Awards Head Charges Bias In SG Honors

By Sue Solet

charges that party politics were involved in granting Student Government awards were leveled yesterday by Marvin Binstock '59, chairman of the committee which recommended candidates for the awards. Student Council voted awards to twelve students last week in an executive session. Binstock resigned from the Honors and Awards Commission yesterday. Those students who did receive awards justly deserved them, but those who were recommended and not receive awards deserved them also," Binstock stated in his letter of resignation. Abe Habent '59, another member of the awards committee, resigned with Binstock.

Binstock later said that the students who were not approved by the council were affiliated with the Party of Liberal Students and the main opposition to their approval came from members of the Democratic Forum and Union. Those who were not approved were former SG president Mikeowitz '59, SG Social Functions Chairman Melie Berman '59, SG Vice President Lou Nash '60 and Bernie Lefkowitz '59. (Continued on Page 3)

Barbara Marmelstein '62 became House Plan's twentieth Carnival Queen Saturday.

The new queen was crowned at midnight by guest star Monique van Vooren. Radio personality, Jean Shepherd was on the panel that judged the five Carnival Queen finalists.

Miss Marmelstein will receive a trip to Puerto Rico, luggage, perfume and a weekend at Grossinger's.

College officials estimated that more than 2,500 students attended Carnival.

Three Seek Presidency In Election Tomorrow

By Barbara Blumenstein

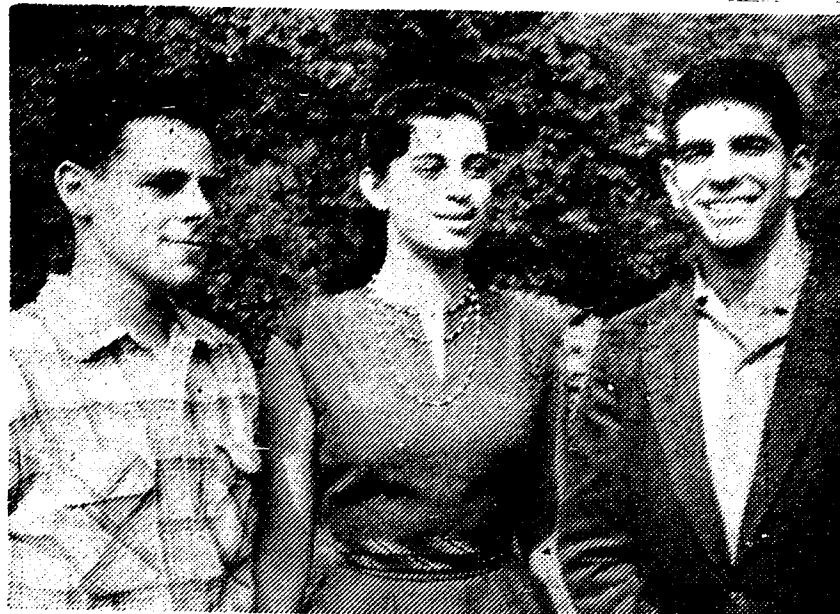

The first three-way race for the Student Government presidency in five years will begin tomorrow.

Rita Ashkenas '61, former president of her class took advantage of the extended petition deadline last week to enter the contest against SG Treasurer Barry Kahn '60 and "protest candidate" Ira Glickstein '60.

Miss Ashkenas was the only candidate to utilize the extension of the nomination period. Nearly two-thirds of the class offices will be vacant after the election. Students will be appointed next term by elected class officers to fill the vacancies.

Voting will take place tomorrow, Thursday and Friday between 10 and 4 at booths in Lincoln Corridor, Knittle Lounge, the entrance to the Finley Center, and outside the snack bar. Unlike last semester's procedure, ballots will not be distributed in classrooms.

For the first time in recent years the candidates are aligned along political party designations — the Democratic Forum and Union, and the Party of Liberal Students. It is generally conceded that the only significant difference between the groups is that the PLS maintains that there is a leftist threat at the College, while the DFU does not.

