College Budget Includes Funds For Police Aid

President to Submit Request to Board At Next Session

Provisions for appropriations to cover increased police and maintenance personnel and aid for the intercollegiate athletic program were included in the College's 1956-57 operating budget, submitted to the Bureau of the Budget by Pres. Buell G. Gallagher on Tuesday.

Seek Extra Police

Included in the over nine million dollar request are six thousand dollars for additional College police, twenty thousand dollars for athletics and thirty-five thousand dollars for an increased maintenance staff.

The Bureau of the Budget will refer the College's request to the board of Estimate for final action. The Board consists of the five borough presidents, the mayor and the city comptroller.

College Provides Police

The College now spends eleven thousand dollars annually to provide police protection on both campuses and in the Finley Center.

Although the contingent of New York City Police assigned to the College area, was increased last

Beavers Drop Ninth Decision With 72-70 Loss to Hunter

By Sheldon Podolsky

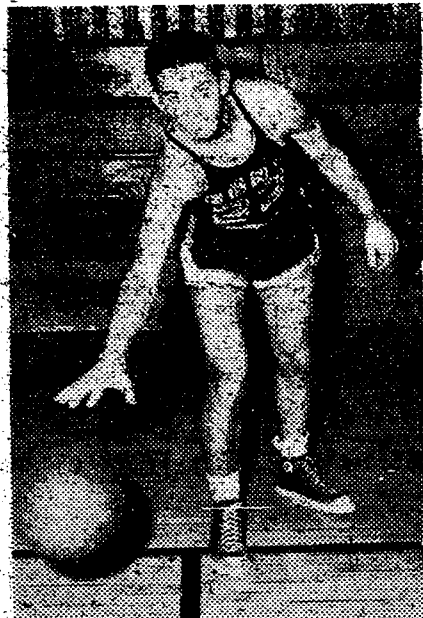

This de-emphasis business has gone too far. When the College's basketball team loses two games in one century, let alone one season, to Hunter College, then it's time for a shapeup. Who knows, maybe the boys on the waterfront can improve on the brand of ball displayed last night as the Beavers dropped a 72-70 decision to Hunter's Hawks at the Bronx gymnasium.

The game was in doubt until the final seconds, but really, who cares? After playing a lackadaisical first half (they trailed 31-26) the Beavers suddenly caught fire. But as usual it was too little and too late. They led by their biggest margin, six points, 62-56, at the 16 minute mark only to see it slip away.

Ira Schwartz, Hunter's one man showboat, hit on two long sets, which would have benched him at most any other time for even attempting them, and Ed Milan chipped in with another basket to tie the game at 62-62. The Laverder took its final lead of the night on a lay up by Joe Bennardo with two and one half minutes remaining, but a three point play by Bob Sacks gave the Hawks a one point advantage and the Beavers spent the rest of the evening vainly trying to catch up.

Council Offers Friday Dance Fee Proposal

SC Applauds Stand Of 'Bama Council In Mob Censure

A proposal to charge an admission price to the Friday Night Dances was submitted to the School Affairs Committee of Student Council last night by the Student Government Executive Committee.

If the plan is accepted the price of admission will be determined by the School Affairs Committee, according to Arnold Deutchman '58, SG treasurer. Deutchman estimated that the admission charge would be about fifty cents per person; if the costs for the use of the ballroom are not excessive.

Jussum Voices Opposition

If an admission price is charged, rent may also be asked for the use of the ballroom. At present, since the dances are free, a deposit returnable in full is the only rent which the Center requires.

SG president Jared Jussim '56, voiced his opposition to the plan. "I oppose any charge for the Friday Night Dances because it violates the basic principal of the dances, which is to provide free social contact," he said.

In another action, Council voted to send a letter to the Student Council of the University of Alabama commending that body for their stand against mob violence. Rioting broke out on the Alabama campus recently when a Negro student was admitted to the University.

