Report Due Soon On New President

By Alma Kadragic

A report containing the names of candidates for the presidency of the College will be submitted to the Board of Higher Education in several weeks.

Charles Tuttle, chairman of BHE's special committee to select a president for the College. The eight-man panel will submit a report sometime "after election day."

The Board's chairman, Dr. Gus Rosenberg, said that he wasn't sure when the report would be made but declared that "when the committee does make a report to the BHE, it will submit names" of possible presidents. He added that he didn't know whether the report would contain "one name or more."

Both he and Dr. Tuttle refused to disclose the names of men who are being considered.

Judge Simon H. Rifkind, a Committee member, said that a "good number" of candidates have been interviewed. He declined to name any of the persons under consideration but said that the Committee "has been working intensively, holding

Council Votes On Own Proposal in Club Files

IRWIN PRONIN

The Student Council last night rejected an amendment to its new constitution which would explicitly give Student Government jurisdiction over all files pertaining to student organizations.

This power, which is indirectly given to SG under the existing constitution but has been restricted by the General Faculty, would permit "groups to become permanent and regular organizations without the filing of membership lists, cover sheets, or any similar documents."

The amendment was proposed by Leonard Machtinger '62, an Executive Vice President. SG President Irwin Pronin '62 said the amendment was too specific and two poorly worded to warrant inclusion in the new constitution.

Permanent Ban Hinted As New Speaker Policy

By Sue Solet

The Administrative Council will announce its decision on speaker policy today, and indications point to a new speaker ban.

At his press conference yesterday, Acting President Harry N. Rivlin said the Council's statement would be available this afternoon to be made public tomorrow. Asked for his comments on a possible student strike in the event a new ban was imposed, Dr. Rivlin said:

"I will say only this: I hope that students read the entire statement before coming to a decision."

Members of the Council refused to confirm or deny reports that a new ban would be imposed. However, Dr. Morris Meister, president of Bronx Community College, said: "I didn't vote on it [a new ban]." Dr. Rivlin's remark, and Dr.

Meister's tacit implication that a new ban had indeed been voted by the Council Tuesday night, led observers to conclude that a restriction of outside speakers was probable.

How restrictive and binding the new policy would be is a matter of speculation. Dr. Rivlin remarked that the best policy would be one that stated general guides but allowed the individual colleges some latitude.

However, the Acting President refused to give any specific information about the scope of the policy. He said it would deal with the question of Communist speakers, but might have applications to matters "far beyond that."

The only definite thing about the statement is that it will be long. "It's long enough to fill all four pages of your newspaper," Dr. Rivlin said.

Asked whether the Council's decision was unanimous—as it was in the case of the temporary ban two weeks ago—the Acting President made a distinction between "unanimity" and "wholehearted acceptance." He suggested that differing opinions of the Council's members would make "wholehearted acceptance" impossible.

However, Dr. Rivlin said the meetings at least once a week.

Since the resignation last spring of Dr. Buell G. Gallagher, the College has been without a President. Dr. Harry N. Rivlin accepted the BHE's appointment as Acting President with the understanding that he would step down as soon as the BHE had found a replacement.

Class of '62

The Class of '62 will hold elections to fill vacancies in its class council today from 4 to 7 in 350 Finley. The vacancies are President, Secretary, Treasurer and three class representatives.

• Poll Shows 86% Oppose Ban •

Nearly four of every five students at the College are opposed to the City University's temporary ban on Communist speakers, a survey indicated yesterday. If the ban is made permanent, 86 per cent would be opposed, the poll showed.

In addition, nearly 38 per cent of those polled said they would support a student strike here if the ban is made permanent.

The survey was conducted by The Campus. Questionnaires were distributed at random to 125 students at north and south campuses.

Students were asked whether they had seen the Student Government petitions against the ban which were first circulated last Friday. Sixty-eight per cent said they had. However, of these only half said they had signed the petitions.

The poll showed that the juniors, more than any other class, favor a boycott of classes. Forty-three per cent of the juniors said they would support a strike. Only 29 per cent of the freshman class would support it, while both the sophomore and senior classes showed about 35 per cent in favor.

Students who had seen but not signed the SG petitions were asked to explain why they chose not to. Most declined to answer. Some of the responses of those who did follow:

"Our society has turned me into a coward who will not stand up for principles in fear of future recriminations."

"It is necessary to protect certain impressionable people from forms of propaganda."

"I don't particularly care one way or the other."

SG Framers Must Decide Who Gets How Much of What?

By Vic Grossfeld

Reorganization has a long and successful history in this country.

In fact, the United States began with reorganization way back in 1787 in Philadelphia when the Articles of Confederation were reorganized.

