Houtkruyer Stars With 23 Saves

By Vic Grossfeld

On a bleak, windswept field 160 miles from home, the College's soccer team scored its toughest and most rewarding victory of the season Saturday.

It defeated the Trojans of Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, 1-0, on a first period goal.

For the rest of the game RPI hammered away at the Beaver goal, but the Lavender defense, playing inspired soccer, turned back each Trojan charge and held on to the slim lead.

Fullbacks John Costalas and Bill Petratos and halfback Wolfgang Scherer played their best games of the season, but most of the glory must go to goalie Andre Houtkruyer.

He made 23 saves — running, diving, or leaping; it seemed more like forty.

Coach Harry Karlin particularly was impressed with Houtkruyer's performance. "What can I say. Andy was the game. That's all!" he commented.

Frosh coach Les Solney said he had never seen goaltending "like that in all my years at the College."

But Andre couldn't have done it alone. He had to have help from men like Costalas, who was instrumental in holding RPI back, particularly in the first half. Time and again the Trojans worked the ball into Beaver territory only to see it booted back over their heads by Costalas.

And men like forward Earle Scarlett who played his best game

Hail to the Chief

By Mike Katz

To the strains of marching music, former President Harry S. Truman will arrive at the doors of Finley Center late this afternoon.

And then a little bit of history will be made at the College.

Overflow crowds in the Grand Ballroom and Aronow Auditorium, plus hardy souls in the courtyard outside the Center, will hear Mr. Truman.

About 300 tickets to the Grand Ballroom were distributed to students, and about sixty to the faculty. Those unable to see and hear Mr. Truman may have a chance to do so on television tonight. Mr. K. D. Shamberg, of Castle Films, will take firms here—probably for network distribution.

The Beaver Broadcasters Club is making a tape recording of tonight's program, to be heard tomorrow at 1 and 7 in the Buttenweiser Lounge.

Ostensibly, Mr. Truman's speech will be directed at college students—representatives of all major colleges and universities in the metropolitan area have been invited. But with the Presidential election just one week from today, it can hardly be expected that the fiery 76-year-old former Chief Executive will refrain from a campaign plug for his party's choice, Senator John F. Kennedy. The arrangements for Mr. Truman and his party—which includes Democratic State Committee Chairman Michael R. Prendergast— approximate those for a returning hero. Mr. Truman spoke here in 1948.

Members of the College band, publicly silent most of the term, will serenade Mr. Truman as his car drives up the path to the front steps of the Finley Center.

There he will be greeted by the College's Honor Guard and escorted inside by members of the Pershing Rifles. He will be taken to Room 148, where he most likely will remove his coat and catch his breath. Then he will make a brief appearance at Aronow Auditorium, where his speech from the Ballroom will be heard.

Mr. Truman, with his Pershing Rifles escort, will then walk to the Ballroom, probably stopping to say hello to the expected crowds in Lincoln and Buttenweiser Lounge, where his Ballroom speech also will be broadcast.

Then he will wait through short addresses by Al Linden, Student Government President; Al Hirsch, president of the Young Democratic Club here; President Gallagher; Charles M. Lewis, state chairman of the Young Democrats; Mr. Prendergast; and Harry Brandt, state chairman of the campaign committee.

Finally, at approximately 5:30, Mr. Truman will "give 'em hell."

Baruch Dinner

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, General Omar Bradley, Dr. Howard Rusk, and President Gallagher will honor Bernard M. Baruch '89 at the College Alumni Association Dinner tomorrow at 2 in the Hotel Astor.

GF Rejects OP Demand For Censure

By Bob Jacobson

The General Faculty last Thursday rejected Observation Post's demand that it censure President Gallagher for his charges that the paper is controlled by Communist-oriented students.

The GF ruled by a near-unanimous vote that neither OP's "Open Letter" of September 29, which called for censure of Dr. Gallagher, nor the President's 18-page "documentation" of his charges last month "raises any issues of academic freedom, of freedom of the press or allied issues."

Proposed by Prof. Edgar Johnson (English), the resolution states that OP's editorial board had been "in error" in appealing to the body.

Peter Steinberg '61, OP editor, expressed concern over the GF's failure to "consider the basic issues—the charges and the methods used" in making them.