Commends 'Bama Council

Stan Wisner '57, who introduced the motion said, "I feel that it is the wish of students at the College to assert themselves in commending the action of the Student Council of Alabama University in condemning mob violence."

However, Jussim refused to go along. "I cannot commend a group that believes in segregation even if they are against mob violence," he said.

Council also appointed Wisner chairman of the School Affairs Committee at its meeting last night, and the first Friday Night Dance of the term was scheduled for February 16.

Dean Peace Defends List's Use at College

The opinion that membership lists of political and religious organizations will not be used improperly was voiced yesterday by Dean James S. Peace (Student Life). Commenting on a letter, condemning the lists, which he had received from the New York Civil Liberties Union, Dean Peace said, "The main issue here is the use of the lists rather than their existence."

Dean Peace agreed with the NYCLU that "information concerning student associations has been misused" in some institutions. However, he added, "this has not and will not happen at this college."

The NYCLU letter had stated that the listing requirement "does inhibit free association."

Dean Peace added that the system of safeguards for the lists, passed by the Student Faculty Committee on Student Activities on January 12, would guarantee the lists proper usage. He said that he felt membership for political and religious clubs "will be used only internally, within the school, and not for any external purposes."

Lists Safeguarded

The safeguards, which were passed 7-0-1, include placing the membership lists of political and religious clubs in a strongbox under the jurisdiction of a special four-man SFCSA sub-committee, until the completion of the term.

Copies of the full report will be mailed to all groups that are the concern of the SFCSA sub-committee on membership lists.

Gloria Kingsley, '57, former president of Student Government, who was the lone abstention in the SFCSA vote on the safeguards, commented: "I suppose that at the next meeting of SFCSA, the strongbox will be placed in a second strongbox as a safeguard. Compulsory membership lists remain a threat to students who want to join political or religious organizations." She requested that the question of voluntary membership lists be placed on the agenda of SFCSA for the coming term.

PAC Seeks Help

Howard Schumann, '58, chairman of the Political Action Committee stated that PAC "shall continue to seek outside assistance in our campaign to have the list ruling rescinded."

"We are still disturbed that SFCSA has not yet chosen to solve the problem in an adult and reasonable fashion by the substitution of voluntary membership lists."

Dean Peace said that any member of SFCSA may move to place the question of voluntary lists on the agenda again, if he so desires.

What, Me Worry?

Why should I? I was once a 97 pound weakling and now I'm enrolled in THE CAMPUS Candidates class which begins today at 12:30 in 327 Finley. I have heard about that amazing Sam Stein who is a hardfighting managing editor. He drinks printers ink and spits typewriter keys and will make a new man out of me.

And I know my life will be rewarding from now on. I yearn to be an A-I newspaper man and be the envy of all the girls. This exciting session where news, feature, and sports writing is taught will be just what the doctor ordered. I am promised the Nobel prize when I complete my training (Alfred Nobel will let me have two sticks of dynamite).

Open House

Today is "Open House Day" at the Hillel Foundation, 475 West 140 Street. Entertainment will be provided and refreshments, consisting of free frankfurters and cokes will be served.

Saturday evening, Hillel will hold its semi-annual term opener Square Dance, at Drill Hall, 141 Street and Convent Avenue. The dance will feature square dance caller, Bernie Friedmar, and will start at 8. Admission is free to Hillel members, and 75 cents to non-members.

A Doubtful Saving

A plan whereby admission would be charged at Friday Night Dances was referred by Student Council last night to the School Affairs Committee. Any objections to this proposal must be balanced against the fact that the dance consumes over one thousand dollars of Fee Plan funds. A fifty cent admission charge would free this money for distribution among the student activities that so badly need it. It is only fair that those who are attending the dances should bear the burden of paying for them, rather than divert activities fee money which could better be used to support a starving co-curricular activities program.

Charging admission, however, is not the only way of saving money at the Friday Night Dances. At present, a member of the Department of Student life is being paid to direct the dances. The work done by this person could easily be taken over by students. And certainly, there are many members of the faculty who would be willing to volunteer a few hours of their time to satisfy the requirement that someone from the faculty must be present at such an affair.

