Peace Vetoes Davis Speech Under Ruling on Smith Act

By Bob Mayer

Dean James S. Peace (Student Life) said yesterday that he would not permit Communist Party leader Benjamin Davis Jr. to speak at the College.

The Dean cited as the basis for his decision a ruling of the Administrative Council of Municipal College Presidents which prohibits persons convicted under the Smith Act from speaking at the municipal schools. Davis was sentenced five years in jail under the act in 1949.

Davis, chairman of the Communist Party in New York State, accepted an invitation Tuesday from the Marxist Discussion Club to speak on campus October 16.

He is presently a candidate for the state senate from the sixteenth congressional district, in which the college is located.

Paul McGowan '59, president of the MDC, said last night that he will appeal Dean Peace's decision to Pres. Buell G. Gallagher. Dr. Gallagher refused comment on the incident except to say that he "would consider" an appeal if one were made.

Davis spoke at the College two years ago, before the Administrative Council ruling was made. The only exception to the edict has been former Daily Worker Editor John Gates, who was permitted to appear last spring after resigning from the Communist Party.

At that time President Gallagher said the action "is a precedent to the extent that future cases will be decided upon individually by the Administrative Council."

Dean Peace also reprimanded McGowan for not following established procedure in extending the invitation to Davis. According to the Dean all organizations must request permission forms from the Department of Student Life before issuing invitations or publicity material on any guest speaker or performer.

McGowan told Dean Peace he had been unaware of this requirement.

Group Protests Monday Teas

A group of students at the College is protesting a change in the schedule of the Student-Faculty teas from Friday to Monday.

The students began circulating a petition yesterday which will be sent to the Department of Student Life. Proposing a continuation of Friday afternoon teas, the petition stated that many students "purposely scheduled classes to avoid a conflict with the teas on Friday."

Calls Change Inconvenient

The petition also asserted that the pressure of homework made it inconvenient for students to remain late at the College on Monday and that the Friday afternoon teas provided "a pleasant ending" to the school week.

Dr. Jeanne Noble (Student Life), in charge of the program, said yesterday that the change was made because the maintenance staff at the Finley Center had a lighter work load on Monday afternoon.

Unsure of Petition's Effect

She added that just as many students might find it convenient to attend the programs on Monday on Friday.

Asked whether the schedule could be changed again if the demand was sufficient, Dr. Noble replied, "I've never been faced with a petition before. I don't know what higher authorities might decide."

Elective Course

A new elective course on Greek and Roman drama will be offered next term by the Department of Classical Languages and Hebrew. The course carries three credits and should be noted on election cards as Comparative Literature 39.

Pres. Requests Deans to Study Education TV

By Rose Hanson

An exploration of the possibility of the College's participating in educational television next semester was requested by Pres. Buell G. Gallagher last week.

In a memorandum issued to Deans and department chairmen, Dr. Gallagher urged co-operation with Dr. Stanley Weintraub (Speech), the program's co-ordinator.

The President's memorandum revealed that the College has turned down an invitation to use time allotted to the Municipal Colleges as part of the educational television project of the Board of Education on Channel 11.

College Belongs to META

This program is supported by the state government and several private agencies. The College is a member of the Metropolitan Educational Television Association, one of these agencies.

Dean Morton Gottschall (Liberal Arts) suggested that the development of projects for television might have to be done on a voluntary basis. He explained that the College must assume costs of preparation including reasonable compensation to professors for the work which it would entail.

To Report in Dec.

Dr. Weintraub will make a preliminary report to a review committee by December 1, according to the President's memorandum, and "on the basis of this report it will be determined what, if anything the College is prepared to offer" for the spring semester.

While the College currently is not active in educational television, Dean Gottschall noted that three members of the Physics department have been invited to participate in a physics program for teachers now offered by META.

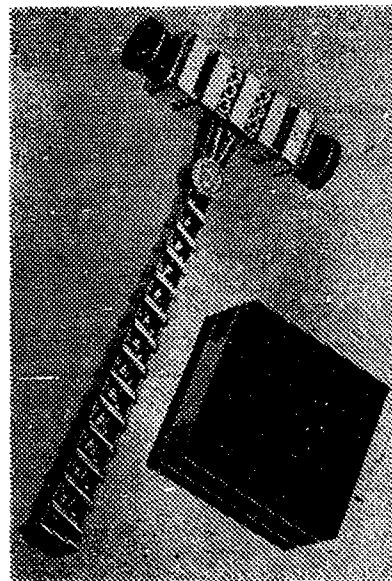

Harris Kin to Present Gavel To Gallagher at Film Premiere

A gold and silver gavel memorializing the College's founder, Townsend Harris, will be presented to Pres. Buell G. Gallagher tomorrow night at the premiere of "The Barbarian and the Geisha" at the Paramount Theater.