Of the presidential candidates, Miss Ashkenas has been endorsed by the PLS and Kahn by the DFU.

The candidates for the SG vice-presidency are DFU President Nels Grumer and Jerome Swartz '60, who is supported by the PLS. Alan Steinberg '61 (DFU) and Diana Laster '60 (PLS) will vie for secretary. The lone candidate for treasurer is sophomore Herb Deutsch (DFU).

College Bowl' Team Chosen

Students Named For Quiz Show

By Francine Pike

After a week of oral and written examinations of 95 students, four men have been selected to represent the College on the television quiz show, The College Bowl.

The students, none of whom is on the Dean's List, were chosen on the basis of speed and accuracy in answering questions. They are Marcel Sislowitz '59, Bruce Gilson '62, David Sussman '60, and Warren Randall '59.

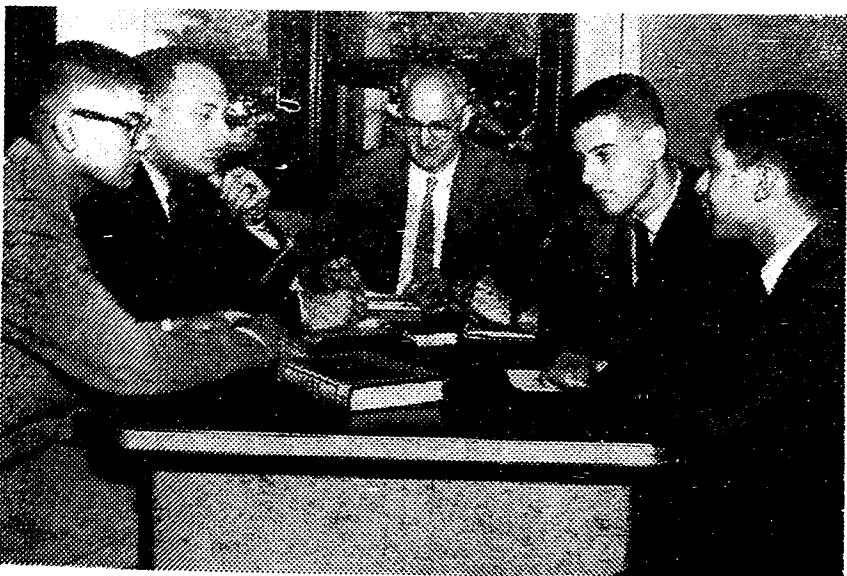

The College is scheduled to appear on the program Sunday, May 17 at 5:30 on Channel 2. The show originates from the campus of the College in Baltimore or the University in Detroit — whichever wins this week's contest.

The four students agreed that the written examination, which consisted of questions on diverse subjects including physics and literary rhymes, was difficult and perplexing.

Among the more perplexing riddles were: "That Chinese river reminds you of a Northerner keeping watch? Answer: Yangtze)"

"That vegetable recalls an Ivy League football victory? (Answer: yard beats)" question that was answered incorrectly by the majority of the students was:

"Dong dong dell,
Pussy in the well,
Who put her in?"

The correct answer, little Johnny Green, was rarely given, according to Dean Sherburne Barber (Liberal Arts), a member of the testing committee. The students guessed at names like Tommy Finn and little Billy Flynn. One wrote little Tommy Stout, who, "of course," is the one who "took her out."

Seventy-five questions were on the test. The student who obtained the highest score, 47, was eliminated from the competition on the basis of his oral exam.

Mr. I. E. Levine (Public Relations) explained that although knowledge was a necessity, speed was perhaps even more important. In order to win the contest, the team will have to call out the correct answers before its opponent does.

Four alternates also were chosen. They are Steve Brown '59, Jules Levin '59, Mike Dillon '61, and Alvin Kessler '60.

HS Girl Molested On Way to Party

A high school girl was molested on St. Nicholas Terrace Friday night while on her way to a House Plan party here.