In addition, charging ten cents for Cokes instead of handing them out free would gain four to five hundred dollars in revenue. The small cost involved won't place an unbearable burden on those attending the dance, and it means the difference between a shoe-string or a healthy budget for other activities.

It's nice to have a free dance, but not when the savings are at the expense of the College's entire activities program.

Memories Are Made of This

Progress is wonderful but we can't help feeling a twinge of remorse as we watch the demolition work being done on Army Hall. A new playground will replace it in the near future.

Freshmen look with disbelief at the upper classmen who talk endearingly about a dilapidated, dusty and dark edifice that looked like a relic from out of the past.

We will miss Army Hall but it will be hard to explain why to those who have never had a class in it. It's loss is of no real importance, but it is like stripping a college building of its ivy. Those of us who wandered about its catacombs will understand. The mark of maturity then, was not your classroom grades, but how long it took you to find your way out of the many exits and entrances of Army Hall. That was where they separated the men from the boys.

Classes in Army Hall were a different type of educational experience. Anyone can pass a subject when he is able to read the notes clearly from a blackboard but those whose eyes pierced the dim lights and the cracked blackboards gained their diplomas the hard way.

Army Hall was twentieth century learning in a 12th century atmosphere, and we who remember will regret its passing.

Tradition to Perish in April With Razing of Army Hall

After resisting generations of orphans, soldiers, tourists and students, Army Hall will finally succumb to time this April when its demolition will be completed by the Lehigh Salvage Company.

It will not be without company however, as it's old neighbor Finley Hall is labeled for a similar fate. The cost of the demolition has been estimated at 98 thousand dollars, which was the lowest bid offered to the College.

Playground to Be Built

Army Hall, which was originally built to serve as a haven for children, will in its death once again achieve this purpose. Over the remains of the ancient structure will be built a playground for the children of Public School 92, which is located directly behind the doomed building. The playground will be open for community use after school hours.

The history of Army Hall has been both a lively and varied one. First built as a refuge for homeless children in 1883, it was called the Hebrew Orphanage.

Housed Soldiers

With the outbreak of World War II, the orphanage was replaced by an army barracks which housed two hundred instructors and three thousand student-soldiers, working under the Army Special Training Program. The student-soldiers attended the College but were subject to the articles of war.

After the war, the facilities at

HP Activities Begin Today

House Plan activities resume with a freshman orientation program today and a welcome home dance tomorrow.

Speaking at the meeting will be Carole Mishkin '57, HP president and Mr. Jerry Gold (Student Life). Entertainment in the form of a skit and singing will be provided by the freshman advisory committee of House Plan.

The dance is open to everyone at the College. Entering students are especially invited. Music will be furnished by Jim Siegel '57, and his five piece band. House plan will also provide a program of contests, singing and other entertainment.

Army Hall in brighter days. This building is now being demolished and will give way to a school playground.

the College were acutely inadequate to cope with the rising number of students, and Army Hall, offering a needed panacea for the tight situation, was speedily annexed as part of the College. It remained until last fall, when the opening of Manhattanville and the passage of time tolled the knell for Army Hall.

Taxi-Driver Freed of Guilt In Death of Doris Lubell

Allonzo Sullivan, driver of the taxi-cab that fatally struck Doris Lubell '58, last May, was declared innocent in Manhattan Vehicular Accident Court, Monday.

Mr. Sullivan was driving south on Amsterdam Ave. last May 25 when Miss Lubell stepped out from behind a bus parked on the corner of 138th St. and attempted to cross the street, but stepped into the path of Mr. Sullivan's cab. Miss Lubell was removed to Knickerbocker Hospital in a coma, suffering from head injuries.

After 231 days in a coma, without recovering consciousness, Miss Lubell died on Jan. 11.

