World News Roundup

As an added service due to the metropolitan newspaper strike, THE CAMPUS is publishing today a brief summary of the major international, national, local and sports news. (See editorial on page four.)

Strike Report: Both parties will meet this morning at 10:30 with federal mediators in an effort to settle the two day old newspaper deliverymen's strike. It is reported unlikely that an early settlement will be reached, and the city may be without any major papers over the weekend.

Foreign News

New Russian Warning

Russia warned the West yesterday that any talks on the unification of Germany must include both the East and West German governments.

In the first official Soviet statement in two weeks, Tass, the Russian news agency, reported that the USSR was ready for a meeting of the heads of states "on the easing of tensions" over Berlin. In any such meeting, Tass continued, the socialist countries must have equal representation.

The Soviet statement charged that the West has shown no willingness to conduct "businesslike talks" on the crisis, and warned that unless such talks were forthcoming, the Russians would pull out of Berlin unilaterally. Any attempt on the part of the West to break through to Berlin by force would be interpreted as an act of war, Tass added.

The State Department said last night that there would be "no compromise" on the Berlin question.

Lodge Accuses Russia

Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge told the United Nations yesterday that a reign of terror is continuing in Hungary, and accused the Russians of blocking progress in that country. He asked the UN to condemn Russian "repression" in Hungary.

The UN adjourned at 6 in the evening and scheduled a special night session for 8:30. The action was taken after the Soviet representatives attempted to have the Hungary discussion removed from the agenda.

Castro to Establish Gov't.

Cuban rebel leader Fidel Castro announced yesterday that he will set up a formal government in the areas his forces now control. He said that he will try to obtain diplomatic recognition for his regime.

National News

Hoffa Ouster Threatened

A federal court judge yesterday threatened to oust teamster President James Hoffa unless he and the union leadership obey clean-up orders of three court-appointed monitors. The judge said that a union convention scheduled for March can not be held unless such a clean-up is made. The union said it would appeal the action.

Demand Voting Records

Six Alabama officials were ordered by a federal court judge yesterday to produce records of Negro voter registration at a Civil Rights Commission hearing on December 19. The officials had previously withheld such records.

Local News

Fire Investigations

Four fires of suspicious origin broke out yesterday in Julia Richman High School. The fires were quickly extinguished and school officials warned that any student found with matches would be suspended.

Meanwhile, four more schools were shut yesterday as fire hazards, bringing to thirty the number of schools closed since December 3.

Weather Forecast

Chance of snow early today. Clearing and fair. High near 30.

Sports

Moore-Durelle Rematch

Archie Moore, light-heavy-weight boxing champion, agreed yesterday to defend his title next summer in a return bout with Yvon Durelle. Moore knocked out Durelle in the eleventh round of their title fight Wednesday night.

SG Interviews

The Campus will interview candidates for positions on SFCSA, major offices in Student Government, Student Council, and class presidencies between 3 and 7 today in 338 Finley. Only candidates interviewed can receive Campus endorsement.

300 Donate Blood In Two-Day Drive

More than three hundred students, faculty members, and employees of the College contributed to the College's bloodbank.

The blood drive ended yesterday. It was sponsored by Alpha Phi Omega and Gamma Sigma Sigma, the College's national service societies.

Five hundred students had pledged donations during the past two weeks. Charles Gopen '61, chairman of the drive, attributed the poor showing at the bloodmobile to a "lack of interest on the part of the student body."

Each semester, students are asked to donate a pint of blood. This term's total equals that of previous drives.

Renee Roth to Run For SG Presidency

By Sue Solet

Renee Roth '59 announced her candidacy for Student Government president yesterday to become the only candidate thus far for the executive post

RENEE ROTH

Miss Roth, the present SG secretary, obtained the necessary 75 signatures on her petition last night, but has not yet handed it in. It will be submitted before the petition deadline at 6 today, she said.

As of last night, there were two candidates for vice-president — Warren Randall '59 and Louis Nachelsky '59. Stuart Goldberg '60 and Barry Kahn '60 are candidates for secretary and treasurer, respectively.

Miss Roth said that she did not become a candidate until yesterday because she had "personal commitments" and was unsure whether she would have the time available to work as president.

"SG has reached its lowest point," Miss Roth continued, "and it is a challenge to me to see if I can raise it to an effective functioning government that will truly represent the student body and will be respected by both students and faculty."

Morning Fire Drill Sends Student Body Into 22° Weather

By Don Langer

More than four thousand students and faculty members tramped into 22 degree weather yesterday morning in response to a fire drill signal.

It was the first fire drill in at least four years. Nobody in the College administration could recall exactly when the last exercise involving evacuation of the buildings was held.

Three gongs announced the beginning of the exercise at 11:35. The bell that normally sounds at twelve minutes to the hour indicated the end of the drill.

