Set Carnival, SG Boat Ride For May 4, 5

By Arthur Damond

An "All-College Weekend," including the House Plan Carnival on May 4, and the annual Student Government boat-ride the following day, was approved last night by Student Council 10 to 4 with four abstentions.

Discount tickets for the combined event will be sold for seven and one-half dollars per couple. Separate tickets for each affair will cost four dollars per couple.

Joint ticket sales begin today at a special reception in the House Plan lounge. Tickets will go on sale starting Monday at the Ticket Bureau, 132A Finley and in the Carnival and Student Government offices.

Traditionally a Fall event, Carnival was rescheduled for the Spring semester this year, to coincide with Alumni Homecoming day. The boat-ride, originally set for a later date, was moved up to May 5 to avoid conflict with finals.

After weeks of stormy negotiations, each group still adamantly refused to change the date of its event.

Myers to Talk On Art Report

Prof. Bernard S. Myers (Art) will discuss his recently released "Report on the Problems of the Younger Artist," tomorrow at 12 in 101C Eisner.

Prepared under the auspices of the College's New York Area Research Council and financed by a grant from the Rockefeller Foundation, the report was released on February 25. Since then, it has enveloped the art world in controversy.

In a letter which appeared in the March 15 editions of The New York Times, 93 New York artists took issue with Dr. Myers "on almost every point he made."

Art critic Aline B. Saarinen disagreed with the "premises, methods, findings, and above all, the main recommendations of the report."

The essential conclusions of the study were that it is virtually impossible for the young artist to pursue art as a livelihood and that he is also faced with the additional problem of obtaining facilities for the exhibition of his works. Dr. Myers urged the creation of a large community art center in New York, as a means of mitigating these problems.

Dr. Myers will also appear on a panel show, "Right Now," Saturday at 1:30 on CBS-TV. Moderator of the program will be Ron Cochran, while panel members, in addition to Dr. Myers, will include Mrs. Edith Halbert, noted art authority; James Ernst, prominent artist; and Lloyd Goodrich of the Whitney Gallery.

Music Lecture

The Newman Club will sponsor a lecture on the significance and historical development of sacred music, today at 12:30 at the Catholic Center, 469 West 142 Street.

Rev. Richard B. Curtin, Professor of Sacred Music at St. Joseph's Seminary in Dunwoodie, New York, will deliver the musically illustrated lecture. Reverend Curtin has just returned from Rome, Italy, where he investigated the origins and development of the Gregorian Chant.

No Conference This Semester, Pres. Indicates

Pres. Buell G. Gallagher indicated yesterday that an All-College Conference will not be held this semester.

"There has been no significant demand for a conference from any quarter this year," Dr. Gallagher said. "Although in the past, these conferences have proved useful in many respects, impetus for such a program cannot be created artificially," he continued.

"Developing a worthwhile All-College Conference involves a terrific amount of work," Dr. Gallagher added. He indicated also that the planning for the program would have had to begin many weeks ago, if there was to be a conference this semester.

Dr. Gallagher said that there has been no significant demand for a conference this year.

The first All-College conference was held in conjunction with Dr. Gallagher's inauguration in 1952. Plans for the program were formulated by Joseph Clancy '52, president of Student Government.

Subsequently, conferences were held during the spring semesters of 1954 and 1955. The last conference, in 1955, had as its theme, "What are the responsibilities of the City College in Developing Values in Thought and Action?"

Although classes were suspended for three and one half hours to enable students and faculty members to participate in the Conference, less than 250 attended the six panel discussions that constituted the program.

Thirty-one Colleges to Debate In Second Annual Tournament

Debate Team Hosts For Invitational Competition

By Ken Foege

Debaters from 31 colleges and universities in four states will participate in the College's second annual Invitational Debate Tournament Saturday in the Finley Center.

Sponsored by the College's Debating Society and the Center, the tournament will begin at 10 and continue until 5. Four student speakers and a faculty judge will represent each of the competing schools.

The subject for debate will be: "Resolved: That the United States should discontinue direct economic aid to foreign countries." A total of more than 90 debates will be judged, with every available room in the Center in use throughout the day.

Among the 31 schools participating, will be Bucknell, Cornell, Columbia, Fordham, New York University, Hofstra, Barnard, and Brooklyn. The Baruch School's debating team will represent the College as the uptown team acts as host.