Spurred by the accident Student Council passed a resolution authorizing Steve Lawrence '56 to mail letters to the New York Times and the New York Post asking those papers to back the College's plea for a greater safety program around the school.

Mr. I. E. Levine (Public Relations) has not yet been contacted concerning the letters and has not authorized the move as was reported on Monday.

HE DIDN'T GET GERTIE'S GARTER BUT ... Daring Student Gets Panties

By Jack Schwartz

"Get her step-ins, Abramson, and don't come back till you do, and that's an order." This was the ultimatum thrown at Mel Abramson, '59, a pledge of Alpha Lambda Sigma, last semester.

Abramson's pledge project was to obtain, by crook or by hook, an article of Marilyn Monroe's underclothing, with a note from Miss Monroe, expressing her affection for him.

Operation Not a Success

Mel, though a hardy lad, was not able to come through with "Operation Marilyn," and so he decided to choose a riper area of operation. Considering Miss Monroe, this posed an extremely difficult problem, which was finally solved when the Alpha Lambda Sigma fledgling hit upon Jayne Mansfield, the eye pleasing star of the Broadway hit, "Will Success Spoil Rock Hunter?"

Setting out on his quest for the treasure, Abramson first approached the cashier at the box office of the theater where the show was playing. He was told ceeded to sneak into the theatre via the stage door.

Jayne Mansfield who gave her undies for frat stunt.

Upon entering the star's room, Abramson discovered that he was at a loss about broaching the question to her. But "she was so pleasant and relaxed," he said, "that I was soon at ease."

As Miss Mansfield stepped behind the screen, and began to change into her stage clothes, Abramson braced himself for the question, and, fingers clenched, explained his predicament.

Flying Panties

For a moment nothing happened. Then, just as he was about to dig a hole, a pair of black silk, stone-studded panties came flying over the screen at him. Abramson called for a fair catch, and smothered them on the thirty yard line. Miss Mansfield was so amiable that she further granted his last, panting request by pinning a little note to her gift. On it was written "To you, Mel, with all my affection, Jayne Mansfield."

that it would be months before he could see her. Undaunted he pro-ary for athletics appropriation is included in a 55 thousand dollar budget submitted by the four principal Colleges. The College will receive twenty thousand dollars of the overall appropriation.

Speaking for the athletic department at the hearings today, President Gallagher cited part of Estimate's recent approval of a substantially larger budget for the high school athletic program, as precedents for acceptance of the Municipalities' request.

A similar athletic request submitted by the four colleges was approved last year. At that time the Board of Estimate formulated to circulate petitions at the four colleges presented to the Board of Estimate.

A 35 thousand dollar request for additional maintenance funds was necessitated by unions which last year forced the college to reduce the work of cleaners and maintenance from 44 to 40 hours.

Milan Scores 31 for Hunter As Beavers Fail to Avenge First Early Season Defeat score 72-70, the losers had a good chance to do it but George Jensen, who replaced starter Bob Silver early in the second half, was caught walking as he drove in for the tying basket. Silver, the 6'5" sophomore who became eligible for his first varsity game last night almost played his last. He was in terrific pain after twisting his vulnerable left ankle on scoring the game-tying jump shot (41-41) and had to skip off the court after a five minute time out.

The twisted ankle was the same one which gave him trouble as a freshman last season. Coach Nat Holman announced that Silver will see limited action tomorrow night against Brooklyn College.

Milan, who led Hunter to its first victory over the College 67-62, earlier in the season, showed the way once again. The six-foot guard hit for 31 points on an assortment of one-handers and sets. Schwartz backed him with 15.

The Lavender's big wheel was Ralph Schefflan who tallied 14. With Stan Friedman and Jensen close behind with 13 apiece. It was Friedman who sparked the Beaver's second half drive with five straight baskets.

The victory was Hunter's eighth of the season against five defeats and its third in four outings in municipal competition.

The Beavers have won twice in eleven meetings and are one and three in Municipal games.