The decision was termed "very satisfactory" by the President. He agreed he did not feel the GF was the proper body to consider OP's accusations of "slander and libel."

Steinberg and two members of Student Government's committee, which two weeks ago concluded an investigation of the President's initial charges, were allowed to speak at the closed meeting. The SG representatives were Bernie Becker '61 and Bruce Markens '61, who drafted a letter—approved last week by Student Council—to Dr. Gallagher, criticizing his charges.

After a brief questioning of the individuals by the GF, Dr. Gallagher voluntarily left the faculty room, along with the three students, while the issue was being discussed by the body.

ADA to Hold Rights Picket

A campus group is planning to picket the election campaign headquarters of the major political parties on Election Night to protest the disenfranchisement of Southern Negroes.

The College's division of Americans for Democratic Action is asking interested students to meet at 3 tomorrow in 337 Finley to make signs, and to work on posters and handbills.

The rally was originally called for at a meeting in Montgomery, Ala. of the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee last month, attended by students throughout the country.

"We want to impress the country that people are determined to give the Negro the right to vote—now. Too often, New York Congressmen have been absent during important civil rights votes," said Ted Chabasinski '61, co-chairman of the campus ADA.

"We want them to push civil rights bills through committees and show the world that the American people can act."

The group will picket "just before the polls close" on Election night in order to gain publicity from news, radio and television men covering the parties' headquarters.

Chabasinski said that several Student Council members had expressed interest in the drive, and expects a vote of support by Council tomorrow. Last spring, SC picked the Woolworth's picket lines, protesting segregated lunch counters in the South.

SG Forum

The Student Government Public Affairs Forum will present speakers from Citizens for Kennedy, The Republican National Committee, and the Socialist Workers Party today at 4 in 217 Finley. They will discuss, "Elections—1960: the Issues and the Candidates."

Tech Bldg. Named for Alumnus

The College's $9,000,000 Technology building, now under construction and planned for completion by 1962, will be named for David Barnard Steinman '06, who died last August.

Dr. Steinman was a member of the first faculty of the College's School of Technology, and the founder and first president of the National Society of Professional Engineers.

One of the world's most renowned bridge engineers, he designed more than four hundred all over the world—including the George Washington Bridge in New York and the Mackinac Straits Bridge in Michigan.

"He occupied a distinguished place in his chosen profession, not only for professional achievement but because he was a humanitarian as well," President Gallagher said.

The GF Passes—the Buck

To nobody's surprise, the General Faculty did not censure President Gallagher, as Observation Post asked in its frontpage open letter last month. And, according to expectations, the faculty group refrained from taking a position in this controversy, preferring to point out that there has been no suppression of freedom of the press or academic freedom, or "allied issues."

The General Faculty narrowly avoided taking some kind of constructive step when it tabled a motion to set up a group to meet with representatives of Student Government. Since most GF members apparently do not read the student newspapers, (according to a recent CAMPUS survey), this proposal might have given some of them an idea of what some students here are doing, discussing, and thinking about. It was a close call—the vote on the motion was 27 to 23.

Now that the General Faculty has successfully ducked under the cross-fire between President Gallagher and Peter Steinberg, Student Government is the only formal group with a chance to improve the situation. This is fortunate for one reason—it offers a clear opportunity for SG to prove it can act effectively and responsibly.

The letter which Student Council sent to the President last week is a good beginning. Its tone was moderate, objective, and well-intentioned. It deserves an equally moderate, objective and well-intentioned reply from Dr. Gallagher when he speaks in the Grand Ballroom on Thursday.

We hope that Dr. Gallagher does not persist in standing on his statement, for it will not support him. It is true that he has not deprived Steinberg or Observation Post of liberty or rights, but it may not continue to be true if Steinberg, or any member of OP, is denied a job because of his activities at the College.

The words have been uttered, the statement has been written, and we believe that in retrospect the President will not be entirely proud of the part he has played in this controversy. On Thursday he has a chance to "make things better." We hope he takes advantage of it.

Welcome Back, Mr. Truman

For the first time in twelve years, the College is to receive a man of the stature of Harry S. Truman—in fact, the last to grace these halls was Mr. Truman, himself.

