Shelly Sachs to Run for SG Presidency

Independent Slate Head Has Liberal Viewpoint

By Joshua Berger
Former Councilman Shelly Sachs yesterday announced his candidacy for Independent Government president on the recently formed Independent Party. Sachs said that his party next would "try to present a liberal, moderate program by getting councilmen to compromise on legislation rather than to bicker over details whenever an issue arises." In this way," he continued, "any councilman could criticize another councilman for not doing a good job without fear of the political consequences."

Those running with Sachs are: Ford Tisser '67 for executive vice president; Joe Korn '68 for educational affairs vice president; Eley Appel '68 for campus affairs vice president; Ellen Turk '68 for community-affairs vice president; Karen Tischelman '68 secretary; and Larry Yermack for treasurer.

SHELLY SACHS

Although the party's official platform has not been released yet, Sachs said it would include a free election campaign concerned with defeating Governor Rockefeller in the 1967 gubernatorial election, a program to avail the Harlem community of the College's facilities, and a coordination of club activities on campus to better serve the student body.

Also announcing candidacy yesterday was SG Secretary Bill Reich '68, who will run independently for Educational Affairs Vice President.

Reich said that he would "work to achieve a quality educational affairs program as opposed to the concocted programs SG has used for political manipulations."

Activist Clubs See Decline In Members

By Rita Varela

Several activist groups at the College appear to be having their own enrollment crisis.

The May 2 Movement, known as one of the College's extreme left-wing groups, disbanded last week along with the national organization because "there was no longer a need for this specific group."

"Originally," according to Jerry Waldman, '68, the club's treasurer, "the organization was formed because we felt there was no real anti-imperialist force at the College."

"However," Waldman said, "now members in the May 2 Movement are active in the Progressive Labor Movement." Two members have joined the Students for a Democratic Society, and two others have helped form a new off-campus group called the American Liberation League.

In addition, the president of the Independent Committee to End the War in Vietnam, said that "her

BHE OUTLINES MASTER PLAN

Would Offer Free Higher Education for All

By Steve Dobkin

A plan to provide free higher education for every New York City high school student desiring it has been outlined by the Board of Higher Education.

Under the plan, slated to go into effect in 1975, facilities in the City University would be available for two-thirds, the number expected to seek further education, of the 82,000 students who will graduate from high school in that year.

NO RUSH: Dean Harry Levy said money for the new plan will not be requested at the present.

The plan, which will cost $100 million per year over a four-year period, would offer admission in the senior colleges to the top 25% of the city's high school graduates, an increase of five per cent over the current figure.

The next forty per cent of the graduates would be offered admission by the community colleges, doubling present admissions.

Ten per cent would be offered admissions through the Discovery Program which provides free higher education to underprivileged students who ordinarily would not be admitted to college.

The final 25% would be offered placement in proposed educational skill centers.

Psychologist Finds Negroes Segregate In Cafeteria

By Neil Offen

A social psychologist has found a consistent pattern of self-segregation of Negroes in the College cafeterias.

In a report issued Friday, Dr. Philip G. Zimbardo of New York University, asserted that Negro students here are "on the periphery of campus life," and thus sit alone or in the exclusive company of other Negroes.

Dr. Zimbardo, who began his study at the College in 1963, attributed the self-segregation to the Negroes' "built-in feelings of inferiority."

He added that the students tended toward segregating themselves because they wished to minimize social comparisons with whites, anticipating that it might reveal some unfavorable discrepancies.

A sampling of Negro students at the College revealed that they agree with Dr. Zimbardo's conclusions, but disagree with the reasons he supplied.

One sophomore girl stated the predominant opinion: "Sure, we segregate ourselves, but it's not done purposefully. It's only natural for someone to want to be with her own kind," she said.

Another girl, a junior, said that she "would like to believe that it's the whites who are causing us to segregate ourselves, but it's just not true. Negroes are such a minority here that when one of us is with a group of whites, we of course feel uncomfortable," she added.

City Hall, CU Negotiate Exchange Project

Faculty, Officials Would Switch Places

By Barbara Mahony

The city administration is seeking to set up an exchange program between City University professors and members of local government.

According to Philip Finkelstein, executive assistant to the Deputy Mayor, a professor and an administrator would change jobs in fields with which both are familiar.

These areas, he said, include engineering, law, architecture, city planning, public administration and affairs, sociology and management.

Mr. Finkelstein explained the move, saying, "We're seeking some of the best people in the world, so naturally some of them are going to come from the City University.

"The Federal government has always tried to recruit people from all over. I think it's about time the city administration did so, too," he added.

