntled losers, in one last gesture of defiance, posted a Queen of spades on the bulletin board. Written on it was "We'll be back."

Debate Team Captures Northern Div. Crown

The College's Debating Society captured the Northern Division Championship of the Metropolitan Intercollegiate Debate League as Barnard and Columbia eliminated each other Tuesday night.

The capture of the northern half of the met loop title gives the Debating Team the chance to meet The Fordham School of Education, the southern divisional victor, for the Metropolitan Intercollegiate Debate League Championship at NYU, tomorrow at 4:30.

The debaters lost the toss of the coin and will take the affirmative on the debate, the topic being, "Resolved: The U.S. should extend diplomatic recognition to the Communist government of China."

The Debating Society previously met the Fordham team this season at the Brooklyn College Debating Tournament, but lost in a close fight.

The team will be represented by team captain Joseph Blecher '55 and Debating Society president Morton David '56.

Hopeful of victory, David said, "We've met them before and we've both beaten and bowed to them. Chances are, that we will beat them again."

Dr. Wayne A. Nicholas (Speech), coach of the Debating Team, affirmed, "David and Blecher have represented the College ably in other important debates this season and I know that they will do well."

The College Debating Society ended its successful season with a 6-2 record. They edged both Barnard and Columbia with scores of 5-3.

S. Trautman '55, editor-in-chief of The Campus, delivered a report on the recommendations of last week's All-College Conference. Trautman acted as student coordinator for the conference.

"The Student-Faculty Conference Steering Committee is currently engaged in the preparation of its report to the College," Trautman said. "The committee also has the responsibility of submitting each of these suggestions to an appropriate College committee for study and for concrete action, wherever possible."

Twenty-five suggestions were presented to the body for consideration. Among these are:

1. The advisability and value of introducing an honor system at the College.
2. The value of instituting a five-year course of study, comprising two years of general education and three years of professional education, for students in the School of Technology.
3. The establishment of a comprehensive program of student-faculty social affairs.
4. A re-examination by the faculty of the purpose and function of the present system of measurement and evaluation to more realistically appraise the progress of students.
5. The option of clubs to decide whether or not to elect a faculty advisor.
6. Provision for the joint participation of students and faculty in the solution and implementation of policy matters.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

To the Editor:

The Observation Post editorial on Thursday, May 3, stated, "With House Plan's incorporation in Student Union, the recreation center of the South Campus, there will no longer be a HP President. We wonder whether this bold faced lie is the wishful thinking of the editor, or a deliberate attempt to create a prejudicial atmosphere on the campus."

It is unfortunate that at a time when there is a desperate need for clear thinking, this newspaper merely adds to the confusion.

At the moment, HP is about to elect new officers for the Fall term, in the process of planning its move to the John A. Finley Student Center. We would like to reassure the House Plan members, as well as the Student body at large, that not only will House Plan continue in the Student Union, but it will serve its members to a much greater extent with the new facilities of the Student Union.

Larry Shulman '57 and David Gorfein '56 Candidates for the H.P. Presidency.

To the Editor:

As one of the five recipients of the letter published in the last issue of The Campus addressed to Dr. Gallagher, I feel that the student body should be made to realize the truth of the matter. Since the retirement age is seventy and Coach Bruce has reached this age, he is therefore being forced into retirement. Dr. Gallagher claims that he can be retained if the chairman of the Hygiene Department, Professor Krakower, finds it impossible

Lecture

Economics specialist Mark Starr will lecture on "The Role of the Trade Union in Community Welfare," Thursday at 12 in the Faculty Room.

Mr. Starr has written many books on economics and industry. He has served on the faculties of the New York University School of Education, the College's Evening Division, the University of Wisconsin and the school for workers.

The event is co-sponsored by the Education Society and Kappa Delta Pi.

Square Dance Tonight, Folks!

Cliff Bullard and his four piece "hill-billy" band will play tonight at the square dance co-sponsored by The Campus and the Friday night-dance committee.

Mr. Bullard will call the dance. In addition to the regular instruments, the band features a real live wash basin fiddle. No one knows exactly what a wash basin fiddle is, but it will be there anyway.