College authorities considered the drill a success. New York City Fire Chief George Jones, who observed the proceedings, said that the response was "very good."

Participants, informed of the drill almost a week in advance, viewed the proceedings with mixed feelings.

Everyone grumbled about the cold and one student quipped that "we could use a fire to get some heat."

Students generally considered the exercise a nuisance. Many saw benefits in the drill, but others felt that in the event of a fire, the exercise would have degenerated into chaos.

The operation went off smoothly on the South Campus, where classes milled about on the snow-covered lawns and concrete walks. At the end of the drill, however, the Finley Center main entrance was bottlenecked with hundreds of students who sought to get out of the cold.

Two incidents on the North Campus caused some confusion. The gongs failed to sound in the cafeteria, and students were alerted to the drill only when the lights (Continued on Page 6)

An unofficial list of candidates contained 44 names last night. There are 61 positions to be filled at the SG election next week.

Miss Roth said that she was trying to persuade qualified students to run and expressed confidence "that the major offices will be contested."

She urged qualified students, especially those who have been dissatisfied with SG in the past, to become candidates.

Miss Roth agreed with Mike Horowitz '59, SG president, that students in the School of Technology were not participating in the elections to the extent that had been expected of them.

'Male Animal' to be Presented By Dramsoc Tonight in Harris

Rehearsal of a scene from "The Male Animal"

Dramsoc's production of "The Male Animal" will be presented tonight and tomorrow evening at 8:40 in Townsend Harris Auditorium. Tickets for tonight's performance cost one dollar and $1.25. Tomorrow's prices are $1.25 and $1.50.

"The Male Animal" was written by James Thurber and Elliot Nugent. It concerns a professor of English at Midwestern University, his fight for academic freedom, and the marital problems that arise when his wife's old beau visits the University.

Prof Attends Ghana Parley

Davis to Observe African Meeting

Prof. John A. Davis (Government) is attending the All-African Peoples' Conference by invitation of its host, Prime Minister Kwame Nkrumah of Ghana, an old personal friend.

The professor left for Ghana last Friday, and will return next week.

The conference is being attended by representatives of unofficial African groups such as political parties, trade unions, and farmers' cooperatives. Observers from interested foreign organizations, such as Professor Davis, also will be present.

The professor is representing the American Society of African Culture.

He said that he looked forward to the meeting because it would give him the opportunity to view "the forces currently at work in Africa, and also to meet the new leaders." This is the professor's first trip to the continent.

Professor Davis knew Dr. Nkrumah as a student from 1936-38, when the former taught government at Lincoln University in Pennsylvania. Their friendship was renewed during the Prime Minister's intermittent visits to the United States.

"Dr. Nkrumah represents a perfect bridge between Africa and the West," commented Professor Davis. "He has learned the European ways and at the same time kept his contacts with his people."

The professor described Dr. Nkrumah as a "fundamentally gentle, knowing, and dedicated person."

Before leaving, Professor Davis said that the primary topic at the conference will be "Pan-Africanism, which was manifested recently in the union between Ghana and Guinea, and which, in my opinion, will continue to grow until there is a Republic of West Africa."

New Student Center For Baruch School

The Board of Estimate last week allocated $110,000 for conversion of the Children's Courthouse on 22 Street into a Student Center for the Baruch School.

If the allocation is approved by the City Council the money will be available January 1.

Pres. Buell G. Gallagher expressed satisfaction with the Board's action. He noted that forty thousand dollars in supplementary funds will be sought from the alumni.

Because the allocation was equal to the amount requested, no subsequent capital funds will be required from the city.

Prof. Barmack Studying Soldiers' Auto Accidents

By Jack Brivic

Prof. Joseph E. Barmack (psychology) is currently studying a problem classified by the government as an epidemic — automobile accidents involving servicemen on leave. The professor is conducting the study for a private research corporation, which is under contract to the United States Defense Department. The project has two aims: to find causes of the accidents, and preventive measures.

Note Tie With Drinking

"Accidents involving soldiers present the most important medical problem in the services today," Professor Barmack said. Among Air Force personnel alone about 215 persons were seriously injured or killed in automobile accidents within the last six months, he noted.

According to the professor, "the bulk" of accidents involve servicemen on trips of ten miles or less. Another discovery made by the professor and his five-man staff is that "drinking is associated with accidents much more often than is generally realized."

"Only one third of the cases involving alcoholism are reported as such," the professor said. He indicated that one of the main reasons for this is the understandable reluctance of medical examiners to perform blood tests on soldiers who are badly hurt, or perhaps dying.

Emphasis on Air Force

The project was begun two years ago. Although it is concerned with all the services, the emphasis presently is on the Air Force. The other branches will be studied in the future.

