Lions Top Cagers, 64-56, in Season's Opening Game

By Barry Mallin

Nat Holman's return to the under basketball scene was led last night by a sharp-shooting Columbia quintet. The Lions downed the cagers, 64-56, in the season opener at Columbia.

Nat Holman, at the helm of the Beavers for the first time in two years, sent an inexperienced team against the speedy, sure-footed Columbia quintet. Only two second-half rallies by the Lavender quintet prevented Columbia from turning the game into a rout.

In the first-half play of the College game, the Beavers demonstrated the shortage of Lavender players. Lost to walking violations, and erasing shooting marred the Beaver's performance in the opening stanza.

Columbia Leads at Half

Improved shooting and a tighter defense enabled the College to stay within ten points during most of the second period. But the Beavers' quick start, coupled with Columbia's effective fast-breaking output, put the game almost out of the Beavers' reach before halftime. Columbia led throughout the second half after an early 5-5 tie, and a 36-23 margin at the intermission.

In the absence of co-captain Joel Mager, rugged 6-4 rebounder, who is an additional factor in the team's loss. Columbia was able to control the middle and prevent the Beavers from taking more than one shot from the basket.

Melton Sparks Lions

Extensively, the College was unable to stop the jump shooting and scoring of the Lion players. Mager, a flashy sophomore, sparked Columbia's first surge, scoring consistently and leading a deadly left-handed jump finished with twenty points and scored seven field goals in the

Referendum Placed on Ballot

A referendum requesting a raise in student activities fee from $1.00 to three was placed on the forthcoming election ballot last night by Student Council. The vote was 12-0-2.

A favorable student vote on the referendum in the December 17, 1958 election would result in an administration recommendation to the Board of Higher Education. An increase must be approved by the BHE.

In the last two elections, the student body defeated a proposed increase despite Council endorsement.

The council also rejected, by a 5-7-3 vote, a referendum urging the Legislature to pass a Municipal College aid bill, including a provision on maintaining free tuition at city colleges.

first half, one more than the entire Beaver team.

For the College, the key player was 6-5 center Hector Lewis who notched ten points in each period and led the team in rebounds with eighteen.

Lewis and guard Julio Delatorre, who tallied eight of his ten points in the second period, were instrumental in keeping the Beavers in contention.

Cut Gap to Five

Down by thirteen points at halftime, the cagers drove to within six points at the eight-minute mark of the second period, and to within five in the closing minutes.

Despite playing better ball in the final stanza, the Beavers on the whole were outclassed by the Columbia squad.

With five minutes gone in the opening period, the Lions launched a ten point spurt that vaulted them into a 15-5 lead at the midpoint of the stanza. Thereafter, Columbia's margin during the period remained

Harry R. 'Bobby' Sand: 4 Years on the Sidelines

For the past four years Harry R. "Bobby" Sand has been sitting in the background, waiting for a chance to return to the position that once provided him with a satisfying career.

The former assistant coach to Nat Holman has been connected with the College for 23 years, as an undergraduate, coach, and instructor of hygiene and economics. But since his reinstatement in 1954, at the close of the basketball trials, Mr. Sand has served the College as an administrator with no opportunity to teach.

Rather than leave the school, Mr. Sand has not given up hope of resuming a career that had earned him the respect and devotion of a large part of the College community. Throughout the investigation and the trial, Mr. Sand received widespread support from students, alumni, College newspapers, faculty members and former players.

According to a story in The Campus in November of 1952, many people at the College believed that several administrative officials were being whitewashed, and that Sand was being made a scapegoat.

Norm Mager, a member of the basketball team, was quoted as saying, "Bobby Sand is taking it in the neck. . . He only took orders. . . If it wasn't for Bobby, none of us would have stuck. . . I'd do anything to help Bobby."

During the trial, the chief investigator for the BHE gave testimony that Sand had repeatedly tried to bring about reforms in the athletic program. "Since 1945 Sand told his superiors that the basketball climate was no good. He did everything in his power, short of resigning, to bring about a healthy program," the investigator said.

Floyd Layne, one of the players involved in the scandal, declared at the trial that "Bobby told me that ball-playing isn't everything and always stressed school work."

At the conclusion of the inquiry an editorial in The Campus maintained that "testimony at the trial brought out the fact that Mr. Sand was more than a classroom teacher or a hygiene coach—he was a reliable friend."

The one factor which prompted the BHE to hand down a retroactive fifteen month suspension was Mr. Sand's letter to Ed Warner. The letter violated the accepted amateur code. "It's the only blemish on my record in eighteen years of service to the College," Sand commented at the time, "I made a mistake and I admit it. I know I will be a better teacher for it."