Tickets for the opening, scaled at $3.50 for undergraduates, are still available at the City College Fund Office, 212 Finley. The premiere is being held to benefit the fund.

The gavel, twelve and one-half inches long with Brazilian rosewood ends, is a gift of Richard H. Rush, a great-nephew of Harris. It is intended for use at ceremonial occasions at the College.

The film depicts a legendary episode in Harris' career, a love affair with a geisha he met while travelling as America's first envoy to Japan.

CEREMONIAL GAVEL will be presented to President Gallagher tomorrow evening at film premiere.

Student Loan Fund Depleted Says Slade

By Sue Solet

Two weeks after the beginning of the semester, the College's student loan fund already has been exhausted, Mr. Irving Slade (Student Life) revealed Monday.

IRVING SLADE

The recession was one of the indirect causes of the shortage, Mr. Slade said. Because students' summer earnings were cut, the requests for loans this term increased, he noted.

Mr. Slade also cited "a great deal of publicity on loans" from the federal and state governments, which caused student borrowing to become "a much more acceptable thing than it was before."

Advances on state scholarship funds, which were not possible to obtain before last year, also contributed to the shortage, according to Mr. Slade.

An additional factor, he said, was a special one thousand dollar loan to The Campus which has not been repaid.

However, Linda Young '61, business manager of The Campus, said Monday that the paper had offered to pay back three hundred dollars of the debt at the beginning of the term. The offer was rejected for the present to facilitate the efforts of auditors who are examining the financial records of student organizations.

Until now the loan fund has never been empty at the beginning of a semester while he has been associated with it, Mr. Slade said. "We hope that within two weeks most of the money already loaned will be repaid," he added.

Mr. Slade refused to say whether any exceptionally needy applicants have been turned down since the fund ran out. Applicants for advances on state scholarships are being told to return in two weeks.

In the meanwhile students may apply to the Student Aid Association, a fund run by the Alumni Association, for loans. However, these grants are long term and are usually larger than those available from the student fund.

Nine memorial funds and contributions from individuals supply the student loan fund. There were approximately seven thousand dollars available for distribution at the beginning of the fiscal year beginning July 1 according to Mr. Slade.

Greek Society Fete In Center Saturday

The oriental strains of the Bouzoukie will echo through the Grand Ballroom of the Finley, Student Center Saturday evening at 8, when the Carroll Brown Hellenic Society presents its "Bouzoukie Glendi". Admission to the Glendi, a Greek party, will be $1.50 per person.

Bouzoukies, which are small, long-handled guitars, will be played by "The Grenadiers." Gregory Reno, a comedian, will entertain at the candlelight affair.

Although most of the music will be American, some Greek favorites will be played and traditional Greek dances will be performed.

Klein Presses Accident Claim

Senior Jerome Klein is pressing a claim of 75 thousand dollars against the College as compensation for injuries resulting from an accident last semester.

Klein revealed yesterday that his petition was heard last month at the office of the New York City Comptroller.

The Comptroller has the options of rejecting the claim, or offering full or part payment. The decision will be based on the potential success of a lawsuit for the full amount. The ruling is pending.

If Klein finds the decision unacceptable he can take his case to the courts. The law requires that a claim be filed prior to starting a lawsuit.

The senior was injured in April when he fell against the raised edge of a sewer manhole on the South campus and sustained a severe groin injury. It was diagnosed as a triple rupture. Klein spent the following three weeks in a hospital, and another three weeks convalescing at his home.

Klein, who would have graduated in June, took three courses in summer school that he would have completed last term. He currently is taking the remainder of the courses he needs for a degree.

-Tech Awards

Applications for the David B. Steinman Awards are available to graduating technology seniors and undergraduates. Forms may be obtained in 208 Goethals. The grants of up to five hundred dollars are financed by the David B. Steinman Foundation.

Ring Down the Curtain

The Smith Act melodrama which is being staged here once again has by now taken on the ritual of a passion play. Everyone is acting out the inexorable role he had played in the past.

A student group has invited a speaker convicted under the Smith Act to appear at the College; Dean Peace—able to do little else—has vetoed the invitation; and the play has progressed to the stage where a passionate appeal will be made to Dr. Gallagher for the repeal of the speaker ban. The only difference in this year's production is the protagonist—Benjamin Davis Jr.

THE CAMPUS however, feels that the time has come for the curtain to fall. This is not a play we are particularly proud to have enacted here. It can end only by the municipal college presidents rescinding the ban which prevents speakers convicted under the Smith Act from appearing on campus.

