SG Elections Begin Tomorrow at 11; SFCSA Seats, Referendum on Ballot

Two Open Seats On Committee

With five student leaders tions, the Student Faculty Committee on Student Activities balloting. election is the most hotly con-candidates. They are Bill Brown '57, Student Government president; Joe DeMaios, former president of the Inter-fraternity Council and member of the Finley Center Board of Directors; and Henry Grossman '57, former editor-in-chief and present associate editor of The Campus and former member of Student Council.

Chief Justice a Candidate

The two other candidates are Charles Waldauer '57, chief justice of the Student Court and ex-Council member; and Howard Schumann '58, SG vice-president this semester. Waldauer ran unsuccessfully for SFCSA earlier this semester.

All of the candidates except Brown have come out one time or another, against compulsory membership-lists. Schumann led the protest against lists last semester as chairman of the Political Action Committee.

To Join Resnick and Shacknow

The • two candidates who are elected tomorrow will join Joel Resnick '57, and Louise Shacknow '57, who were elected to one year terms in the first College-wide election of student members to SFCSA on October 5.

sentative will be the winner of the race for the SG presidency bemembers complete the Committee roster. Dean James S. Peace (Student Life) is the non-voting chairman of SFCSA.

Communist Leader To Talk Tomorrow

Benjamin J. Davis Jr., national committee member of the Communist Party, will speak tomorrow at 3 in 212 Finley Center. His topic will be "The Role of the Communist Party in America Today."

Convicted under the Smith Act in 1949, Mr. Davis was sentenced to and served a five-year prison term.

As a member of the bar of the state of Georgia, Mr. Davis acted as counsel in the Herndon case. He also served as city councilman from Manhattan from 1943 to 1949 after having run on the Communist Party

Five Students Seek Full Year Tenure For Executives Is Proposed

It is embodied in a referendum tested of tomorrow's major under which SG major officers would be elected for one-year Three members of the Commit- terms, the president and secretary tee this semester are among the to be elected in the fall semester, the vice-president and treasurer to be selected in the Spring elections. Presently, all major officers are elected for six-month terms in semiannual balloting.

> A proposal to place a similar referendum on the ballot was turned down by Student Council one year ago. The plan has not been put to a vote within the last three

A majority of student leaders queried on the referendum expressed themselves in favor of the ing continuity in leadership under the six-month tenure and the subsequent efficiency in long-range planning are the points most frequently cited by advocates of the referendum.

Opponents of the one year term point out that the "hardship" involved in serving as an SG major officer for one year will tend to discourage candidates. They feel, too, that the risks involved in the possible election of incompetent officers, who would serve an additional six months, far outweigh any of the plan's advantages.

If accepted by the student body, the proposal will go into effect

Student Council endorsed last night by a twelve to two wote a nation-wide student campaign to enlist support for integration in education and for the struggle to achieve civil rights in the south.

In conjunction with the resolution, the recommendation was sent by SC to the Student Government Executive Committee urging Exec to approve a petition and a fund raising drive. Students will be asked to sign petitions to President Dwight D. Eisenhower urging his support of civil rights, and to contribute 25 cents for which they will receive a button. If approved, the drive will begin next week.

Called, "Enroll for Freedom," the campaign has already been endorsed by the College's branches of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, Hillel, Young Republicans and Students for Democratic Action. A committee composed of representatives from the above organizations and from SG was set up last night to implement the petition and collection pro-

All Top SG Offices Save Presidency Uncontested _

By Fred Jerome

The Student Government presidency is the only major position which will be con-tested by more than one candidate in tomorrow's SG elections. Bohdan Lukaschewsky, '57, present SG secretary and Stan Wissner, chairman of the Finley Center Board of Student Managers '57, are vying for the post.

Voting will take place during the 11 o'clock class, and special booths will be set up outside Knittle Lounge and at the main entrance of Finley Center for those who have no class at that hour.