The BHE cited Mr. Sand's frank admission of guilt concerning the letter as a primary reason for reinstating him.

It was expected at the time that Mr. Sand would have little difficulty being reassigned to a teaching post in the Hygiene Department. Now 41, Mr. Sand still awaits the chance to return to teaching and coaching.

Bobby Sand Asks For Reassignment To Teaching Post

By Bob Mayer

Harry R. "Bobby" Sand, former assistant basketball coach and a controversial figure in the basketball scandals of the early fifties, is seeking reassignment to a teaching position on the College's Hygiene faculty.

Although nominally a member of the Hygiene Department, Mr. Sand has been on assignment since 1954 to the division of Planning and Design, located in Eisner Hall.

According to informed sources who asked not to be identified, Pres. Buell G. Gallagher declined last month to take action on a request by Mr. Sand for reassignment. Mr. Sand is now appealing the matter to the Administrative Committee of the Board of Higher Education.

Mr. Sand refused comment other than to acknowledge the request and appeal. Dr. Gallagher refused any comment.

Mr. Sand was suspended from the College by the BHE from November 18, 1952 to March 3, 1954 during investigations of athletics at the College resulting from the "point-shaving" scandal. At the conclusion of the hearings he was cleared of charges of "improper recruitment of players," but was found guilty of "conduct unbecoming a teacher."

Upon reinstating him the BHE ordered that Mr. Sand be suspended without pay retroactively, and stated that he should be assigned the next day "to such duties as the President of City College may designate."

At that time Dr. Gallagher assigned Mr. Sand to administrative duties in the College's business

Activities Fair Set for Today

More than fourteen student groups will participate in the eighth semi-annual Activities Fair today between 12 and 2 in the Finley Center Grand Ballroom.

The purpose of the event, sponsored by Gamma Sigma Sigma sorority, is to inform students—particularly lower classmen—of the activities of College organizations.

Among the exhibits will be a showcase of jewelry from Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania prepared by the Baltic Society, and a working model of an erupting volcano built by the Geological Society and the American Institute of Mining and Meteorological Engineers.

The Modern Jazz Society's band will provide music.

Other organizations participating in the Fair include the Caduceus Society, the Interservice Christian Fellowship, the Modern Dance Society, the College's chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and the Outdoor Club.

office. On December 1, 1954 Mr. Sand was reassigned to the division of Planning and Design, where he has remained since.

In refusing to act on Mr. Sand's request last month, President Gallagher reportedly referred to a tacit understanding that Mr. Sand was not to be given instructional duties. The purpose of Mr. Sand's appeal supposedly is to discover if such an understanding exists, and if so, why.

Mr. Sand has been a member of the faculty since his graduation from the College in 1939. He was assistant coach of the College's "Cinderella" basketball team that won the National Invitation and National Collegiate Athletic Association post-season tournaments in 1950.

The primary reason cited by the BHE in ordering Mr. Sand's retroactive suspension in 1954 was a letter he had written in 1950 to Ed Warner, a star of the team, who was later implicated in the scandal. In the letter Mr. Sand offered to share with the players the salary he would receive for coaching the team on a projected amateur tour of South America. The trip was never made.

As reasons for Mr. Sand's prompt reinstatement the BHE cited his "frank admission of guilt" in violating the amateur athletic code by offering the money, his "expression of repentance," and his "cooperation with the trial committee."

Nat Holman, head basketball coach, was dismissed by the BHE after the hearing. He was reinstated by the State Commissioner of Education after an appeal.

'Hedda Hop'

A "Hedda Hop" will be held tomorrow night at 8:30 in the Grand Ballroom of the Finley Center. The dance, sponsored by Student Government and directed by House Plan, will feature a "crazy hat" contest. Admission is free.

The Forgotten Man

The period from 1936 to 1951 was a happy time for Bobby Sand. As student, athlete, instructor and coach he served the College well. He was a respected and well-liked figure on the campus.

The period from 1952 to 1954 was a difficult one for Bobby Sand. For fifteen months he was suspended during an investigation into athletics at the College. At the conclusion of the hearing in 1954 he was cleared of all charges except that of "conduct unbecoming a teacher." The BHE punished him by suspending him retroactively—that is, by ruling that he receive no pay for the time he had been on suspension. But the Board ordered his immediate reinstatement "to such duties as the President of City College may designate."

