Exec Recommends Change Role of Council President; Constitution Will Be Reviewed

Reorganization was the key-... of an unusually active Student Government Executive Committee meeting last... proposal that the president of Student Government be made an officio member of Student Council and that a "speaker of council" be elected to chair Council meetings was referred to SC action tonight.

approved, the speaker would be elected by a two-thirds vote of Council. In addition to chairing meetings, the speaker would conduct SC internal affairs. The speaker's functions would be carried on in cooperation with the president.

Relieve Burdens

Jared Jussim '56, SG president, had approval of the recommendation. "I feel that the change, by relieving the president of some of his burdens, would allow him to spend more time on the effective management of the administration of Student Council," he said.

another action, Exec established a committee to revise the constitution. It recommended Jim. Manny Halper '54 and Martin Gruberg '55, former SG presidents, and Harry Pollack '54 as members of the committee.

motion to elect future Student Council representatives either from the College's three Schools on the basis of vocational objectives rather than according to present Class system was referred to the Internal Affairs Committee.

Negro Liberty AACP Topic

Freedom in the South" is the topic of a discussion to be held today at 12:30 in 427 Finley, the College's chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

of John Davis (Government), helped in the preparation of the case resulting in the Supreme Court's desegregation ruling, will address the club.

particular stress in the discussion will be laid upon the controversy involving Miss Autherine.

This young Negro woman, the first of her race to be admitted to the University of Alabama. Pro-segregationist elements outside the college rioted on the University campus. A limited number of students took part in the riot, while the majority took no action of any kind. The administration of the school responded to the riot by barring Miss Lucy from all classes. At present she is being held for reinstatement.

When the Alabama Student Legislature condemned the mob violence at the College's Student Council, it passed a resolution in support of Miss Lucy's action by the Alabama State Legislature, and urged reinstatement of Miss Lucy.

Another referral to the Internal Affairs Committee concerned the election of Student Government major officers. The proposal would lengthen their term of office from a semester to an academic year.

Ronald Reifler '57, president of the Student Athletic Association, asked Exec to recommend that Council co-sponsor the Association's request for a twenty thousand dollar athletic appropriation from the Board of Estimate. Similar requests have been denied by the Board in the past.

Freshman Teams Back

If the joint appeal is successful, a portion of the money will be allocated for the re-institution of freshman teams at the College. At present, the only freshman team fielded is in basketball.

Reifler also requested that a specified number of varsity athletes be permitted to register early. Many players find it difficult to obtain a program which will allow them to attend practice sessions regularly.

The request will go before Council tonight without any recommendation from Exec. The vote was 3-3-1.

Political Clubs Receive 'Warnings' from Crank

By Fred Jerome

Post cards warning political organizations to "beware" of Marxist theory which "belongs to the Jews" and to "comply with your college rule to file lists," have been received by leaders of six political groups at the College.

The "warnings," all signed by a "Wm. Saxon," were addressed to the leaders of the Robert A. Taft Howard Schumann, PAC chairman felt the postcards indicated the climate of fear in the nation.

Student Council to Vote Today On Photo Identification Cards

By Abe Habenstreit

Spokesmen for the Student Government and the Department of Student Life indicated yesterday that they favored the adoption of photo identification cards to replace the old student activities card at the College. Student Council is expected to give final approval to the plan today.

Lost and Found

The Lost and Found, a service of Alpha Phi Omega service fraternity, is now open daily from 12 to 2 in 117, Finley.

Religion 'Test' Course Offered By Philo Dept.

Two courses in religion will be offered next fall by the Department of Philosophy in an attempt to "determine the nature and extent of student interest in courses on religion," according to Prof. Daniel J. Bronstein (Chrmn., Philosophy).

Professor Bronstein is the chairman of the student-faculty committee to study the problem of religion in the curriculum. The committee was formed last semester after the General Faculty passed a resolution to have the subject investigated.

Pres. Buell G. Gallagher selected the faculty members of the group. The student members were chosen by Student Council.

The two courses are Philosophy 20, the philosophy of religion, and Philosophy 202 the philosophic aspects of the world's religions. Philosophy 20 had been offered each semester. Philosophy 202 will be given for the first time next fall.

Philosophy 202 will be taught in various forms of religious philosophy such as supernaturalism, naturalism, humanism and agnosticism. The relation of religion to science, metaphysics and ethics and the basic issues in the current church-state controversy are examined. Readings from contemporary and classical writers will be used. The course will be given by Professor Bronstein.

Philosophy 202 will be taught by Dr. K. D. Irani (Philosophy). The course, as described in the elective brochure, deals with the world's great religious movements considered as ways of life. The development of religious movements and conceptions in the context of historical interaction and religious thought will also be studied.