Professor Barmack indicated that some accidents, "especially the more serious ones," result from deep-seated emotional problems. At the six Air Force Bases where the study is underway, persons involved in accidents are required to undergo at least a token psychiatric examination, according to the professor.

Another practice advocated by the research staff is the investigation of an individual's records for previous accidents, "instances of non-conformity," and job effectiveness.

"If the accident is merely the culmination of a completely ineffectual performance, the soldier will be discharged under existing regulations," said Professor Barmack, who is an Air Force Reserve Lieutenant-Colonel.

'All I Want for Christmas Is a 27 Key Pipe Organ'

By Mamy Schwam

As part of the program for its annual Children's Christmas Party next Saturday, House Plan has taken over Santa Claus' mailbox.

Children invited to the party were asked to write letters to Santa Claus telling what they would like as gifts. Houses "adopting" a child will receive his letter, and attempt to fulfill the request.

Although most of the letters ask for toys and games, some make off-beat requests. A musically-inclined nine year old girl wrote "I want a 27 key Electric pipe organ."

Among other items, a fourth grade boy asked for "the two things that my father said I don't remember the name," and for "an airplane that flies."

On the practical side, a nine year old girl who signed her letter "Sinarely yours," wrote: "For Chrismas I would like two dresses, one skirt, one blouse, and one sweater."

Another youngster in a religious frame of mind asked for a bible, "a middle-sized-one."

A girl who requested "a pair of tights for the winter so I can keep my legs warm and I won't have to wear pants" ended her letter with the hope that "I deserve som of the things."

One girl affixed this postscript to her letter: "Thanks a lot Santa Claus. I could kiss you." Another wanted a "Roy Rogers Alarm Clock" and an "Ice Cream Machine." In addition she asked for "a pair Ice skates."

Dolls were predominant among girls' requests. Boys expressed a desire for more active games and toys. One gourmet asked for "a box of chocolates."

Children at this year's party will come from the neighborhood of the College. They were selected by Prof. Sophie Elam (Education) from children registered with the Educational Clinic, a branch of the School of Education.

House Plan officials expect more than a hundred youngsters at the affair. It will take place in the Grand Ballroom.

Any organization that wishes to participate should call Sylvia Mueller at Ki. 9-9155, or inquire at the House Plan Office, 326 Finley. Monday is the deadline for groups to volunteer.

MAGICAL

Daughter dear—

Dorothy and I are both so pleased that you used your JewelBase and JewelSeal so conscientiously—and, needless to say, that your nails are getting prettier every day! Now we're both clucking over you like mother hens!

I have a confession to make, inspired by your gratitude: I always thought my beautiful nails were due to my own ingenuity and natural endowments... but Dorothy took me down a peg or two when she told me she's been using Juliette Marglen's JewelBase and JewelSeal on them for years! No wonder I keep a manicure lovely so long in spite of, alas, dishes every day!

Dorothy showed me another Juliette Marglen treasure today—it's called SilverSeal and I'm sure it was made to order for you! It's a really magical product that is exactly the same formula as JewelSeal—but it's silverest! You wear it over any colour, to "silver" as well as "seal" it. Dorothy says it's absolutely delicious mixed with colour—sort of like a pastel icing—how you'll love that! But pretty as it is, the main point is that it's marvelous protection for your nails...

Relax... I've already sent you two bottles of SilverSeal (two, because I know you girls will be experimenting half the night with it). Have fun, dear... I can hardly wait to see your glamorous new Juliette Marglen fingertips! Love from us all, Extra!

With this issue, THE CAMPUS deviates from its long-standing policy of reporting only news which directly concerns the College. We have devoted part of Page 1 to a brief summary of the latest international, national and local news.

We have taken this step only because we believe it to be in the public interest at this time. Extraordinary circumstances have left the city—including students at the College—without newspaper service of any kind. THE CAMPUS feels that it is obliged, therefore, to do its part to help compensate for this dearth of news coverage.

As soon as the strike of newspaper delivery men is settled, THE CAMPUS will return to its traditional policy of reporting college news exclusively.

No Competition

The dearth of competition for major Student Government offices seems to have become almost a tradition here during the past year. With the deadline for petitions already extended until today, only one major SG post is being contested. This is a sorry comparison to elections held a few years ago, when as many as four students competed for president, and there was vigorous rivalry for other major positions.

Foremost among the many factors leading to the present student indifference in SG elections, is that undergraduates do not associate themselves with their Student Government. The blame here lies mainly with SG—a group unable to identify itself with the community it is supposed to serve.

It is interesting to note that there exists, as in recent semesters, a paucity of upper-classmen running for Council posts—especially when compared with the large number of lower-classmen competing for office. It is sad comment on an organization when it cannot retain students who initially showed such spirited enthusiasm.