Whether or not Ben Davis is allowed to sneak in at the back door and make an address at the College is relatively unimportant. The crucial thing is to rescind a ban by which anyone is denied the right to speak here. We hope that Dr. Gallagher will take this opportunity to press for the immediate removal of the Smith Act ruling.

In considering the invitation to Davis, we cannot help but note with concern the fact that by October of an election year, the only speaker invited here by politically minded students is a Communist, and the only political club that is still strongly active on the campus is the Marxist Discussion Club.

Tea for Few

One of the few enjoyable functions at the College has finally fallen prey to Finley Center efficiency. The Friday afternoon Student-Faculty Teas have been shifted to Monday, to alleviate the work-load of the Center maintenance staff on Fridays.

THE CAMPUS does not question the necessity of lightening the custodial work-burden, but we wonder if a more agreeable solution might not have been found than shifting the Friday afternoon teas.

For example, could the Department of Student Life limit the burden of the maintenance crew in other areas of the Center on Friday? Certainly the discontinuation of the Friday night dances must have diminished the maintenance task.

We also wonder if it would be feasible to have the College organization conducting the tea help clean up afterwards so as not to give the custodial staff too much work.

We will not here dwell on the quirks of the student mind, but there is something unnatural about undergraduates—and faculty members—rushing home on Friday afternoons and frequenting a tea on Monday.

In this modest belief we urge all students to frequent the Bittenweiser Lounge on Friday afternoons as often as possible—and if need be, bring their own tea.

A Dual Distinction

The success of the soccer team in recent years has created at the College a situation rarely found in schools throughout the country. We are at once the possessor of a national championship team and a de-emphasized athletic program.

At Kings Point today the team begins a season which holds promise of becoming the most fruitful in Lavender soccer history. For the first time a national playoff will be held to determine the country's leading team. With ten of the eleven starters returning from last fall's national co-championship squad the Beavers are in an excellent position to gain the United States title. Few schools can claim this dual distinction of maintaining a de-emphasized sports program along with a championship team.

Acknowledgement of the team's contribution to the school will be your support throughout the season.

Knight's Radio Show Probes Film Trends

By Jack Brivic

Mr. Arthur Knight (Films Institute) has capitalized his friendship with many of the top people in the motion picture industry.

Such Hollywood notables as director Sidney Lumet and writer Budd Schulberg have appeared on his Saturday afternoon radio interview show since its debut on September 6.

In addition, Mr. Knight has taped interviews, for use on future programs, with director John Huston, producer Jerry Wald, actress Lillian Gish, and director-producer Stanley Kramer.

The show is called "Knight at the Movies," and is broadcast by station WNYC, New York, from 4:30 to 4:55.

According to Mr. Knight, the purpose of the show is to examine trends which are reshaping the motion picture world.

The idea for the program developed during the summer when he substituted for columnist and author Gilbert Seldes, who had a Sunday afternoon show.

Mr. Knight was given a thirteen week contract by WNYC as a result of this performance. He is unsure whether the program will continue after this initial trial. "It's just a question of who gets tired of it first—me or the station," he quipped.

The show is required listening for a film course at Hunter College. However Mr. Knight does not insist that his own classes tune in. He noted that while the program is in some ways esoteric, it is aimed at the general public.

This Saturday, Amos Vogel, the director of "Cinema 16," will be interviewed. "Cinema 16" is an educationally oriented organization which shows films generally available to the public.

Mr. Knight said that he did not encourage his guests to do their pictures on the show. "Most of these people are personal friends of mine and are not on a propaganda mission," he noted.

Generally, the program will feature movie stars as guests, according to Mr. Knight. He said that he was less interested in them than in the people who work behind the scenes. "Actors get enough exposure anyway," he concluded.

Bellamy to Lecture Tomorrow On Youth of Franklin Roosevelt

Ralph Bellamy, star of "Sunrise at Campobello," will speak at the College tomorrow on "The Young FDR." Sponsored by the History Society, the talk will begin at 12:30 in Aranow Auditorium.

Dan Walden '59, president of the Society, indicated that Mr. Bellamy's talk will not attempt to assess the merits or shortcomings of Franklin D. Roosevelt as president.

"The discussion will be in the nature of a character study, rather than a political analysis," Walden said.

Mr. Bellamy's talk will focus attention on Roosevelt from his early manhood up until 1924. It was during this period that the former President regained partial use of his legs, after being stricken with polio.

Booters Open Season At Kings Point Today

By Barry Mallin

Coaching the College's soccer team is like trying to solve a jig-saw puzzle with too many pieces that all seem to fit. Harry Karlin has yet to find a method to insert all his talent into the starting lineup.