The cards, which would cost each student 25 cents per year, were recommended to Council by the Student Government Executive Committee on Feb. 7, as a means of increasing security at the College. They would contain a picture of the student and could be used on the campus for identification and voting purposes and outside of the College for identification.

Jared Jussim '56, SG President, felt the point has been reached where it is necessary to have photo identity cards as one of the important factors to help insure the safety of the campus. "However, I hope that a method will be formulated so as to pay for these cards without taxing the student body," he added.

Cards Necessary

Mr. Phillip Brunstetter (Student Life), noted that the adoption of the new identity card is one of the most necessary steps "the College can take to insure personal security. These cards have been checked by experts and they cannot be altered. They will speed up waiting in line for school activities and would be accepted as official by other universities and all outside agencies."

Under the system proposed by a representative of the Perfect Photo Identification Corporation of Chicago, students would have their pictures taken at the rate of one every twelve seconds at registration. The cards would be ready three days later. The pictures of the students would be a part of the card itself, rather than being pasted on the card, to prevent forgery and tampering.

A Great Service

Photo identity cards will prove a great service to the student body, according to SG Vice-president Bill Brown '57. If the procedures are worked out, most of the out of class voting will be eliminated. "I am confident that Student Council will approve the idea of photo identification cards if they weigh its advantages against the 25 cent fee."

DeMaio and Veep Resign IFC Posts

Joe DeMaio '57 and Bob Castle '56, president and vice-president of Inter-fraternity Council, announced last night that they would resign their posts within two weeks.

DeMaio feels that his resignation was in the best interests of IFC because that organization needs "a change in leadership."

"I foresee great potential in the fraternity system at the College," DeMaio commented. "Under capable and far-sighted leadership it can develop into a meaningful experience for the college community."

Animals Vegetables or Minerals? Prof. Finds Man Weakest of All

By Barbara Ziegler

This may come as a shock to all muscular young males who take pride in their bulging biceps, but the truth is that not even a top-notch athlete would stand a chance in a fight against a vegetable.

As Professor Joseph L. Copeland (Biology) put it, "plants are among the hardiest of living things and can exist in water as hot as 185 degrees."

The Professor spent the entire summer traveling around the United States and taking pictures, and in a lecture before the Biological Society showed some of his films of algae living joyously in boiling water of the hot springs in Yellowstone National Park.

In order to point out the comparative fragility of human beings, the Professor told the amusing story of a young lady who accidentally fell into one of the hot springs.

Off With Her Head

"When they were finally able to get her out," he said, "two arms, one leg and a head fell off."

As a further illustration, the Professor cited his own unfortunate experience. He was standing on the edge of a hot spring on what he thought was a rock. The "rock" turned out to be a thick layer of mud which promptly gave way. After frantically pulling his foot out of the boiling water, he found that he had a fourteen inch blister which ran clear around his leg.

The Professor was traveling tourist style and he and his wife camped for a while in a tent near Yellowstone Park.

"It was a very friendly place," he said. "Bears would walk in and out all the time."

He told the story of a neighbor who had a loaf of bread in his tent which was buried under a pile of miscellaneous things. A hungry bear, smelling food, walked into the tent and completely demolished it before he found the bread. The luckless ex-tent-owner departed the next day.

No Running Water

"There were also a few enterprising tourists there," said Professor Copeland.

"One decided that since there was no running water in the tents, he could make a profit by setting up a laundry business and using the water from the hot springs. Being somewhat lazy, he brought a whole pile of clothes over to a spring and simply dropped them in. But unbeknownst to him, the water contained such things as sulfur and acid. The resulting explosion blew up a tent located forty feet away. That was the end of the laundry business . . . and the tourist."

The Professor also spoke of some of the wonders of nature that can be found in Yellowstone Park. One of these is a hot spring which is located in the middle of a lake. "You can stand on a mound in the middle of the lake," he said. "catch a fish, and then turn around and cook it in the hot spring."

Theater Group To Do 'Father'

By Linda Ross

New Theater Studio will match the talents of the Phoenix Theater with a production of August Strindberg's "The Father" on March 8, 9 and 10. This is the play of which Zola said, "It is one of the few plays that has profoundly moved me."

"The Father" was last seen on Broadway in 1948 with Mady Christians portraying Laura, the wife, and Raymond Massey in the title role. The Studio is presenting its counterparts of Miss Christians and Mr. Massey in Marilyn Miller '57, and John Ryan '58.

Veteran Leads

Miss Miller and Mr. Ryan are long-standing members of the group and both have played leading roles in past productions. Miss Miller had the lead role in "The Marriage Proposal" and has been in all the subsequent productions. This is the third role for Ryan who was in last term's successful presentation of "Sweeney Agonistes" and before that played in "The Respectful Prostitute."