This year, the downtown team participated in more than 75 de-

Gallagher-Wilkerson Talk To Open 'Freedom Week'

By Jack Brivic

At least three diverse political viewpoints will be heard at the College during Academic Freedom Week, which begins next Thursday, April 4, and continues until April 11.

The first of the Student Government sponsored lectures and forums will be a debate between Communist Doxey Wilkerson and Pres. Buell G. Gallagher on Thursday at 12 in the Grand Ballroom of the Finley Center.

A symposium on "Religion in the Public Schools" will be held the next day. However, a definite time and place has not yet been set for it. The participants will represent the American Civil Liberties Union, the American Jewish Congress, and the American Legion.

The following Thursday, April 11, a "Hyde Park Day" will be presented on the lawn of the South Campus between 12 and 2. Soap box orators will express pacifist, socialist and communist points of view.

The speakers will be: Bayard Rustin, a pacifist and member of the War Resisters League; Joe Clark, the foreign editor of the Daily Worker; and as yet unidentified representatives of the Independent Socialist League and the Socialist Workers Party.

The Week's activities will conclude with a program of folk singing and dancing on Friday, April 12 at 3.

To commemorate the occasion an Academic Freedom Week Journal will be published. It will include special articles by four members of the faculty: Prof. Joseph Cropsey (Economics), Mr. Bernard Sohmer (Mathematics), Prof. Abraham Edelman (Philosophy), and Prof. Harry Lustig (Physics).

Gerald Dworkin '59, chairman of the SG Academic Freedom Week Committee, called it the duty of the College to provide the opportunity for students to explore all aspects of current questions in order to enable them to define their own positions. "Academic Freedom is an essential to all freedoms," he said.

"The recent actions of the five municipal college presidents in banning John Gates from their campuses is a severe blow to our efforts," he added.

Release Totals Of Health Plan

More than two hundred students are participating in the health and accident insurance program which is in effect for the first time this term, Stuart Schaar '58, director of the plan announced yesterday.

Among the signees are five Hungarian students whose insurance fees were paid by a private donation.

The program, which is sponsored by Student Government, is underwritten by the American Casualty Company. Two types of coverage can be purchased at the beginning of each semester.

One plan, offering coverage for nine months—from the first day of registration in September to the last day of examinations in June—costs nine dollars and ninety-seven cents for males per semester or nineteen dollars and ninety-four cents per year. For the same program, females pay seven dollars and eighty-five cents per semester or fifteen dollars and seventy cents per year.

The second plan, for twelve month coverage, costs thirteen dollars per semester for males and ten dollars and twenty-five cents for females.

The policy pays up to five hundred dollars for each accident.

Jahoda to Perform In Spring Concert

PROF. FRITZ JAHODA

Prof. Fritz Jahoda (Music) will conduct and perform in the first of a series of free spring concerts tomorrow at 12:30 in the Aranow Auditorium of the Finley Center.

The College's orchestra will offer the Brandenburg Concerto No. 5 in D Major by Bach, and the Concertino da Camera for Saxophone and Eleven instruments by Ibert.

Professor Jahoda will play the piano solo of the Brandenburg Concerto and Vincent Wright, an Evening Session student, will be the saxophone soloist for the Concertino da Camera.

The Lost Weekend

Faced with the depressing prospect of eager Houseplanners and equally fervent Student Government agents, struggling to lure College students to Carnival and/or the boatripe on the weekend of May 4 and 5, Council voted last night to lump both events into a combined "College Weekend."

Although students with sufficient energy to attend and enjoy this no-dozé fete will benefit from the reduced rate package deal, the "Weekend" is obviously only an expedient solution.

The boatripe, Carnival and the All-College Prom are the three most significant social affairs of the school year. That two of the trio should be scheduled on the same weekend is but another instance of student improvisation leading to chaos.

An analogous, if less serious, situation occurred last semester when the Senior Class held a dance in the Grand Ballroom on the same night the Stein Fund basketball game took place in the Wingate Gymnasium. Neither the seniors nor the Stein Fund benefited much from the oversight. Similarly, the students who cavort in Bear Mountain Park on three hours sleep, Student Government—the boatripe keeps SG solvent—and those who are forced to pass up one of the two affairs, are all the innocent victims of this latest mishap.