In an attempt to follow this precedent, delegates to a constitution convention meet every Wednesday in 121 Finley to put the finishing touches on a new Student Government constitution.

But whereas the American Constitution differed sharply with the document which had preceded it, the new SG constitution will, in all probability, be strikingly similar to the present document.

Why all the hullabaloo about reorganization? Because the present constitution denotes the powers of SG in theory only, and not in practice.

Third and last of a series.

In the words of SG President Irwin Pronin '62, although it has all the provisions for governing, "it does not govern."

It does not govern because various committees and appeals bodies have been set up around it which tend to rob it of all its potential authority.

It does not govern because it has

LEFKOWITZ WOULD HELP COLLEGE

A spokesman for Attorney General Louis J. Lefkowitz said yesterday that the mayoral candidate would give high priority to a new science building for the College if he is elected. The spokesman added, however, that this is not a flat guarantee to the College of a new building. Mr. Lefkowitz, who inspected Baskerville Hall on Monday, was impressed with the poor science facilities here. "What Mr. Lefkowitz will do if he is elected is first go over the city budget to see if he can cut out needless appropriations," the spokesman said. "Money would then be allocated to the College where it is needed most."

CU Excludes 2 Schools From Doctoral Programs

The School of Technology and the Baruch School have been excluded for at least a year from the City University's plans for doctoral programs. Nine liberal arts programs are under consideration.

Dr. Mina Rees, Dean of Graduate Studies for the University and chairman of its Graduate Council, said Tuesday that the exclusion was due to "pressures of time." She said that studies of the two school's plans could not be prepared before the end of December, when the Board of Higher Education must submit its final budget requests to the State Board of Regents.

The Graduate Council's action has prompted alumni from the two excluded schools to draft resolutions that criticize it as "carrying overtones of 'action without consultation'."

The Alumni Association's Board of Directors last night voted to approve the resolutions. They were turned over to the association's college affairs subcommittee with the understanding that they be accepted.

The resolutions also call for the reestablishment of Technology and Baruch representation on the Graduate Council. At present, the Council is composed of one representative from each of the four four-year municipal colleges, Dean Rees

Editorial Policy Is Determined by a Majority Vote of the Managing Board.

Not Enough Dotted Lines

Student Government, which has often raised a hue and cry against student apathy, is guilty of its own, by failing to distribute properly the petitions against the speaker ban. Of the students polled by THE CAMPUS, an overwhelming majority opposed the ban, yet only 32 percent of the students had seen the SG petition attacking the October 10 ruling of the Administrative Council of Municipal College Presidents.

The petitions were prepared by SG but unfortunately its attempt to rally student support ceased at that point. The distribution of the 200 sheets was left to students with no central direction from SG. If SG wishes the students to act, it must at least provide the impetus. If we who oppose the ban cannot coordinate ourselves, our cause is doomed to failure.

With the possibility of a permanent speaker ban—and the new indications point all too clearly to this ominous step—we strongly urge that SG take a commanding role to insure that the voice of the student body will emerge strongly and decisively.

We Just Want the Facts

It may be that any person has a legal right to refuse to answer questions for publication. However, a person in a position of public and student trust has a moral responsibility to cooperate with the press. Mr. Aaron Zweifach, Business Manager of the College, is obviously not concerned with such a responsibility. He has continually refused to answer any and all questions by student reporters. When students start wondering for instance, where the $20,000 profit of their non-profit cafeteria went to, and Mr. Zweifach refuses to talk about it, things look pretty bad. Bad for the cafeteria, worse for Mr. Zweifach and worst of all for the students.

Meanwhile, we are given to understand that the Student Faculty Cafeteria Committee may meet sometime this term. That would be nice. Especially since a whole lot of time and mimeograph paper went into meetings of the SFCC and the Student Government Cafeteria Committee last semester. Recommendations came out of those meetings, but it appears that no concrete action was taken.

Are we going to have to wait until the end of the term to get some results for our efforts and some answers to our questions? Traditionally speaking, the answer would seem to be yes. It's about time this tradition were broken.

Doctoral Deletions

It is unfortunate that the planning of the doctoral programs in two such important schools in the City University as Technology and Baruch has been delayed by the Graduate Council.

We realize that the step may have been necessary to allow the committees of the City University to concentrate their limited time and energy in planning the nine liberal arts graduate programs.

However, we question the wisdom of excluding these two schools from sitting on the Graduate Council. Certainly their presence can only serve to add dimension and perspective to the Council's deliberations. In what we feel is a justifiable reaction, the Alumni from the two schools have drafted a protest to the Council calling for the reestablishment of the representation of their schools.