The supporting cast is composed of both new and old members of the Studio. Jim DiDomenico '56, Gloria Stein '57, and Robert Losada '58, have been with the group since its inception. The newer members in the cast are Eleanor Fineman, Larry Levin, and Phillip Jerome.

Director Interprets

Directing this ambitious production is Mel Margolis '57, who was drafted by New Theater Studio because of his wide professional experience in the theater and television. In summarizing the theme of the play and the interpretation they are using, Mr. Margolis said, "It is a psychological drama concerned with the inherent struggle between man and woman. Out of an ordinary squabble arises a struggle for personal dignity," he continued, "between the father and his wife. In asserting her power Laura, the wife, drives him to the razor's edge where his sanity hangs in the balance."

Tickets are available in the Finley Ticket Bureau and every evening after five in Townsend Harris Auditorium where the hard-working group is rehearsing. Admission is one dollar for all seats for the performances on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, March 8, 9, and 10. The curtain will be at 8:40 sharp.

FREEDOM

To the Editor:

The letter I am about to write concerns the already ubiquitous issue of the compulsory club lists. Since your Feb. 21 issue of The Campus contains a great deal of information about this subject, including a column written by Larry Shulman, I would like to comment on some of the remarks quoted in that issue and in Larry's column.

"Freedom from fear" was recognized as one of our fundamental rights by the late Franklin Delano Roosevelt. It follows therefore, that a student should be free to join any organization without fear of being called upon at a later date to give information as to why he joined the organization or what function he served. I feel that the student newspapers have every right in the world to incite "fear" in the student body or to convey the idea of a "reign of terror" in our college. Are we to wait until there is a ball and chain about our necks before we start to protest any infringement upon our rights? Perhaps these lists will come into the hands of another junior Senator from Wisconsin who would use them as evidence against us. Facts can always be twisted. I'm sure that no one who joined the Communist Party in 1933 realized that they might someday lose their jobs because of the mistake they were making. Many prominent and respected men recently fell into disgrace because such information was used against them.

Clubs Have Courage

The six clubs who dropped off the campus should not be disparaged because they refused to tolerate infringement upon their democratic rights. They have the courage to hold fast to their ideals. They realize that it's almost useless now to try to defeat the dictatorship of the SFCSA in a democratic fashion, no matter how many student polls are taken.

I'm glad that Jared Jussim, although in favor of membership lists, had the integrity to present this issue again before the SFCSA. It represents a noble attempt to (Continued on Page 3)

Shocking Column

The column written by Larry Shulman actually shocked me. Is it conceivable that this boy really believed what he wrote? Were the French Revolutionists children be- cause they wanted to be more than dirt on the ground to the French Aristocracy? Were they children because they wanted more bread to eat? If this is infantile, oh let me be a child forever! I am not sure that Mr. Shulman was com- pletely aware of everything that he wrote. The first half of the column sounds like an English theme, good grammar, good spell- ing, good punctuation, but very little of it faces cold fact.

What has the quest for freedom got to do with freedom from re- sponsibility? Are we circumvent- ing responsibility by protesting any restriction upon our actions which may be harmful to us. I have never yet heard a plausible argument for the lists. Larry seems to toss words all over the place and even has a lovely quote mixed in with his gibberish, but it doesn't make sense. "The Declaration of Inde- pendence" did pretty good for us and the French and we had a few fanatics around too in 1776, with shotguns at Valley Forge. More- over I suppose we're striving for anarchism because we don't want these lists around.

Marvin Adler '57

MR. SLADE DISHES IT OUT:

You Need Any Money Today?

Hundreds of unusual requests and thousands of dollars pass over the counter of the central treas- urer's office every day. The man who is responsible for transfer of currency is Mr. Irving Slade, who has spent the last three years meeting disbursements and approv- ing loans and allocations.

Some of the requests that reach the treasurer's office range from the bizarre to the ridiculous. Sev- eral days ago a young man in a hurry popped his head over the desk where Mr. Slade was sitting and asked for "a sheet of three- hole loose-left paper without lines" and dashed off suddenly.

One day last week a personable young man questioned an assist- ant, Illy Fenster '57, about the possibilities of obtaining a loan. She gave him the usual applica- tion and asked him in which class he was registered, whereupon the chap nonchalantly replied, "Oh, I don't attend school."

A most perplexing problem that

Central treasurer Irving Slade, over whose desk pass disburse- ments and fee allocations galore. He confronts Mr. Slade every semester is the allocation of funds for "edu- cational" films to be used by the various fraternities on campus.

Miss Fenster volunteered the opinion of these "educational" films might be more appropriate for a Hygiene 71 or 81 course.