Dr. Gustave Rosenberg, chairman of the Board of Higher Education remarked Monday that "Whenever they [the city] can find good people they will use them."

In a related development, the third City University professor in two months has been drafted from his teaching post into Mayor Lindsay's administration.

He is Prof. Nachman Bench, professor of management and research, at the Baruch School of Business, who will become deputy (Continued on Page 2)

QUALITY: Dr. Rosenberg said the city would take "good people from wherever it found them."

THE KEY: President Gallagher said the key to the plan's success is proposed legislation.

SC to Weigh Free Speech Areas Motion

By Gil Kiefer

A proposal to provide student orators and pamphleteers with clearly defined areas for the presentation of their views will be presented to Student Council tonight.

The motion, by Councilman Barry Schrage '68, would allow any student group to set up tables in areas designated.

These would include the space around the flagpole on South Campus Lawn and the indentations near the steps of Cohen Library.

Schrage said the legislation came in response to objections by Mr. (Continued on Page 2)

As Time Goes By

Almost every week it seems Student Government executives come up with a new plan for reorganizing the structure of SG. The latest in a long series, less ambitious than its predecessors, provides only for pushing up elections from May to March. This plan would not only fail to solve the problems it is aimed at but would create others more serious.

If, as SG President Carl Weitzman claims, the purpose of the plan is to cut down on resignations, it is misdirected from the first, because most of the resignations have resulted from personality conflict rather than trouble with schoolwork.

The disadvantage cited by Weitzman, that a student whose index average is minus in the spring term would not be able to take office, is a sizable one. Many council members are on the border line and they, and the students voting for them, would be gambling unnecessarily on their status in May.

But the main objections to this plan are that it would create a lame duck Student Government, and force students already in office to run on the basis of incompleting programs.

The threadbare nature of this proposal reveals the desperation with which student leaders are searching for some method of changing Student Government. The degree of dissatisfaction with Student Government is understandable, but the problems are not in the structure but in the inability of its members to adopt a constructive or imaginative program.

At the beginning of the term The Campus, in a full page editorial, outlined such a program. The suggestions made were fairly simple to effect and promised rather satisfying results but have been almost completely ignored by every agency of Student Government.

The College has seen tremendous strides in educational affairs this term, but SG has played no part in the revision of the curriculum and the proposals for a student voice in tenure, now before the Faculty Council. Also, as of now, no action has been taken to revise last term's hopelessly inadequate course and teacher evaluation survey or press to have it made mandatory.

The community affairs committee has scored one success with its after school center but in other areas it remains barren of achievement. The tutorial program suffers a serious staff shortage although a Campus suggestion that students be recruited from various clubs has not yet been tried. Other proposals espoused by The Campus editorial, a high school orientation project, a voter registration drive and a survey of Harlem residents have also borne no fruit.

Additionally, the Campus Affairs committee might have found some time for our proposals since it apparently found no other projects with which to occupy itself.

If Student Government cannot accomplish anything from September to April, then certainly adding two more months will not make much difference.

After playing a welcome on the talking drum, Seth Ladzekpo, a native of Ghana, described to 100 students yesterday his attempts to restore the waning culture of African folk music and dance.

Assisted by his brother Alfred, he demonstrated various instruments such as the adodo, axatse, and atsimeieu, known here as bells, rattle and drum in Lewisohn Lounge.

Students were induced to learn the basic dance steps as Mr. Ladzekpo claims the lack of participation by the early colonialists and Christian converts in Africa was the main cause for the decline of African musical and dance culture.

Activist Clubs

club's membership is also on the decline.

"At first many people were deeply concerned about the war and wanted to do something to end the policy of the present government," recalled Amy Kesselman '68.

"But some of the people active in the committee became increasingly frustrated by the government's continued irrationality in the face of nationwide protest," she said.

Miss Kesselman dismissed the possibility that Attorney General Katzenbach's recent condemnation of the DuBois Club influenced students to resign from the committee.

"The McCarthyist tactics of Katzenbach are no longer fearsome to those truly committed to the peace movement," she said.

The College's chapter of the Congress of Racial Equality will meet tomorrow at 4 to decide whether it will continue its existence.

In other actions, the Progressive Labor Movement has announced plans to join the picket line with the Independent Committee to End the War in Vietnam to protest a pro-war rally in Great Hall May 5.

city administrator May 1.

Professor Bench, who is the first Israeli citizen to hold a government post of this type, will join Prof. Cyril Sargeant (Education) and Prof. Blanche Blank of Hunter College in the city administration.

Professor Blank's appointment triggered controversy in February when Dr. John Meng, president of Hunter College, strongly objected to her city appointment.

