Physics PhD's Foreseen Here

By Larry Grossman

A Master's Degree in Physics will be offered here by the College as possibly "the first in a full graduate program leading to a Ph.D.," Prof. Henry Semat (Chmn. Physics) announced Tuesday. It would be the first Ph.D. program offered in the College's history.

The Master's program "hopeful" will start next fall, but will probably "be" the following Professor Semat said. The program will depend on the amount of time needed to obtain the approval of the Faculty Council, Dean of Graduate Studies and Board of Higher Education. The Ph.D. program will start whenever there is a science building ready," the chairman

Other science department men said that they would institute doctorate programs if a new science building with adequate room were constructed.

Our present faculty would be able of undertaking a graduate program, and we would be interested in such a program if facilities were provided," said Prof. Edward P. Sayles. (Chmn. Biology). "Nothing at present indicates that this will be possible until a new building is built." According to Prof. Nathan S. Baum (Chmn. Chemistry), the department is physically unable of undertaking a Ph.D. program until a new building is constructed.

The graduate program in Physics would be offered at the regular fee of fifteen dollars per credit and would be offered during the day and evening.

One of the chief reasons for instituting this program is to attract physics students to the College, Professor Semat said. "It's very difficult to get competent young men to come here" under present conditions, he added.

Funds have not been requested for a preliminary study of a science building in this year's budget.

Gallagher Speech

The Campus is sponsoring a speech by President Gallagher on "The Not-So-Silent Generation," to be delivered Nov. 3 at 1 in the Finley Center Grand Ballroom.

College May Get Music & Art Bldg.

PRESIDENT GALLAGHER

The High School of Music and Art building may become available to the College—in 1965.

In a report issued last August, the Board of Education announced its intention of moving the high school to the Lincoln Square area, but not before the High School of Commerce is first relocated.

Although the College cannot yet request the building situated between North and South Campus for its own use, President Gallagher expressed confidence yesterday that the College will get the building when the move is completed.

The vacated high school could provide the College with the Speech and Drama building the President has been seeking for several years. A proposed allocation for construction of a Speech and Drama building for the College was turned down by the City Planning Commission last week.

Mrs. Roosevelt, Senator Javits To Speak Today on Campaign

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt and Sen. Jacob K. Javits (Rep., N.Y.) will bring the national presidential campaign to the Finley Center Grand Ballroom at 12:45 today.

The speakers will discuss "The Main Issues of the Campaign" at a meeting sponsored by the American Association of University Professors.

Prof. Alois X. Schmidt (Chmn. Chemical Engineering), President of the College's chapter of the Association, predicted the discussion "will prove to be as intelligent a discussion of the present campaign as we can get, and probably a better one than we hear on the Nixon-Kennedy debates."

Senator Javits has been actively campaigning to swing liberal votes to the Republican ticket. Mrs. Roosevelt is supporting the Democratic candidate.

The former first lady will receive the College's John H. Finley Medal at the eightieth annual AAUP dinner at the Hotel Astor, November 2.

The award is presented yearly for outstanding service to the City. Leonard Bernstein received the medal in 1959.

Gallagher Challenges OP To 'Put Up or Shut Up'

President Gallagher yesterday challenged Observation Post to "either put up or shut up" about its allegation that he is guilty of slander.

OP made the charge in an open letter Sept. 29 to the General Faculty and called for that body's censure of Dr. Gallagher.

Peter Steinberg '61, OP editor, replied to the President by saying, "it's actually Gallagher who should 'put up'." Steinberg says that Dr. Gallagher has offered insufficient proof to back up his charges that the newspaper was "Marxist-slanted" and Steinberg was a Communist sympathizer.

The editor said he was still looking into the possibility of legal action against the President. "I'm not going to rush because of his recent statements," Steinberg added.

Dr. Gallagher made the challenge at his press conference, where for an hour he debated with members of the student press on the validity of his charges against OP and Steinberg.

The President, however, would not be baited into giving further information or clarification on the subject of his controversy with OP. His remarks were punctuated with the refrain, "I stand on my statement," referring to the 18-page report he issued Monday.

Blood Bank

The College's Blood Bank Council requests each campus organization to send two representatives to its first meeting of the term, today at 1 in 307 Finley.

The Bank makes blood available free of charge to students and faculty members, and their families.

SC Votes To Invite Pres., OP

By Fran Pike

Student Council last night invited President Gallagher and Peter Steinberg '61 to a hearing next Wednesday on the controversy between the President and Observation Post. The vote was 16-0-1.

Council also invited any other interested members of the OP editorial board to the meeting.

The first order of business then will be discussion of Dr. Gallagher's 18-page statement on OP, and a report by the Student Government Select Committee. The Committee investigated the President's charge last month that Marxist-oriented students dominated the newspaper. These topics were brought up at last night's meeting, but Council voted to table them.