One of the most memorable re- quests that Mr. Slade can remem- ber was made last term by an irate student who demanded tick- ets for a performance of "Theo- dore." The gentleman was obvious- ly unaware that "Theodore" was last seen at the College a year ago at the Pauline Edwards thea- tre, that the office of the Treas- urer does not handle ticket sales (except for special occasions) and that "Theodore" was then making appearance in Wisconsin.

However it seems that these oc- currences are taken in stride in this department of the College, for as Mr. Slade said between two deep sighs, "It's all in a day's work." And it's a long, long day in 330 Finley.

Sport Slants

By Sheldon Podolsky

In case you're interested:

Basketball, one of the biggest money makers at the College in years past, is now running at a deficit. It is really a banner day when the College breaks even on a home game. The recent NYU game, which attracted a crowd of 2,000 to Fordham's Rose Hill Gymnasium, did not result in a sizeable profit. What with the high rental of the gymnasium, the extra police assigned to watch the mischievous youngsters, the high priced hired help and the insurance policy on the gymnasium floor, the Athletic Association had to rely on television receipts to get out from under. The fifty-cent admission price to AA members didn't help either.

The annual tradition of hauling out a coffin signifying the death (?) of the Violets is causing headaches in the AA office. The Fordham gymnasium is leased to the College for the annual NYU-Beaver basketball game on the condition that the utmost care is used in protecting the gymnasium floor. Last year the coffin caused a ruckus which resulted in a mass brawl between the virile fans of both institutions. College officials were on the lookout to see that this would not happen again.

So what happened? The boys sneaked the infamous box into the gymnasium in sections. They assembled it in back of the stands and once again made their daring march through Rose Hill. By the time they got three-quarters around the gymnasium floor the mighty defenders of the Violet had come to the rescue. They jumped on the coffin and started tearing it to pieces. No self respecting Beaver was going to stand for that. Sooooo, the yearly tradition was preserved. Fists were flying all over the place before the pregame entertainment was stopped.

This activity may be amusing to some onlookers, but the keepers of the Fordham gymnasium failed to see the joke. They take considerable pride in the appearance of their gymnasium floor, one of the finest in the East, and they don't want it scratched up in a game in which they have no personal interest. So another warning was issued to Dr. Arthur H. DesGrey, Faculty Manager of Athletics. The College may be able to lease the Fordham gymnasium next year but a recurrence of the yearly tradition will definitely put an end to the rivalry as far as Rose Hill officials are concerned.

Dr. Buell G. Gallagher, who has attended more basketball games than the average sports enthusiast at the College, was all smiles during the Queens contest, Friday night. He had trouble containing himself at the College-sponsored debate Saturday afternoon, informing all the Beaver hosts of the victory. We should have such nachas more often.

Don't believe all the rumors you hear about Professor Nat Holman retiring as basketball coach. True, he has been depressed many times this season and may have talked to reporters about quitting, but I think he is still undecided. It may mean a lot to him to go after a winning season and he has talked many times to Dr. DesGrey about schedule prospects for next season.

Lifters

The Beaver Barbell Club, unofficial representative of the College's weightlifters, placed second in the Eastern Collegiate Weightlifting Championships held at M.I.T. last Saturday. According to Dave Okun '57, club president and coach, the City boys might have won if four of the top lifters were not engaged in other College varsity meets in different parts of the country at the same time.

Beaverettes to Play Adelphi Tomorrow; Co-Captain is Back

Miss Laura Hamm's well coached women's basketball team will go after its second victory tomorrow night against Adelphi in the Garden City gym.

So far this season the girls have lost six games, but prospects for a win against the Panthers seem better than ever. Co-captain Rusty Jones, sidelined early in the season with a broken finger, will return to action and will join Lee Irwin, Sandy Weinberg and Helen Wong in the starting lineup.

Besides the return of Jones to the lineup, Miss Hamm has noticed some very good prospects on the JV squad and feels that her team has great potential. The greatest trouble to date has been erratic shooting and Miss Hamm hopes that practice will straighten out that problem.

After the Adelphi contest the girls will have only two games to play, one with Hofstra at home and the other against St. Joseph's at the opponent's gym.

Lacrosse Players Needed 'No Experience Necessary'

By Michael Cook

Leon Miller, about to go into his twenty-sixth season of leading the College's lacrosse team, is still worried about the lack of candidates for the squad.

"Lacrosse is a game for boys who like body contact and I would like to have some fellows who played high school football come out although that isn't essential. I'll take any boy who is rugged and has a willingness to work," Miller said.

Almost all the positions on the team are open according to the coach and "no experience is necessary."

Along with the promise to candidates of a good chance to make the squad, Miller announced that a lacrosse seminar would be held at the College tomorrow night. All the lacrosse coaches in the metropolitan area will get together with their players and the met officials
