END OF A DECADE—III New President Arrives Gallagher Installed in 1952; Eased Student-Faculty Strife

This is the third in a series of articles about the major events at the College in the 1950's.

By Fred Martin

When Dr. Buell Gordon Gallagher came to the College in 1952, the basketball scandals were making headlines in the metropolitan newspapers and memories of turbulent student rebellions against the Administration clouded student-faculty relations.

The College's reputation as an academic institution was in competition with its reputation as a "little Red Schoolhouse." In the eyes of the community the campus was "a hotbed of Communist activity."

Presidents preceding Dr. Gallagher had been disliked by the students and feared by the faculty. They generally were unyielding, unapproachable and cloistered from the college and the community.

In Dr. Gallagher's seven years as the College's seventh President, he has established himself in the eyes of the students, faculty and community as a superlative administrator sincerely concerned with every aspect of the College.

He has shown by his support of and occasional participation in many student activities, that a college president need not be aloof from the students to maintain their respect.

The placid atmosphere that now prevails at the College is attributed mainly to the presence of Dr. Gallagher by his colleagues.

According to Dean Sherbourne F. Barber (Liberal Arts) Dr. Gallagher's "policy of being willing to talk over problems with anyone has been a wonderful thing for the College. He has done a tremendous job in enhancing the image of the College and helping to remove our reputation as a hotbed of communism."

In 1954, Senator McCarthy, at the peak of his power and influence attacked the College. Dr. Gallagher declared: "It is not merely that the suspicion, innuendo and accusation which characterize the methods of Mr. McCarthy have undermined public confidence in our institutions of higher learning; it is not merely that intellectual freedom is threatened and that higher education is attacked; the point is that the whole sorry and sordid business in which this petty politician is engaged is a disgusting demonstration of the immortality of power-mad and unprincipled action."

Pres. Says Fears Of SG, OP Calmed

By Sue Solet

President Gallagher said yesterday that his fears last term about the future political complexion of Student Government and Observation Post had not been borne out this semester.

The President implied that the expression of his concern might have influenced the policies of OP.

Dr. Gallagher was referring to a speech he made at the SG Awards dinner last May. At that time, he said he feared left-wing activity by SG and the newspaper.

President Asks Question

"I ask the editors of OP whether their editorial and news policy might have been different this term if I hadn't made those remarks last spring," he said yesterday.

"Maybe the expression of those concerns was a good thing. It increased the alertness and sensitivity of editors and writers," he added.

He said he thought last term that the new managing board of the newspaper might follow an editorial and news policy that was "less inclusive and more restrictive."

"Don't you think that's a little vague?" the President was asked. He answered: "I think it's clear enough."

However, he later said he feared the OP policy "might hew more definitely to a particular line."

Cites Vienna Festival

Dr. Gallagher refused to specify the "line" he meant. He would only say that he indicated the line "in my remarks on the Vienna Youth Festival."

The President said the report of the Festival in student newspapers at the College was the only example this term of "clear delineation between the papers."

"The report in OP did not appear to jibe with other reports," he said.

Members of OP's managing board had no comment on the President's remarks.

President Gallagher said his

concern last term was caused by four situations: the "rigging of elections for SG awards," the composition of the new OP managing board, the "capture" of one political party by an opposing faction, and "SG leaders' concern over the future of SG."

"I said last term that I would be only too pleased if my fears were not borne out," he said. "Up to this time, I have been pleased."

Ernest Martin '60, the director of the production, said he was pleased with the cast.

"This is a very difficult play to present, and we would have been defeated before we started if we hadn't obtained exceptional people for the parts," he said.

Elections Rally Set for Today

A Student Government election rally will be held today at 12 in the Finley Center Grand Ballroom.

The 62 candidates in the SG elections have been invited to present their platforms at the meeting. Jay Freeman '60 and Dave Bernheim '60, who are running for SG president, and Neil Salzman '62 who is running for SG secretary, will attend, according to the Elections Agency.

Ed Caprelian '60, advisor to the SG Elections Agency, said the rally will give students a chance to know "who they're voting for" and the plans of the candidates "as officers of SG" so that students will not vote "blindly." Elections begin next Wednesday.

The Independent Student Ticket held an elections rally yesterday. Twelve students, attended. Seven were members of the ticket.

The IST has stated that it is "not a political organization, but an association of independent candidates" who have similar views on many issues. Two members of the IST slate, Bernheim and Jerome Pitkowsky '61, candidate for SG vice-president, were the main speakers. They proposed a re-activation of student-faculty committees, and SG agencies.

Court's Charter Approved by SC

Student council approved last night the constitution of a student court which would have some powers now held by the Department of Student Life.

The constitution must be approved by the Student-Faculty Committee on Student Activities.

The proposed court would have "original jurisdiction" in most disputes involving student activity.

The court would have power to suspend students from activities and office, and recommend suspensions from classes. It would also suspend organizations from the use of campus facilities, suspend the charter of any club if SFCSA approves, and issue "cease and desist" orders to students or organizations.

The present student court only has the power to make recommendations to Dean James S. Peace. (Student Life).