On the other hand it is the very indifference of potentially active students which helps maintain the present situation in SG. The least that a conscientious undergraduate can do then, is to take a more active interest in the government which in effect represents him to the faculty, the administration and the public. The most effective way to do this is by running for an SG post. It still is not too late to obtain a petition.

A Christmas Gift

More than one hundred underprivileged children have been able to capture some Christmas spirit each year because of the efforts of House Plan. At their annual Christmas party, houses are given the opportunity to "adopt" a youngster for one day. In the past these groups have offered the children a pleasant time by giving them gifts and entertaining them for an afternoon.

This semester every organization on campus will be given the opportunity to help an unfortunate child enjoy the Christmas season. Monday is the last opportunity for volunteering. By stopping at the House Plan Office, 326 Finley, your organization can make this season a happy surprise for children who never look forward to Christmas.

A Negative Factor

With loads of enthusiasm but little taste, the sponsors of tonight's Grand Ballroom dance decided to call the affair "The Blood Ball." At the risk of appearing a trifle squeamish, we cannot help but admit to a queasiness concerning the title. We can envisage horrified mothers throughout the city asking their daughters, "You're going to a WHAT?"

If this preoccupation with alliterative dance titles persists, we may soon be subjected to such functions as "The Hemoglobin Hop," "The RH Rag" and "The Fibrin Fete." If dance coordinators are interested in obtaining decent turn-outs, they might in the future attempt to give their functions titles of a more subdued nature. Alliteration is a poor substitute for taste.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

CHIDES CRITICS

To the Editor:

I would like at this time to discuss some of the comments made by a group of English professors with regard to the "Beat Generation" which appeared in last Friday's issue of Observation Post. I felt that the majority of the statements missed the basic issues involved, namely, the incommunicability of "beat literature." Unfortunately they dwelt upon the emotional handicaps of the "Beat."

I would prefer not to enter here into a discussion concerning the merits of Mr. Kerouac's new novel, "The Dharma Bums," but although I am not an admirer of the book, I do not feel with Mr. Leffert that it should be dismissed as "nothing but a maze of childish sex-games" for certainly Kerouac attempts whether successfully or not, to deal with the problem of man's search for inner peace and truth in this cataclysmic world. I feel that although Mr. Leffert's appraisal of the novel was the "rhetoric of haste," it was an honest statement created from the matrix of Mr. Leffert's literary experience. In passing I would like to add that Prof. Leffert's linking of the names of Kerouac, Kingsley Amis, and Allan Ginsberg is rather ill considered as Mr. Amis has the honor of being a member of the so called "Angry Young Men." I am certain that Mr. Leffert would grant this distinction.

I am very much in accord with Mr. Stark's approach to the work of the "Beat." I feel that he has made both fair and wise critical evaluations. But what is most important is that he has kept his gaze on the literature of the "generation," and has found one of the reasons for the infecundity of their literature, in as much as lack of discipline is certainly anaethnatic to any writer.

I regret that no one mentioned any of the positive aspects of the beat generation. I think that the vitality of the movement, however adolescent, has encouraged some younger writers to examine their own writing more carefully, and perhaps more important, actually given some writers the opportunity, if only by contrast to the beat, to come closer to the realization of their own writing objectives and positions. One can safely say that the re-introduction of jazz and poetry readings, however nugatory as a technique, was significant as an attempt to bring poetry closer into the context of contemporary life and temperament.

I find that the emotional reaction to the "generation" by its critics is as strong as is that of those who are in favor of it.

Perhaps because of the temporal proximity it has been difficult to regard the movement with the kind of moderation and objectivity essential to criticism. No critic today, for example, would become heated in a discussion of Dada. Inasmuch as Mr. Kerouac is not really the entire "beat generation" and its younger members still have a chance for literary redemption and growth I suggest that it would be more beneficial to the fledglings if the critics helped to nurture their writing rather than administer a literary spanking.

SCORES HAZING

To the Editor:

Colleges are places where values are learned and means of deeply living them applied. For this process to effectively take place tyranny of any sort, intellectual or personal, must be absent. There must be a freedom to question any principle one has learned and a deep respect for the intellect. Above all there must be a respect for the person's dignity and any attack on dignity must be beaten completely and immediately.

I would not write this letter except that a few days ago I saw a spectacle that is the antithesis of all a college is. When a group of people take a depraved pleasure in applying their intellectual capacities in searching ways and means of humiliating a fellow student, one cannot help but pro-

Dearth of Human Guinea Pigs Hampers Student Psychologists

Psychology students at the College are often frustrated in their attempts to secure subjects for original experiments.

"People have an unhealthy attitude toward us," said Frank Rubenfeld '59, a psychology major. "They visualize psychology majors as monsters who come galloping down the fourth floor of Harris Hall and buttonhole anyone who looks like a potential subject."