For Bobby Sand the years since 1954 have not been happy and have not been sad. They have not been much of anything. He has toiled earnestly—but not quite contentedly—at administrative duties in Eisner Hall, the campus building furthest removed from the gym he knows so well.

Bobby Sand erred, and he admitted it. He was sentenced to a suspension without pay, and he suffered his punishment. Four years have passed since then. Now he is seeking reassignment to a Hygiene teaching post. How much longer must he remain a second-class citizen in the academic community?

Master Calendar

The failure of the Finley Center Board of Managers to notice the conflicting dates of two December dances has caused unnecessary difficulty for those involved in planning the activities. The conflict was not discovered until a schedule of December events was transferred to a master calendar from a smaller notebook in which it was compiled.

The Board of Managers meets once a week, and this suggests one way of diminishing the chances of repetitions of such errors. We urge that approval of activity dates be deferred at least one week from the time of application. This will insure that student groups do not waste planning efforts before they are aware of whether their requested date is or is not approved. At the same time we urge the Board to pay closer heed in the future to the school-wide events listed on the master calendar.

Annual Game

Beaver fans will get their first opportunity to see the basketball team at home on Saturday, when the cagers meet the Hawks of Hunter college.

Traditionally, the gate receipts from the opening home contest are donated to the Stein Fund, which pays medical expenses incurred by athletes while competing for the College. And traditionally, students attend the Stein Fund game in sell-out numbers. A turn-away crowd is likely Saturday. Come early.

HP Managing Board Calls Prom Charges 'Rantings'

By Jack Schwartz

Accusations against House Plans made by Thanksgiving Prom Chairman Frank Holzer '59, were labelled yesterday as "the outrageous rantings of a frustrated dance coordinator," in a reply by the HP managing board.

Holzer charged in Observation Post yesterday that House Plan's failure to actively participate in the Thanksgiving Prom hurt the dance financially. The prom suffered a small financial loss.

Holzer alleged that House Plan is a subsidized organ of the Department of Student Life and as such, neglected its duty "to give wholehearted support to any and all College sponsored events." This was termed "ridiculous" by HP President Frank Kasper '59, speaking for the managing board.

Kasper explained that although House Plan does participate in many undergraduate functions, it cannot possibly co-sponsor every event which occurs at the College. "Nor are we a subsidized organ of the Department of Student Life," the HP President added.

Kasper further said that House Plan had been willing to lend its support to the dance until it was alienated by "the prom committee's attitude and Holzer's personality."

He maintained that House Plan had at first volunteered to help sell prom tickets until it was told that only the Inter-fraternity Council was allowed to sell them. When informed of this, Holzer said that House Plan had never volunteered to sell the tickets.

When confronted with House Plan's counter-charges, Holzer maintained that he still agreed in substance with his statement in Observation Post. "I think House Plan has gotten too big for its breeches," he said. "I believe that somebody should try to set a precedent about the right sort of student participation."

Kasper concluded that "the House Plan managing board certainly tries to cooperate with other student groups at the College, as any other undergraduate organization here does, but we certainly owe our prime responsibilities to our own members and our own programs."

Here is a chance to become one of the few experts in this select field... possibly a section head in 2 years. We have hard challenging work. Create and learn while working directly with some of the few top engineers in this field.

LONG RANGE RESEARCH PROGRAMS

Men will be appointed to teams working on research and development programs in the following fields:

- Synchros
- Servo Motors
- Tach Generators
- Resolvers

NORDEN: A Division of United Aircraft Corporation

DUE TO RECENT ACQUISITION BY UNITED AIRCRAFT, NORDEN is working on new stimulating projects. All of UNITED AIRCRAFT facilities coupled with NORDEN's know-how in components—affords the graduate engineer maximum opportunity for professional growth.

The Government and industry look to the Ketay Department of Norden for the finest in precision components, whatever the missile — The Hawk... The Atlas... The Titan... KETAY has a component that is an integral part of its success.

As Design Agent for the Department of Defense, the Ketay Department of Norden created Synchro Designs which became "Standard" for the government. Of the Norden divisions' 1800 employees, more than 600 are highly trained engineers, scientists and technicians.

The Ketay Department is a fully integrated department which offers the graduate engineer personal recognition and maximum challenge.

Why the Components Field Offers a Bright Future?

The components field is highly profitable. Every basic system in systems engineering field requires numerous applications for the design of prototype and mass produced components such as: synchros, tach generators, resolvers, servo motors, etc. There are only a few components manufacturers in the country, NORDEN is one of the leaders in this field, and these firms by their very specialization are called upon to design and develop these important components.