The contests for all three other major SG offices show only one candidate running for each position. Bart Cohen, '58, former chairman of the SG Civil Liberties Committee is unopposed in his quest for the vice-presidency. Mike Horowitz, '59, SG treasurer, and Arthur Genen '59, former Sophomore Class president, are unopposed for the posts of secretary and treasurer, respectively.

All other positions are being sought by no more than one candidate and in some cases no one is running. In the latter instances, vacant positions will be filled by the class councils.

Competing for the position of Senior Class president are Mike Rizzo, who has been president of the class of '57 for the past two semesters, and Martin Pollner former head of the Social Functions Agency.

The only other positions which will be contested by more than one candidate are in the classes of '58 and 59. Marcel Brysk and Stan Brottman are vying for the Junior Class presidency and five students are running for three open positions as '58 Student Council representatives.

The Sophomore Class is the only one to show keen competition for every available position. Marv Adler is opposing Stan Greenwald in the race for class president while eight students are battling for five positions as Student Council reps.

A New Deal

Student Government at the College is in a pretty sorry way. We've said it many times. but repeating it is hardly going to make a difference. We admit from the beginning we have no panacea for our troubled compatriots who try to lead their fellow students. Happily, though, there are some in and around Student Government who are unsatisfied enough with it to continue to seek entirely new approaches to their problem of molding SG into a group that means something to more than a handful of students.

One of the suggestions brought forth is the subject of a referendum which calls for the election of major offices to SG for one year, instead of the present semester.

The plan, is a worthwhile one for the follow reasons:

 SG today suffers a good deal from a lack of continuity. Officers serve their term and leave; usually nothing or very little of whatever anyone tried to do remains for more than a year after he is gone. Officers attempt to rush through whatever programs they might have in the space of a term and cannot make longrange plans because there isn't enough time to carry them out.

• Before any basic changes can be made in SG—and if it is to become more meaningful, it will have to be revampedproper groundwork must be laid. Changes in thought and attitude about SG both in and outside of it must be brought about. These can be accomplished only slowly and four months is hardly enough time.

 With four SG presidents in office during the average college career instead of eight, students may very well give more consideration to their choice of a chief executive, and his accomplishments in office may become a good deal more meaningful.

One hesitation in accepting the proposal is the thought of an incompetent in office. Where such an officer would easily be ousted after a semester, we would be forced to keep him for a year. Sadly enough unqualified students do run and are sometimes elected. In such a case, however, the harm done to Student Government in a year would not increase greatly over that of one term. Even if the referendum is accepted, SG will continue to be beset by a magnitude of problems.

The one-year term proposal has been instituted and has worked well at other colleges throughout the country. It deserves at least to be tried. Student Government can suffer little more by it.

Stan Wissner

It will take quite a man to lift Student Government out of the hole that Bill Brown dug for it this semester. While neither Bohdan Lukaschewsky nor Stan Wissner seems especially suited to this Bunyanesque feat, we feel Wissner stands a better chance of leading SG out of the pious inertia and articulate ineptitude to which is has succumbed under Brown's anemic leadership.

The respect of the student body and the faculty and Administration are indispensible to the success of Student Government. Perhaps a great deal of the failure of Brown's administration stemmed from his role in the Steier letter fiasco in the early weeks of the semester -it set the tone for the remainder of Brown's titular tenure. It is hard for us to picture Wissner becoming embroiled in such a debacle. As chairman of the Finley Center Managers Agency, he has worked closely with both student and Administration leaders. Both groups have come to respect his word and to trust in his judgement. Wissner says what he thinks. But he possesses also the political acumen to sense when his words will be most effective. He will be an articulate leader of the Student Government and of the student body.

A second facet of Brown's reign which contributed to its ineffectuality was, by Lukaschewsky's own admition, the low-octane leadership of this semester's Executive Committee.