It's too bad one of the largest institutions of higher learning in the country had nothing better to offer the former Chief Executive than a dimly-lit, drafty ballroom with poor acoustics, and a capacity of little more than 600. It's still hard to understand why the more impressive Great Hall, now used as an engineers' library, couldn't be readied for Mr. Truman's appearance. Certainly, it doesn't seem to take much to move a few tables and chairs when the room is used for registration.

Be that as it may, an impressive turnout of students will do much to erase any disappointment Mr. Truman may find in coming face to face with the Grand Ballroom. And it is hoped that students will be much more courteous than they were to Sen. Jacob Javits when he spoke here two weeks ago. The best impression Mr. Truman can get from his visit here is one of students very much aware of the issues of our time, but polite to the men who have so much to say in deciding them.

the room, the President revealed he had been contacted last Wednesday by George Rundquist, a member of the New York chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union.

Dr. Gallagher said Mr. Rundquist had told him the ACLU would not intervene in the controversy because it saw no issue of academic freedom involved.

Mr. Rundquist said Thursday: "We didn't take the case because the paper is still publishing freely, the editor hasn't been removed, and there has been no suppression of freedom of speech."

Steinberg insisted, however, he personally would continue to "consider the possibility of legal action."

Market Dip Linked To Kennedy Gains

A brokerage firm executive said here last Thursday that the recent stock market decline resulted from a growing feeling among investors that Sen. John F. Kennedy will win the Presidency.

Frank Fay, an account executive of Merrill, Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith, explained that since Senator Kennedy is committed to a program of lower interest rates and higher federal spending, businessmen think he will raise corporate profit taxes.

Mr. Fay, who spoke before the Economics Society, said businessmen have adopted a policy of watchful waiting by "holding inventories and not spending" until the election is over.

Save those Ballots, SFCSA to Ask SG

The Student Faculty Committee on Student Activities voted last Thursday to recommend to Student Government that it consider holding completed ballots "for a specified time" after elections. The action stemmed from a defeated SG candidate's complaint last spring that he could not get a recount after elections because the ballots had been destroyed.

Leonard Machtinger, '62, who barely lost in a bid for a Council seat, said that when he requested a recount by the SG Elections Agency, he was told the ballots had been dumped in the Finley Center furnace immediately after the tallying. His appeal to SFCSA for a new election was refused.

SG President, Al Linden, a member of SFCSA, said he expected Council to act on the matter in about two weeks.

THE PARTY WEEKEND: ITS CAUSE AND CURE

With the season of party weekends almost upon us, my mail of late has been flooded with queries from young inmates of women's colleges wishing to know how one conducts one's self when one has invited a young gentleman for a weekend, so let us today take up this burning issue.

Well, my dear girls, the first thing to remember is that your young gentleman is far from home and frightened. Put him at his ease. You might, for instance, surprise him by having his mother sitting in a rocker on the station platform when he gets off the train.

Next, what kind of corsage should you send your young gentleman? Well, my beloved maidens, orchids are always acceptable. So, indeed, are phlox and delphinium. In fact, most any flora will serve. Do try, however, to avoid carnivorous plants.

If you find, my esteemed fillies, that your local florist has run out of stock, do not be dismayed. Make a corsage out of paper. But pick good, stiff, durable paper—twenty dollar bills, for example.

Remember at all times, my fond wenches, to show your young gentleman courtesy and consideration. Open doors for him, walk on the traffic side of the path, assist him to the punch bowl, zip his parka, light his Marlboros. (What, you ask, if he doesn't smoke Marlboros? Ridiculous, my precious nymphs! Of course, he smokes Marlboros! Don't you? Don't I? Doesn't everybody who knows a hawk from a handsaw? What other cigarette gives you such a lot to like? Such easy-drawing filtration? Such unfiltered taste? Such soft pack or flip-top box? No other, my sweet minxes, no other. Marlboro stands alone, and any man worthy of you, my estimable damsels, is bound to be a Marlboro man.)