If conflicts are to be prevented in the future, revision of the present hap-hazard scheduling procedures must be made. Difficulties now stem mainly from poor liaison between the groups which sponsor social affairs; each works independently of the others. This problem is solved at several other institutions—including our sister college in Queens—by the work of a coordinating committee for social activities.

Here at the College, a group composed of representatives from House Plan, IFC, TIIC, Student Government and each of the four classes, counseled by a member of the Division of Student Activities could fulfill this function.

Meeting regularly each semester, the committee could plan an integrated social calendar that would save College students the inconvenience of our present unimaginative and uncoordinated social program.

An Outstanding Achievement

The College will play host on Saturday to representatives from thirty-one colleges and universities who will participate in the second annual Invitational Debate Tournament. Every available inch of space in the Finley Center will be utilized to accommodate the more than 90 debates which will be held simultaneously throughout the day.

By dint of constant hard work, the officers, members, and faculty advisers of the College's Debating Society have organized an event in which every member of the college community can take pride. Operating without fanfare, the Debating Society has achieved what must be considered one of most significant advancements in co-curricular activities at the College in a long time.

THE CAMPUS joins President Gallagher, Dean Gottschall, and the Debating Society in welcoming to City College the more than 100 students and faculty members representing colleges and universities spanning a four-state area.

Students to Attend Model UN

Princeton to Host Annual Session

By Barbara Rich

Eight students from the College will represent Mexico next weekend in a Model General Assembly session at Princeton University.

For more than thirty years the College has participated in the annual event sponsored since 1945 by the American Association for the United Nations. Prior to that it was held under the auspices of the American Association for the League of Nations.

Michael Horowitz '59, Student Government Secretary, has been chosen as one of the representatives. Esther Aschillia '57, Celia Fuertes '58, Jordan Gelfman '58, Joel Glass '57, Jeff Katz '57, Marilyn Rosenblum '59, and Ralph Simon '57 will also act as Mexican delegates.

Each year the College acts as a representative from a different delegation. The country is selected by the AAUN.

A Faculty Committee headed by Prof. Bertram Epstein (Education) chooses the students for the Assembly. "The eight representatives were selected because they are social science students who have shown capability and interest in extra-curricular activities during their College careers," Professor Epstein said.

According to the professor, the primary function of the assembly is to acquaint students interested in the international scene with the internal machinery of the UN.

"These meetings," the professor said, "afford the student an opportunity to learn from actual experience about the operation of the UN. It also familiarizes him with the technique of cloak room discussions and behind-the-scenes agree-

Cohen '58, SG vice-president, warned that unless Council adopted the plan for the proposed "Weekend" the College would be "headed for a couple of weeks of unprecedented cut-throat competition.

"It's the duty of Student Government," he continued, "to look out for the welfare of other organizations on campus as well as for its own wealth. On the basis of past experience our boatripe is assured of success."

bates, including three major tournaments. The team's best performance of the season was at the Yeshiva College Tournament, when it captured first honors with seven wins and one loss.

Trophies, which are now on display in the Lincoln Corridor of Shepard Hall, will be presented to the winning school and individual debaters. The presentations will be made by Dr. Wayne A. Nicholas (Speech), faculty advisor to the Debating team.

Dean Morton Gottschall (Liberal Arts and Science) will extend the College's greeting to the visiting debaters at a luncheon in the Center's cafeteria during the noon intermission.

The Debating Society's entire roster of twenty members, along with volunteers from Chi Lambda and other campus groups, will serve as chairmen and timekeepers for the event.

views accurately the students are engaged in extensive research work. In addition, the economic consultant to the Mexican delegation at the UN, Mr. Enrique Brabo will meet with the eight delegates to discuss his country's present position.

Next weekend, as Mexicans, the group will not be initiating any controversial resolutions. This will be in keeping with the country's practice.

In the past three years, the College has represented Canada, Brazil and Iraq.

To add a touch of reality to the assembly, members of the Russian delegation walked out of a meeting.

ENGINEERS

APRIL 1st and 2nd to discuss your future at Boeing*

...where you can rise to the top

Right now you're in the process of making one of the most important decisions of your life.