The final statistics showed how even the match was shooting wise. The Hawks hit on 25 out of 65 attempts from the floor (40 per cent) and the Beavers, 26 for 63 (41 per cent). The big difference was in the rebounding where the taller Beavers were out-rebounded 38-33.

Ed Milan, who led the Hunter Hawks to a 72-70 win over the Beavers.

Tickets

Tickets for the Fordham basketball game with the College at Rose Hill on Thursday, February 16, will be on sale today in O1 Lewisohn Stadium. Students will be able to purchase tickets for one dollar. General admission will be two dollars.

The Freshman game will start at 7 and the varsity at 9.

Lavender to Face Brooklyn Upsala, in Televised Games

The College's basketball team will be out to avenge a 19 point early season loss Brooklyn College tomorrow night when the two teams meet at Wingate Gymnasium in televised basketball game. WATV will do the televising, starting at 8.

In the opener at 6, the freshman teams of both clubs will clash. The contest was originally scheduled for Saturday night but it was moved up a day because of television commitments.

The Kingsmen will be without their high scorer, Barry Brunstein, who scored 25 points in the 77-58 rout December 28, but Coach Nat Holman is not impressed.

"It's too good a club to fold up because of the loss of one man," said Holman, "and I expect another rough game. Brooklyn has good shooters and we will be prepared. The question is, can we handle them?"

"In the first game," Holman continued, "defensive assignments were not carried out and the Kingsmen were getting shots they shouldn't have. I hope things will be different this time."

Holman is not sure about his starting lineup and feels that "if one man starts one game, it doesn't necessarily mean he's going to start the next." Nevertheless, if the veteran coach goes along with the same lineup he started against Hunter last night, it will be Bob Silver and Ralph Schefflan at the forwards, Stanley "Bugs" Friedman and Joe Bannardo at the guards and Sydney Levy, the 6-8 Eiffel Tower, at center.

Brunstein Ineligible

With the exception of Brunstein, who was declared ineligible because of medical reasons, Brooklyn coach Placido Gomez will start the same team which manhandled the Beavers at the Flatbush gymnasium. The repeating starters are captain Jerry Wax and Sy Kalotkin in the forward spots, Nick Gaetani at one of the guard posts and Ted Schroeder at center. Herb Solomon will be the probable replacement for Brunstein in backcourt.

A victory for Brooklyn tomorrow night can just about nail down the municipal championship. The Kingsmen are 3 and 0 in municipal competition and another triumph would put the cup out of the reach for the two closest competitors, Hunter and the Beavers.

Face Upsala

Before returning to classes Tuesday, the Lavender will celebrate Lincoln's Birthday Monday night with another televised basketball game at Wingate gymnasium, this time against Upsala College. Television time for this affair is 9 P.M. over WATV. The freshman contest is scheduled for 6:30 P.M.

The Vikings lost four of the starters which lost to the College 96-88 last season at East Orange, New Jersey and the Beavers rated a "strong opponent." We say more?

Six Varsity Athletic Events Slated for Coming Weekend

Every varsity team will see action this weekend as the College's sports program moves ahead at a rapid rate.

Miss Laura Hamm's lady hoopsters will start things off by traveling to Trenton, New Jersey tonight in an attempt to avenge the varsity's 96-66 loss to Rider College last week.

Tomorrow, the College's rifle squad will get a chance to hit the mark when they go against Manhattan at the Jasper's range Saturday, the action will reach its peak as four of the College's teams try to add one more to the win column. Three of the events will be held at home.

Coach Jack Rider's swimming team, fresh from a victory over Fordham, is favored to topple Brooklyn College.

The College's fencers, under Ed Lucia, will take on Fordham while Joe Sapor's wrestlers meet Brooklyn College. The grapplers turned back NYU in their last match while the fencers lost to Princeton.

The only event taking place away from the College will see coach Harry Di Girolomo's track men pound the boards at Madison Square Garden in the NYAC track meet to open the indoor season.