Ira Reiss '61, who proposed both motions to table—as well as the invitations—said he did so to "allow Council sufficient time to study the two reports." Two-thirds of the Council members said they had not read President Gallagher's document. The report was not made easily available until today when copies were placed in the Cohen Library.

Reiss also expressed the hope that "more facts on the issue will be brought to light" by the presence of Dr. Gallagher and the OP editor at the Council meeting next week.

Freshmen Don't Care to be Oriented

By Art Bloom

If a lower freshman were asked his opinion of Freshman Orientation while such a class was in progress, he would most likely answer, "It's all right," and go back to doing his homework.

If questioned after the session, he might give a more direct response: "It's all right, but I'd rather do my homework in the study lounge."

Another freshman, who had been listening to the lecture, might say: "I would like to ask a question, but not in front of 350 people."

Prof. Richard Brotman (Student Life), coordinator of the Freshman Orientation program argues that with 2,100 freshman and only five Orientation instructors, "we try to lead them by the head rather than by the hand."

Catholic Frat Denied Charter Over Discriminatory Clause

The controversy over the right of a fraternity to practice religious restriction flared anew Monday, when the General Faculty Committee on Student Activities rejected an all-Catholic fraternity's latest appeal for renewal of its charter.

The nine-member committee ruled that only a club classified as a "religious, political, or social action" group had the right to restrict its members on any basis other than sex. The fraternity, Phi Kappa Theta, wants a clause in its charter limiting membership to students who subscribe to Catholic dogma.

The GFSCA is headed by Dean Daniel F. Brophy (Student Life).

Andy McGowan '62, president of PKT, insisted that "our case is just" and felt he could successfully appeal the decision to the Board of Higher Education. He refused comment on whether the fraternity would appeal, however.

The group has contended that there is no BHE ruling preventing a campus organization from limiting its membership. Besides, "our fraternity doesn't discriminate against any specific religion, or any religion in general," said McGowan.

DEAN DANIEL F. BROPHY headed committee which rejected charter of all-Catholic frat.

The PKT charter was originally turned down by the Inter-Fraternal Council last March because of the clause which it called "discriminatory." Subsequent appeals to the Student Government Executive Committee, Student Council, and the Student Faculty Committee on Student Activities were also rejected.

Problems of Outer Space

Free speech has once again become an issue at the College. The Department of Student Life decided not to allow a rally on the South Campus lawn last Thursday protesting President Gallagher's "witchhunting" tactics. But there is little doubt that the reasons offered have been contrived.

There was no reason to bar the Eugene V. Debs Club from holding its meeting on the lawn, but the DSL says it doesn't want to see a recurrence of the student activity which marked the 1930's—especially if this activity is directed at the College's administration.

Of course, the Department of Student Life isn't going to come out in the open and admit this. It prefers to remain behind the security of its own red tape. By placing obstacles in the student's path at every turn, the DSL can, to a too-large degree, control student activities here. The department's specific function, admittedly, is to control these activities, but it does not have the right to stifle them.

The DSL did not actually tell the Debs Club that there could be no rally. This would have made it too obvious. Instead, the DSL denied it the best site available for the protest, the South Campus lawn. The club, if it had chosen to do so, could have met indoors. But this would have been defeating its purpose, even before it began, as all the large indoor facilities where it could attract the audience it needed were already taken. Meanwhile, the lawn was used for touch tackle football games and "beach parties" by students no doubt content in the knowledge that they would not be a "captive audience," as Dean James S. Peace put it. From 12-2 on Thursdays, the lawn should be available for clubs.

No individual member of the DSL seems willing to take full responsibility for the decision to keep the lawn clear of student protests.

Dean Peace said that he would ask the Student Faculty Committee on Student Activities to once and for all set forth a policy on the use of the lawn as a meeting ground. We hope that the SFCSA remembers the role of the College as a guardian of academic freedom and allows any kind of political activity to take place on the lawn.

Problems of Inner Space

It is unfortunate that a College of such high stature as ours should provide facilities in the sciences often inferior to those of many high schools. As Prof. Chester Kremer (Chemistry), pointed out, we are only cheating ourselves if we cannot provide proper training in this field, which, more than any other, characterizes the era in which we live.

A science building would benefit the College in many ways: it would permit a doctorate program—now being held up primarily by lack of space—which would not only enhance the College's reputation, but would also make it eligible for Federal funds for further expansion; it would help relieve the problem of attracting qualified young instructors who are interested in research and it would make available to students the latest techniques and equipment.

We do not deny the need for a field house or a drama building, but we question the priority which they have been given. The laboratory is the scientist's tool; without it there is no science.

The reputation of this College was built primarily in the sciences; we hope this reputation will no longer be allowed to wither away by default in the dust and the falling plaster of ancient facilities.

Letters

To the Editor:

Elliot J. Levi '61 may "applaud the action taken by the College administration in refusing to permit the Eugene V. Debs Club to hold a rally on the campus," but even if I agreed with him, I could not applaud his reasons.