Your decision is important to us, too, because we are interested in engineers and scientists who want to get ahead. We're coming to the campus to give you the facts you need to judge whether Boeing can help you reach the goal you have in mind.

The fact that Boeing is an "engineers' company" is important to your success. At Boeing, you'd work with, and for, engineers—men who talk your language, understand and appreciate your work.

Boeing encourages graduate study, reimbursing full tuition and fees, plus an additional amount for incidentals. Every six months, each Boeing engineer is given a merit review—a personal opportunity for recognition and advancement. The company's steady, rapid growth assures plenty of opportunities to move ahead. At Boeing, engineers hold positions right to the top.

Another advantage: Boeing assignments are interesting. You'll work on such famous projects as the 707, America's first jet transport; the intercontinental B-52, the nation's principal long-range jet bomber; the supersonic BOMARC guided missile, and top-secret programs that probe beyond the frontiers of the known. At Boeing, you'll be in a young, expanding industry, one with its major growth still ahead.

So whether you plan a career in civil, mechanical, electrical, aeronautical or industrial engineering, physics or mathematics (or related fields), drop in for a person-to-person discussion about your future at Boeing.

Alumni Provide Test In Lacrosse Opener

By Bob Mayer

A policeman wielding a lacrosse stick instead of a nightstick will be one of the features of the annual alumni lacrosse contest, to be held Saturday at 2 in Lewisohn Stadium.

Jack McMahon, co-captain of the 1954 Lavender stickmen and now a member of "New York's finest," will be one of the stars to face the current Beaver aggregation in their opening fray of the 1957 campaign.

McMahon, a rugged defenseman for the College from 1952-'54, has had some curious experiences since becoming a defender of the law. In one O'Henry-like incident, he arrested a man who had heaved a brick through the window of a police station. The man's excuse—"I had no place to sleep tonight."

Returns to College

In his heyday at the College, McMahon prevented Beaver opponents from firing lacrosse balls into the Lavender nets, and it is to that role that he'll return Saturday, along with a score of other former College stickmen.

Three players who gained national recognition for their lacrosse records will be among the "oldtimers" returning to the playing field. These include George Baron, a first-team All-American in 1946, and Donald Wasserman and Hal "Punchie" Friedland, honorable mention All-Americans.

Friedland, who will probably start in the nets for the alumni, was goalie on the All-north team in 1954. He was also an All-American soccer goalie.

Ronnie Reifler, last year's captain, will represent the 1956 squad. Other alumni scheduled to compete include Ted Schnoll, Bob Ruppel, Ralph Kelly, Herb Rosenthal, and Mike Yessis.

The lacrosse team will open its season against the alumni Saturday at Lewisohn Stadium.

Large Turnout Expected

Most of the men who played for the New York Chiefs in a losing exhibition contest against the Beavers last Saturday will be back for another try. Since the College is the only school in the metropolitan area to field a lacrosse team, the Chiefs are composed mainly of Beaver alumni.

Commenting on the coming fray, coach Leon "Chief" Miller said, "It should be a real good game; closer than last Saturday's. We expect a big turnout if the weather is nice."

Two Wrestlers Finish Season In NCAA Meet

Bernie Stolls and Bernie Woods will be the lone Beaver entrants in the National Collegiate Athletic Association Wrestling Tournament to be held Friday and Saturday at the University of Pittsburgh. The meet will mark the team's final competition of the season.

Stolls, with a regular season record of seven wins and only one defeat, will wrestle in the 167-pound class. It will be the co-captain's last competition for the College.

Undeclared throughout the season, Woods will be out to add to his string of eight victories. The speedy 147-pounder was the standout of this year's team which compiled a mark of seven and one. Woods finished fourth last week in the Junior Metropolitan championships.

The host team, Pittsburgh, and the University of Oklahoma are the pre-meet favorites. Both squads will enter a full complement of men and are generally considered to be the top teams in the country.

Coach Joe Saporà felt his wrestlers stood a good chance of winning in their respective weights. "Both boys can go all the way," the coach said, "the big thing will be the pairing of opponents. If they can get some luck in the draws they can come out on top."

Originally, the College was to have entered three men, but heavy-weight Leon Entin, the third choice, suffered a muscle injury and was forced to withdraw from the competition.