We hope that the Graduate Council will see fit to review their decision and reinstate the Technology and Baruch schools on the Council. For certainly at this stage of the game there can be no room for dissent among groups dedicated to high educational goals.

Letters

KISSIN' COUSINS?

Editor's note: J. Megerman '63 sent us a recent editorial from the University of Connecticut's student newspaper, the Connecticut Daily Campus. Megerman included the observation that "I guess we're not the only ones with 'lily-white' minds that must be protected." An excerpt from the editorial, which was reprinted from the Massachusetts Collegian, follows.

Farce At Uconn

In a move to exert complete and dictatorial control over the efforts, funds, and minds of the student body at the University of Connecticut, the Uconn Administration has made the Board of Trustees the publishers of the campus daily newspaper, given the Board complete control over the radio station, and refused to recognize the Student Senate, its constitution, and its lawyer. As of today, freedom of speech is a farce at Connecticut State University.

Reorganization

a reputation of being an ineffective body which can do little for its constituents.

The framers of the new SG Constitution hope that reorganization can set students well along the road to self-government. They argue that General Faculty approval of the Constitution will mean a vote of confidence for self-government by students. It will mean, simply, that the GF approves of SG and the powers which are stated in its constitution.

The students hope that GF approval will strike the final death blow to the paternalistic practices of such organizations as the Student Faculty Committee, on Student Activities and the Department of Student Life.

They hope to weld SG into the meaningful and effective body which it was originally conceived to be.

Naturally, the structure of an organization will have an effect on its ability to function. This is why an amending process is now taking place.

The major conflict in the structure of the new body is the amount of power, if any, which will be given to representatives of federations of clubs and organizations.

This, along with the role, if any, of a student judiciary, appears to be the major issue in the amending process. An additional issue which will be debated is the term of office for Student Council representatives and officers.

Pronin's time-table calls for the constitution to be approved at the November 8 meeting of Council. It will then be distributed to the entire student body and will be brought to a student referendum about a week later.

If the constitution is approved by the students, it will be submitted to the GF, probably in its December meeting.

The students' fate will then lie in their hands.

Speaker Ban

statement contained enough areas of agreement to make it acceptable to all the Council members.

The Acting President emphatically denied that there was any political basis for the Council's action. He cited two facts: no groups outside the College had written to him, and the Council was announcing its decision before Election Day.

By Vic Grossfeld

First I'd like to say that I believe that America is the greatest place in the world and that democracy and free speech and the amendment are things which I believe in with all my heart. My country of ours is great and it must be preserved at any cost. You said at any cost. And that's why the reaction to this thing I'm reading about . . . this speaker ban . . . is really bothering me. I've been reading The Campus and OP and I also been speaking to some of the fresh kids in Student Government. And you know what I think that every one of these kids is a wise-guy pinko college. These damn pinkos got the audacity to come out right in the middle of this great American city and say that Communists should be allowed to speak at this great American institution.

Now let's look at this speaker ban carefully and impartially. I live in the United States of America. A great nation under God stands for truth and justice. This land of liberty is based upon a proposition that all men are equal and that we all have the inalienable rights to free speech and free assembly. Now along comes this stinking commie Ben Davis and says that he wants to speak. Now this guy preaching COMMUNISM. So like the great American that he is, President Harold R. Stoke of Queens College upholds the very foundation upon which this country is based by not allowing this Red spread his ugly, vile, poisonous ideas onto the campus of a fine American university.

And what gratitude does he get? Why these idiot punk kids, who have just been saved from hearing an ungodly and un-American id start yelling and screaming that this Davis creep should be allowed to speak. Now I believe that these kids should be allowed to express their ideas and opinions. It's just that I don't want these damn Commies to be allowed to speak. What right has this Red got to press ideas which don't agree with the one that I, and every God-fearing, upstanding American citizen, must have. I don't want to hear these rotten ideas and I will not allow anybody else to hear them. Especially now. Because we are in a war for survival and we got to use every means at our command to stop anything which is not a hundred per cent American from being heard.

Tech, Baruch PhD's Put Off MCS Casts 'Guys and Dolls'

The Graduate Council was established earlier this term. The Baruch and Technology schools, however, had been represented on a temporary coordinating committee established last spring to work out preliminary plans for graduate studies.

The University's plans for next year did not draw as much criticism for the excluded school's deans as it did from alumni. Dean Emanuel Saxe (Baruch) indicated he agreed generally with the alumni resolution. However, he added that he was "disappointed but not dismayed" by the Council's action.

Dean Saxe said "we know we are going to get a PhD program eventually, but we're disappointed at the late start."