Mr. Levi suggests that the present differences between Dr. Gallagher and Observation Post be settled in an "adult manner." Mr. Levi's letter implies an equating of adulthood with some sort of shuffling, soft-voiced capitulation, accomplishing nothing except keeping the students in ignorance of the situation.

Mr. Levi talks contemptuously of a group of students "on the City College campus who deem themselves the upholders of political freedom. They implement their ideologies by screaming protests and charges of McCarthyism." From this and the rest of the letter, it seems Mr. Levi wishes us to believe that it is in reality he and his ilk who are our actual upholders of political freedom. If an organization with Mr. Levi's views were attacked by the administration the way some people and organizations have been attacked here, not only would there be screams of protest, but the charges of McCarthyism would change to cries of fascism.

As for defamation of the College through a "small, poorly-organized group of loudmouths," this will not happen. Our reputation is made by the over-all performance of our students. The administration, and Mr. Levi, must realize that we, the entire College, are responsible not to the reputation—but to our own integrity both individually and collectively. (to use a dangerous word). And this includes respecting the freedom that we may express ourselves freely, publicly, and without fear of persecution.

Hillel Holds Debate On Rockwell Today

Hillel will sponsor a debate today on whether George Lincoln Rockwell should be allowed to speak in public.

Rockwell, a member of the American Nazi Party, was denied permission to speak in Union Square last July 4 by Mayor Wagner.

Mrs. Judith Vladeck, a legal expert for the American Civil Liberties Union, will argue that Rockwell has the right to be heard. Herbert Spector, a representative of the Anti-Defamation League of New York, will take the negative view.

The debate will be held at Hillel House, 475 West 140 Street, at 12:30. Prof. Gerald M. Pomper (Gov't.) will moderate.

'Vector' Honored

Vector, the College's engineering magazine, last week received a first place award for an editorial which appeared in its May, 1960 issue.

The award was presented by the Engineering College Magazine Association, a national organization of fifty colleges, at its annual convention held at Ohio State University.

The editorial, entitled "Better Mousetrap Society?" analyzed the differences between American and Russian technology. It was written by Steve Shepard '61, former editor of Vector.

Dear Dr. Frood: Here is a controversial bridge hand, played at a recent college tournament. The contract was six no-trump. Some say declarer should have played the Fiskill Convention, squeezing West while end-playing East. Others, however, say a straight dummy reversal and a trump coup would bring home the contract. What would you do with a hand like this?

No Trump

DEAR NO TRUMP: In our club, successful play would require slapping the Jack, whistling at the Queen and quickly saying "Sir Hickum, Dinkum, Fuzzy, Duster" when the one-eyed King is played.

Booters Whitewash LIU, 6-0 For Third Conference Victory

By Vic Grossfeld

The rain was bad, the refereeing was bad, and the Long Island University soccer team was none too good, so the booters took a 6-0 decision yesterday at the Blackbirds' field.

It was the third Met Conference victory of the season for the Beavers who, disgusted by the rain and the refs, merely went through the motions en route to the victory.

The College's goalie, Andre Houtkruyer, seemed, if anything, unhappy after achieving his first shutout of the season. "The game was a mess," he explained.

The atmosphere wasn't conducive to displays of spirit and there was none of the back-slapping that usually follows a Beaver goal.

The most notable display of emotions occurred in the second quarter on a save by Houtkruyer. LIU's Steve Knopka and Gary Carroll came rushing in for a possible rebound. In the process, they knownst to the officials, touched the ball with his hands. This should have resulted in a penalty kick for LIU.

In the first half, the Beavers played a listless brand of soccer. Although they scored two goals, their attack was not up to par.

The first goal was scored by Nik Wohlgenuth on a pass from Aldo Gambardella at 7:32 of the first period.

The Beavers made it 2-0 in the second period on a beautiful pass play. Vito Nedeljko brought the ball downfield into LIU territory. He saw Gambardella cutting inside his man and gave Aldo a lead pass which he shot past LIU goalie Harvey Kalem.

The Beavers continued to score at the rate of one goal per period when Nik Wohlgenuth added his second goal of the afternoon in the third quarter.

The booters turned the game into a rout in the final period by scoring three goals—two by Wolfgang Scherer and the other by Nedeljko.

Both teams were aided on defense by the presence of a size-knocked Houtkruyer down, so Andre got up and punched one of them.

Players from both benches rushed onto the field but the referees, in a show of alertness, quickly prevented a brawl.

Coach Harry Karlin was happy over the win but dissatisfied with the refereeing—or the lack of it. "Those LIU boys were playing the man instead of the ball and the refs weren't calling anything on them," he said.

But in the third quarter poor officiating helped the Beavers. Co-captain John Costalas had the ball deep in his own territory. He passed to Eloy Periera who, un-