The girl, a student at Hunter High School, fell behind a group of companions who were walking to the College from the 125th Street subway station. She told police she was thrown to the ground and molested by two youths, about fifteen and thirteen years old. Her screams attracted two policemen in a nearby squad car, and the attackers fled. The girl was not seriously harmed.

The visiting students apparently were unaware that the rear entrance to the South Campus is closed at 6 daily to discourage walking on the Terrace after dark.

Honors Course

Application for Honors 222 "The Modern View of Man" must be made in 133 Shepard before June 1. The seminar, introduced experimentally this term, will be expanded into a two term sequence.

Papp Defends Free Festival

By Dave Schick

The case for free admission to the Shakespeare Festival at Central Park was presented here yesterday by Joseph Papp, founder and producer of the Festival.

The producer said the Festival refuses to charge admission because the Shakespeare plays are a service to the public. In addition, Mr. Papp claimed, it would be impossible for the Festival to charge admission and attract 110,000 people as it did last summer.

In the middle of his speech, Mr. Papp received a note informing him that Mayor Wagner had backed a proposal by Commissioner of Parks Robert Moses to charge admission to the Central Park productions.

"There's no recourse but to go to the courts," Mr. Papp said. "Though Mayor Wagner was previously sympathetic to our stand but non-committal, he probably supported Moses because he didn't feel the issue important enough for a showdown with the Parks Commissioner."

Mr. Papp said the Festival board of directors is now investigating the legal aspects of the case. "We will make a policy decision in two weeks," he said.

"If there's no Shakespeare, Moses and Wagner must accept full responsibility," Mr. Papp added.

Kahn for President

The election contest for Student Government president has more than two candidates for the first time since 1954. Unfortunately only one of the three is acceptable—Barry Kahn. Ira Glickstein is a self-styled "protest candidate" who has not even campaigned. Rita Ashkenas lacks the necessary leadership qualities to assume control of SG. Kahn, on the other hand, is self-confident, articulate, has the poise expected of a student leader, and has indicated a zeal to tackle SG problems.

Glickstein, because of his stand favoring membership lists, is completely unacceptable as the leader and titular spokesman of a student body which repeatedly has opposed the regulation. Admittedly, Miss Ashkenas has had sufficient experience in SG activities. However, she is frequently unable to maintain composure in the often hectic atmosphere of SG operations.

The reservation most often expressed about Kahn is that while his opponents are independents, he has been endorsed by the Democratic Forum and Union, and would give that party too much power. However, Kahn has impressed us as being basically an unaffiliated candidate whose own platform coincides at the moment with that of the DFU. Kahn has made it quite clear that he places himself under no obligation to any special interest.

It appears to us that of the three candidates, Barry Kahn is the only one who offers a positive program and a well thought-out point of view. His election will be to the advantage of both SG and the student body.

Swartz for Veep

Of all the candidates for SG office, the most impressive is a junior relatively unknown in undergraduate politics here. He is Jerome Swartz, one of the two candidates for vice-president.

An engineer, Swartz served on Student Council last year, so he is familiar with SG operations. This term he has observed SG from the outside (while playing for the tennis team) and has been above the political machinations of the past two months. Although he has been endorsed by the Party of Liberal Students, Swartz is not a member of it, or of the Democratic Forum and Union. He does not accept the opinions of the leaders of either party on faith, as so many of the candidates seem to. He does not accept the unproven allegations that there is a leftist threat here—as do many PLS candidates—but he does not close his eyes to the possibility of such a threat—as do many DFU candidates. To use the commercial phrase, he, more than any other candidate, thinks for himself.

Swartz's opponent, Nels Grumer, would not be unacceptable as vice-president. He is an experienced and capable leader. But most of his ideas are hackneyed, while Swartz's freshness is intriguing.

In a year when many candidates are satisfactory but few are outstanding, Jerome Swartz is a welcome exception. THE CAMPUS whole-heartedly endorses him for SG vice-president.

Laster for Secretary

The choice between Alan Steinberg and Diane Laster for Student Government Secretary is not a difficult one. The nod must go to Miss Laster.