Yet, Lúkaschewsky was a member of Brown's Ike-like "Team." Had he any leadership potential, it certainly would have shown with a clear-gem-like flame amid the Exec gloom. It didn't.

Wissner, on the other hand, approaches the presidency with a program embodying some original ideas. It is Wissner's aim to encourage a greater interest in Student Government among technology students at the College, an increasingly large majority of the student body. Another of his plans is to reorganize the representation on Council by Schools rather than classes. While reforms of this magnitude would require much more additional study, its scope is indicative of the intellectual initiative we might expect of Wissner as SG president.

A Student Government concerned with bet ter service to the student body, rather than one perpetually enmeshed in marathon seminars on world student problems—problems about which SC members are relatively uninformed and almost totally impotent to asspage—would be a revelation.

Student Government needs a superman as its leader next semester. Stan Wissner is the next best bet.

The SFCSA Election

The competition for the Student Faculty Committee on Student Activities shines like a lonely sentinel in the discouraging morass of apathy and mediocrity that envelops tomorrow's student balloting.

While this newspaper has often found itself hard pressed to cull candidates worthy of endorsement from the meager ranks of Student Government and class nominees, our cup literally runneth over in respect to the SFCSA

Three of the five candidates—Bill Brown, Joe DeMaios and Herry Grossman—are seeking reelection tomorrow; another—Howard Schumann—is a newcomer to the SFCSA competition. and the fifth-Charles Waldauerran unsuccessfully last semester. Two seats are at stake.

The rigorous characteristics of the qualifications required of SFSCA nominees virtually assure the student body of meaningful representation on the Committee no matter what the decision of the electorate is tomorrow. But of the five candidates, we feel there are three especially qualified and deserving of our endorsement and your vote. We urge voters to make their choice from among DeMaios, Grossman and Schumann.

The qualifications and leadership abilities which College students recognized last semester when they elected DeMaois and Grossman to SFCSA are enhanced this term by the experience these men acquired as members of the Committee. Schumann, with an extensive record in Student Government—he served as SG vice-president this semester—and as the guiding force behind the ephemeral Political Action Committee last term, is one of the few student leaders on campus with the fortitude to raise his voice in protest over the mumbling of his colleagues. Schumann is a fighter working in the interests of his fellow students and for the general welfare of the College com-

Waldauer, although presenting a satisfactory record of co-curricular participation cannot be considered in the same class as the trio mentioned above. The student body should cast its stamp of disapproval on Brown's administration by overwhelmingly consigning the Lavender Herbert Hoover to political limbo.

Choose from among DeMaios, Grossman and Schumann for SFCSA tomorrow. You can't go wrong.

The Best of the Lot

There is no doubt of the outcome of three of the major Student Government races tomorrow. The candidates for the offices of vicepresident, secretary, and treasurer are un-The indifference which has been prevalent at the College is at best an unhealthy situation which has been lamented on numerous occasions in this space; fortunately, it will not be disasterous—at least for the moment. There are at least three hearty souls who have fought their way through the colloidal of apathy and accepted the responsibility which countless others have shunned. They may not be completely qualified for the positions they aspire to, but they are acceptable in the context of the grim realities of present day life at the College.

The Candidates Speak

STUDENT GOVERNMENT PRESIDENT

BOHDAN LUKASCHEWSKY

The first principle of an effective student government is service. This means the continuation of now existing programs and the establishment of new ones. The second factor is leadership, which means the establishment of policies and programs fitted to the current needs of the student body. Diplomacy is the third. In the past, good ideas could not be implemented because of the manner of presentation. These three principles are essential if we wish to achieve a Student Government that will have the support of the entire student body and the respect of the faculty and Administration.

I believe I have the qualifications to implement these principles. Since entering college three years ago, I have served the school continuously through Student Government, House Plan, and other campus organizations. As secretary of Student Government, and as such, a member of the Executive Committee this semester and as Chairman of one of its legislative committees last year, I have had sufficient experience in leadership to qualify me for the leading office in Student Government. On my many dealings with faculty and administration I have learned that diplomacy and unemotional perseverance are indispensable in achieving our goals.