"These people usually refuse to become subjects. They fear that we will probe for hidden complexes, or discover that they are not as intelligent as they think they are," he continued.

Rubenfeld explained that most of the original experiments are done for Psychology 52, and that they are relatively harmless in nature. "They usually gauge perception, memory, vision or judgment," he said.

One coed did not believe Rubenfeld. "They find out about your personal life," she said. When asked what she was afraid they would find out, she replied, "Nothing!"

Another student, Harold Leitenberg '59, said that the tests are not feared. "Most students consider them silly," he asserted.

According to Barry Freed '62, most people participate in experiments because of curiosity and the challenge involved.

Bob Fried '59, president of the Psychology Society, asserted that his group is working on a project which may eventually solve the problem of finding experimental subjects. The plan is to form a pool of subjects who would be available to members of the club, and who could experiment on each other.

Students with Paint Queried by Guards

Eighteen students stubbornly refused Wednesday night to explain to Burns Guards why they brought several buckets of paint and stencils in the form of feet onto the South Campus.

The group was apprehended by the security force and grilled for an hour in the basement of the Finley Center. Beforehand, they were lined up against a wall and searched.

Dean James S. Peace (Student Life) suspected that the group was fulfilling an initiation task for the Pershing Rifles. He praised their desire not to implicate the organization, but said that they might be suspended.

test against this perversion of college's function.

While in the cafeteria I saw an example of what in fraternal circles is known as pledging. A group of three ROTC cadets (uniformed) sitting at a table ordered to a youngster wearing white and blue armband and carrying a wooden facsimile of a rifle. The boy, a Pershing Rifle pledge, came over and snapped to attention, any self-expression completely suppressed.

It was obvious that the Pershing Rifle members knew that they had the pledge in their power. It was equally obvious that they did not know what to do with it. A few moments though produced results and the public humiliation and degradation of the "pledge" began. The pledge was made to shout "ATTENTION, AWAY HO!" some intricate march steps around the cafeteria, and respond to nonsensical questions. He was put at attention beside the table.

I and some people at the table were sitting at, being curious to know the exact meaning of the scene, went over to question the lone remaining ROTC man. Simultaneously we were joined by other students who were disgusted with this scene of public humiliation and wished to know why it took place.

We asked how long the pledge had to remain at attention. He replied that only a member of the Pershing Rifles or superior officer could "release" him. We asked when that would be. The ROTC man just shrugged his shoulders. The pledge had been there ten minutes already. Some time after that when I was in the cafeteria the Pershing Rifle pledge was still carrying out his lonely vigil of guarding the table.

I would like to suggest to the Pershing Rifles that they cease their humiliations, their abasement of a fellow student, and their degrading behavior in their own locals. The students are responsible for the intellectual atmosphere and the respect accorded the individual on campus. When dignity is degraded and men turn into machines, when humiliation searched for as an end in itself, and campus grounds are used for this purpose, I feel students must register a vigorous protest. When deprecation and abasement are accepted as normal and men are humiliating others we have a turn to the Nazi and Fascist mentality we just defeated.

I would say that the Pershing Rifles have an especially full load of guilt to bear, if the spectacle in the cafeteria is any indication of the fraternities' mentality. The military exists in order to protect freedom. It is the military's problem to confine their regimentation to the army and forget it when on a campus.

I find it especially dangerous when the military men make a conscious attempt at being tyrannical since they have enough difficulties in restraining themselves in any case. I hope that the Pershing Rifles can use their common sense to find ways to do something constructive with their pledges and their pledges.

big break came for the artist two years ago, when he was hired as an apprentice by Nat Johnson, a former vice-president of the International Sculpture Society.

He subsequently received a contract to do the work for the American Memorial Cemetery in Luxembourg. The cemetery are graves of American servicemen killed during the battle of the Bulge in World War I. Johnson made plaster models of the statues and shipped them to Europe, where they were cast in bronze.

Though the lanky junior fashions plaques and figures of saints in the cemetery, he is most proud of a replica of the Seal of Luxembourg which he sculpted. A five-foot field topped by a crown, it stands in a small tower at the entrance.

Johnson never has been to Europe but he has seen photographs of his work. He said that the versions "came out fine."

Alumni Association Given 1858 College Yearbook

A hundred years of College history was bridged last Friday by a faded blue book bound in leather.

The volume, which was presented to the Alumni Association, is the year book of the Class of 1858. It was given to the College by Miss Beatrice Godwin.

The volume had been a family heirloom, handed down by James Godwin, a member of the class of 1858. Mr. Godwin had also been president of the College Alumni Association in 1887 and 1888, and assistant superintendent of the New York City Public School System for 23 years.