The Open Door

From now on, there will be an open-door policy regarding the use of Aronow Auditorium. It no longer will be the private property of the Music Department, which has seen fit most recently to bar the Modern Jazz Society from the use of the theater.

At a meeting of members of the faculty and Administration, the power to grant use of the auditorium was given to Dean Peace. This certainly is preferable to having it reside exclusively in the hands of Music Department Chairman Prof. Mark Brunswick.

Professor Brunswick has been in the past an able champion of students political rights, but has denied one group the right to hold a jazz concert in the auditorium at a time when there were no other commitments for it.

The new practice will take due account of the Music Department's priority to what is, after all, a concert hall, but will also make the auditorium more accessible for suitable student activities.

Weekend Offerings

Months of rehearsal will be put to the critical test of audience reaction this weekend for Dramsoc and the College's orchestra and chorus. The availability of two fine offerings on the same weekend should make it the cultural highlight of the College calendar. Dramsoc is offering Pirandello's "Six Characters in Search of an Author," and the musical group will give the annual Winter Concert. The students and faculty in each have worked long and diligently. The presentations deserve student support.

The Rally

The first elections rally in at least four years will be held today. In the past years, no program to acquaint students with the candidates has been presented, mainly because of the short time interval between the nominating petition deadline and the elections.

That there is a definite need for rallies and campaigns before elections, was shown by the small voter turnout in recent years. Student Government has made a worthy attempt to increase interest in the balloting by setting a petition deadline more than a week before the election, and not extending it. The Elections Agency has co-operated by sponsoring the rally today.

We are fairly certain that many freshmen will attend the program. We especially urge sophomores, juniors and seniors—whose interest in SG probably has flagged by this time—to come to the Finley Center Grand Ballroom at 12 today. A large attendance at the rally may make the election next week truly representative.

Blood Bank

The College's blood bank drive has had an excellent response in its first day of operation, as students and faculty donated 200 pints of blood. The donation is eminently worthwhile, and there is no reason why the total should not exceed 500 pints. The drive goes into its second and final day today, with the bloodmobile in the Buttenweiser Lounge of the Finley Center. We urge those who are able to contribute to do so.

News in Brief

News for House Planners

Roll out your soapboxes — election time is here again. Today is the first day of the one week campaigning period for House Plan officers. And here in HPA, you nominate yourself but keep in mind that these nominations close tomorrow, December 11th. If you want to run for President, Vice-president, Secretary or Treasurer, come up to the HP office, 326 Finley. From December 17th till the 23rd you sit around, watch the ballots come in, and find out whether your face really gets votes.

Not that you actually sit around. On the afternoon of Saturday, the 19th, YOU start believing in Santa Claus. Mainly because then YOU are Santa Claus at the House Plan Xmas Party sponsored for underprivileged children, and you don't have to be told how much it means to these kids. They're selected from Prof. Elam's Educational Clinic in Klapper Hall, but the important thing is the "adopting" of the children. Your house can take one or two of them, and give them a Christmas they won't forget; or you can help staff the party itself. Or you can help support it. Better still, you can do all of the above. Sign up with the Community Service Committee in 326 Finley as soon as possible. All Freshman houses with "temps" still hanging on to their names, here's your chance to get rid of them.

While you're in the office, don't forget your 25th Anniversary Ball reservations. Tickets are $5 per couple, but it only takes the same amount to hold a table for six couples. So if your house wants a table, or two, or three . . . hurry up, or you may have to sit with someone from another house: DEADLINE for reservations is tomorrow!

As for the immediate future, watch for the following: today at 12, during the 2-hour break, you can see Judy Holliday in the film "It Should Happen To You," or see the champs of the HP basketball intramurals defend themselves against the top team, the Spartans. And next Thursday at noon don't miss the Xmas Party in the HP lounge.

Don't miss next week's statement about the probable expansion of Contactette to a full-size newsprint issue beginning early next semester.

The New President Arrives

As a result of the basketball scandals Dr. Gallagher devoted much of his first year here to opposing commercialism in College athletics.

At that time the Hygiene Department accused Dr. Gallagher of causing a "de-emphasis" of the College's athletic program. In answer to this charge he said: "What has happened at CCNY is no de-emphasis on athletics. It is a fresh and healthy emphasis on amateur athletics, the only kind of sports fit to be seen on any college campus anywhere."

The President's efforts were not confined to alleviating situations caused by the evils of the past. With a vigor surpassing that of his predecessors Dr. Gallagher began what is now taking shape as a successful struggle to expand the College's physical and academic facilities.

When Dr. Gallagher assumed office, the South Campus already had been acquired, but the responsibility of converting it to the College's use rested with him. According to Dean Morten Gottschall (Liberal Arts) the President saved millions of dollars by deciding to renovate the Finley Center rather than build a new Student Union.

The City College Fund was founded in 1953 to provide funds for the Center's maintenance. According to Harry D. Spielberg '19, Co-Chairman of the 1958-59 campaign, Dr. Gallagher, "in his first year in the presidency of the City College, took the lead in the Fund's educational effort. His eloquence and sincerity made many friends for the Fund's philosophy."