Through her activities on the SG Academic Affairs Committee, and as a member of the SG Executive Committee, Miss Laster has shown that she is a capable worker devoted to the College. Steinberg lacks the dedication and the experience of his opponent.

If Miss Laster adds initiative to her other qualifications, she will be a more-than-competent SG Secretary.

For SFCSA

Among the four candidates for two open positions on the Student Faculty Committee on Student Activities, two stand out: Sandra Helfenstein and Stanley Grossel. Both have long records of service to the College and would make capable student representatives to the committee.

Miss Helfenstein has been an SFCSA member for the past year. She is a former member of the SG Academic Affairs Committee, a former editor of Observation Post, and has a thorough background in College activities.

Grossel, an engineering honor student, also is well prepared for an SFCSA post through his activities on Student Council and as an editor of Tech News. He is intelligent and articulate, with a demeanor that should impress the faculty members of the committee.

SFCSA is the highest body at the College on which studentist may serve. It is imperative that the best possible representatives be elected—in this case, Sandra Helfenstein and Stan Grossel.

ris Auditorium for as long as the College continues to win.

The College contingent expects to win. One student, however, admitted that "being human, we are all nervous at the prospect of appearing on TV coast to coast."

"We have a good team and we know it," Mr. Levine said. "These boys are the best of the 95 students who competed."

When asked how he would feel if the team lost, Sislowitz, one of the regulars, said that "as long as we give the other team a tough time, we'll feel okay about the whole thing."

Whether the team wins or loses, the College's scholarship fund will receive a grant. The General Electric Company, sponsor of The College Bowl, awards fifteen hundred dollars to the college represented by the winning team, and five hundred to the loser.

To prepare for the contest, Dean Barber and Mr. Levine will hold two two-hour practice sessions between now and May 24. The regulars will compete against the alternates as the two coaches fire questions at them.

The students will be expected to answer questions on the arts, the sciences, literature, history, music, and current events. They plan to spend the next few weeks "boning up on current events" and "thumbing through an almanac or two," one said.

There are fewer candidates this term than last term, when 77 students ran for 62 positions. This semester there are almost twice as many offices as there are candidates.

Following are the candidates for Student Council and class offices:

Class of '60

President: Rick Marcus, Gus Bennett.
Vice president: Mary Felsen
Student Council Representatives: Liberal Arts—Walter Schwartz, Al Snadowsky, Hope Rauch, Technology—Jay Freeman, Arnold Barnett, Education—Karen Davis.

Class of '61

None for major class offices or class council.
Student Council Representatives: Liberal Arts—Mary Weinberg, Sid Bloom, Myra Jehlen, Technology—Bert Weinstein, Mel Friedman.

Class of '62

President: Richard Aronow.
Vice president: Sy Fenster.
Secretary: Susan Goldberg.
Treasurer: John Tifford.
Class Council: Harvey Singer.
None for two Technology Student Council Representatives.

Class of '63

None for major offices or class council.
Student Council Representatives: Liberal Arts—Florence Dorenbusch, Ruth Dorenbusch, Denise Usatin, Technology—Bernard Cyllich.

TV Bowl Contestants: A Variety of Interests

The following are sketches of the four students who have been selected to represent the College on the TV quiz program "College Bowl."

By Bruce Solomon

Marcel Sislowitz '59, a Belgium-born twenty-year-old pre-medical student, already has represented the College in competition. Tall and well-built, he played for three years on the lacrosse team.

The biology-chemistry major is a member of Caduceus Society, and after school does research work at the Manhattan Eye Ear and Throat Hospital.

A state Regents scholarship winner, he came to the College from the Bronx High School of Science.

Sislowitz said he was hesitant about applying to the Quiz Bowl Committee until he read a story about it in Observation Post several weeks ago. In the story was a supposedly typical Quiz Bowl question—"What is Haiku?" He knew the answer: a form of Japanese poetry written in seventeen syllables. It was all the encouragement he needed.