"I'm the last of the Godwin line, and I didn't want the yearbook to be lost," remarked Miss Godwin.

Book Features Photos

The book contains full page, formal photographs of the 32 students who graduated in 1858. It is the only copy at the College.

Miss Godwin, an elderly woman, commented, "This must be quite a letdown for the College — getting a book instead of four million dollars." She was referring to a four million dollar endowment to another college she had heard of recently.

Seymour Weisman, president of the Alumni Association, did not agree with her. "The yearbook is a rare and wonderful thing to those of us interested in the history and development of the College," he said.

Gift to Joint Collection

The book will be placed in the Nelson Spencer Special Collections Room of the Cohen Library, which will be opened to students next term.

Miss Godwin, who lives in Catskill, NY, has other historical items which she plans to present to the College. These include a letter from John H. Finley to James Godwin on his retirement in 1902, and a group of medals which Mr. Godwin was awarded by the College.

Student Fees

The Student Government Fee Commission will meet with student groups next week to discuss fee allocations for the Spring semester. Interviews will be held at 332 Finley on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday between 2 and 4. Fee applications must be presented at the time of the interview. Thursday is the deadline for filing.

were turned off. In addition students thought the drill was ended when a bell in Wingate Hall sounded seven minutes before the exercise was officially completed.

The only part of the College that was unaffected by the drill was the Red Cross Bloodbank in the Buttenweiser Lounge of the Finley Center.

The exact time of the exercise was decided upon by Dean Leslie Engler (Administration) earlier in the morning. Students and faculty were notified that the drill would be held sometime during the 11 o'clock hour.

A realistic touch was added to the exercise on the North Campus where fire engines roared down Amsterdam Avenue to answer a real alarm.

'Promethean' on Sale Wednesday Chayefsky Praises Two Stories

The fall issue of Promethean, the College's literary magazine contains two stories which have won praise from author Paddy Chayefsky '44. The publication goes on sale Wednesday.

The stories both won second prize in the Theodore Goodman Short Story Contest. They are "The History of the Radical Movement" by Promethean Editor Fred Tuten '59 and Zoltan Erenyi's "Tzaddik."

"The History of the Radical Movement," according to Tuten, concerns "an introspective intellectual almost on the verge of joining an activity in a radical movement."

Chayefsky, who was one of the judges in the Goodman contest, said that Tuten's story "has something to say of importance. The writer has an and quite mature tale added.

"Tzaddik" is described as a "conflict between the of a gentile and the world Hebrew scholar." Chayefsky the author "a good writer suspect, a growing one."

Two other short stories in the issue. One is entitled "World '59" and is written by Gross '59, who won first in the Goodman contest.

The final story, called "is for David," was written by Joan Cendella '59, who Mademoiselle Short Story last year. The work is broken marriage and its a child.

Beavers to Meet Poly; Frosh Cagers Seek 3rd Win

Hindered by a short-second-line strength, the college's swimming team will meet Brooklyn Poly tonight at the Wingate pool. Frosh Cagers Seek 3rd Win Enjoying its best start in recent years, the College's freshman basketball team will seek its third consecutive victory against Adelphi tomorrow night at 6:30 in the Wingate Gym.

Although Coach Dave Polansky is uncertain of Adelphi's strength, he has confidence in his squad. According to Polansky, the Beavers have exhibited "nice ball to date, maturity, and good team spirit."

Particularly outstanding in recent play have been Mike Gerber and Al Sparer. Other promising players include Ira Cohen, Bob Paulson, Paul Weisenfeld, Bill Sawyer and Tor Nilsen.

Polansky believes his squad definitely has the potential to complete the season with a better than .500 record. The last year the freshmen sported a winning record was 1954.

two previous meets.

White will swim in the 220-yard and 440-yard freestyle events. Bayuk will compete in the 200-yard butterfly and 200-yard breast stroke contests, while Ross will race in the 50-yard freestyle competition.

Other members of the squad who are expected to see action include freestylers Dave Althneau and Bob Mendelson; backstrokers Pete Nagourney and Pete Lash; and breaststroker Fred Blanc.

Last season, the Beavers edged Poly by a score of 45-41.

HOT MEALS ARE OUR SPECIALTY

CATERING FOR CHRISTMAS AND NEW YEAR PARTIES
PLACE YOUR ORDER NOW.

THE CLOTHES YOU SAVE MAY BE YOUR OWN

In this column we take up fashions for college men, which means of course, the Ivy Look. Today's Ivy Look clothes have made a great stride forward. Not only do they have thin lapels, three buttons, narrow trousers, and a minimum of shoulder padding, but—now hear this!—this year they are actually covered with ivy!