Dr. Gallagher is largely responsible for the College's receiving funds from the City for construction of the Cohen Library, the Technology building and the planned Administration building.

But the President has not depended solely on money from the City.

Last year the State Legislature passed a bill granting aid to the municipal colleges. Gustave G. Rosenberg, chairman of the Board of Higher Education, said in a BHE report that "the effective faithfulness with which President Gallagher, followed through in every possible avenue of contact cannot be warmly enough acknowledged."

Dr. Gallagher's multitude of activities have begun to affect his health. Early last term he acquired a stomach ulcer and was forced to slow down. By and large, however, if the seven years that have elapsed since he took office on September 1, 1952, have made him weary, he hasn't shown it.

Looking back last week over the period he has been in office here, Dr. Gallagher said: "I don't know any man I would trade jobs with."

THERE'S AN IMPORTANT FUTURE AHEAD FOR THE MEN WHO WEAR THESE WINGS

The Air Force pilot or navigator is a man of many talents. He is, first of all, a master of the skies—and no finer exists. In addition, he has a firm background in astro-navigation, electronics, engineering and allied fields. Then, too, he must show outstanding qualities of leadership, initiative and self-reliance. In short, he is a man eminently prepared for an important future in the new Age of Space. Find out today if you can qualify as an Air Force pilot or navigator. Holman May Miss Game Against FDU

The College's basketball team, still seeking its first win, may acquire a new look Saturday against Fairleigh Dickinson in a Tri-State League game at Rutherford, N.J.

The men involved in the change are center Shelly Bender, sophomore forward Tor Nilsen and coach Nat Holman. Bender's play, or lack of it, in the team's two opening losses has prompted Holman to experiment.

Against Fairleigh Dickinson, Bender will alternate with the 6-4 Nilsen in the pivot. Holman has expressed the hope that Nilsen, center on last season's frosh squad, will be able to score from up close. Bender has not scored a field goal this year.

Although Holman planned the switch, there is a possibility that the Beaver coach will not be on hand to see how it works. Holman entered Mt. Sinai hospital yesterday with a bronchial cough and may miss Saturday's game. He will undergo a complete medical checkup and may be released in time to accompany his team. Dave Polansky, freshman coach, will guide the team in practice sessions and will coach the Beavers against the Knights if Holman still is disabled.

The Knights are a small, speedy outfit with good outside shooting and a fast-breaking offense. Two 5-9 guards, Marty Gozdenvich and Charley Potyrala, lead the team in scoring.

Rounding out their starting five are 6-4 Robert Brown at center, and forwards Don Unger 6-1, and Don Schwamb, 5-11.

Last year, the Beavers pulled out a 68-66 win over the Knights in the Wingate gym.

The College's freshman team will meet the Fairleigh Dickinson frosh in a preliminary contest.

Mermen Face Poly Saturday

The College's swimming team opens its season Saturday at the Brooklyn Central YMCA with hopes of preserving its unbeaten record against Brooklyn Poly. The Beavers have won all twelve of their previous meets with the Engineers.

The season opener with Manhattan, scheduled for last Friday was postponed because of glass in the Wingate pool. The meet was re-scheduled for January 11. The new opener will be held at the Central YMCA.

This year's match with Poly, according to coach Jack Rider, may end the Beavers' streak. "I know Poly is tough this year," he said.

Beaver co-captain Mike Bayuk thinks "we'll win if we enter our men in the right events."

These events are the free-style and backstroke. Rider said that Carl Ross is the only stand-out in either division.

Last year, Ross was one of the team's top free-styles. Since the team is now weaker in the backstroke, however, he will compete in this event.

Rifle Match

The College's undefeated rifle team will aim for its eleventh and twelfth victories when it faces Queens College and Brooklyn Polytechnic Institute in a triangular meet at the Lewisohn Stadium range tomorrow night at 6:30.

Fencers Meet Yale Saturday

Hoping for improvement in the epee team, the College's fencers will seek their first victory, against Yale University, at the Wingate gym Saturday.

Coach Edward Lucia, determined to do something about the epee team's bad showing against the University of Pennsylvania, has switched Vladimir Lomakin, a foilsman, to epee.

Lucia also has elevated Morty Langer to a starting position in the foil on the basis of his clutch victory against Pennsylvania last week. Langer joins team captain Reggie Spooner and Alonzo Johnson as a starter in this weapon.

The sabre team will remain the same. Lucia feels that it wouldn't be wise to break up the winning combination of Andy Kemeny, Harold Mayer and Dick Koch.

"If Lomakin can come through in epee, and the foil and sabre teams remain consistent with last week's performance, we have a good chance of winning," Lucia said.

COACH NAT HOLMAN

Wrestlers to Seek 2nd Win at Temple

The College's wrestling team will travel to Philadelphia Saturday and will try to do to Temple University what it did to Brooklyn Poly.

The matmen thoroughly defeated the Brooklyn school in their opener last Saturday, 30-6.

According to Beaver coach Joe

Sapora, if the squad wrestles Saturday as well as it did in its first match, it should have little trouble with the Owls.

Temple, coached by John Rogers, lost to the College last season, 24-10. But the Philadelphia are stronger this year, Sapora pointed out.