Warren Randall '59, is a 23-year-old history-government major and an active member in College groups. His impressive list of service credits has earned him a place in Pick and Shovel, the senior honor society. He is presently senior class secretary, and has served as Student Council Representative, chairman of the International Affairs Committee and manager of the Used Book Exchange.

Born in Jersey City, N.J., he moved to New York and entered Science High School entering the army. He saw ten months of active duty in the Far East.

Bruce Gilson is a 16-year-old freshman from Science High School who intends to major in chemistry. A straight "A" student except for a "C" in calculus education in his first year here, Gilson applied to the Quiz Bowl Committee on his own initiative. In high school, he won an award for Pure Mathematics and a state Regents scholarship.

He said his greatest academic weakness is in English literature, which he dislikes. He said he is interested only in technical publications.

"I'm not the athletic type," he admits, "and this is probably why I'll never make a College team."

David Sussman '60 came to the College because it has an engineering school, and switched his interest to chemistry. A member of Sigma Chi, the junior honor society, his average falls just short of the Dean's List standard. Nevertheless, he modestly belittles his academic achievements, explaining that he is "always two or four weeks behind" in his homework.

The 19-year-old junior graduated from Yeshiva University High School, making him the only member of the team who did not attend Bronx Science.

Beaver Netmen Lose to NYU

The College's tennis team dropped below the .500 mark Saturday, losing to New York University, 8½-½, at the Violets' courts.

The Beavers, now 3-4, were unable to win any of the matches. Their half point came when the third doubles contest was divided between the teams by mutual agreement of the coaches.

This was done when it became apparent that the singles match between the College's Seymour Silver and NYU's Larry Berler had taken so great a physical toll on the players that they would be unable to compete in the doubles.

Silver and Berler battled for over two hours before Berler won, 0-6, 6-4, and 16-14. Silver was the only Beaver able to win a set.

In the number one singles match, the College's Mike Stone bowed to George Mandel, the third-ranking eastern collegiate player, 1-6, 0-6. —Forkosch

Dawkins Stars in CTC's As Beavers Take 2nd

By Vic Ziegel

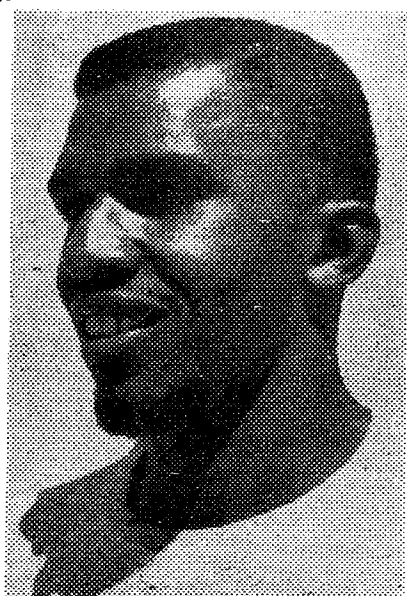

GARDEN CITY, L.I., May 9 — The College's track team used only five men to take second place today in the seventh annual Collegiate Track Conference outdoor championships.

The Beavers scored 39 points, putting them only four behind powerful Teachers College of Connecticut. The Teachers took their fourth successive CTC crown but not without a fight from the Lavender quintet.

With only two events remaining — the hammer throw and broad jump — the College and TCC were tied with 34 points. The Beavers had led by as much as thirteen points but the strong TCC field squad had brought the teams even.

Three men qualified for TCC in the hammer and only Stan Dawkins reached the finals of the broad jump. Dawkins took first in the jump but the Teacher trio placed second, third and fourth in the hammer throw to clinch the meet.

For the second consecutive year, Dawkins was the meet top scorer. Besides his broad jump victory, the long-legged senior won the 120-yard high hurdles and 220-yard low hurdles and finished in a tie for second in the high jump.

STAN DAWKINS

Dawkins' time of 0:24.8 in the 220 set a new CTC standard.