Rifle

Beginning its post-season competition, the College's rifle team will enter the St. John's Invitational Tournament Saturday at the hosts' range.

The nimrods finished their season with fifteen wins in eighteen outings and placed second in the Metropolitan Intercollegiate Rifle League.

On Sports

By Bernie Lefkowitz

Dave Polansky dies a little with every misdirected pass and errant shot. His life is basketball and basketball merges with the College in his mind.

The season is over, but for the coach the anxiety is still with him. During the campaign Polansky chewed himself up, planning the strategy for future contests or replaying past games. Now he must wonder what his job will be next year.

"I've been here for 15 years and I don't think that there is any place else for me," he says. And that is Polansky's torture. For him the College is paramount and his loyalty prevents him from considering offers from other colleges. The frustration must be terrible for a man who knows he has the talent, but fate denies him the opportunity to prove himself fully.

Nat Holman has not announced whether he will return to his post next semester. Working on the assumption that silence on Holman's part is a tacit acknowledgement that his sabbatical leave is just that and he will return next fall, Polansky must acclimate himself to a new position.

Polansky is a relatively young man and barring unforeseen occurrences, he will eventually assume the post he has held this year. Yet the coach must be haunted by the realization that many people will view his permanent appointment as an inheritance—a legacy left to him by a departing coach.

This is an individual battle that he is waging within himself. Before the start of the season Polansky was on the spot. It is true that the ballclub could not get much worse, but Dave Polansky was not Nat Holman and his name could not compensate for the athletes' lack of talent. Possibly for the first time in his career Polansky was appreciated for his accomplishments, not merely as a substitute for a great coach. Polansky must be made to realize that he is appreciated as a man who has proven himself.

As much as coaching at the College is the core of Polansky's existence, so must it assume identical proportions in Holman's mind. Regardless of his outside interests and diversified activities the coaching position is his primary concern. He commented at the start of the disastrous 1955-56 season, however, that he no longer believes his function in coaching is coaching just to coach, but rather to teach. "Like a teacher in the classroom," he remarked.

No matter how candid and honest is Prof. Holman's appraisal of the current situation, he can never forget the past. His is a rich history and his triumphs and his teams' victories will never be forgotten. For a man who has reached the pinnacles of his profession, there must be a strong temptation to recollect or resurrect hundreds of his past victories.

Only one example of the difference between the two men is the way Polansky handled Ned Irish's attack. I doubt if Holman could have responded in Polansky's calm and unemotional manner. These are dissimilar men who live in separate ages.

Dave Polansky will have his memories too, next year. And if Nat Holman comes back to coach the Beavers, Polansky will not be forgotten. This thought may be of some satisfaction to him as he works with his freshman team or the Evening Session squad.

Hoopsters Hear Tributes At Team's Annual Dinner

Many plaudits were heaped upon this year's basketball team during the season, but some of the finest were heard at the squad's annual dinner at the Hotel Shelburne Tuesday night.

Praising the squad, Pres. Buell G. Gallagher said, "This team has meant more to me than anything in my five years at City College."

Mr. Leo Klauber '23, president of the Alumni Varsity Association, told the team, "You had something that most teams didn't; you played together because you liked playing together."

Seniors Bid Farewell

High scorers Syd Levy and Ralph Schefflan were among the graduating seniors to bid farewell to their teammates. "Playing ball for the College was the greatest thing that ever happened to me," Schefflan said. Levy added, "this was the greatest year of my life."

During the evening, the team elected Joe Bennardo and Bob Silver co-captains for next season. Bennardo, scrappy 5-9 guard, was third high-scorer this season. A brawny 6-5, Silver was second to Levy in the all-important rebounding department.

Dinner Caps Season

The dinner capped the College's most successful basketball season in seven years. Under coach Dave Polansky, the cagers captured eleven of their first fourteen contests and earned a bid to the National Collegiate Athletic Association post-season tournament.

Polansky had only words of praise for his players. He told them in a hoarse voice, "You've done it, and it's something to be proud of."

Evaluating the past season, the coach felt his team was beaten decisively in only two games. "Our other losses could easily have gone the other way," he said, "but so could some of our wins. We were lucky, but we were good."