Surprise him when he gets off the train

If you will follow the simple instructions stated above, my good lasses, you will find that you have turned your young gentleman into a fast and fervent admirer. There is nothing quite like a party weekend to promote romance. I am in mind of a party weekend some years ago at Miss Pomfritt's Seminary for well-born females in West Linotype, Ohio. Serafina Sigafos, a sophomore at this institution, majoring in napkin folding, sent an invitation to a young man named Fafnir Valve, a junior at the Joyce Kilmer School of Forestry, majoring in sap and bole. Serafina had been ape for Fafnir since high school, but Fafnir preferred a girl named Gelia Fleshwound, the high school drum majorette who once threw a baton so high she impaled a south-bound mallard.

Anyhow, Serafina sent an invitation to Fafnir, and he came, and she showered him with kindness and cuff links, and then he went away, and Serafina sat anxiously by the mailbox, wondering whether she would ever hear from him again. Sure enough, two weeks later she got a letter: "Dear Serafina, Can you let me have fifty bucks? Yours, Fafnir."

Whimpering with ecstasy, she ran to the bank and withdrew the money and mailed it to him. From then on, she got the same request every week, and as a result, she became very well acquainted with Ralph T. Involute, teller of the West Linotype Bank and Trust Co., and their friendship ripened into love, and today they are happily married and live in Stamen, Oregon, where Ralph is in the extruded molasses game and Serafina is a hydrant.

'It Seemed Like an Eternity' For 2 Unauthorized Students

A young man in a ROTC uniform walked casually down the third-floor corridor of the Finley Center at 3:35 Friday afternoon. As he passed the elevator door, he heard "strange muffled noises."

"I stopped and listened for a while," the stroller later reported. "Then I distinguished the words: 'Help! Help! We're trapped in the elevator.'"

Listening through the triangular glass panes on the elevator door, the cadet observed that the lift was stuck between the second and third floors.

He shouted encouragement to the prisoners, "Don't sweat," and then hurried off to hail a Burns Guard.

Crowd Gathers

By the time the guard arrived, accompanied by a Buildings and Grounds maintenance man, a group of curious onlookers had gathered outside the elevator, to find out what all the commotion was about.

A few students carried on a conversation with the elevator inhabitants:

"Who are you?"

"We're two students who are unauthorized to use the elevator."

"How's the air down there?"

"Don't worry, we can still breathe. Only get us out of this damned thing."

Longer Key Does It

Finally the attendant and the Burns Guard broke through the crowd. The attendant struggled vainly to open the door with a long key. After a while, a taller maintenance man arrived—with a longer key. He turned the trick. The youths crawled out, assisted by the guard.

The onlookers gasped as the liberated youths, dressed in brown leather boots and khaki fatigues dusted themselves off.

"No, we won't state our names. No, we're not from ROTC. We we can't tell you what we're doing here—that would help our enemies. No, we're never going to use that contraption again. It seemed like an eternity in there . . ."

Cadets Turn Cops, Halt Traffic Tie-up

Six ROTC students waving police clubs cleared up a 1500-car traffic jam on the Major Deegan Expressway Sunday.

The cadets, members of the Association of the United States Army, were returning from a weekend bivouac in the Shawangunk Mountains near New Paltz, N.Y., when they were tied up in traffic just below the Yankee Stadium. The Giant-Cardinal football game had just ended.

Impatient, the cadets—Herbert Wifling '61, Robert Croghan '63, David Jauvits '63, Andrew Wnu-kowski '63, and Stephen Zakaluk '64 — seized the clubs they had used for guard duty in camp and got out of their bus.

They guided most of the post-game traffic from 161 Street to the 138 Street exit. In twenty minutes the tie-up was ended.

"They didn't give us any trouble," said Croghan. "For instance, one fellow edged too close to me. I told him if he came one inch further he'd break my leg and I'd break his windshield. That stopped him."

Upperclassmen May be Used To Assist Orientation Staff

A plan to transform the crowded Freshman Orientation classes into small, intimate groups is being considered by Prof. Richard Brotman (Student Life), supervisor of the Orientation program.

The program would use trained upperclassmen to assist the present staff of five in teaching Orientation classes.

This would turn the classes into small discussion groups, allowing students to get individual attention. All freshmen who were interviewed said they would prefer asking questions of upperclassmen.