STANLEY WISSNER

I would like to state that one of the basic beliefs which I have formulated in my three year stay atthis College is the belief that with one of the finest faculties and most competent student bodies, our College can truly maintain itself as an outstanding academic institution.

There must be certain common goals toward which interested faculty members and students should

One is the encouragement of student-faculty committees which will advise not only in areas of curricula, but also in areas concerning admission policies and tenure.

The second, is working toward the ideal of making a Student Government, the democratic body which will, in essence, legislate to the students in the area of extra-curricular activities. We must, therefore, work toward enlarging the scope of such entities in the Student Government as the Student Government Fee Commission, the Board of Student Managers, and the Student Coun-

We of the College, both students and faculty, must have a Student government which makes effective decisions to, and perform meaningful services for the Student body.

I, as Student Government President, must work toward these goals. Mistakes will be made, but what is more important is that certain principles will be realized in the practical realm, and I am sure that the City College will be so much the better for it.

SENIOR CLASS PRESIDENT MICHAEL RIZZO MARTY POLLNER

The duties of the president of the Senior Class do not just involve the supervision of activities but also planning for the future and anticipating the needs and problems of the seniors.

During the past semester, I have tried to fulfill this dual obligation by informing seniors of activities and obligations through a newsletter sent directly to your home. I have established semi-annual formal exercises for fall graduates. In planning for the future, caps and gowns have been ordered, June graduation exercises are being planned, the Farewell Ball is also being organized. This semester you had the Senior Prom, Senior Dance, Moonlight Cruise, etc.; I hope to continue this program. The

I am not a school politician, but a Senior who is disgusted with the apathetic, vague, and decentralized way the Senior Class has been run this term. Under Rizzo, the Senior Dance was a total failure, social functions are nil, the Prom is being run with the cheerfulness of a funeral, no one has information regarding Cap and Gown, Microcosm, or Senior affairs in general. I believe Rizzo has done nothing to warrant a second term!

As Senior president, I would take it upon myself to personalize the Class of '57 with moonlight boat rides, hay rides, better Senior Dances and a Senior newspaper. It takes three long years to become a Senior. When the goal is reached it hould be enjoyed!

The College's defense held the Islander's star Bob Mahala in check; he picked up three personal fouls forcing him to play a cautious game. Fred Blackwell and George Blomquist, counted on by Wagner coach Herb Sutter to control the boards, also were in trouble with fouls. Each had three when the half

As the second stanza began, Ralph Schefflan, the Beavers' high scorer with 16 points, tallied six straight points to give the Lavender a comfortable lead. The Seahawks fought back and reduced the Beaver lead to one point when forward Bruce Witzel tallied to make the score 42-41. .

Face Adelphi Saturday

Adelphi's Panthers will visit the Wingate Gym Saturday night in the Beavers' second home game of the season. The varsity contest will start at 8:30, the freshman game at 6:30.

Adelphi is a big team featuring co-captains Bernie Ehrlich, a 6-8 center and Marty Funk, 6-6, at a forward position. Karl Soderstrom, 6-7, will be starting at the other up-front spot. A fast backcourt duo of Mike Gordon, 5-11, and Larry McDonough, 6-3, round out the starting team.

McDonough is presently the Panthers' high scorer working mainly from the outside with a fair jump shot and a good set. Ehrlich is the big man under the boards for the Long Islanders, but according to coach George Faherty, he could be a better shooter. Adelphi trimmed the Beavers last year, 71-64.

In a win against Brooklyn, Faherty found that he could go as low as his tenth or twelfth man without hurting the team on the floor. Mel Jacoby, 6-3, Marty Botwinick, 6-3. Artie Benoit, 5-11, and Vinnie Quarto at 5-11 are the boys who will spell the starters.