None of the other Beaver competitors — George Best, Ralph Taylor, Josue Delgado and Ike Clark — was able to capture a first. But their tireless efforts kept the College in contention throughout the meet.

Best was third in the quarter-mile and fourth behind Dawkins in the low hurdles. Delgado and Taylor ran two-three in the mile and reversed positions in the half-mile. Clark was fourth in the quarter mile and ran on the mile relay team along with Best, Delgado and Taylor. The relay squad finished fifth.

Nine Loses to St. John's For 8th Straight Defeat

REDMAN BITES THE DUST: While Beaver catcher Bill Nicholas awaits throw in second inning, St. John's leftfielder Artie Beato scores in a cloud of dust.

By Bob Jacobson

The College's baseball team committed eight errors Saturday and found itself on the receiving end of a seventeen-hit, 19-0 scalping by the Redmen of St. John's University at McCombs Dam Park.

The defeat was the eighth in a row for the Beavers, now possessors of a 3-11 record. In Met Conference play, the Beavers are tied with Brooklyn for sixth place with two wins and eight losses.

St. John's displayed its superiority from the outset, amassing fifteen runs on eleven hits in four innings off Dom Tarantola, the College's starting pitcher. Tarantola gave up only two extra-base hits, one a two-run homer to leftfielder Artie Beato in the fourth.

John Calichio replaced Tarantola in the fifth frame and the Redmen resumed the attack. Two singles and a walk, followed by Dom Moreo's grand-slam home run finished the scoring for the league-leading Redmen.

In the top half of the fourth eleven Redmen faced Tarantola. Two hit safely. Three walked. Three reached base on errors. Eight crossed the plate. When the Beavers finally left the field three outs later, the fans began pleading for a Lavender rally — of at least one run. For a moment it appeared as though the Beavers were cooperating.

Rightfielder Ken Rosenblum opened the last of the fourth by reaching second on an error. After Ron Weiss walked, Rosenblum went to third on a fielder's choice play. With one down, catcher Jay Lensky lifted a long out to center. Rosenblum tagged and raced home, the crowd cheered, and the umpire called Ken out for leaving the bag too soon.

Frank Franceschini pitched the first six frames for St. John's, allowing only three hits. He was relieved by Ed Brennan who gave up only two more safeties.

The College failed to capitalize on two other scoring opportunities. With one out in the first, Bob Dernas singled and went to third on centerfielder Tim Sullivan's double. Both were left stranded. John Whelan opened the bottom of the second with another two-bagger, but Lensky lined into a double-play.

Sullivan, who singled in the ninth for his second hit, leads the Beavers in batting with a .437 average in league play. His spectacular one-handed snare of Bill Maloney's bid for extra bases in the second was the outstanding fielding play of the afternoon.

The Beavers will face New York University today at 3 at Ohio Field, Bronx.

Stickmen Bow To Army 11-4

By Mel Winer

WEST POINT, N.Y., May 9 — A hard-running Army plebe lacrosse team today handed the College's stickmen their first defeat in five games, 11-4. The loss was the Beavers' third of the season against five victories and one tie.

The score at half-time was 3-3, but the Lavender, usually a strong second half team, could score only once in the final half while the Cadets tallied eight times.

Army scored first, but Hanno Allik and Jerry Kolaitis, on a pass from Willie Hodriguez put the College ahead, 2-1, at the end of the first period.

In the second quarter the Cadets slowly began to move against the Beavers as Al Biddison scored the first of his three goals to tie the score 2-2. With the quarter nearing its end, he scored again to put the Black Knights into the lead.

The Lavender came back to tie the score with twelve seconds remaining in the half when Charlie Yates connected on a pass from Rodriguez.

The second half was all Army as the Cadets scored four straight goals to make the score 7-3. The barrage began with Russ Broshous, who also scored three goals for the Black Knights, tallying twice in the opening minutes of the quarter. Midway through the period the Cadets scored twice within 24 seconds as Phil Fuller and Lennie Butler put the ball past Lavender goalie Dave Elias.