The coach has assigned uniforms to eighteen men and anyone of the players could be a starter in the booters' opening contest at Kings Point today at 3:30.

Although ten starters are returning from last fall's national co-championship team, Karlin isn't sure of the combination he'll use in the opener.

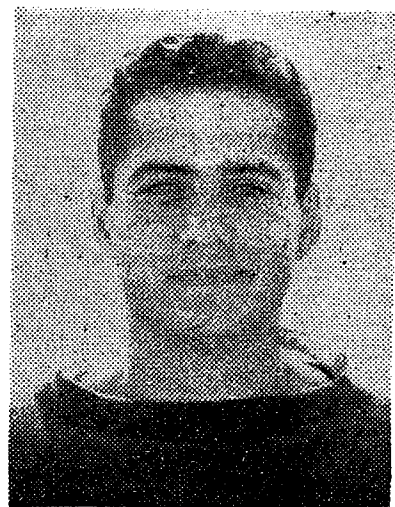

"It isn't that I can't place a strong man in every position," the coach said, "but I want to see which fellows are best suited for the right side or the left. Most of the boys can play all positions and I'll keep experimenting until I find just what I want."

An example of the flexibility of the team is Karlin's juggling of the front line. Gabe Schlisser, inside left last season, will probably open at center forward in place of Heinz Minnerop, who will move to one of the sides. Last season, Minnerop tied the Beavers' single season scoring mark.

Paranos to Lead Defense

Why the change? "Minnerop likes it better on the side," Karlin said, "and I think Schlisser is capable of breaking all scoring records in the middle."

After these two, the coach will choose from among five others to fill the remaining three forward

VERSATILE Gabe Schlisser will be at center forward in the season's opener today.

positions against Kings Point. All-American halfback Johnny Paranos will lead the defensive unit, while Karlin will pick from three halfbacks and four fullbacks to start in the other backline slots.

As yet, the coach is not completely satisfied with the passing and timing of the squad, but this is to be expected. "The boys should regain their sharpness as soon as they begin playing regular games," Karlin said.

Begin Bid for Title

Karlin is not expecting too much difficulty from Kings Point as the Beavers begin their bid for a sixth consecutive Met League title. "They could give us a good fight defensively," the coach said, "but I don't figure they'll have too much of a scoring punch."

Directions to Game

Take Horace Harding Boulevard to Great Neck exit and follow signs to Kings Point. Game time is 3:30.

Harriers' Prospects Hurt By Loss of 2 Key Men

By Mike Katz

The bright picture painted for the College's cross-country team in the first days of practice has been somewhat distorted by the loss for the season of two of its key runners.

Along with the absence of co-captain Tom Dougherty because of a serious throat infection, will be that of Bob Cleary, the Beavers' number one runner last season. Cleary, an upper junior, does not have time to compete this term because of a heavy load of electrical engineering courses.

Without two of its top three runners—the other is co-captain Ralph Taylor—the Beavers will be short of proven veterans. Only last week this was a department they had filled more than adequately.

Coach Harry de Girolamo, however, looks upon the situation with a reserve of optimism. Conceding that he has no ready replacements for Cleary, he feels that a winning season is still possible. "If the rest of the boys can get into the shape I want them in, we'll have a good year," he said.

Magnifying the losses of Dougherty and Cleary, Dennis Corr, one of the men de Girolamo had counted on to fill the vacancies, suffered a turned ankle last week and will be out indefinitely. Corr, an important cog in our wheel, according to de Girolamo, had been farther advanced in his conditioning than most of the squad.

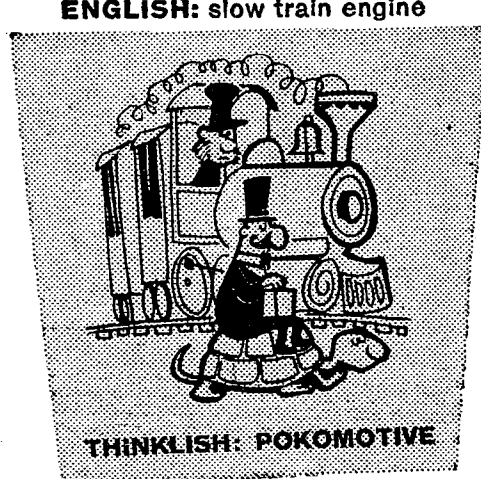

Unable to completely evaluate his squad because of the recent holidays and rain, de Girolamo feels that at least one spot is filled by Phil Phillips, a transfer from the evening division, could be second to Taylor," he said. "Right now Phil could probably break thirty minutes."

The remainder of the team will probably be named on Saturday when time trials will be held.