However, plans for a training program and a means of recruiting the student-teachers have not yet been discussed officially, Professor Brotman said. The program now consists of lectures by the Orientation staff, talks by alumni of the College, and panel discussions by student leaders.

"The students who teach Orientation classes will not be paid," Professor Brotman said, "but they might earn course credits."

A freshman orientation class last Wednesday supported President Gallagher's accusations against Observation Post by more than two to one.

The class of 360 was conducted by Mr. Jerome Gold (Student Life).

About half acknowledged that Dr. Gallagher was justified in accusing OP, twenty per cent held that he was not, and another twenty per cent was undecided.

However, some students expressed their concern that the President's charges would have a negative effect on employment of the College's graduates.

of the season, despite an injured back. Scarlett scored the Beaver goal at 18:06 of the initial quarter on a perfectly placed twenty-yard boot past RPI goalie George Lee's outstretched hands and into the right corner of the goal.

And Wolfgang Scherer who took over for the injured Eloy Periera in the center half-back post and in Karlin's words "did a magnificent job."

And Bill Petratos who clipped many a Trojan scoring threat in the bud from his left fullback position.

And Karl Racevskis who despite numerous injuries played a fine all-around game at half-back.

Karlin said that these were the men "who were responsible for the victory. The others were just carried along."

"This is the toughest game we've played this year," Karlin continued. "Thank God we scored early. If we hadn't, I don't know whether we could have won it."

For at the beginning of the second half, Houtkruyer was kicked in the stomach by RPI's Jose Stephens who was attempting to score on a rebound. The impact was heard in the stands seventy yards away.

Houtkruyer crumpled to the ground and it was feared that he might not be able to continue. But he recovered quickly and just two minutes later he made a save that proved he was as good as

Booters Beware

The Brooklyn College soccer team defeated Hunter College 7-1 last Saturday. Earlier in the season they beat Pratt Institute, the Met Conference champions, 1-0. The Beavers face the Kingsmen on Saturday.

Riflers Top Newark For Second Victory

The College's rifle team made it two in a row last Friday night when they defeated the Newark College of Engineering 1435-1345 at Lewisohn Stadium.

The meet was originally scheduled to be a 3-team affair but the third team, Brooklyn Poly Evening Division, apparently forgot about the meet.

Don Nunns led the Beavers with 291 and John Hirth and James McCusker were second and third, respectively.

All five of the Beaver scorers beat Newark's top man, Charles Steen, who finished with 275.

Harriers Nip Iona, 28-31, For First Win of Season

The College's cross country team finally lived up to coach Francisco Castro's expectations, last Saturday and scored its first victory of the season against Iona College 28-31.

Before the season Castro had said that "although I don't expect to take many first places, I expect to win by placing a majority of the first eight finishers."

So although three of the first four finishers were from Iona the Beavers won the meet by placing the next six men.

Co-captain John Rohde led the Beavers in second place behind the Gaels' James Paolino. The winner's time was 29:53.

The next Beaver runner to cross the finish line was Paul Lamprinos in fifth place. Lamprinos who has been the Lavender's leading runner this season ran with an injured leg.

"He was just wonderful," coach Francisco Castro said. "Finishing fifth place without having practiced all week was really great."

Castro also praised sixth place finisher Bill Hill for "beating (Josue) Delgado" who finished seventh.

Co-captain Mel Siegal, George Pelletiere and Joel Saland were the final Lavender finishers.

Dig Jazz? Like Money? Campus Rep Wanted for Jazz Fete

We're going to hold a gala intercollegiate championship jazz bash December 16-23 at the world-famous Grossinger Country Club, Grossinger, N. Y. The nation's leading college jazz aggregations will compete for valuable prizes, including a week's engagement at Basin Street, and a recording session. Besides the exciting jazz contest, there'll be dancing to top American and Latin bands, fashion shows, and other highlights. The Grossinger outdoor artificial ice-skating rink, toboggan, new indoor swimming pool, ski slopes, and other great facilities will be available.

We're looking for an individual or organization to be our representative at CCNY. We'll supply posters and place ads. We'd like the representative to help promote the intercollegiate jazz championship on campus at CCNY and take reservations. This is an excellent chance for you to make some extra money. Please write or phone