The dance will be held in the Hygiene Building Gym. It will start at 8 and end at 11:30. Admission is free with the presentation of the student activities appraisal. Free refreshments will be served.

For those people who don't have television sets and are unable to watch western movies, and therefore unable to square dance, there will be social dancing between the regular square dance sets.

to replace Bruce with another qualified track coach.

Professor Krakower has the pressure applied from both sides for it has been stated that the decision is all up to him to make. Actually there is NO decision. Dr. Gallagher is fully aware that of all sports at the College, there are more able coaches of track than any other sport.

Professor DiGirolamo has been coach of the evening session team for about six years. Professor Mendelis has always offered his fine coaching abilities, and Dave Polansky coached CCNY track teams through two undefeated seasons in the early forties.

Why then does Dr. Gallagher mention an impossible solution of this problem? Purely to give to the student body the impression that he is behind athletics one hundred per cent. We, the athletes of this school know otherwise.

So long Professor Bruce. Thanks for all you've done from us all.

Ben Trasen, President, Varsity Club

Dr. Gallagher Will Conduct Winter Rites

Pres. Buell G. Gallagher will conduct the funeral services for the late Mr. H. Lyle Winter (Speech) today at 4:30 at the Walter B. Cooke Funeral Chapel, 117 West 72 Street. The burial will be at the Woodlawn Cemetery, Newburgh, New York, on Saturday.

Mr. Winter, an instructor at the College since 1929, collapsed and died Wednesday afternoon in front of Army Hall. He had apparently suffered a cerebral hemorrhage. Mr. Winter was fifty-four years old.

A Columbia University graduate, Mr. Winter established the recording studio here and was supervisor of the College's Library of Contemporary Poets.

The Library consists of recorded selections of poets reading their own works.

Beaver 'Nine' Meets Wagner In Staten Is. Doubleheader

By Herschel Nissenon

The baseball games between the Beavers and Wagner College, postponed by rain on both April 13 and 29, will be played as part of a doubleheader tomorrow afternoon at the Wagner field on Grymes Hill, Staten Island. The twin bill will start at 1 o'clock, with the Lavender the home team in the opener.

The Beavers, by virtue of their 8-2 victory over NYU on Wednesday, are in third place in the Metropolitan Conference with a 3-2 slate—two games behind St. John's and one game in back of second-place Hofstra. The Lavender could conceivably move into second tomorrow since the two leaders, meet head-on at Dexter Park in Woodhaven, Queens.

Coach John LaPlace has nominated right-hander Pete Troia to hurl the first game tomorrow, with Bernie Spiro, also a right-hander, the probable choice in the nightcap. The Beavers' top hurler, Joe Galletta, will be in the bullpen and the coach will not hesitate to use the stocky right-hander should either Troia or Spiro falter.

Troia, a good-looking sophomore, lost his only start to Fordham by a 3-0 margin, but he allowed only four hits and two of the runs were unearned.

Spiro, a 5-foot 9-inch junior, shows a 1-2 mark, having defeated Columbia and lost to Princeton and St. John's.

The rest of the line-up will have Jim Cohen in back of the plate, John Ryan, Dom Tenerelli, Mike Kucklinca and Eddie Lubitz in the infield, with Lou Bernero, Vince Ciccone and Raoul Nacinovich probably forming the outfield trio.

Wagner mentor Herb Sutter has announced that his ace moundman, left-hander Clem Bosco, will pitch the opener. His choice for the second game rests among righthanders Bob Piela, Warren Tunkel and Fred Viebrook.

Bosco, who plays right field when he is not pitching, has

Netmen to Oppose Redmen At Home

In an effort to capture their sixth victory in eight starts, the Beaver netmen will take on a very weak St. John's squad tomorrow afternoon. The match will be held at the Fleet Tennis Club on Gerard Avenue, the Bronx.

Based on comparative scores, the Beavers would be considered pre-game favorites. The locals defeated Brooklyn 7-2 while the Redmen lost to Brooklyn by an identical score. The Redmen currently sport an 0-2 record. Their other loss coming at the hands of Hofstra.

Beaver Coach Harry Karlin will use this line-up: Al Jong, Guy Ferrara, Walter Thomas, Walt Ritter, Steve Hersh, and either Jay Borah or Mel Drimmer in the sixth slot.