With less than three minutes remaining in the period, the Beavers temporarily came alive as Rodriguez put one into the nets to make the score 7-4. However, the Lavender rally was short lived as Butler scored again seconds before the quarter ended.

SCHULTZ IS A MANY SPLENDORED THING

Beppo Schultz, boulevardier, raconteur, connoisseur, sportsman, bon vivant, nail fellow well met—in short, typical American college man—smokes today's new Marlboros.

"Why do you smoke today's new Marlboros, hey?" a friend recently asked Beppo Schultz.

"I smoke today's new Marlboros," replied Beppo, looking up from his 2.9 litre L-head Hotchkiss drive double overhead camshaft British sports car, "because they are new."

"New?" said the friend. "What do you mean—new?"

"I mean the flavor's great, the filter's improved, the cigarette is designed for today's easier, breezier living," said Beppo.

"Like this 2.9 litre L-head Hotchkiss drive double overhead camshaft British sports car?" asked the friend.

"Exactly," said Beppo.

"She's a beauty," said the friend, looking admiringly at the car. "How long have you had her?"

"It's a male," said Beppo.

"Sorry," said the friend. "How long have you had him?"

"About a year," said Beppo.

"Have you done a lot of work on him?" asked the friend.

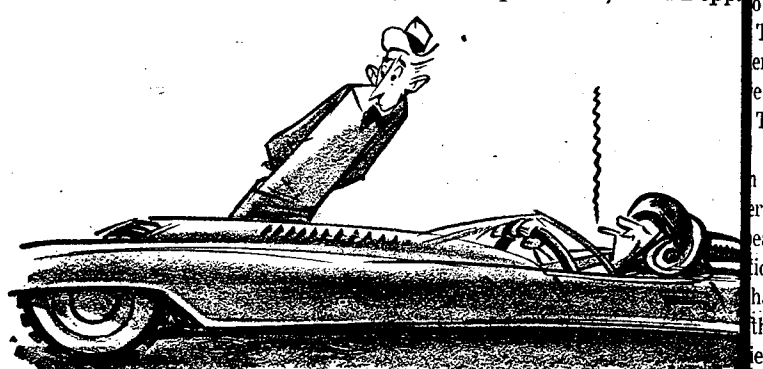

"Oh, have I not!" cried Beppo. "I have replaced the pushrod with a Roots type supercharger. I have replaced the torque with a synchromesh. I have replaced the tachometer with a double side draft carburetor."

"Gracious!" exclaimed the friend.

"I have replaced the hood with a bonnet," said Beppo.

"Land o' Goshen!" exclaimed the friend.

"And I have put gloves in the glove compartment," said Beppo.

"It's a male," said Beppo.

"My, you have been the busy one," said the friend. "You must be exhausted."

"Maybe a trifle," said Beppo, with a brave little smile.

"Know what I do when I'm tired?" said the friend.

"Light a Marlboro?" ventured Beppo.

"Oh, pshaw, you guessed!" said the friend, pouting.

"But it was easy," said Beppo, chuckling kindly. "When the eyelids droop and the musculature sags and the psyche is depleted, what is more natural than to perk up with today's new Marlboro?"

"A great new smoke with better 'makin's' and a great new filter!" proclaimed the friend, his young eyes glistening.

"Changed to keep pace with today's changing world!" declared Beppo, whirling his arms in concentric circles. "A cigarette for a sunnier age, an age of greater leisure and more beckoning horizons!"

Now, tired but happy, Beppo and his friend lit Marlboros and smoked for a time in deep, silent contentment. At length the friend spoke. "He certainly is a beauty," he said.

"You mean my 2.9 litre L-head Hotchkiss drive double overhead camshaft British sports car?" asked Beppo.

"Yes," said the friend. "How fast will he go?"

"Well, I don't rightly know," said Beppo. "I can't find the starter."

If you're sticking with the good old non-filter cigarette, you can't do better than Philip Morris—a mild, rich, tasty smoke made by the people who make Marlboros.