This new development, while attractive beyond the singing of it, nevertheless gives rise to certain hazards. For instance, people keep trying to plant you on Arbor Day. Indeed, this is precisely what happened to two SAE's of my acquaintance, Walter R. Gurlash and Fred Rasp. Before they could protest, they were snatched up, planted, limed, and watered, and today they support a hammock in Cut and Shoot, Vermont.

People keep trying to plant you on Arbor Day...

Let us now discuss shirts. Again this year the campus favorite is the good old Oxford with button-down collar and barrel cuffs. This is without doubt an admirable garment, but let me ask you a question: if you don't wear anything but Oxfords, what do you do with all the cuff links people have been giving you for your birthday since you were twelve years old?

Well sir, some fellows have their wrists pierced, but what E. Mackenzie Sigafoos, a Chi Psi of my acquaintance, did was to take a dozen pairs of his handsome gold monogrammed cuff links and string them together in a charm bracelet for his girl, Jo-Carol Isobar.

(It turned out, incidentally, to be a mistake. In short order so many admirers accrued to Jo-Carol on account of her gorgeous bracelet that she grew tired of plain old E. Mackenzie, and one night when she was seated on a bench in Lovers Lane throwing sticks for E. Mackenzie to retrieve, she suddenly, cruelly, without warning, told him they were through.

"I am heartbroken," said E. Mackenzie, heartbroken. "But if you must, give me back my charm bracelet."

"No, I will keep it," said Jo-Carol.

"What for?" said E. Mackenzie. "You can't wear it. The initials on the cuff links are all mine—E.M.S."

"Ha, ha, the joke is on you," said Jo-Carol. "Yesterday I was voted Miss Chinese Restaurant of 1958."

"So?" said E. Mackenzie.

"So," replied Jo-Carol, "E.M.S. does not stand for E. Mackenzie Sigafoos. It stands for Eat More Subgum!"

A broken man, E. Mackenzie today squeezes out a meagre living as a pendulum in Cleveland. Jo-Carol was killed in a tong war.)

But I digress. We were talking about well-dressed men, and the one essential for every well-dressed man—and every well-dressed woman too—is a well-dressed cigarette—neat, compact, flavorful, and correct for work or play, sunshine or shower, repose or revelry, darkness or light. And where does one find such a perfect companion? Just go to any tobacco counter and ask for Philip Morris. Ask for it in long size or regular. Ask for it in soft pack or hard. But ask for it; that's the important thing. Don't just stand there making cryptic gestures at your tobaccoist. He may be armed.

Five to Face Adelphi; Klansky Suffers Injury

By Mike Katz

Already weakened by the continued absence of pivot-man Joel Ascher, the Beaver cagers will battle Adelphi tomorrow night at 8:30 in the Wingate Gym with another starter sitting on the sidelines.

Ascher, who has yet to play this season because of an injured ankle, will be joined on the bench by Barry Klansky, a 6-2 forward, who went the route in the team's first two contests.

Klansky injured his left knee during the Hunter game. Diagnosed as a severe hemorrhage, the ailment was the same one that kept him out of action all last season. He probably will be sidelined for another two weeks.

Ankle Injury Returns

Ascher seemed recovered from his injury when he appeared for practice on Monday. But Tuesday night his ankle swelled up and pained him. "I'm not going to try practicing again until I'm certain that it's completely healed," he said.

Coach Nat Holman has named four definite starters for tomorrow's game: 6-5 Hector Lewis at center, Marty Groveman and Guy Marcot at the guards, and Julio Delatorre at forward. He will choose between 6-4 sophomore Shelly Bender and 6-3 Hal Bauman to fill the remaining spot.

'Player of Hunches'

Bender played a key role in the victory over Hunter, coming off the bench to score six points and snare five rebounds during a Beaver rally at the end of the first half.

"Bender played well against Hunter when I felt Bauman wasn't doing as well as he could," the coach said. "I'll use whoever I feel can do the job at any particular moment. I'm a player of hunches," Holman added.

The nucleus of the Panther squad is made up of six seniors back from last season's 19-9 team. Coach George Faherty has 6-3 Bob Popko, high scorer last winter, 6-4 Jim Grant and 6-3 Marty Botwinick in the front lane, and Mel Jacoby, Vince Quarto and Art Benoit to choose from for the guard positions.

The Panthers operate out of a 2-2-1 zone. From this defense, Adelphi can fast break quickly and the Beavers' two main problems will be to solve the zone, one of the best in the metropolitan area, and contain the fast break.

Adelphi Erratic

The Panthers, with a 2-1 record, have been slightly erratic this season. They crushed Long Island University in their opener, 89-47, and then lost to Fairleigh Dickinson, 74-62.

"Adelphi has a very good club and we'll have to be at our best Saturday night," Holman said. "They'll be up for this game, too, because we beat them last year."