After Wednesday's impressive win over Brooklyn, Coach Karlin feels the netmen can beat St. John's. "If we play like we played against Brooklyn we should handle them," he said.

John Ryan

compiled a 2-1 record, all in league play. The stocky southpaw has whipped Manhattan and NYU, and bowed to St. John's. In the Manhattan encounter Bosco fanned fifteen Jaspers.

The Staten Islanders have an overall 8-3 mark this season (3-3 in Metropolitan Conference games), but it has taken three of the loop's best flingers—Bill Anderson of Brooklyn, Bill Sanford of Hofstra, and Hank Guckert of St. John's—to beat them.

Cindermen to Enter Mets At Randall's Island, Tom'w

Enjoying its most successful season in recent years, the Beaver track and field team will enter the Metropolitan Intercollegiate Track and Field Conference Championships tomorrow afternoon, at John Downing Stadium, Randall's Island. Field events start at noon, while track events start at 2.

Vying with the College for the crown will be six other metropolitan teams: Manhattan, NYU, Columbia, Brooklyn, St. John's and Fordham. Manhattan, a team that has beaten St. John's and Fordham, is favored to win the meet.

Leading the College's entries is the one-mile relay squad, the Penn Relays champions. Running this event will be Joe Gold, Jim Spencer, Sheldon Roach, and Bob Marsh. Gold will also run the quarter-mile and broad-jump, while Spencer will run the half-mile along with Heywood Blume, Vince DeLuca, and Gene Sherman. Marsh is replacing Jim Teahan, from the relay foursome, because Teahan will not be able to make the meet.

The two-mile event will see the return of Joe Marcal, a former runner who has returned from a hitch in the Army. Rick Hurford and Bill Kowalski will also try to bring home some points for the Beavers in that event. Hurford will also double in the mile.

In the field events, Jack Kushner and Irv Stein will shot put and throw the discus. Kushner holds the College's mark for the shot put.

Joe Werfel, who has a bad foot, may not be able to enter the meet. If the foot improves, Joe will enter the javelin throw and pole-vault. He will be gunning for the outdoor College pole-vault record, the old record being 11 feet 2 inches. Werfel already holds the indoor record at 12 feet.

Lacrossemen Journey To Lafayette, Tomorrow

After absorbing their first defeat at the hands of powerful Rutgers, the College's lacrosse team will journey up to Easton, Pennsylvania Saturday afternoon to meet Lafayette.

The Lavender had been victorious in all four of their games previous to the Rutgers loss. They had beaten Ohio State, Adelphi, the Alumni and Stevens Tech. It was inevitable that the Beavers would finally be defeated although this has been their best season in many a year. However, the last contest is not really a true picture of the team's ability, for the Scarlet is one of the top three teams in the nation with a 5-0 record.

'Chief' Confident

"Chief" Miller, Beaver mentor did not take the setback too seriously, for he knew he was up against a strong outfit, but he was quite confident that the Lavender would fair well in their remaining three contests.

As of now, the leading scorer for the College is Milt Perlow with thirteen goals and Ralph Kelley with twelve. Kelley has been scoring very well of late. The big surprise in the last two games has been John Pirro. John has tallied five goals, with three coming in the Stevens contest.

Bid for Winning Season

If the Beavers beat Lafayette or any of the next two opponents they will wind up over the .500 mark for the first time in many seasons. A recent interview with Milt Perlow, Co-Captain, disclosed his prediction for a winning campaign with the only loss to come from the sticks of Rutgers. So far, he is batting .1000. However, there is that possibility that the team may not take all three games.

The Lavender's next home game will be against Drexel on May 14. The schedule for the College has been fortunate in that they play five home contests while competing in three away from Lewisohn Stadium.

Top Hitters

Among the top batters in the Met Baseball Conference are the Lavender's Jim Cohen and John Ryan. Cohen, in his fourth season behind the plate, is hitting a lofty .421 with 8 safeties in 19 times up. He has batted in four runs.

First baseman Ryan, a junior, has a solid .350 average with 7 for 20 including 3 R.B.I.'s. Neither player was among the league leaders last season.