Dean William Allan (Technology) also expressed "disappointment" at the exclusion of his school but said he felt it had not been done with "prejudice." He added that the school's large budget plans, about one-third of the University's total request, might have discouraged the Council from considering it immediately.

Meanwhile, two outside groups are studying the graduate needs of the two schools. They are expected to report to the BHE next year.

In the second half, the team stepped up its passes to the forward line and scored three goals. Solney wasn't present at the Brockport game.

"Everyone wants to go to St. Louis," forward Earle Scarlett sums it up. "I don't like to be overconfident, but there is every indication that we'll get a berth."

"One thing we have that I don't think any other team has," said halfback Noe Arcas, "is six substitutes who can come in without weakening the team."

The Beaver bench, the players believe, is the factor which gives them an edge over the Met teams. Whether it will help them against New York University and the powerful upstate teams, which they may have to play to become one of the four St. Louis-bound finalists, remains to be seen.

Twenty eager musical-comedy hopefuls gathered in 239 Finley last Friday for the first casting of the Musical Comedy Society's show, "Guys and Dolls." Performances will be given on March 2, 3 and 4. The aspirants auditioned before director Dick Nagel '59, music directors Larry Lawrence '62 and Stan Persky '62, and producer Elaine Boderman '62. Miss Boderman, who is president of MCS predicted "a very successful show — financially and otherwise." Final casting will take place tomorrow at 5.

Booters Expect Improvement To Carry Them to St. Louis

AA to Discuss 2 Innovations

The Athletic Association Board is meeting today at 12 to discuss the implementation of two innovations in its program. They are: Having freshman and varsity coaches speak to freshman orientation classes and printing throw-aways publicizing athletic events.

The College's soccer team will take the Metropolitan championship and get a national playoff bid as well — ask any player on the Beaver squad.

For instance, fullback Wolfgang Scherer will tell you that "our offense is strong enough right now to outplay any defense in the state."

Although this could be considered a reckless statement in view of the Beavers' 3-0 loss to Brockport, the lanky defenseman stands on it and his teammates are similarly convinced.

On the whole, the Beavers feel they are ready to defeat all their Met opponents—including Brooklyn this Saturday, and Pratt and Adelphi—and to go on to the nationals. This, despite coach Harry Karlin's statement last week that his team is too inexperienced for the NCAA. The booters feel that their defense, badly weakened by the absence of center halfback Neville Parker, has been adequately tightened up by Parker's replacement, Tom Sieberg. After watching Sieberg disrupt Hunter attacks last week, Karlin made his assignment permanent.

The Beaver forward line is continuing to emphasize shooting in practice sessions. It took only eight shots against Brockport, but aimed 21 at the Hunter goal.

New plays, to create more scoring opportunities, are being tried. For one thing, rather than attacking either on the left or right sides exclusively, the forwards are working out cross-field plays whereby both wings feed both inside men and the center forward.

The Henry Windischmann-Sylvan Sidi scoring combination worked well against Hunter. Sidi, temporarily playing inside right, gave two lead passes to Windischmann which the right wing promptly booted into the Hunter net. "We look for each other now," Henry said. "In the beginning, I didn't even know his name."

The players agree that most of the credit for their improvement goes to freshman coach Les Solney, who is an expert on diagnosing what the team does wrong.

Solney took the Beavers aside

'62 CORVAIR MONZA

NEW FACE, SAME SPORTING HEART

We might as well tell you straight off: Corvair's the car for the driving enthusiast. Think that lets you out? Maybe. Maybe not.

Until you've driven one, you really can't say for sure, because Corvair's kind of driving is like no other in the land. The amazing air-cooled rear engine sees to that. You swing around curves flat as you please, in complete control. You whip through the sticky spots other cars should keep out of in the first place. (Especially this year, now that you can get Positraction as an extra-cost option.) You stop smoothly, levelly with Corvair's beautifully balanced, bigger brakes.

And Corvair's found other new ways to please you this year. A forced-air heater and defroster are standard equipment on all coupes, sedans and both Monza and 700 Station Wagons. So are dual sunshades and front-door armrests and some other goodies. You'll note some new styling, inside and out. Nice. And safety-belt installation is easier, too, and cheaper. Another extra-cost option well worth considering is the heavy-duty front and rear suspension; it turns a Corvair into a real tiger.

So you can see we haven't really done much to Corvair this year. Why on earth should we? If this car, just as she is, can't make a driving enthusiast out of you, better take a cab.

A New World of Worth

And here's America's only thoroughbred sports car, the '62 CORVETTE. We warn you: If you drive a Corvette after your first sampling of a Corvair, you may well end up a two-car man. And who could blame you?