For the young engineer the components field offers unparalleled potential. In this broad field, which is the basis of all systems engineering, there are only a handful of experts... some only 28 to 32 years of age.

Swimmers Defeated By Manhattan, 45-41

By Vic Ziegel

Outstanding performances by four members of the College's swimming team were not quite enough yesterday to give the Beavers a victory in their opening meet of the season.

Meeting a well stocked Manhattan squad, the swimmers went down to a 45-41 defeat in the Wingate Pool.

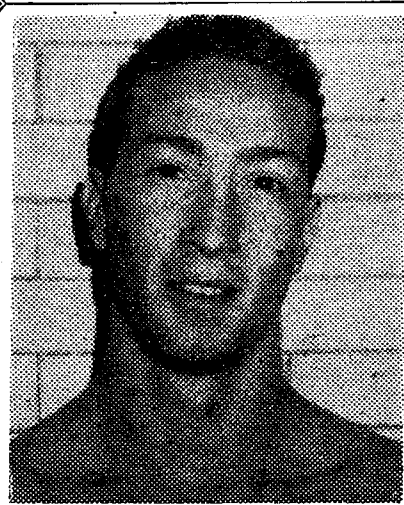

The meet was close all the way. Going into the final competition, the seven-point freestyle relay, the Beavers led 41-38. It was here, however, that the Laven-der's lack of bench strength became evident. All four men going for the College had already seen action in two other events.

The Beaver swimmers were spent and Manhattan went on to win the race and the meet.

"If we would have had one more man," said Coach Jack Rider, "we could have beaten them. Our boys surprised me. They swam well and will be tougher than I thought."

Although the home squad captured five firsts and tied for another, it was not enough to offset Manhattan's victories in the two relay events and six second place finishes. The Jaspers were able to capture individual honors in only the backstroke.

Sophomores Carl Ross and Mike Bayuk along with Joel White and diver Nick West accounted for all but seven of the Beaver points.

Ross won a thrilling 50-yard freestyle race and came back later to tie for first in the 100-yard freestyle with the Jaspers' Bob Maldonado.

Bayuk, in winning the breast-stroke and butterfly events, was the biggest surprise for the Beavers.

White, the team captain, took his events with ease. They were the 220-yard and 440-yard freestyle swims.

The final individual winner for the Beavers was West. The big diver brought repeated exclamations of awe from the small crowd as he performed his six dives with unusual skill.

between eight and eighteen points. Four minutes before the intermission the home team took its biggest lead, 34-16.

The Beavers' improved play in the second period was reflected in their shooting percentages. The College shot a frigid six for 29 in the opening stanza, and fifteen for 34 in the final period.

From the foul line the cagers notched fourteen for 24, a mediocre fifty-eight percent.

After the contest, Holman said that "the boys learned a lot from the game. They made many mistakes, but this can be expected in the first game of the season."

The cagers will open their home season against Hunter Saturday at 8:30 in the annual Stein Fund benefit game.

Frosh Hoopsters Defeat Lion With Second Half Rally, 61-

The College's freshman basketball team opened its season last night with a 61-57 victory over the Columbia frosh on the loser's court.

The Beavers trailed 26-22 at the half but settled down to take the lead midway through the second stanza. Shooting well and playing a fine defensive game, the freshman displayed a brand of basketball devoid of the usual opening night jitters and mistakes.

Mike Gerber led the Beavers with 20 points, followed by Allan Sparer with 14. Coming in at center in the second half, Irwin Cohen gave a key performance under the boards and on defense.

"It was a real team effort," said Coach Dave Polansky. "I've got nine men on this squad that use at any time. Our depth tainly helped us in the second half."

Co-captains

Milton Gittelman, a senior heavyweight, and Jack Izor, a junior 157-pounder, have been elected co-captains of the winning team for the coming campaign.

THEY SAID IT COULDN'T BE DONE—BUT TODAY'S L'M GIVES YOU—

They said it couldn't be done! Only a few years ago, the four-minute mile seemed unattainable. But on May 6, 1954, the barrier was shattered, and since then, the feat has been repeated again and again. Last summer five men bettered four minutes in one race!

Puff by puff

Less tars & More taste

DON'T SETTLE FOR ONE WITHOUT THE OTHER!

Change to L'M and get 'em both. Such an improved filter and more taste! Better taste than in any other cigarette. Yes, today's L'M combines these two essentials of modern smoking enjoyment—less tars and more taste—in one great cigarette.

LIGHT INTO THAT LIVE MODERN FLAVOR!