Nimrods to Oppose Kings Point Tonite

In a contest which Coach Bernard Kelly feels will present little difficulty for the Beavers, the College's rifle team meets Kings Point tonight at 5:30 in the Lewisohn range. The nimrods will be seeking their sixth victory in seven outings.

"The boys have been building up momentum since the start of the season," Kelly said, "and they should better the 1426 they scored in their last match." This score, achieved against Manhattan, is the high mark for the nimrods this season.

Furthermore, Kelly believes the team is capable of "breaking 1430 towards the end of the season."

Wrestlers Begin Season Against Owls Tomorrow

With an almost-equal number of newcomers and veterans in the probable starting line-up, the College's wrestling team opens its campaign tomorrow at 2, against Temple in the Wingate Gym.

Coach Joe Sabora has been unable to fully gauge the strength of the squad during practice and is relying on the Temple contest to give him a clearer picture of the team. "Our performance against Temple" the coach said, "will probably determine how we'll do the rest of the season."

The Beaver line-up for the Owl contest reflects the structure of the team this season: newcomers built around a core of dependable veterans.

Veteran Myron Wollin, in the 123 pound class, Gerry Horowitz, at 177 pounds and heavyweight co-captain Milt Gittleman will form a nucleus of experienced wrestlers which is expected to pace the squad. Sabora singled out sophomores Ronald Reis (137), Dave Borah (147), and Phil Rodman (157) as the most promising newcomers.

Two additional sophomores, Jerry Levkov at 177 pounds, and Gerald Kaplan at 130 pounds, are also possible starters against the Owls.

The team has depth in all weights, and Sabora indicated that the Beavers' starting line-up could vary from meet to meet. According to the coach, Ron Alter (137), Jerry Jacobs (137) co-captain Jack Izower (147) and George Chudzlinsky (167), are the main reserves.

Fencers to Duel Yale In Opener Tomorrow

Although ten lettermen are returning this season, the College's fencing team will open the campaign tomorrow hampered by a lack of depth. The Beavers will meet Yale at New Haven.

At present, Coach Edward Lucia can rely on only a handful of dependable men. "The team could do fairly well this year," the coach said, "but an injury to any of my key men could change the whole picture."

Lucia rates the squad about the Beavers against Yale. Fiore, another highly rated man, may miss the match because of a torn ligament.

The mainstays of the team will be Captain Al Johnson, returnee Reginal Spooner, epee competition, Bob and Walt Krauss will spearhead the attack.

Aside from this small group, Lucia is not sure of the capabilities of the remaining members of the team.

From what he can gather from pre-season practice sessions, coach picks Abe Studnick, Schutzer, Chunk-Ho Wong, Jerry Mouldovan in the foil, Gerald Sobel, Bob Roher in the epee, as leading candidates for the starting berths.

INTERNATIONAL LADIES' GARMENT WORKERS' UNION

David Dubinsky, President

MEMO TO: The Editor

FROM: Gus Tyler, Director, ILGWU Training Institute

SUBJECT: A DIFFERENT KIND OF JOB OPPORTUNITY

It occurs to me that there are some in your student body who would be actively interested in a job—and a challenge—that others of their generation have accepted and turned into a rewarding way of life.

The International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union conducts its own "West Point," to prepare young men and women for careers in leadership. The one-year course combines classroom and field work. Those who complete the course are assigned to a full time job with the union.

With the job comes the challenge—to provide the kind of dedicated and ethical leadership that will make the American labor movement the creative social force it seeks to be.

The Training Institute is now in its ninth year. 125 of its graduates now hold office in the ILGWU. Virtually all started as organizers—to learn the labor movement from the grass roots. While some continue at their mission as their first and enduring job, others branch out to take on responsibilities as business agents, local union managers, national and political directors, area supervisors, time study experts, etc.

There is nothing soft or cushy about any of these jobs. But then we are not looking for young people who want the easy plush life. We want those who will enjoy the sting of challenge in the three-dimensional world of life and blood people confronted with raw existence.

To these, we open the doors of the Institute. Write before April 15: ILGWU Training Institute, 1710 Broadway, New York 19, N. Y.

BEAVER GUARD Marty Groveman will be starting for the College tomorrow against Adelphi.

Soccer Conference Drops 'Star' Picks

For the second consecutive year the coaches of the Metropolitan Soccer Conference have decided not to select an All-Met team.

Beaver Coach Harry Karlin explained that most of the coaches feel it is impossible to make objective selections because of the difficulty of viewing all the players in action.

Still to be selected are the All-State and All-American squads and the national championship team. The All-American selections and the national team title will be announced at a meeting of the National Soccer Football Coaches Association on January 14 and 15.

Last season, the Beavers were chosen national co-champions and halfback Johnny Paranos was picked for a berth on the All-American first team.