Phan Duy, now a resident of South Vietnam, will perform folk songs he has collected in travels throughout his divided country, as well as his own compositions. Mr. Phan will be accompanied by two State Department Fellows who have studied Vietnamese music.

The musicologist was decorated by Ho Chi Minh following the war against the French for his professional efforts on behalf of the nationalist cause. Following the nation's partition in 1954, Mr. Phan migrated south.

The concert is sponsored by the Finley Center Planning Board.

Free Speech

Edmund Sarfaty and Mrs. Rose Lombardi (Student Life) to tables set up on south campus lawn by the Progressive Labor Movement and the Independent Committee to End the War in Vietnam.

He said these objections were based on the fact that the College had no position on such activities, because a similar proposal passed by Council last year was misplaced.

Schrage added that he hoped SG would make tables and "soapboxes" a la London's Hyde Park available on a first-come first-served basis.

Council will also consider a proposal by Educational Affairs Vice President Joe Korn '68, to establish specific dates for the meetings of each of SG's three major committees, educational affairs, campus affairs and community affairs.

The chairman of the committee would be responsible to report the action taken by the committee to Council the week after the committee meets.

Faculty Wives Mix Small Talk and Big Plans

By Andy Soltis

Twenty ladies met in 348 Finley last Wednesday for a monthly meeting that was not all tea and sympathy.

Officers of the Faculty Wives Club, one of the oldest—since 1938—and largest—135 members—non-student organizations at the College, they had gathered to chat and plan activities.

Although the meeting officially began when Mrs. Howard Greenburg, president of the club, called for the reading of the minutes, the ladies already had been sharing gossip and instant coffee for well over an hour.

Coffee and pastry

Each member brought her own sandwich, while the coffee and an assortment of pastry was provided by the club funds.

"One thing about the club meeting is that there's no 'keeping up with the Jones'," Mrs. Florence Gottlieb, the secretary, said, describing their informal chit-chat.

When the meeting finally began, Mrs. Greenburg, whose husband teaches in the Physics department, called for reports from the club's committees—Social, Teas, Decorating and Sunshine. The first two panels plan outings such as those to the United Nations and the Storm King Museum, and get-together, such as last November's faculty tea in honor of President and Mrs. Gallagher.

Mrs. Gallagher, who was once on the Board of Directors and still takes "a pretty active part" in the club's activities, said the reception was very successful with over 350 faculty members and their wives attending.

"It took us over three hours to shake hands and meet everyone," she recalled, "but at least we demonstrated how active the club is."

The decorating committee is directing its activities to renovate the club room with draperies and a new paint job. And the sunshine committee aids faculty families struck by illness or death.

Holidays and foreign students

Another arm of the club works with foreign students, giving teas and finding homes for them to visit during Thanksgiving and Christmas vacations.

For all students, the club annually presents a gift to either the uptown campus or the Baruch School.

Mrs. Gottlieb recalled that in past years the club has given Bittenweiser Lounge its television set and paintings, set up a revolving student loan fund, and bought furniture and mirrors for the Finley Student Center rest rooms in a project called "Operation Powder Room."

Master Plan

Studies Harry Levy, the new proposal will not be incorporated into the University's budget requests now because the funds are "not needed immediately."

To provide for the large increase in University enrollments under the master plan, construction of a new senior college in Brooklyn or Queens is also included in the proposal.

The Board has endorsed, to finance the plan, bills currently being considered in the State Senate, calling for the city and state to finance the University's construction program on a parity basis through bonds issued by the State Dormitory Authority.

President Gallagher explained yesterday that once this funding system is set up, "the University will have no trouble acquiring the funds for the new proposals."

Last week, however, State Senate Majority Leader Earl Brydges (Republican) indicated that he would not support an increase in state aid to the University. Without his support, the bills are seen to have little chance of passing.

SOPHOMORE MEN:

Want to be a leader and double your chances for success in life? You can, by earning both a degree and an Army officer's commission at the same time... even though you may not have taken ROTC training in your first two years!

Through a new program, you can be commissioned as a Second Lieutenant after taking two years of Army ROTC training while you complete your studies for a college degree. You can qualify for this program by attending a special six-week summer training camp after your sophomore year and then completing the ROTC Advanced Course in your junior and senior years of college.

Here's what ROTC training and an officer's commission will do for you:

- It will qualify you to fulfill your military obligation as an officer.
- You will learn to organize, motivate, and lead others.
- You will develop leadership qualities that many college men miss—self-discipline, physical stamina, poise, bearing, the acceptance of responsibility and other qualities that contribute to success in either a civilian or military career.
- You will receive $40 per month during your junior and senior years, plus pay and mileage for summer training.

The training and experience you will receive through Army ROTC will pay off for the rest of your life. A decision to take advantage of this new program could be one of the most important you will ever make.

You owe it to yourself to investigate this new important opportunity.

For complete information on the new Two-Year Army ROTC Program see the Professor of Military Science on campus.

Gaels Defeat Diamondmen As Pitchers Dominate Play

By Leon Halpert

In the lowest scoring game thus far this season, the Beaver diamondmen lost to the Iona Gaels by the measly score of 4-1. While all the previous games were characterized by heavy slugging and high scores, this game was a pitchers' duel throughout.

For the Beavers, Ron Rizzi was the losing pitcher, but he pitched well enough to win. In fact, this was Rizzi's best outing to date, as he didn't exhibit any fits of wildness and had good stuff.

The trouble was that he happened to face a tough pitcher in Iona's Dave Dewitt, a senior left-hander. He did a masterful job of changing his pitches and keeping them low, causing the Lavender to hit many grounders.

He had almost flawless control, as he walked only one and struck out four.

After each club matched goose-eggs for the first three innings, the Gaels tapped Rizzi for one run. Joe Mitchell led off with the first of his three hits, was sacrificed to second, and scored when center-fielder Phil Trombino's grounder bounced off third base into left field.

Iona then went ahead, 2-0 in the sixth as Mitchell got his second hit, stole second, and scored when the Beavers failed to complete a double play.

Meanwhile, it seemed as though the stinging cold of the afternoon had numbed the Lavender bats, as Dewitt had no trouble in getting them out.

Beavers Win, 77-76 As Mihale Scores 16

By Danny Kornstein

In a quiet, rustic setting in Greenvale, L.I., the College's track team just squeaked by the United States Merchant Marine Academy, 77-76, yesterday. Although people talk about a track team going to a track meet, the name of the game is track and field, and Coach Francisco Castro's boys proved the label right as the meet was undecided until the final event, the javelin throw.

Soph Dennis Mihale picked up three points, for second place in this deciding event, and put the Lavender over the top. During the afternoon Mihale collected thirteen other points by winning the hammer throw, discus, and taking second in the shot put. He also cleared 5'8" in the high jump, but failed to score.

Earlier, Lew Rosenblatt won the 440-yard run in 51.1 seconds, and came in second in the half-mile run in 2:02.9. Both times are the team's best for those distances.

In the sprints, Don Schlessinger had his hands full. Richie Keller, the Mariners' CTC 1964 100-yard dash winner, won both the 100 and the 220. Keller led from the start in the shorter race, and won with a time of 9.8, a tenth of a second faster than Schlessinger, who tied the College record.

The defeats broke Schlessinger's string of 14 consecutive victories in dual meets. After the 100-yard race, Castro said "As soon as I don't see him in first after 50 yards, I know something's wrong."

Dennis Wildfogel and John Fick both won 440 intermediate hurdles in identical times of 59.6. Because C.W. Post did not have enough hurdles, the race was run in three heats, with the best times in the three sections combined counting toward the victory.

The Lavender also place one-two in the 120-yard high-hurdles as Jimmy Sharps hit the wire in 15.7, tying the school record.

Stickmen Post Second Victory

The Beaver lacrosse team doubled last year's victory output with a crushing 12-2 victory over Hartwick, Saturday, at Lewisohn Stadium. The stickmen are now the proud possessors of a 2-2 record, already a great improvement over their dismal 1-8-1 record of 1965.

The Beavers were too overpowering for Hartford, as they did almost everything right. The defense set up rapidly and thwarted the weak Hartwick offense all afternoon.

The Lavender offense took 55 shots on the opponent's goal, their highest total of the season. The more you shoot, the higher you score. And score they did. Soph Richie Ravener tallied four goals. Pat Vallance, who has been shifted to an offensive position, scored his first three goals of the season.

The stickmen are now at the .500 plateau, with a chance to climb higher when they play Army's "B" team today. Last year the Cadets edged the Beavers 7-5, but that team appears weaker than this year's Lavender.

STRUGGLE: Sol Mishkin's nine faces an uphill battle to stay in contention for Met championship.

However, in the eighth, Dewitt walked Bill Miller, who went to second on a ground out, and scored on a long single by Dave Minkoff. The Beavers had broken the ice, but the brief threat was ended when Minkoff was thrown out on an attempted steal.

Iona sealed its victory in the ninth when Dewitt helped his own cause with a clutch two-out double, driving in two runs.

It was a well played and exciting game to watch. Notably missing from the Beaver line-up was Lou Gatti, who was unable to make the game because of a high fever.
